"LIFE & DEATH OF WORLDS"

Sensation on Simcoe Street.

Bargain hunters who will visit M. Carton's new red and white store on Simcoe street will find just the goods they want at just the prices they want to give. Be sure and attend the auction sale to-morrow (Saturday) afternoon and evening. d

The Grant Stopped.

Peterborough may congratulate herself on having by her enterprise escaped the fate of Hamilton, which has had her Government grant for the Collegiate Institute stopped, owing to insufficiency of school accommodation and inferior equipments.

MRS. PROCTOR

Life and Death of Worlds.

Everybody should take advantage of the opportunity of hearing Mrs. Proctor lecture on the above subject on Wednesday evening in the Opera House. Mrs. Proctor is highly recommended by the Toronto papers, having lectured in that city last week. Admission to all parts of the Opera House only twenty-five cents. Tickets may be had from the pupils.

Christmas in England.

The favorite steamship Parisian of the Allan line will leave the Grand Trunk wharf Portland, Tuesday, Dec. 8th, for Liverpool direct. The cabin, intermediate and steerage rates by the Allan line are very low. Special rates for return tickets. Passengers are not subjected to any incidental expenses, as the steamships sail from the railway wharf. Passengers leave Toronto on the morning previous to day of sailing.

WEDNESDAY, NOV. 25TH

Remenyi.

Remenyi's Grand Concert Company is coming early in January. The peerless fiddler has a quartette of magnificent voices with him and a pianist of reputation. It is needless to say that this company has had to have a large guarantee secured to them to induce them to come here, which, as on former occasions, will likely be called in. Such a prospect of good music should gladden the hearts of all devotees of the divine art.

ANY PART OF HOUSE 25C.

Now is the Time.

People are already beginning to talk about Christmas, and to carefully calculate their purchasing powers for the proper observance of that season of festivity and presentations. The far-sighted business man will consult his interests by taking an inventory and then at once advertising all the good things he has to offer for sale for the Christmas market. The old idea that a big or little advertisement in the local paper during the week or two before Christmas will suffice, is now discarded. Advertise at once so that people may have plenty of time to study where and what it will be most judicious to buy.

"Don't Care to Eat."

It is with the greatest confidence that Hood's Sarsaparilla is recommended for loss of appetite, indigestion, sick headache, and similar troubles. This medicine gently tones the stomach, assists digestion, and makes one "real hungry." Persons in delicate health after taking Hood's Sarsaparilla a few days, find themselves longing for and eating the plainest food with unexpected relish.

St. Andrew's Society Notes.

On Monday evening the annual supper of the Society will be held at the Morgan House.

A Finger Amputated.

This morning Mr. Joseph Begley, employed in A. Rutherford's planing mill, while operating a jointer, had the misfortune to get the third finger of his hand in contact with the machine with the result that the finger was cut completely off. Mr. Begley went to the office of Dr. McGrath, who, with Dr. Clarke, re-amputated the finger in a proper manner.

It Never Rains But It Pours.

It is said that it would require the fingers and toes of one's hands and feet to count the candidates for the position of town clerk. They came in couples and singly, some standing and gazing at the town buildings as though they were gloating over the prospect of filling the seat of the office. The appointment will probably be a bone of contention at the council meeting next Monday night.

Police Court Paragraphs.

At the police court this morning Wm. Hetherington was charged with maltreating and assaulting Pierce Butler. Mr. E. B. Stone appeared as counsel for the complainant. The evidence showed that the assault complained of was committed on Saturday evening in the 'bus of the Grand Central Hotel, arising out of a quarrel between complainant and accused, who are rivals for the position of driver for the above hotel. A fine of $10 was imposed or, in default, thirty days' imprisonment. The money was paid.

For the Christmas Trade.

Mr. James McComb, who may claim to be the only genuine and exclusive ladies' and gentlemen's haberdasher in town, has made special arrangements for meeting the demands of the Christmas trade in a manner to give satisfaction in every respect to the public. Gloves, under wear, hosiery, cardigan jackets, guernseys, and other allied lines, will be found elegantly represented on his shelves, and the prices will be found in all cases satisfactory. When you want to buy comfortable Christmas presents call at Jas. McCombs', Hunter street, on the highway to the post office.

A Good Meeting.

Notwithstanding the very unfavourable weather of last evening an unusually large number were present at the monthly musical and literary meeting of the Charlotte street Epworth League of Christian Endeavor. A splendid programme had been arranged by the committee in charge in which the following members took part:—

Miss Clarke	Instrumental selection
Miss E. Sherlock	Reading
Mrs. Clyde Green	Solo
Mr. O. C. Rowse	Recitation

All were pleased with the evening's programme.

Result of the Rain.

Complaints have been made that the electric light servic has not been so good as it might be owing to the river being low and not containing sufficient water to properly run the dynamos. It is anticipated that after the recent heavy rains there will be no further ground for this complaint. The farmer's hearts will be gladdened and the lumbermen's hearts, in sympathy with the swamps, filled with joy, that the long drought has at length (as all things must) come to an end. No need now to run the cattle five or six miles for water, and the wells will all be filled. How pleased the milkmen will be, as water has been so scarce, that in some cases they have actually been reduced to the necessity of supplying unwatered milk. We trust that the rain will prove to be the forerunner of a seasonable prosperous winter.

Romberg's Toy symphony.

This very interesting composition was performed at St. James' Hall, London, by express wish of H. R. H. the Prince of Wales. The personnel on this occasion contained the names of several eminent musicians and composers, viz., violins, Carl Rosa and Mr. Santley; cuckoo, Sir Arthur Sullivan; nightingale, Mr. Joseph Barnby; trumpets, Sir John Stainer and Mr. W. Kuhe; triangle, Mr. Louis Engel; rattle, Mr. Jaques Blumenthal; quail, Sir Charles Halle; drum, Signor Randegger; jingles, Sir Julius Benedict; conductor, Mr. Henry Leslie. The Prince of Wales and family attended, and expressed themselves as delighted with not only the music, but also the careful performance thereof. Romberg's Symphony will be given in Peterborough at Dr. Davies' concert on Thursday evening next by the Children's Symphony Orchestra. The performance will be both a novelty and a great musical treat.

The Town Clerkship.

Last night the Committee of Appointments of the town council met in the Mayor's office, and after deliberating upon the unsatisfactory state of affairs obtaining in connection with the town clerkship, instructed the Mayor to suspend the present town clerk. Accordingly, Mayor Stevenson proceeded to the town clerk's office and took over the office and the keys. Mr. F. Dover, who has been doing work in the town clerk's office for some time past, is in charge of the office pro tem. It would appear that action was not taken, in this regard, precipitately, at least. The Mayor said to a representative of the EXAMINER that, owing to continued neglect of duty on the part of the late incumbent of the office, his suspension was imperatively demanded. The late clerk had had repeated warnings, entreaties and injunctions in the matter, and as he had failed to profit by the leniency that had been extended him, his suspension was a necessity. Mr. McGill, treasurer, said that his position in the matter was correctly expressed in the letter of "Ratepayer" which appeared in yesterday's EXAMINER. He added that the irregular and incomplete manner in which moneys were paid in, made it impossible for him (the treasurer) to keep a correct record, and he declined, under the circumstances, to assume the responsibility. The Mayor and town councillors had been in possession of the facts of the case and his sentiments on the subject for some time.

News Nuggets.

—Mr. Wm. Donel has purchased from Mr. A. Rutherford his planing mill, known as the J. D. Baptie mill.

—The W.C.T.U. of this town held their usual fortnightly meeting in the Y.M.C.A Hall yesterday (Monday.)

—The declining powers of old age may be wonderfully recuperated and sustained by the daily use of Hood's Sarsaparilla.

—The I.O.G.T. have been successful in obtaining the use of the R. T. of T. Hall for their future meetings. They report the cause of temperance as prospering.

—The Salvation Army have completed preparations for their great Indian durbar to be held this evening., reference to which was made in our issue of last evening.

—"Lessons from the story of Judas" was the topic dealt with by the St. Paul's Presbyterian C E Society, at their meeting last evening. There was a good attendance of members and a very pleasant and profitable evening was enjoyed.

—The rain of yesterday appears to have affected the telephone instruments of the town as some difficulty was experienced in getting switched on to the proper connection owing, doubtless, to the numbers being so indistinctly heard in the central office.

—The usual weekly services were conducted yesterday at the Protestant Home by Mr. Colville, of the Y.M.C.A. Addresses were given by Mr. Colville and Mr. G. J. Early, of this town, and Mr. J. E. Richards, of Montreal, and appeared to be very much appreciated by the inmates.

Caught in A Blizzard.

Uncertain Fate of a Son of a Former Peterborough Citizen.

The following dispatch tells its own story:—

WINNIPEG, Nov. 22.—A Medicine Hat, Assa., despatch says:—A sixteen-year-old son of L. B. Cochrane and a ten-year-old son of Edg. Walton, (son of Mr. Robert Walton, Smith), merchants of this place, whose ranches are just outside of town were caught in Friday night's blizzard while looking for some cattle, the storm being so severe and so sudden they were unable to find their way home that night, and searching parties organized the following morning found no trace of them until last night. The Cochrane boy was found sixteen miles from home frozen to death beside a haystack, his horse eating hay over his dead body. The police are now scouring the country for the other boy.

Death of a Brother.

KINGSTON, Nov. 24.— Yesterday the funeral of the late Brother Artemon of the Christian Brothers' School took place. Before joining the order of the Brother deceased's name was John Morrison. He was born in Ayton, Grey county, on July 30, 1860, and was a son of W. Morrison, police magistrate. He was at one time a teacher in the De La Salle Institute in Toronto.

Fell from a Scaffold.

BROCKVILLE, Nov. 24.—James Mahoney of Belleville fell while slating the roof of the new convent, in consequence of the breaking of a scaffold, and received injuries from which he died.

The St. Petersburg Novosti declares that the financial crisis in Berlin has developed a political crisis; that the war party has gained the upper hand and that the prudent Bismarckian policy has been forgotten in the frantic desire to strike the Russians in the moment of weakness.

The London Standard's Paris correspondent says he hears from an unquestionable authority that Lord Salisbury has intimated to Rustell Pasha, the Turkish Ambassador in London, that England is ready to re-open negotiations for a convention to regulate the affairs of Egypt.

A Charming Souvenir.

The announcement by the publishers of the Dominion Illustrated that they would this year issue a Christmas Number more beautiful and valuable than even their own last years' issue, has been followed by a rush of orders from every portion of the Dominion. Col. William Beers Will Reside in Toronto.

Col. William Beers, a cousin of Dr. W. George Beers, with Mrs. Beers and three of their sons, are at present temporarily settled in Toronto with a view to permanent residence. The colonel entered the 26th regiment, "Cameronians," as ensign over thirty five years ago, and passed through the various grades until he reached the colonelcy, after holding which for five years he retired. He was once stationed at Halifax, N.S., at Bermuda, and served twice in India. The colonel comes from a well-known family in the old country. Mrs. Beers is a daughter of Sir George Maclean, who distinguished himself in the Crimea, and later on in the Kaffir war. Her brother, Gen. Henry Maclean, made an honorable reputation for himself in the Ashantee war. One son is now in the Ontario Bank in Toronto; another, Mr. George M. Beers, in the Ontario Bank in Peterborough. Dr. Beers was influential in inducing the colonel to contemplate settlement in Toronto.

I found it, drank St. Leon and all the horrors from combined internal disorders disappeared. Fresh vigor instilled my organs and a healthy appetite returned, then that joyful impulse followed, the whole senses awakened to happy life. Such was my case. A. J. HEBERT. Football.

Peterborough vs. Warsaw.

Play was commenced in the above match about 3 p.m. on Saturday on the the P. A. A. A. grounds, Ashburnham. The ground at the commencement of the game was in good condition and in the first five minutes Hay scored for Peterborough. No other games were scored during the first half of the match. In the second half rain interfered very much with the game, the ground being in a bad condition so that no team game could be played. Shortly before the close of the match Warsaw equalized, the game being scored by Kidd, the match thus ending in a draw.

The Columbian Exposition

Plans for the exercises dedicatory of the World's Fair Exposition buildings at Chicago during the week of October 12, 1892, are fast being matured. One of the chief features practically decided upon is a nocturnal procession of floats on the illuminated lagoons at Jackson park. These floats will represent a chronological epitome of salient historical events by centuries, from 1492 until the present time. Altogether there will be between forty and fifty floats costing perhaps $700 each on an average. The last one will represent Chicago welcoming the nations of the earth. All of the boats will fairly blaze with electric lights, and thousands of incandescent lamps under the water will give them the appearance of floating on a lake of fire. It is believed that fully 500,000 people will watch this gorgeous spectacle each night from the banks of the lagoon. The speechmaking, choral exercises, etc., will occur in the Manufacturers' building, which will be fitted with seating accommodation from 80 000 to 100,000 people. It is now thought that from 12,000 to 15 000 troops will participate in the dedicatory exercises. The expense of the dedicatory ceremonies will approximate $200,000.

New Street Railway Scheme.

(From the Montreal Witness.)

How to provide a street railway service for Montreal which will meet all the requirements and yet be unaffected by the frosts and snows of winter, the scorching rays of summer or the ever-changing, never-ending disturbance to the thoroughfares for sewage and waterworks or other purposes; to dispense with the inconveniences arising from track-lifting or track-laying, seems to be an all interesting, all absorbing topic of thought and consideration among the inventive geniuses of the city and suburbs. The consequent centralization of thought upon the subject is proving prolific of ideas and systems of street railway service. It is said the latest idea is a cross between the street railway and the elevated railway, and is operated on the everyday cable or electric railway surface plan, the difference being that the wheels run along overhead instead of beneath. The rails on which the wheels travels are supported by strong girders, suspended upon heavy standards or pillars, at proper distances apart. These wheels are reversible and by an ingenious arrangement can be transposed beneath the car, should occasion call for a surface service at any time. The standards can also be utilised as electric, telephone or telegraph poles. When in motion the body of the car will be the same distance from the roadbed as at present. Passengers will get on or off by means of steps which are lowered or raised as required.

The service will be complete in every department, while stops will be made wherever signalled. The overcrowding so much complained of will be altogether done away with as any number of cars can be coupled together, and managed as easily as one. The speed is also easily regulated and, while being uniform, can be arranged to suit the service under all conditions.

The advantages of the system are obvious and too numerous to mention. Among them, however, will be the avoiding of the expense and inconveniences of track laying and track repairing as well as the numerous sad fatalities resulting from over-crowding or getting under the car wheels.

SUN LIFE

ASSURANCE COMPANY OF CANADA.

The attention of our Policy-Holders is directed to the following summary of the leading items of the present report, which speaks for itself as to the progress and prosperity of the Company:—

Life Assurances in force, 1st January, 1891	$16,759,355.92
Increase over previous year	3,421,372.84
New Applications received in 1890	6,371,599.15
Increase over 1889	2,268,888.60
Cash income for year ending 31st December, 1890	889,078.87
Increase over 1889	325,938.33
Assets at 31st December, 1890	2,473,514.19
Increase over 1889	687,691.47
Reserve for Security for Policy-Holders	2,109,222.68
Increase over 1889	567,732.71
Surplus over all Liabilities and Capital Stock	232,175.69
Increase over 1889	75,649.95
Death claims fallen in during 1890	143,961.65

The progress made by the SUN LIFE during 1890 was remarkable. The new business was the largest in the Company's history, and was equalled by but one other Canadian Life Company. The income for the year exceeds $2,000 for each day in the year, Sundays included. The Assets are large and rapidly increasing. They are, moreover, of the highest character, yielding an average interest of 6.04 per cent. The overdue interest is small, and the Real Estate owned under foreclosure is only four per cent. of the amount of mortgages. This is a remarkable showing. The SURPLUS accumulated during the FOUR years of the current quinquennium is nearly THREE TIMES as much as the amount earned during any previous FIVE years, and the profits to Policy-holders cannot fail thus to be highly satisfactory. The following are the figures:—

Net Surplus, 31st Dec., 1881, (five years)	$64 824.07
" " " " 1886,	89,459.07
" " " " 1890, (four years)	232,175 69

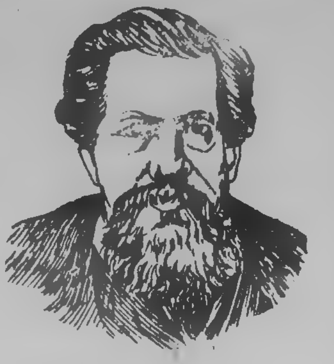
SIR EDWARD ARNOLD.

The Famous Author of "The Light of Asia."

Sir Edwin Arnold is now on his way to this country to fill engagements to lecture and to read from his own writings. Sir Edward has had a busy life. For thirty years he has been the editor of the London Daily Telegraph, but without neglecting his newspaper, he has found time to write his name high on the list of English authors. He is perhaps best known to the general public by "The Light of Asia." Of this great Eastern epic over 40 editions have been sold in England, and at least twice that number in the United States. His other books are "Indian Poetry: The Indian Song of Songs," etc.; "Pearls of the Faith; or, Islam's Rosary"; "Indian Idylls" (from the Sanskrit); "The Song Celestial; or, Bhagavad-gita" (from the Sanskrit); "Lotus and Jewel" (with translations from the Sanskrit); "With Sa'di in the Garden; or, The Book of Love"; and "The Light of the World."

Sir Edwin Arnold is the second son of R. C. Arnold and was born on June 10, 1832. He was educated at the King's School, Rochester, and King's College, London, and was elected to a scholarship at University College, Oxford. In 1852 he obtained the Newdigate prize for his English poem on the "Feast of Belshazzar," and was selected in 1853 to address the late Earl of Derby on his installation as Chancellor of the University. He was graduated with honors in 1854. Upon leaving college he was elected second master in the English division of King Edward VI's School, Birmingham, and was subsequently appointed principal of the Government Sanskrit College at Poona, in the Bombay Presidency, and Fellow of the University of Bombay, which offices he held during the mutiny, and resigned in 1861, after having twice received the thanks of the Governor in Council. Since 1861 he has been chief of the editorial staff of the Daily Telegraph, and he has recently resumed his place at the office after his recent journeyings around the world, a holiday rendered necessary to his health by the death of Lady Arnold. It was Sir Edwin who, on behalf of the proprietors of the Daily Telegraph, arranged the first expedition of George Smith to Assyria, as well as that of Mr. Stanley, who was sent by the same journal, in conjunction with the New York Herald, to complete the discoveries of Livingstone in Africa. Upon the occasion of the proclamation of the Queen as Empress of India, on January 1, 1877, he was made Companion of the Star of India, and in January, 1888, he was created Knight Commander of the Indian Empire by the Queen.



SIR EDWIN ARNOLD.

How does Arnold continue to be a poet and a journalist at one and the same time? An intellectual interviewer recently put that salient query to him. Here is Sir Edwin's answer and the conversation which grew out of it:

"That question," said he, "demands many columns of space to answer. Briefly, the reason is that whatever men do interests me. Their hopes, aspirations, joys, fears, sufferings, trials, temptations are all absorbing subjects to me. I am a poet because I am a journalist—because I am, in heart, of the people."

"Then you do not find poetry and journalism antagonistic?"

"On the contrary, the most poetical place I know is Fleet street. It differs very much from the slopes of Fujisan and the beautiful open sea, but there is nothing so interesting to me as humanity. Heine said, as you know, 'Send a philosopher to Fleet street, but for God's sake, don't send a poet there!' That was because he was an invalid. I would say, 'Send a poet to Fleet street. Let him work every day there, and learn his business.'"

"Would it be as congenial to you to compose poetry in Fleet street as in Japan?"

"I can accommodate myself to any locality. I may mention something curious to you," said Sir Edwin, as he slowly paced the room, "My 'Light of the World' was commenced at a tea-house in Japan. The little silver pipes were smoking, the samisen (Japanese guitars) were playing, and Japanese songs were being sung. I heard one of my friends say, 'Damatte (be quiet)! Dana Sama is writing.' I was reminded by that exclamation that I had just put down on paper the lyric which occurs in 'The Light of the World':

> Peace beginning to be
> Deep as the deep of the sea,
> When the stars their radiance glass
> In its true tranquility.

"It had come to me abruptly," resumed Sir Edwin, after he had in his modulated tones recited these now famous lines, "and it had to be written. I had been engaged in conversation, yet it had suddenly struck me, compelling me to withdraw myself for the moment, and I was completely absorbed in that verse."

"Did you, then, go to Japan to write 'The Light of the World?'"

"Not at all. Although I had often thought of composing that poem, I had no intention of writing it there."

Sir Edwin here expressed his contempt for "fussy" people who cannot write unless surrounded with everything to their hand, and he then went on to explain that his last great work was the natural, logical sequence of his former books. "My idea," he observed, "has been briefly this: The great religions of the world are not mutual enemies, but own sisters; or you may call them the facets of a diamond which reflect different rays of the same light. I have written these books of mine which find their natural crown and finish in 'The Light of the World' to bring out in each great religion its distinctive ray—what it especially reflects. By-and-by critics will find the thing out, and understand how logical I have been and how clear the plan was I have shown—how each great faith contributes special color to the philosophical spectrum which makes the whole light of truth."—N. Y. Tribune.

Rapid Transit.

"How did you get home last night, Tom?" asked his friend on the morning after a racket.

"I went by rail," replied Tom.

"By rail! Why, there's no train goes near your house!"

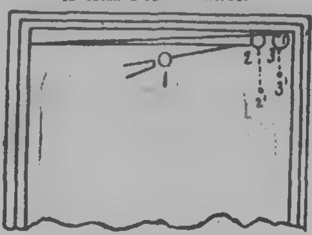
"I know, but I felt my way along the garden railings."

Graceful Beauties who Rival Cleopatra.

An observing correspondent who has been studying the maids of Kaffirland, Africa, writes: "The Rassacatumas are more cleanly in their habits than any tribe I visited. They keep their huts in good order, and their trips to the river for bathing purposes keep a path well trodden down. I saw several specimens of female beauty among this tribe, such as often have driven men mad, caused the overthrow of monarchs and the downfall of nations, whose charms might rank with those of Cleopatra of old. Many fair skinned ladies might envy their acts of coquetry, little graceful tossings of the head and sly glances of large black eyes almost hid by heavy eyelashes.

In looking at the fine chiseled chin and forehead, at the development of the entire form, as perfect as nature could make it, one almost forgets the scantiness of their attire, which consists of a girdle around the loins profusely ornamented with beads, and to this long strings of shells, beads and tusks worn around the neck and shoulders, and you have a native maiden in full dress. Hair, a dark, glossy, jet black; deep, liquid eyes; teeth of matchless whiteness that peep out like pearls between ruby lips that smile as they greet you with the phrase of their country, 'Si-a-gootanda wona' (love to you); makes it no safe atmosphere for the nerves of a susceptible bachelor.

A Kiss Position Shot.



Kiss Position Shot.—When the balls are very safe strike the cue ball below the centre one-half to right, thus giving reverse English. The cue ball rebounds to side cushion, when the reverse English will send it back to corner, effecting the carrom. The first object ball being driven against the second rebounds gently back against end cushion, and moves from cushion sufficiently to allow cue ball to pass and count on second object ball, which does not leave its original position more than one or two inches.—Maurice Daly.

Defining a Flirt.

Somebody wrote and asked me to define a flirt. It seems unnecessary when the dictionary meaning is worded in such terse Saxon terms. There has been some degree of fascination tossed about the word by a perversion of its meaning, but it is quite time to apply it only in its true sense, and the appellation is far from being a complimentary one.

Do you want to act a lie? Then flirt.

Do you care to lose the modest charm of manner, which is woman's best heritage and man's too infrequently found attribute? Then play at love.

Do you want your future life embittered by memories which will stab you when your heart is beating with happiness? Then cheat some one into giving you true regard for falseness.

If you would be womanly, my woman reader, or manly, my unknown questioner, give your esteem to all who deserve it, your friendship to those who are your true friends, and your heart's warm, earnest love to one man or to one woman and let it be unsullied by the flirtations which many count in triumph on the fingers of both their hands.—Globe.

Lady Helps.

Mr. Moncure D. Conway warmly advocates the plan of "Lady Helps" for, household work. Mrs. Crawshay of Cyfarthia Castle has established in London an office to facilitate communication between those needing service and those ready to serve, and of it Mr. Conway writes: "Finding, also, that the chief difficulty was that these ladies, brought up as ladies are, could not cook, she established a school for cookery there. This institution is now very flourishing, and easily pays its expenses. I am told that on a recent occasion, when a letter had appeared in the Times from a lady giving an account of her happy experience with lady-helps, as many as sixty applications were made at the office in one day. The ladies who register their names for service are the relations of gentlemen farmers, surgeons, solicitors, clergymen, army officers and those of literary men. They are sometimes so destitute that Mrs. C. has to lend them small sums to enable them to transfer residence. In the contracts it is arranged that the lady-help shall have a bedroom to herself, unless she agree to share it with another lady help; she is not to scour floors, black-lead grates, or clean pots, pans and shoes; nor is she to carry water or coal. She will, however, kindle fires and remove ashes. Those who do not wish to have two classes of servants in the house may employ charwomen, etc., for the rougher work. In Mrs. Crawshay's family there are five ladies employed—cook, kitchen maid and lady's maid—at £20 each; dairy maid and housemaid at £15 each; each being allowed £5 for "beer money," and each salary raised £5 at the end of the first year. Travelling expenses are allowed, second-class."

The personal relations of the "lady help" to the household must largely depend upon the individual. "In some cases," says Mr. Conway, "the result attained is that of a household of friends all doing some kind of work for the common comfort. So far as I can learn, the obvious evils attending the employment of two classes of resident servants, one superior in rank to the other, though they may be escaped in such vast establishments as Cyfarthia Castle, where their rooms and occupations may be completely separated, cannot be avoided in ordinary dwellings. In these the lady helps and the family must manage the normal house-work between them, and the rough work must be done by charwomen, bootblacks, dustmen and other laborers imported for such work, but not resident in the house. The advantages secured by employment of lady helps are declared to be a much greater refinement in the home generally. The dishes are more daintily cooked and served, and the rooms kept neater and the drawing-room more tastefully arranged. Followers are got rid of; doubtful kitchen scenes avoided; petty thefts unknown. In many cases aged or invalid ladies have found in their lady helps just that kind of sympathetic assistance and intelligent conversation of which they are in need. They can generally play on the piano, they read, and they are excellent assistants in the amusements of the family, such as private theatricals, tableaux and games.

The experiment is one that might perhaps be tried with advantage in this country.

HINTS TO HOUSEKEEPERS.

To mend cracks in stoves and stove pipes, make a paste of ashes and salt with water and apply. A harder and more durable cement is made of iron filings, sal-ammoniac and water.

A simple cement for broken china or earthenware is made of powdered quicklime, sifted through a coarse muslin bag over the white of an egg.

An invalid writing pad is something new. It consists of a tray fitted with blotter and other necessaries, which can be supported at will upon four short legs, called into use by means of a spring. When not in use the legs fold close under the tray.

Hammocks-pillows are seasonable luxuries. For actual use the pillow, which is just large enough to fit snugly into the hammock's head, is covered with a slip made of drab Holland pattern, traced in white, or white duck worked in fast colored embroidery silk, in durable tones of brown, blue or red. These covers are all made so that they can be unbuttoned and taken off to be laundried.

Off on the Weather.

"What is the matter with your barometer? It acts as if it were crazy."

"There's one of them rain-producing men experimenting over in the next field, and the blamed thing don't know whether to indicate rain or fair weather."

Had Written for the Papers.

Maud—Now that I have accepted you, please tell me why you inclosed a stamp in your offer of marriage, which you were foolish enough to make by post?

Henry—I inclosed the stamp for the safe return of the article in case you declined it.

The Rage Explained.

Hardnut—Listen to this, pard. Here's a fashion note says "there is a rage for souvenir spoons."

Lightfinger—That's official, by Jove! and the rage sets in just after we've been an' tapped the silver pantry, eh, old boy?

THE EDITOR AT HOME.

"During the last Week Squire Johnson has painted three sides of his barn all by himself, and the improvement is a great credit to the entire community. We wish that all our citizens had the enterprise of this well-known and justly popular official. Later—As we go to press the Squire is working on the fourth side of the barn.

"We saw some particularly fine potatoes in Taylor's grocery the other day, and were pleased to be told that they were raised on the farm of Mr. George Bloom, about three miles west of town. 'George,' as we love to call him, drops in occasionally to chat with us, and we always feel the better for it. What this county needs is more men of his stamp. We are glad to know that his two hogs have recovered from the cholera.

"The Town Trustees had a meeting in the engine-house last night, and it was resolved to put five new planks on the driveway of the bridge and pay the Widow Brown 84 cents for damage done to her smoke-house by the fall of the flag-pole. Our Trustees are active, energetic men, who have the best interests of our town at heart, and we take pleasure in chronicling the fact. The five new planks will be quite a boom for the bridge.

"Our heartfelt thanks are due to Mrs. George Colchester for twelve beautiful hens' eggs and a bunch of peppermint left on our table one day last week during our temporary absence to visit our first wife's grave at the cemetery. Mrs. Colchester is a farmer's wife and proud of the fact, and that she is big-hearted and likes to see other people get along is proved by her generous and timely gift. We hadn't an egg in the house when these came, and it really seems as if our guardian angel had whispered the fact in her ears.

What might have proved a sad calamity to this whole community was averted last Wednesday afternoon by the judgment and bravery of Charles Hopson, the genial and much beloved keeper of the village pound. Mrs. Hastings, mother of the popular Abijah Hastings, had been trading at Smiley's. Just as she was about to get into the one-horse wagon to drive home again Mr. Hopson noticed that the tire on the off hind wheel was loose. With commendable bravery he sprang forward, borrowed a hammer of Jim Elliott, and in a few moments had it back in place. It is such little every-day incidents as these which endear the people of this town to the editor and make him satisfied to live on an income of $6 a week.

"In walking by the home of the whole-souled and warm-hearted Abram Potts, just north of Dickinson's tannery, we noticed a sign 'For Sale' on the fence. We were astonished. We ventured to intrude, although it was Sunday afternoon, and Mr. Potts gave us a warm welcome. He explained that it was not the house and lot which were for sale, as we had supposed, but a quantity of grapes growing in his yard. This relieved our mind at once. The grapes are $2 per bushel. We learned incidentally that Mrs. Potts has whitewashed three bedroom ceilings with her own hands this year, besides doing up two bushels of peaches and working a motto of "God Bless Our Home" for her sister in Milwaukee. Mr. Potts, as our readers know, directs the buzz-saw at the sawmill, and is, perhaps, the best judge of sawlogs in this whole State.

"Aren't you ever going to grow old, like the rest of us?" asked a man of an acquaintance he hadn't seen for some time. "Well, not so long as I can purify my blood with Ayer's Sarsaparilla," was the apt reply. This man knew what he was talking about.

It is safe to use Freeman's Worm Powders, as they act only on the worms and do not injure the child. dw

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

THE ELGIN ELOPEMENT

MISS TEETZEL RESCUED BY HER BROTHER.

Her Strange Infatuation for the Clergyman Who Betrayed Her—How "Rev." Walter Nelson Secured the Port Burwell Charge—Denounced by Leading Baptists.

LANSING, Mich., Nov. 24.—Mr. J. V. Teetzel, Q.C., of Hamilton, had an affecting interview this morning with his sister Rosabel, the young school teacher of Malahide, Elgin county, Ont., who eloped with Rev. Walter P. Nelson. Miss Teetzel consented to return with her brother to the home of an aunt in Windsor and make an effort to suppress her infatuation for Nelson. The whole party left on the Grand Trunk train for Port Huron, with Nelson in the custody of the sheriff, but it was not determined what further action would be taken. Mr. Teetzel is of opinion he can secure extradition papers upon a charge of abduction, but is not clear whether he will pursue the matter further or not. He does not know Nelson and has refused to see him here.

Nelson was permitted a few minutes' conference with the object of his adoration in the presence of other parties. He urged her to reconsider her purpose of returning. She could hardly resist his frantic appeals, and was inclined to relent when he was taken from the room and fell in a dead faint outside.

On arriving at Lansing the couple went to the Commercial, where they were assigned separate rooms on different floors, and these they continued to occupy. They registered under their own names and made no attempt to conceal their identity.

A Physiological Reason.

To a reporter Nelson admitted that he was a married man, but could prove by three reliable witnesses that there was a physiological reason for his not living happily with his wife, to whom he was married in Centerville, Ill., a year ago last September. He said he was compelled to leave his wife three days after marriage, a separation to which she agreed. His wife was a Miss Olive Weiss of Centerville, where Nelson was ordained into the ministry.

He says he did not intend to elope with Miss Teetzel, but that he called at Miss Teetzel's residence with a rig and asked her to go out for a drive. She refused, but finally consented to go for a short drive only, as she did not wish to dress. She was clothed in a red morning wrapper, and put on her hat and throwing a light shawl about her shoulders, she got into the buggy with Nelson, who tells the following story of their subsequent adventures:

An Unmitigated Liar.

"We drove out towards the country deeply engrossed with our conversation, and not aware that it was growing late. My matrimonial affairs formed the chief topic of our conversation, and when we finally got ready to return home, Miss Teetzel asked me what the people would say about us being gone so long, and her dressed in a morning wrapper only. I saw at once that we had unwittingly acted very foolishly, but I could not suggest the slightest excuse for our foolishness. As we were approaching Miss Teetzel's residence I suggested that we drive on a little farther until we could devise a plan to relieve ourselves from embarrassment. We were then driving towards St. Thomas, and after talking the matter over for some time I suggested that we go on to St. Thomas, and as I was going on to Illinois to apply for a divorce she could return home in the morning, which was then rapidly approaching. She acquiesced, and on reaching St. Thomas she did not appear willing to have me leave her, but rather evinced a disposition to go along. When I asked her if she would like to go with me she replied that she would ever so much. I purchased two tickets for Michigan and on the way here we formulated plans for the future. We were to locate in some small place where I could obtain employment as a minister and she could teach. I was to go ahead with my suit for divorce, and as soon as it was obtained we were to be married. Now that is all there is to the affair."

Letter of Warning to the Churches.

TORONTO, Nov. 24.—At the meeting of the Baptist Ministerial Association yesterday morning the elopement of Rev. Walter Nelson of Port Burwell with a school teacher, full particulars of which appeared in yesterday's World, was the first subject which occupied attention.

Rev. Dr. Newman said that he was present in the Elgin association last June when Mr. Nelson's credentials were put in. They were of such a character that the Doctor and other ministers discouraged the church from accepting them. Dr. Newman added that he had seen the testimonial which Nelson said he bore from Rev. Alexander Grant of Winnipeg. It was not a ministerial testimonial at all, but merely a statement of the fact that Mr. Grant had baptised him.

On the motion of Rev. G. C. Parker, seconded by Rev. O. C. S. Wallace, Rev. Dr. Newman was requested to write to The Canadian Baptist warning the churches of the danger of receiving ministers from other countries without having unquestioned credentials of standing and character.

A Gypsy Elopement.

ST. JOHN, N.B., Nov. 24.—Kate McMillan, a young gypsy girl from the Strait Shore, eloped on Wednesday night with George Williams, a married man, also of the Romany persuasion. The father of the girl has gone to Chatham to bring his daughter home. Williams has been arrested on a charge of abduction.

IRISH POLITICAL PRISONERS.

Parnellites and Anti-Parnellites Unite in Demanding Amnesty.

LIMERICK, Nov. 24.—An immense meeting here, presided over by the Mayor, demanded of the Government the release of the Irishmen imprisoned for alleged dynamite outrages and other political offenses.

The most notable feature of the occasion was the appearance on the platform of both Parnellite and anti-Parnellite leaders. Among others prominent in the proceedings were John Redmond, Pierce Mahoney, Edward Harrington, Michael Davitt and Messrs. Abraham and O'Keefe, members for Limerick.

The Anti-Parnellites, except Davitt, were received with groans; otherwise there was no unpleasant incident.

The meeting adopted resolutions that the time for amnesty of the political prisoners had arrived and called upon the Irish people to unite, regardless of faction, in demanding such release, and also in insisting upon a general amendment of the prison laws.

Redmond, when he rose to speak, was received with great cheering, followed by cheers for Parnell. Redmond declared that the demand made by the meeting was based on the ground that the conviction of the prisoners was brought about in a time of panic, and that Sir William Vernon Harcourt, under whose administration the prosecution was pushed, was nearly insane from fright at the time, and was guilty of the grossest unfairness in interpreting the law.

Mr. Davitt said the meeting reminded him of old times. After throwing out a few hints that it would be a good thing for Ireland if much more common lines of action could be struck out, Mr. Davitt went on to charge that "Red" McDermott and the public had been leagued together to plant bombs and commit other alleged outrages in order to secure the arrest and conviction of the men now languishing in prison. He challenged the Government to prosecute him for his utterance.

DICTATOR FONSECA DEPOSED.

The Brazilian Dictator Surrenders to the Opposition Forces.

LONDON, Nov. 24.—Despatches from Rio de Janeiro yesterday bring the intelligence that the opposition to Dictator Fonseca has gathered sufficient force to break through the barriers erected by the Government to hold it in check and to make itself master of the situation. No details have yet been received as to the precise methods adopted. All that is known is that the uprising was so formidable that Fonseca considered it impossible longer to maintain his ascendancy and has surrendered his authority.

In retiring, or "resigning," as he called it, he declared he did so in favor of Floriano Peixotto, the Vice-President or Vice-Chief of the provisional Government, of which Fonseca was the head.

Insurrection had been smouldering in Rio Janeiro for several days. The first overt manifestation was the cutting of the railway near the city on Saturday night. The rising came to a head this morning, the navy leading in an open revolt and demanding the resignation of Da Fonseca. Finding resistance useless, Da Fonseca announced that he would comply with the demand. Intense excitement prevails. A riotous crowd has destroyed the offices of two Government newspapers.

Senor Peixotto is forming a Government.

SMITH'S MILLIONS.

The Late Conservative Statesman Leaves a Fortune $20,000,000.

LONDON, Nov. 24.—The will of the late Hon. William Henry Smith, Lord of the Admiralty and Tory leader in the House of Commons, has just been probated. It presented the astonishing fact that there are millions in the sale of books and newspapers. From a little bookstore in the Strand, Mr. Smith's business was extended until he controlled the sale of nearly all newspapers and periodicals in the United Kingdom. He became a great man and now leaves behind the neat fortune of $20,000,000.

TERRIBLE MASSACRE.

A Chinese Mob Attacks the Belgian Mission at Takou and Slaughters the Inmates—No Mercy Shown.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 24.—Information just received of another cruel massacre of Europeans and native Christians this time at the Belgian mission station at Takou. Full particulars not yet received as few, if any, of intended victims succeeded in escaping. The mission held several Europeans connected with mission work and about a hundred native converts. Assailants showed no mercy.

Worth 250 Millions.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 24.—The richest man in all the Russias has just passed away, Prince Jussupoff. His possessions are estimated at $250,000,000, and this is probably below the mark. His palace in St. Petersburg is a wonderful museum, containing an enormous quantity of precious stones and objects of art in barbaric profusion.

At one time his family consisted of two daughters, the marriage of one of whom set all Europe talking. After a short married life this daughter died.

After having refused the hands of numerous princely suitors, the remaining daughter fell in love with a handsome but poor lieutenant, Count Sumarokoff Elseton. He being a modest soldier, did not venture to aspire to the hand of the daughter of a multi-millionaire Prince. But the young lady went to her father and disclosed the secret.

The Prince was unpleasantly surprised, as he had planned a great marriage for his daughter. But, finding that she was in earnest, and having ascertained that the career and reputation of the young man were blameless, he went himself and offered him the daughter's hand in marriage. The joy of the young couple was naturally great and there is not a happier pair in Russia to-day.

This son-in-law was adopted by Prince Jussupoff according to Russian law and he now inherits the title, estates and vast fortune left behind.

Makes the Weak Strong

The marked benefit which people in run down or weakened state of health derive from Hood's Sarsaparilla, conclusively proves the claim that this medicine "makes the weak strong." It does not act like a stimulant, imparting fictitious strength from which there must follow a reaction of greater weakness than before, but in the most natural way Hood's Sarsaparilla overcomes creates an appetite, purifies the blood, and, in short, gives great bodily, nerve, mental and digestive strength.

That Tired Feeling

"I derived very much benefit from Hood's Sarsaparilla, which I took for general debility. It built me right up, and gave me an excellent appetite." ED. JENKINS, Mt. Savage, Md.

Fagged Out

"Last spring I was completely fagged out. My strength left me and I felt sick and miserable all the time, so that I could hardly attend to my business. I took one bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it cured me. There is nothing like it." R. C. BEGOLE, Editor Enterprise, Belleville, Mich.

Worn Out

"Hood's Sarsaparilla restored me to good health. Indeed, I might say truthfully it saved my life. To one feeling tired and worn out I would earnestly recommend a trial of Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. PHEBE MOSHER, 59 Brooks Street, East Boston, Mass.

GOLDEN LION.

You will find this a great store. The more you get acquainted with its ways, the more you will like it. You will always find great bargains here that will please you, as it does our regular customers. There are always bargains in every department.

Take for instance Jackets in their season, in a lot of 50 Cloaks of one kind, probably one or two will hang fire. Variety gone price was, say $20 but the two go for $8 or $10 each. That's done every week. Last week we sold a Beautiful Embroidered imported Dolman that sold at $22 for $10.

For another example take Dress Goods. Some lines of our 50c. goods go for 35c. and 25c. and so on.

People that understand shopping ask for these goods and get them.

Did you know that shopping require experience. We always keep a fresh stock by selling out the tail end clean, even if at a sacrifice. Nothing is carried over.

This week and for the coming month you will find exceptional bargains in Mantle Cloths.

Exceptionally large bargains in Men's and Boys' Overcoats.

If one price or style fails to suit, you ask for another. Don't be afraid of asking for what you want. Keep on until you get it. It's here. There are few stocks that excel ours outside of the large cities.

CONSERVATIVE CAUCUS

CONFERENCE OF THE BRITISH NATIONAL UNION.

Premier Salisbury Cheered to the Echo—A Labor Minister—Local Government for Ireland—A Series of Important Resolutions Carried—Archbishop of Aix Fined.

BIRMINGHAM, Eng., Nov. 25.—The great conference of the National Union of Conservative Associations opened at Masonic Hall in this city yesterday. The appearance of Lord Salisbury on the platform was the occasion of the greatest excitement. The audience rose to its feet, the men cheering and yelling, waving their hats and canes, while the ladies, carried away by the excitement, waved their handkerchiefs and made their voices heard above the din. When the chairman, H. Byron, M.P. for East Bradford, called the conference to order, he stated that the present conference was the largest that has ever been held by the Conservative party. He made an optimistic speech, predicting the success of the party at the next general election, and took occasion to highly praise the attitude of the Liberal-Unionists.

Lord Windsor was elected president of the National Union of the Conservative Association for the ensuing year.

Resolutions were unanimously adopted pledging the conference to resist the proposal to disestablish the church in Wales. The following was also passed:

That having regard to the extraordinary disproportion in the representation of England, Scotland, Wales and Ireland in the Imperial Parliament, it is most desirable that steps be taken to redress these inequalities.

Viscount Fielding offered and the conference adopted this resolution:

That this conference is of the opinion that when the question of representation of the people is reopened by Parliament serious consideration should be given to the claims of women to be admitted to the franchise, when otherwise entitled by ownership or occupation.

Mrs. Millicent Garrett Fawcett, the well-known authoress and leader in the women's suffrage movement, addressed the conference in support of Viscount Fielding's resolution. She said the Gladstonians had changed their attitude on this question because they were afraid that the representation of women would powerfully reinforce the party of order.

H. S. Neal offered this resolution:

That in the opinion of this conference the attitude of the Conservative party towards bona fide labor candidates should be one of sympathy and encouragement.

This resolution did not exactly meet the views of some of the delegates, and after some debate the word "unionist" was inserted before "labor," and as so amended was adopted.

The Previous Question Moved.

Sir Albert Rollitt, M.P. for the south division of Islington, member of the Conservative Council, submitted the following:

That the conference regards with the utmost satisfaction the improved social and industrial condition of Ireland under the present Government, and cordially endorses the intention of Ministers to introduce next session bills for the extension of local government, and also for the promotion of technical education in that part of the United Kingdom.

This resolution gave rise to an excited discussion. A number of the delegates made speeches against the adoption of the resolution, urging that there had been enough Irish legislation, while others held that the Government ought to be left a free hand to deal with Ireland.

The Marquis of Grandby cut off further debate by moving the previous question. This was seconded by Gainsford Bruce (M.P. for the Holborn division of Finsbury), and the motion was carried by a large majority. When the result of the vote was announced the conference rose to its feet and enthusiastically cheered.

Sir Albert Rollitt was not satisfied with this vote, actually rejecting his resolution and demanded that another division be taken. This was done and again the resolution was heavily defeated. These resolutions were also adopted:

That considering the great importance of labor questions it is desirable that a labor department shall be formed by the Government, to be presided over by a minister of the crown to be termed the "Labor Minister."

That this conference desires to express its thanks to Lord Salisbury's Ministry for appointing so large a number of workingmen as factory inspectors, but at the same time hopes that the Government may see its way to appoint women inspectors for employments in which their own sex are engaged.

The Conservative Club of this city entertained Lord Salisbury at a private dinner at 5.30 o'clock last evening.

The Marchioness of Salisbury and Lady Gwendoline were present at a meeting of Unionist ladies held here during the day. The Marchioness of Hertford presided. Among those who addressed the meeting were Mrs. Chamberlain, Lady Augusta Paget and Mrs. Fawcett.

The Premier Outlines the Conservative Program at a Birmingham Banquet.

Masonic Hall was crowded last evening. Lord Salisbury and party were received with great enthusiasm on entering the hall. A resolution expressing confidence in Lord Salisbury was passed by a rising vote amid prolonged cheering and the singing of, "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

After thanking the audience for the warm reception accorded him Lord Salisbury proceeded to deliver an address on the political topic of the day. The Liberals, he said, had made an effort on every platform to turn the attention of the electors away from a question of vital importance to the integrity of the empire to matters of much less interest. He would not for a moment deny the importance of the matter alluded to in the speeches and resolutions that preceded him, nor the importance of the celebrated Newcastle program. If the Unionist Government remained in power and the existing state of affairs in Ireland was maintained there was no reason why those subjects should not be cordially considered.

Home Rule in the hands of the Gladstonians, said Lord Salisbury, appears to me like a nasty medicine in capsules of gelatine for the electors. While I cannot admit that it is our duty to ignore the gigantic issue before us I am also anxious to disclaim any intention to abstain from English and Scotch legislation because we are threatened by Irish agitation.

Without forecasting Her Majesty's speech I think we may fairly consider some of the subjects raised by our opponents wherein they do not always reach the bottom of the sack. I am in favor of rating ground landlords, provided the reform be executed with fairness and not made the occasion for gratifying class antipathy. Mr. Morley's complaint about land not being tilled is rather exacting. The non-tillage is due to the withdrawal of the protection under which the land formerly grew wheat. That is the price you pay for the advantages of free trade. Nowhere in the world will you find corn grown without protection. In this the 52nd degree of latitude it is absurd to imagine it possible to correct the defect without abandoning the great policy to which we are all attached.

One Man, One Vote.

The one man one vote idea really means the overhauling of the representation system. It is a perfectly judicious system to adopt at reasonable intervals, but there is no need that every parliament should be occupied with it. If it is dealt with now it must diminish the representation of Ireland and the fringes of Great Britain in favor of the centres of population and intelligence. I shall not object to such a process, but I am unable to admit the necessity of parish councils or that the object of representative institutions is to amuse the electors. If they want amusing I recommend the circus. Admitting the common interest in these matters I cannot ignore the fact that the general election will turn upon the question of union, and it is as a Unionist party that we appeal to your suffrages. [Cheers.] I am not going to emulate the Gladstonian policy of trying to pass a Home Rule bill on the sly. I am not going to pretend that I am deeply impressed with importance of English and Scotch legislation. I am not going to blind myself to the fact that union with Ireland is the great question that should summon the whole strength of the elecorate to our side. [Applause.] I am bound not to ignore the enormous merit of our dissident allies. You may search the records of any country in vain to find an alliance in which the weaker side is so loyal, single-hearted and patriotic as ours. I am bound to do anything to make the dissident's task easy. If my voice has the faintest influence in this city, which is the centre of the alliance, I beg that you will cement the alliance in the interests of the party and country. It lies with you to determine whether we maintain unimpaired the union that has been so beneficial to the Empire.

He compared the forecasts of the destruction of the Conservative party to the farmer's forecasting the weather from his experience of past years. In regard to the flowing tide in favor of the Liberals he found that a flowing tide always ended by an ebb.

The Home Rule Issue.

He continued: If I read aright the political history of the past two years the great towns will support us on the question of home rule. If the rural districts take the opposite view it is not on the question of home rule but some local matter.

We all feel deeply the depletion of the country through the migration of the peasants to great towns, therefore it is a quite desirable experiment to use the public credit to increase the small proprietors. If, however, it turns out that economic laws opposed this result no efforts the Legislature can make will promote our object. This does not imply any unjust proposals. If you take a man's property you must pay for it. In the improbable event that Mr. Gladstone will be victorious we shall fight at every step in the House of Commons and with the certainty that the battle will not be fruitless because the Liberals would be bound to please two different sections of supporters. Some persons said that the home rule bill did not exist. That is uncharitable. I believe two existed—one for the Irish and the other for the English supporters. [Laughter.] Only one will be producible in the House of Commons and the result will be the secession of supporters endangering its passage. Supposing the bill passed. Well—beyond that. I speak nervously, because I observe my mentioning the House of Lords disturbs Mr. Gladstone's temper. [Applause.] Yet his menaces imply a confusion of thought. Supposing that the House of Lords are all the evil things Mr. Gladstone and Sir William Vernon Harcourt assert that does not alter their duty a hair's breadth. I deeply regret that two such saintly persons think ill of us, but we must do our duty to the country and not consider the opinion of Mr. Gladstone or Sir William Vernon Harcourt. It is quite time that a reform of the House of Lords is worthy of discussion, but any scheme modifying the structure of the House of Lords would certainly diminish the power of the Conservatives. It will not occur yet. Mr. Gladstone's menaces are unworthy of his great position, because it is contemptible to menace without power to execute his menaces. I do not doubt the Lords will not attempt to resist the opinion of their countrymen clearly expressed, but when Mr. Gladstone appeals to the example of Lord Grey I think he forgets the exact history of the case and forgets that Lord Grey did not skulk behind studied ambiguities. When Mr. Gladstone is able to produce a Home Rule bill to the electors and bring a decisive majority in favor of the bill and nothing but [illegible]. I do not think he will have much trouble with the House of Lords, but while he tries to steal the unwilling assent of electors by concealing the real provisions of his bill, the House of Lords will be justified in insisting that decision of the country shall be exact in its provisions. He cannot menace the House of Lords without a revolution, and he cannot have his revolution on limited liability. If he imagines that the people of this country will allow him to set up a revolution, to deliver the streets into the hands of a mob, and to expose to all the hazards of a revolution the vast commercial and industrial interests built up in a long period of peace, he mistakes, as he has often done before, the real feeling of his countrymen. If we failed in the House of Lords we should still fight to persuade the electors of the mistake they had committed. Great Britain's vast commercial and political supremacy depends upon the domination she exercises in many lands in various parts of the globe. If you cut off these great possessions England, unable to feed a third of her population, will be unable to maintain in anything but the direst misery the vast multitudes that inhabit her soil. You would tell the world that you are so weak that Ireland would be wrenched from you by sheer agitation. Do you not think that other dependencies would take lesson on learning the feebleness of the master with whom they have to deal? It is one of the curses of this controversy that we cannot discuss in full detail this momentous consideration. But this question I commend to every man, whatever his position, who desires to preserve his country and his fellowmen from the greatest national calamity that ever befell a great country. [Cheers.]

Irish Affairs.

Turning to Ireland, Lord Salisbury said that in that country two great influences were prominent—blackthorns and priests. [Laughter.] Nothing in modern history equalled the influence of Archbishop Croke and Archbishop Walsh in the recent history of Ireland. They had turned the whole of the vast organization which seemed to embarrass and baffle the English Government clear away from the man whose hand had swayed it with the ease with which a man could turn a boat by leading the rudder. Now, ecclesiastical domination in similar affairs is not peculiar to any religious benet. It is a parasite which eats the vitality of all. I may frankly admit that established churches, being under considerable control, are less liable to it than any other, and that is one great argument in favor of church establishments.

After remarking that he believed the Irish archbishops were defying the people, he dilated upon the results of giving every institution in Ireland into their hands and said: "It will be only by rebellion that the Irish Protestants will defy such power. I do not dispute Mr. Gladstone's opinion that they are powerful enough to overbear tyranny. It will be a terrible resort and will cause unnumbered scenes of cruelty and massacre and a revival of the terrible religious wars from which Ireland has already too much suffered. We shall be bound to interfere to reconquer the country, and the long dreary roll of seven centuries will re-commence. Mr. Morley talks of the Irish spectre stalking in Parliament and taking the majority by the throat. He may be assured if he has his way the spectre will be as lusty as ever, only his garments will be orange and not green. Mr. Gladstone demanded that if we would not recognise the justice of his claim we at least should recognize that it was inevitable. With the greatest respect I fling the adjective back into his face. The inevitable is on our side, not on his. The course of the world's destiny is with us not with him, we are moving with the stream; he is battling hopelessly against it. [Loud cheers.] He instanced Spain, Germany, Italy and the United States as proving the tendency to consolidate territory and consolidate authority. Do you imagine by spreading subtle lines to hoodwink the agricultural laborer that the steady course of the earth designed by Providence shall turn back? We are certain it is not so. We are certain that the coming elections will decide in our favor. We shall exhibit the same tenacity or more than our opponents exhibited, confident of seeking the goal we must infallibly attain, and strong in faith that we shall pursue what we believe to be the path of empire and justice, prosperity and peace.

His Lordship then resumed his seat.

Comments on the Conference.

LONDON, Nov. 25.—The movement among the Conservatives which resulted in a decision by the Birmingham conference against the Government's continuing to maintain Irish legislation as the principal feature of its policy has been previously described. The main object of the movement is to apply to England the principles of the Irish Land Purchase Act. By the adoption of such a measure the English laborer would be enabled to acquire small plots of land at a low figure and through simple methods. The state would assist the farmers to become owners of land after the lapse of a certain number of years without their paying more than the customary rentals. This in brief is an outline of the new policy that the Conservatives now propose to adopt.

The Standard and Globe and leading Tory journals generally throughout the country concur in expressing the opinion that the last session of the present Parliament ought not to be devoted to Ireland.

Sir Albert Rollitt appealed in the Birmingham conference against moving the previous question to his resolution on Irish legislation chiefly on the ground that the Government had pledged themselves to introduce an Irish local government bill and that the ministers over and over again had committed themselves to the measure.

The Globe, while admitting that the Cabinet are pledged in this respect, suggests that the Government should simultaneously promote a British land purchase bill and an Irish local government bill. It says that such action would checkmate the Gladstonians, who would not dare to oppose the former bill for fear of the resentment of small farmers and agricultural laborers, and that if the Liberals hotly obstructed Irish local government that bill could be dropped, while the British land purchase bill could be proceeded with although Parliament's life was prolonged till the summer of 1893.

M. De Giers' Visit to France.

PARIS, Nov. 25.—In an interview Monday M. Ribot, Minister of Foreign Affairs, said the views which had been exchanged between the French ministers and M. de Giers during the latter's sojourn in this city were of a very friendly and pacific nature. He was unable to say, however, whether these views would assume a written form.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 25, 1891.

THE leper question in British Columbie has not yet reached an end. It appears that the local authorities are of opinion that the Dominion should take care of the lepers, not the province.

SIR ALEXANDER CAMPBELL, Lieut.-Governor of Ontario, who has been ill for some weeks past, grew worse on Saturday and Sunday, when previously-observed symptoms of paralysis assumed a serious character. His Honour's lower limbs are now affected.

ACCORDING to statistics published in Montreal the live stock export trade shows a falling off as compared with last year. The exports of live cattle from Montreal this year were 109,194 head, against 123, 636 head for the same period last year, while only 32,042 sheep were exported, against 43,372 during the season of 1890

IT is understood that the authorities of British Columbia are bitterly opposed to the application of the law in regard to quarantine of cattle imported from the United States the same as in force between Manitoba and the republic. An order-in-council was passed by the Dominion Government on Nov. 13th, 1890, making the law in regard to British Columbia the same as Manitoba. Messrs, Prior and Earle, the members for Victoria, have sent their protest against the enforcement of this law to the Dominion Government. The regulations provide for ninety days quarantine before the cattle comes into the Dominion. Until very recently the law was not enforced in regard to British Columbia.

THE Montreal Star (Conservative, and emphatically N. P. in its principles) says that "our great need at this moment is a better chance for the farmers. The census shows that the exodus from the rural parts of the country is alarming, and unless the taxes are lightened very appreciably on the goods that he consumes and every chance given him to market his produce, the back-bone of this country will be broken while we are fattening the cities. A continuation of the present tariff means suicide and surrender. A few more years under its screw pressure and Mr. Laurier will not go to Boston to talk in a manly tone of trade treaties, but we will fain send him to Washington to sue for admission into the Union. Resources must be husbanded to face a siege, and in a free country like ours, unless the loyalists insist on such a course with the approval of the men having a stake in the land, the thoughtless and hungry will force a capitulation."

MINISTERIAL responsibility for boodling in his deparement was the reason given by Sir John Thompson, in his speech at Haggartville, for Sir Hector Langevin's retirement from the cabinet. But why, asks the Ottowa Free Press, is not the doctrine of "ministerial responsibility" applied in the cases of Messrs. Chapleau and Dewdney? Why apply to Sir Hector's case rules which are ignored when the mismanagement of other departments is considered. Sir John Thompson says Sir Hector did not know of the McGreevy-Connolly boodling, but he had to leave the cabinet because "the doctrine of ministerial responsibility could not be ignored." Why is that doctrine ignored in the case of Mr. Chapleau? The secretary of state, according to the minister of justice, knew quite as much about Senecal's boodling as the late minister of public works did about Mr. McGreevy's boodling. Yet Sir Hector has been turned out while Mr. Chapleau is to be promoted. Is this "one law for all?" Sir Hector's friends are likely to resent the palpable discrimination against him by his colleagues. If Sir Hector was properly ejected from the cabinet because of ministerial responsibility for rottenness in his department, the same rule should be applied to other ministers. Why make a scape-goat of the late minister of public works, or deal with him more rigidly than with his equally guilty colleagues?

GOUGH BROS.,

THE WONDERFUL CHEAP MEN, - - PETERBOROUGH, TORONTO, BRANTFORD.

THE waterways convention to be held in Detroit on December 17 promises to be one of the most important gatherings of marine men held in recent years. The chief subject for consideration are the best means of securing a twenty foot channel from Duluth and Chicago to Buffalo, and the feasibility of a ship canal to the ocean.

La Patrie furnishes the information that eighteen French Canadians are at the present time members of the different legislatures of the United States. If Quebec has furnished eighteen Yankee legislators, certainly Ontario and the other parts of the Dominion in proportion to population should furnish three times that number. It is a deplorable result of Tory misgovernment that the flower of our educated and clever citizens should be driven to seek citizenship in a foreign country and to expend their abilities in promoting the interests of a foreign country, naturally antagonistic to those of their native land.

GOVERNMENTS which consist of rulers changed every four or five years, as in the case of republics, can hardly expect any better success than the domestic system that permits the marriage tie to be dissolved with the facilities that the divorce courts of republics permit. In either case there is generally certain to be family trouble. The South American republics on the western slope of the lower half of this continent, have been in perpetual hot water for years. And now Brasil, which "threw off the yoke" of constitutional monarchy for a republic, finds that she has jumped from the frying pan into the fire, Brasil is now torn by conflicting passions and factions, the result of president Fonseca taking the short step, between meeting extremes, from a president to a tyrant.

SIR JOHN THOMPSON in his address to the boodle banquet to Hon. John Haggart, the Postmaster-General, held at Perth, insisted strongly upon the unpatriotic disloyalty of Hon. Wilfred Laurier in addressing an audience of expatriated French Canadians in Boston, but the government party "were not as this publican," but loyally addressed Canadians at Perth. This suggests to the Ottawa Free Press to remind Sir John Thompson, that, unfortunately, there are more Canadians in Boston than there are in Perth. Mr. Laurier did well to address his exiled compatriots, and to tell them that his party has adopted a policy which, when, carried into effect, will enable them to return to Canada and find profitable employment here. If Mr. Laurier can find a large audience of Canadians to address in an alien city, is he much more to blame than the men whose narrow-gauge policy of trade restriction has driven Canadian citizens by tens of thousands into the domains of Uncle Sam?

The Broil in Brazil.

It is just two years since Emperor Pedro of Brazil was dethroned and sent into exile. A republic was organized with Da Fonseca at its head, and for two years the country prospered. The complete abolition of slavery, which Dom Pedro strongly favoured, and which was accomplished in 1888, was one of the principal factors in bringing about the overthrow of the monarchy; because the ex-slave holders joined their forces with the republicans to punish the emperor for his abolitionist policy. But Da Fonseca's head seems to have become turned. The restraints imposed upon him by the constitution he has come to regard as irksome and intolerable, and so he dissolved the congress and made himself dictator. This step is likely to lead to civil war, unless the dictator dies or is sent to the mad house. There has been, during the past few years, a large German, Italian and Portuguese immigration into Brazil, and in the province of Rio Grande de Sol, which is said to be in revolt against Da Fonseca, is a wealthy and populous region, in which many new immigrants have settled. The standing army of Brazil consists of 12,000 men, but the republic contains a population of between twelve and fourteen millions, and a large military force could easily be raised if the people were unanimous in supporting the dictator, which they are not. It is difficult to obtain news of any kind from Brazil but the latest cablegrams received in Europe indicate that a portion of the navy has taken sides with the insurgents.

The Way the Wizard Works it.

Wonderful things are prophesied by Edison of his newly perfected electric system for railways, street and other. It will displace the locomotive, because it can get from one or two pounds of cheap coal all that a locomotive can get from six pounds of dear coal; it will begin to do this between Chicago and Milwaukee at the World's Fair; Henry Villard is to run trains between these cities at frequent intervals, say one of two cars every 20 minutes, and may then introduce the system on the Northern Pacific lines; the electric current will pass from a stationary engine to a central rail between the tracks and thence to a mechanism attached to the bottom of a passenger car, or to a motor drawing freight cars, returning through the wheels and side rails to the power house; three stationary engines of 10,000 or 12 000 horse power each will be able to drive the whole Pennsylvania railroad system between New York and Philadelphia; full speed by this system will be 200 miles an hour, and Edison feels sure that a speed of 100 miles would be practicable on a rock-ballasted track with 100-pound rails. All the one man, who will take the place of the present engineer and two firemen on fast trains, will have to do will be to keep a lookout and mind his brake; in the case of street cars the middle rail is abolished, the current passing along one rail to the motor and back through the other; a mile of track for this system could be laid in one night, under pressure; Mr. Villard will soon have a track for demonstration ready in the neighbourhood of New York; waggon wheels will not distract the current because they are made of wood, and the low pressure to be used will not be felt by a horse or human being. Truly a very remarkable man is Mr. Edison. He is now engaged in getting iron ore out of the rock abandoned iron mines in New Jersey with his magnetic separator. He says he will get millions of tons of ore out of supposedly exhausted mines.

SLEEP'S LULLABY.

Dear Sleep, thou art my mercifullest friend,
When, tired of all, nightly I come to thee,
Thou art so patient and so good to me.
How gently do thy faithful hands extend
The old sweet welcome, motherly, and mend
My broken toys of hope, while at thy knee
I quite forget the hurtful things to be.
And when I feel thee touch my brow and bend
To kiss mine eyes, I love to put my hand
Into thine own—to feel that thou art near;
To nestle closely to thy peaceful breast,
And hear thy lullaby about that land
Sung of so softly, where there is no tear,
And where the weary are for aye at rest.

THAT DREADFUL NIGHT.

It was not until she was near the end of her journey that Elsie King began to feel frightened. At first she had liked the sensation of rushing along through scenery which was entirely new, and it was pleasant to feel that the smoke and fogs of London were left behind. Then, too, she was filled with the importance of her mission to her unknown relative at Broomside, and was busily composing her little speeches and preparing herself for her first meeting with Uncle Mark Thurstone. He was the eldest brother of her mother; but Elsie had never seen him. Mark Thurstone had not borne any good will to Captain King, who had taken away his pet sister and plunged her into poverty and sorrow. But now that the luckless captain, having done with the army was lying miserably ill in London lodgings, Mark's tough heart had begun to show signs of softening. After all, King had been as unfortunate as it was possible for men to be; Elsie's letter to "Uncle Mark" was very touching, and Elsie's mother had not broken every tie that bound her to the old farm among the hills. So Mark had written a brief note, inclosing something for pressing needs and inviting Elsie to pay him a visit at once.

It was not a good time of the year for traveling, being late in November, but Elsie had been helping in the sick-room, and change of air was desirable. So she had written to Uncle Mark by return of post and gratefully accepted his invitation.

After her last traveling companion had got out Elsie had begun to notice that the country was changing. Dusk was coming on; gray hills heaved up against the horizon; gray fields stretched away into vast tracts of moorland. Presently her eyes closed, and when she opened them again the twilight had deepened and darkened; splashes of rain smote the windows, and lights were gleaming faintly through a thick mist. The train was slackening speed and running into a station.

Stiff with long sitting and half bewildered with uneasy sleep, she began to tremble from head to foot. The train stopped; a harsh voice shouted "Moore Edge," and in another moment she was out upon the platform. Gathering her faculties and resolutely pulling herself together she claimed her small box, and then asked if any one had come to meet Miss King. Yes, a carriage was waiting outside the station.

Rain, wind and darkness filled the air; nevertheless Elsie dimly discerned a brougham and got into it without the least hesitation. The door was shut and she leaned back in the comfortable conveyance, rather inclined to wonder at Uncle Mark for sending such a vehicle. Her mother had represented him as a plain, old-fashioned farmer, little disposed to march with the times, and priding himself on unpretentiousness. He must, she thought, have forsaken the humble paths of his forefathers at last.

The drive was long enough to allow ample time for reflection. The roads were heavy, the night moisty; but once when the lonely traveler ventured to let down the window for a moment the rush of damp air was fresh and sweet. There was nothing to be seen, nothing to be heard but the roll of the carriage wheels, and Elsie was just wondering how much longer this monotonous rumble would last when it stopped short. A gate was opened by some invisible hand; there was a gleam of cheerful brightness from a lodge window, and she found that she was approaching a house which seemed to be hemmed in by great trees.

Mrs. King had often described the farm at Broomside, and had always spoken of it as standing alone in an open country, where not a tree was to be seen. But it was not easy to recall her descriptions now, at the close of a long day and when one was feeling thoroughly tired and rather nervous. Almost mechanically Elsie passed through a low doorway and found herself in a great dim hall floored with stone. A dreary man servant respectfully desired her to follow him and led the way through a long gallery and two large empty rooms which had a vaultlike smell and suggested cheerless ideas of space and solitude.

He stopped at length before a closed door, threw it open, announced in a sepulchral tone—"Miss King"—and stood aside that she might enter. Her heart sank within her and her tongue clove to the roof of her mouth, but she thought of the dear ones at home and went in.

An old man, sitting in a warm glow of firelight, looked up as she approached, and shaded his eyes with his hand. He was so ancient, and wrinkled, and bent that Elsie almost started at the sight of him. She had pictured Uncle Mark as hale and rosy in spite of time; but this man had nothing of the farmer in his aspect, and seemed as if he had always been an invalid. Timidly and silently she drew near, and then the claw like fingers held hers for a moment.

"How do you, my dear," said a grating old voice. "Denzil, come here, what are you hiding for? Here she is. My dear, this is your Cousin Denzil."

As if to complete poor Elsie's discomfort and bewilderment an ill-favored young man stepped out from behind a screen and gave her a sullen greeting. The great room was dimly lit by an oil lamp, standing on a table in a corner; but the blazing fire revealed the forbidding face and gleaming eyes of this strange cousin. How was it that Elsie had never heard of him before? She had always been told that Uncle Mark was a widower without children. And there was something in Denzil that she did not like—something that made her tremble and shiver. He had pale eyes, with an uncanny light in them; his hair and complexion were pale, too, and his shoulders were almost as high as his ears. He spoke no word of welcome; his glance seemed to express half-concealed hatred; it was plain to Elsie that he did not want her there.

"Eight o'clock; dinner time," said the old man, abruptly breaking a pause. "They'll show you to your room, my dear. Don't be long up-stairs, never mind about finery, I'm too old to care for it, and Denzil here will like you well enough without it! Eh, Denzil?"

As he touched the bell he gave a cackling laugh which called up a look of fury to his son's face. It was a great relief to poor Elsie when a maid appeared to answer the summons and conducted her to her room; but the girl appeared stolid and stupid, and performed her duties as if she has been made of wood. As to the room, it was large and dim, like all the apartments in that rambling old house, and the four-post bed was draped with hangings wrought with faded needle-work. Altogether the place was very unlike an old farm house, thought the nervous guest, as she took off hat and ulster and smoothed her hair with shaky fingers. How had Uncle Mark managed to accumulate such an extraordinary number of antique portraits? Every available bit of paneled wall was covered with a lady in a ruff or a gentleman in a coat of mail.

Still in hopeless bewilderment, she found herself seated at a table with these strange relatives of hers. Four wax candles in splendid old silver candlesticks lighted up the board and showed her the unprepossessing faces of her uncle and his son. They both looked at her, the old man searchingly and the young one furtively; and once or twice she fancied that the dreary butler regarded her with a puzzled air. What she ate and drank she scarcely knew; her spirit was so oppressed by the cold stateliness and gloom of her surroundings that she felt like one in a dream.

"You are not in the least like your mother," said the old man, at last. "I wonder how you came by your dark hair and eyes? Your parents were both fair."

Elsie gave a little start. Certainly Uncle Mark's memory had failed him, for she was as like her mother as it is possible for a daughter to be. Then, too, Captain King was not a fair man.

"Mamma has changed a good deal lately," she ventured to say, timidly. "But every one says I am like her."

"Nonsense." The old gentleman was testy. "I knew your mother before you did. Her eyes were as blue as a turquoise. A very pretty girl she was, too—not that you are wanting in charms, my dear—the world has never yet been able to decide between dark and fair beauties. Of you it may be said in truth:

And all that's best of dark and bright
Meet in her aspect and her eyes.

You don't read Byron, I suppose? I am an old man and so I may be allowed to quote him still. He is not quite as much in earnest as your Tennyson and Browning and Morris, but he knows how to describe a landscape and a lovely woman. Now I confess I don't care for the women of your newer poets. They are either too saintly or too fleshly. And the new novelists! Is the world really as vulgar as they depict it? Those stately moralists and courtly sinners whom Bulwer Lytton loved to delineate—are none of them left?"

Elsie was stricken dumb. From her earliest childhood she had heard that Uncle Mark was guiltless of any knowledge of literature; but this was not the talk of a man who never read anything but the Bible and agricultural journals. No doubt he thought her very stupid, for he, too, became silent. As to Denzil, he never opened his lips, but sat at the foot of the table looking as black as a thunder cloud.

"We keep early hours here," said the master of the house, waking suddenly from a deep reverie. "My dear, it is half-past 9, and that is my time for retiring. You are pale and tired after your long journey. I am surprised that your mother let you travel alone. Why didn't you bring a maid? Breakfast at 9. Good night."

"Good night, uncle," responded Elsie, thankful to escape even to the gloomy bedroom up-stairs. She wanted to be alone and to write a letter to her mother. Surely if Mrs. King had known that there was a Denzil Thurstone she would not have reckoned so confidently on any more help from Uncle Mark. It was clear, thought Elsie, that Denzil resented her coming, and suspected her of being sent to get money from his father. This was why he had sat and Preserving Wheel-Rims.

A. W. Colson, Iredell Co., North Carolina, sends us a sketch and description of the device illustrated herewith for oiling the fellees of a wagon wheel to prevent shrinkage. It is simply a narrow castiron trough with a concave bottom, of any desired curve, width, or length, supported on legs near each end. The trough is partly filled with oil, a small fire kindled under it, with due precautions to prevent igniting the oil. When the oil is sufficiently heated the rim of the wheel is immersed and slowly turned around as the heated oil penetrates the wood until the entire rim is treated. The advantages claimed for this device over a rectangular trough of galvanized iron are, it requires less oil, as it conforms more nearly to the curve of the wheel; being of castiron, it serves as a vessel in which to heat the oil, as well as to soak the fellees; it is more durable than galvanized iron, and no more costly. It is not patented.

Over a Century Old.

Many cases are known of persons living to be 100 years old and there is no good reason why this should not occur. By paying attention to the health by using Burdock Blood Bitters when necessary to purify the blood and strengthen the system much may be added to the comfort and happiness of life, even if the century mark is not attained. dw

It is a mistake to suppose that a remedy for constipation, stomach and liver troubles should be harsh or purging, as the great success of McGale's Butternut Pills fully prove. They are mild and natural in their action, prompt and effective in results, and are specially adapted to ladies, children, and persons of weak constitution. dw

A Popular Physician.

The popular physician is unassuming, pleasant and successful in treating disease. Such an one is Burdock Blood Bitters—unassuming—only a dollar per bottle — pleasant, agreeable in taste—successful in nine cases out of ten. In truth it may be said B.B.B. is the popular physician to the people, a tried and trusty friend in all diseases of the stomach, liver, bowels and blood. dw

His Family did not Know Him.

A Belleville man has for many been bent and crippled with a lame back, but after trying the OR, Kidney cure, he could walk like a boy again and his neighbors could hardly recognize him. This remedy is for sale by all druggists and the OR, Kidney Company, Belleville. dw

People Wonder

WHEN they find how rapidly health is restored by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. The reason is that this preparation contains only the purest and most powerful alteratives and tonics. To thousands yearly it proves a veritable elixir of life.

Mrs. Jos. Lake, Brockway Centre, Mich., writes: "Liver complaint and indigestion made my life a burden and came near ending my existence. For more than four years I suffered untold agony. I was reduced almost to a skeleton, and hardly had strength to drag myself about. All kinds of food distressed me, and only the most delicate could be digested at all. Within the time mentioned several physicians treated me without giving relief. Nothing that I took seemed to do any permanent good until I began the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which has produced wonderful results. Soon after commencing to take the Sarsaparilla I could see an in my condition, my appetite began to return and with it came the ability to digest all the food taken, my strength improved each day, and after a few months of faithful attention to your directions, I found myself a well woman, able to attend to all household duties. The medicine has given me a new lease of life, and I cannot thank you too much."

"We, the undersigned, citizens of Brockway Centre, Mich., hereby certify that the above statement, made by Mrs. Lake, is true in every particular and entitled to full credence."—O. P. Chamberlain, G. W. Waring, C. A. Wells, Druggist.

"My brother, in England, was, for a long time, unable to attend to his occupation, by reason of sores on his foot. I sent him Ayer's Almanac and the testimonials it contained induced him to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla. After using it a little while, he was cured, and is now a well man, working in a sugar mill at Brisbane, Queensland, Australia."—A. Attewell, Sharbot Lake, Ontario.

A WEEK AGO

"THE STAR" made the largest purchase of Overcoats ever made at one time in the history of the Clothing Trade—Over TWENTY THOUSAND DOLLARS' WORTH---the entire magnificent stock of one of the largest manufacturers of Fine Clothing in Canada. The owners of the goods were in Desperate Need of Ready Cash. We had it, and we got the stock AT OUR OWN PRICE. We placed about half our purchase on sale Monday morning, and to-day we place the balance of the stock on our tables. The last shipment included the Finest Goods. The first lots are all sold, and such scenes of excitement as have transpired during this sale never before occurred in a clothing store.

Customers stood in open-mouthed wonder at the wonderful values given. Many persons bought two and three Coats on account of their wonderful cheapness. Small Merchants have eagerly bought all we would sell them, our prices are so much lower than they could buy the same goods at wholesale.

The Overcoats are Simply Elegant, made of the Richest and Finest Fabrics and in the most "Correct" Style. "Schnabel's" Chinchillas and Beavers; "Carr's" Meltons, Eredon Kerseys, Fine Fancy Overcoatings and Shetlands, intended for Merchant Tailor's use. Many were intended to Wholesale at $15, $18 and $20. We bought them for less than the Raw Material Cost, and are selling for $8 and $10, garments worth two and three times the money.

"Eily" at the Opera House.

Sadie Scanlan as Eily will be one of the attractions at the Opera House on Wednesday, December 2nd. We clip from the Ottawa Citizen the following:—A tale of Irish life, without a shadow or the caricature or a vestige of the exaggeration which has brought the Irish drama into undoubted disrepute, describes in impartial terms the piece produced by Miss Sadie Scanlan and her company at the Grand Opera House last evening. The plethora of Irish plays strong in the opposite characteristics which have deluged the stage within the past few years, has left an impression upon the average play goer's mind approaching the nauseous, and to the prevalence of this sensation, aided by bad weather perhaps, must be attributed the comparative slimness of the house which greeted "Eily" last evening. Else had the reputation of W. J. Scanlan's talented sister and that of Fred Marsden, author of both the "Kerry Gow" and "Shaun Rhue," served to attract a larger audience. In face, figure and melodious brogue Miss Scanlan is the typical heroine she essays to represent, while her singing of favorite Irish ballads is smooth and sympathetic. In Mr. Nelson Compton as Andy O'Shiel; Mr. Charles Dade as Herbert Elstone, and Mr. Malcolm Bradley and Mr. Robert Fitzmorris as the Palgraves, Miss Scanlan is well supported. An impersonation, too, of more than usual merit is Miss Alice Gale's, Mrs. O'Shiel, the woman who sins and suffers. The character of Ulick O'Neil, Eily's lover, lacks forceful presentation in Mr. Brook's hands; but it must be remembered the standard of Irish comedy has been set by such men as Joseph Murphy and Dion Boucicault, so that nothing short of genius need expect a foothold on the pedestal of their fame. Besides an Irish play that is all Irish needs originality to lift it out of the rut, and the brilliancy of Marsden's dialogue is rather dimmed by the cloud of characters in "Eily" amongst whom its wealth of wit is distributed. It is, however, full of fresh, wholesome fun and, as has been said, is altogether free from that wretched caricature of peasant life that is doing its best to drive the Irish drama from the stage.

Address and Presentation.

Mr. Arthur Jolley Entertained by His Friends.—Speeding the Parting Guest.

The residence of Mr. R. J. Colville was the scene last evening of a bright and hearty social gathering. About 40 members of the Board of Directors and Reception Committee of the local Y.M.C.A. gathered to spend the evening with Mr. Arthur Jolley previous to his departure for Hamilton, where he has been called to fill the important position of Assistant Secretary to the large and flourishing Association of that city.

During the evening Mr. G. J. Early, president, on behalf of the Peterborough Association, presented the following address.

PETERBOROUGH Y.M.C.A. TO MR. ARTHUR JOLLEY.

DEAR FRIEND AND BROTHER,—We cannot permit the occasion of your removal from amongst us to pass without giving expression to our regard for you, our regret at losing you, and our appreciation of the valuable services rendered by you in connection with the work of this Association.

Your humble, consistent Christian walk and your diligent and self-sacrificing efforts in the Master's cause have been an example to all of us, and though you will be sorely missed, and your place be hard to fill, we rejoice for your sake that it has pleased Him to give you the command to go up higher.

We congratulate the Hamilton Association on your accession to them, and bespeak for you their kindliest consideration and highest regard. We pray that your services among them may be blessed of the Lord, as they have been here.

We now, in farewell, commend you to the Lord, and to the word of His grace.

"The Lord bless thee and keep thee. The Lord make His face shine upon thee and be gracious unto thee. The Lord lift up His countenance upon thee and give thee peace."

(Signed)
R. J. COLVILE, General Secretary. G. J. EARLY, President

COMMITTEE.—J. W. Bennett, Finance; Isaac Richardson, Devotional; George Gilchrist, Invitation; Albert J. Hamilton, Reception.

Peterborough, 12th Nov. 1891.

In presenting the address, Mr. Early testified to the influence for good Mr. Jolley's life and work had exercised amongst the Association members, and to the utility of his labors as short hand teacher, organist and chairman of the reception committee. He also congratulated him upon his call to the work of the Association. He felt that the Lord had blessed the Association here in selecting a labourer for His field from amongst its members.

Mr. Jolly briefly replied, thanking the members for their kind expressions of good will, and good wishes for the future. He could never forget the Peterborough Y.M.C.A., as it was here that he learned to love the Lord, and the slight services he had been able to render them had been both a pleasure and profit to himself. He had been only indifferent to the Association and its work when he first came to town, but the more he had learned of it, the more he enjoyed it, and he could cordially recommend it to all young men, particularly strangers.

Mr. R. J. Colville, the secretary, and other members also gave brief addresses, referring to the men who had already gone out into the work from Peterborough. F. J. Saunders, missionary in China, and W. Smart, now in New York preparing for mission work.

The meeting was concluded in the usual way by prayer and singing.

Police Court Paragraphs.

Nov. 25TH, 1891.

There was a large attendance at the police court this morning, when the boys, George Curtis, jr., John and Meason Comstock and Percy Brandrette, were brought up on remand, charged with larceny of deerskins. The accused pleaded not guilty, and being given the option of being tried at once or being remanded to the sessions, elected to be summarily dealt with. Mr. W. H. Wrighton, the prosecutor, gave evidence of the circumstances of the robbery, which were detailed in the EXAMINER of Monday, and Police Constable Stewart, who arrested the boys, and J. Paterson, who purchased the skins in the usual way of business, gave corroborative evidence. Mr. Brundrette, on behalf of the accused, made an earnest appeal to the court for clemency, drawing attention to the youthfulness and general good character of the boys.

The court having heard the evidence and weighed well the circumstances of the case, decided to reserve judgment until Wednesday next, Dec. 2nd, at 10 a.m., discharging all the lads except Curtis.

Lindsay Opera House.

"Grip" "Goes For it" in His Usual Modest Style.

Bengough writes up the Lindsay Opera House as follows:—"Here is an item for the Provincial Antiquarian Society. The opera house at Lindsay was built early in the century, after designs furnished by Chin Sing Foo, an eminent Chinese architect. This will account not only for its frowsy general appearance, but also for the, to us, curious arrangements of the seats, the reserved section, for the first families, being at the rear, and the "gallery" occupying all the front space. While interesting as an illustration of the Chinese methods of doing everything cart-before-horse, this plan is far from satisfactory to lecturers of the Caucasian race, who find it unpleasant to have in their immediate presence a rabble of boys, while the more intelligent and appreciative audience is almost invisible in the dim distance. Lindsay could afford to build a new hall, and have it arranged on modern, western-world principles, but for some reason—probably a mistaken veneration for that which is ancient—the town fathers won't hear of it." We invite Mr. Bengough to write up the management of our Opera House. Though little room remains for caricature—what a field for word painting. The Port Hope Opera House is in excellent one, but the management is very, very bad. —Port Hope Times. We in Peterborough are in another kind of a boat, the management of the Opera House is up to the mark but the house itself will not justify much boasting.

Ashburnham Board of Education.

A Short Session and Little Business.

At the meeting of the Ashburnham School Board held last night there were present Messrs. Wright, Adams, Glover, Calcutt, Ingram and Peck, the latter occupying the chair.

After routine five applications for positions on the teaching staff were considered. Miss Hamilton's application was withdrawn, she having secured the Tollgate school, North Monaghan, and Miss McCleary and Miss Lily Clark, appointed to the rooms of Miss Stevenson and Miss Bennet who have sent in their resignations.

The special committee appointed to see after the repairing and improvement of the school desks, reported, recommending that the tender of Mr R. Courtney, town, for the work be accepted, and their report was, on motion, adopted.

A few accounts were presented and payment of them ordered. The board then adjourned.

Non-Coms.' Class.

The opening meeting of the instruction classes in connection with the above was held last evening in the Collegiate Institute gymnasium. Only a moderate number of non-coms. were present, but a larger attendance is promised for the future meetings. The evening was spent reading over the alterations in the drill book, which are quite numerous, and other preliminary work. Actual instruction will not commence before next Tuesday, 1st Dec. Non-coms. of the 57th Battalion, take note.

Found Buried by a Blizzard.

Additional intelligence have been received respecting the son of Mr. Edgerton Walton, who, in a paragraph in yesterday's issue, was reported to be lost in a prairie blizzard, near Medicine Hat. A telegram received this morning states that the dead body of the poor boy had been found buried under the snow, and that a letter giving full particulars was on the way. The funeral takes place to-day. The lad, Harold, aged about 10 years, was the second son of Mr. Walton, whose many friends in this vicinity will sympathise deeply with him in the great bereavement that has befallen him, especially under the particularly painful circumstances.

Sun, Moon and Stars,

Nobody is so much engrossed in the things of this world as not to look occasionally into the sky with wonder and admiration—admiration of the beauty and sublime majesty of the multitude of worlds as they roll on their harmonious way, of the infinite range of the Creator's power, and wonder as to their conditions, their distance from us and their reason for being. To-night, in the opera house, we are to have explained much that we have been thinking about, and a great deal more that has not yet come under our notice. Mrs. Proctor makes her lectures simple, clear and forcible. They are illustrated by a powerful oxy-ether stereopticon. The views are fine. The lecture can't be dry. The information to be given is such that every person ought to know in this nineteenth century. The admission is put within the reach of all. There is no excuse for not knowing more about the wonders of creation. The more we know about the work of God, the broader are our views of Him. Is 25 cents to be a bar to this greater insight? And then your presence will assist a young Literary Society in purchasing an instrument without which they cannot carry on their work successfully. Go to night. Tickets may be purchased at the opera house door..

"Army" Missionary Work in India.

Johangir Tells How it is Done—A Patch of India Transplanted to the Barracks—A Large Audience—An Interesting Address.

The jungles, forests and "coral strands" of India were strikingly suggested by the appearance of the Salvation Army Barracks last evening, which had been decorated profusely in order to resemble as near as possible a Hindoo village. In the centre of the platform was a hut built after the fashion of the mud huts in vogue in India, while on each side were fir trees. The windows and interior of the hall being hung with mottoes, growing plants, etc., altogether giving one, with a little stretch of the imagination, a fair idea of what a Hindoo village is like.

The occasion of this decoration and display was the fact of Johangir, a returned Salvation Army missionary, from India giving a sketch of his work there and an exhibition of native songs, etc., assisted by the hallelujah lads and lasses of the Peterborough corps, some of whom were on the platform attired in the picturesque Oriental custom, including the indispensable turban, with which article they were well supplied. Johangir, it may be said, is not a Hindoo, but a native of Hamilton, Canada, who was sent out, together with nineteen others, in order to preach the Gospel to the natives of India. He received the distinctive name of Johangir, meaning "Conqueror of the World," after reaching India, as it is customary for the Hindoos to bear names of this character. Johangir returned to Canada some eighteen months ago, being ordered to leave India on account of being attacked with cholera, caught in the jungles of Ghoogerat. Since returning he has been giving sketches of his work in India in the various towns and cities in Canada under the auspices of the Salvation Army.

A large and most attentive audience attended to hear Johangir speak, and after the usual preliminary services had been gone through, the missionary was called upon to give his address. His first field of labour was in Bombay, where he spent six months amongst the Mahrattas, after which he was transferred to the jungles of Ghoogerat. During his work both in this place and in Bombay he made himself as one of the natives themselves, going about barefooted and in native costume, having to beg his food from door to door. Such a course as this has been rendered necessary, owing to the suspicion with which the Hindoos regard the white men, some of whom have behaved in a cruel way to the natives. They cannot understand why the white men should be so anxious for them to lead good lives and become Christians when it is the white men themselves who have taught the poor ignorant natives how to steal and lie and the use of alcoholic liquors. Part of the work of these schooled missionaries is to teach the natives that all white men are not Christians, and to make themselves just as the Hindoos themselves are, living and dressing in the same manner, having Hindoo names and occupying the same kind of huts. If the heathen are to be brought to the fold of Christ, the missionaries must show their zeal and earnestness in their lives. Not only preaching is wanted but example.

The missionary then spoke of the work amongst the native women of India, which was much more difficult than the work amongst men, owing to the seclusion in which they are kept and the cruel treatment to which they are subjected. They are looked upon as being no better than the cattle of the field, and are made to perform most of the manual labour that is required in the fields, etc., whilst their husbands watch them. Touching instances were given of natives who, having been converted through the means of the missionaries, undergoing great persecution rather than give up their faith in Christ.

Reference was also made to the practice of the natives in their ignorance, agonizing and torturing themselves, and mothers sacrificing their children by throwing them before crocodiles or into the sacred waters of the Ganges, and the people themselves committing suicide by casting themselves under the wheels of the car of Juggernaut at the annual feast, these being acts of propitiation performed by the poor natives in order to win the good will and help of their idol gods.

In spite of all the opposition met with, however, both from the natives themselves and the heathen priests, the gospel of Christ is surely spreading throughout the different parts of India. In conclusion Johangir made an earnest appeal to all present who had not become Christians, although enjoying greater privileges than the poor Hindoo, to begin at once serving Christ.

The speaker was listened to with great attention and the audience appeared to be greatly impressed by the address given by Johangir. The meeting was interspersed with selections by the band, songs in Hindustanee by the missionary and short testimonies by the members.

Resolution of Condolence.

A Tribute to the Memory of James Noble.

At the regular meeting of the Young Canadian L. O. L. No. 49, held on the evening of Nov. 5th, 1891, the resolution of condolence given below was passed and copies ordered to be sent to the family of the deceased, to the Orange Sentinel and to the local papers:

Moved by Bro. Robert Weir, and seconded by Bro. William Croft, and unanimously resolved,—That we, the members of the Young Canadian Loyal Orange Lodge, No. 49, desire to extend to you our sincere and heartfelt sympathy in the sad loss of a loving husband and devoted father, Bro. James Noble, who departed this life on 20th Oct., 1891, after a lingering illness. In obedience to the mandate of the Grand Master our brother has been summonded to appear in the Grand Lodge above, but we rejoice to know that he was a true Orangeman, a brother who faithfully and kindly fulfilled his duty as secretary to this Lodge, which office he held at the time of his demise. He was held in high esteem and and tender regard by every one who had the the pleasure of his acquaintance, and the brethern cannot allow this visitation to pass without tendering a formal expression of our sense of deprivation which we in common with our departed brother's relatives and friends, have felt. Although we shall miss him in our social gatherings, yet his memory will ever been green in our hearts. Again we assure you of our participation in your affliction and our sympathy with you in your great loss. May He who quieted the troubled waters, send peace and consolation to your sorrowing hearts and be a husband to the widow and a father to the fatherless.

Signed on behalf of the lodge.

THE WOMAN'S KINGDOM.

ONE PHASE OF DRESS REFORM THAT IS VERY DESIRABLE.

Unwholesome-Looking Cooks to be Transformed into Objects of Neatness and Order—Where Feminine Finery is Out of Place—A Sensible Word to Domestics.

A woman may dress a turkey better than she can dress her person; she may blend harmoniously into a sauce divers flavors, and out of simple elements evolve triumphs of culinary good taste in every sense of the phrase, and yet be herself a dismal, unwholesome-looking object while engaged in the daily routine of duties. It seems to be an article of belief with many cooks that personal neglect and a general air of untidiness are outward and visible signs of great culinary skill, the possessor of which talent is by them deemed exempt from the laws of neatness and order.

Their ideas on the subject of dress, however, are by no means lacking in definiteness, but unfortunately they are confined to the elaboration of toilettes for high days and holidays, and the natural womanly wish to look well is perverted into a desire for finery as unsuitable as it is flimsy and flashy. Wages are freely spent on imitation splendors, and arrayed in sleazy silk or satin, glittering with jet, the head crowned with the very latest style of hat, the young woman sallies forth with the proud conviction that she is "quite the thing."

In some such garb as this she often applies for a situation, never dreaming that she thereby imperils her chances of obtaining a good home, so much does her attire repel the sensible housekeeper, who, by repeated experience, has learned that finery covers a multitude of sins of omission, and that almost certainly there is scarcely a decent change of under-clothing or a whole calico gown among the belongings of the gayly dressed applicant.

There are exceptions, of course, and memory dwells fondly on the merits of an excellent cook who joined to her skill the rare virtue of appropriate, even tasteful, dressing while she was officially engaged. The neat print gown, the glossy hair and bright face, and the cheerful readiness to do her very best, made visits to the kitchen most attractive, and it was easy to overlook the want of taste and judgment which governed her choice of Sunday toilettes.

In the good old times—of which one constantly hears—domestic servants had neither the temptation nor the opportunity to indulge in fine dress, but so long as cheap copies of all the fashionable goods are obtainable, so long probably will wages be squandered in the vain hope of looking as well as the best. It is their own money, they have earned it, and have the right to spend it as they choose, and this is a free country, etc., etc.

But if these women could be brought to see how greatly they would rise in the esteem of their employers, how much more likely they are to be "healthy, wealthy and wise," if they would buy and wear constantly only neat boots and substantial suitable garments, they might possibly, without detriment to their dependence, adopt the more excellent way.—Harper's Bazar.

A Working Empress.

What is the use of being an Empress? The consort of the German Emperor rises at 5 o'clock in the morning and has accomplished half a day's work before half the women who are not queens are out of bed. No wife of the present cycle is supposed to look after her husband's linen. She is too busy with studying Browning and political economy. But the faithful Kaiserin has personal charge of the linen belonging to her royal spouse, and the honor of sewing on a button or putting a few stitches in an imperial sock is one rarely coveted by the maids of honor. When one remembers that this august personage travels with twenty-two tin cases containing his wearing apparel, cocked hats, helmets, and uniforms, and reflects upon the amount of linen required, it may be inferred that this care of the linen is no easy task. One servant has charge of the headgear, another menial of the boots, the wife of the royal shirts.

And what is this Empress of Germany doing just now when the average wife has sent her children to their grandmother or has left them in charge of maids while she dances from one delight to another? The Empress is at Felixstowe with her five boys, teaching them, or at least all of them that can navigate the noble art of swimming, at which she is an expert.

This gracious lady is not exactly beautiful, being a little overstout, but she has one rare charm—the most beautiful arms in the world. At least that is what the Emperor says.

Australian Women's Bright Outlook.

The woman's cause in Australia has an exceeding bright outlook. In all the public schools girls enjoy the same advantages as boys, and the young womanhood of the country is said to be remarkably well educated, and, so far as newspapers are concerned, very well read in the tropics of the times. In all the universities, except at Melbourne, women and men are absolutely equal. There are at present 100 women graduates at the University of New Zealand, eighty at Sydney, as many at Melbourne, and thirty at Adelaide. It is hazarded that the women equal if they do not outnumber the men. The Premier of the country is in favor of giving women the franchise, and the cause has the support of a considerable portion of the press. Most interesting is the fact that while there are opponents of the bill concerning the woman's franchise in the Legislature, no member will risk the unpopularity of allowing his name to appear in the division list among the "noes" choosing rather the less courageous plan of not voting at all. This is equivalent to voting against the measure, because in the Victoria Legislature no bill can pass into a law without a majority of the whole House. Another interesting and suggestive fact is that in no country of the world is the percentage of unmarried women smaller than Australia.

An Experienced Girl.

My beau is improving, said beautiful May,
He used to ask for "just one,"
And he took it in such an awkward way
I was glad when the act was done.

But now when he asks for one, you know,
He is just like other men.
For he doesn't make an attempt to go
Until he's had nine or ten.

Chil

A Fisherman's Perplexity.

He sat in the hotel office all by himself, apparently in the brownest kind of a brown study, and he did not respond for several moments after a friend had taken a chair by his side and slapped him on the leg. When he did speak, he said:

"Ever happen to go along the river where the wholesale fish dealers are?"

"Oh, yes, lots of times," answered the other man.

"You've seen these fish cars there? Hold a ton apiece, don't they?"

"Moren'n that, some of 'em."

"How many of those cars do you suppose come into Detroit every day full of fish?"

"Oh, there's probably fifty. I don't know but more."

That's a hundred thousand pounds of fish."

"Yes."

"Whew! Toledo has 'em the same way, eh?"

"Yes, and Cleveland and Buffalo and Erie and Sandusky—Sandusky has more'n all the rest—and Milwaukee gets 'em and Chicago. Why, good gracious, they come into every town on the lakes.

"Millions and millions and millions of pounds of fish. All kinds of fish, too, I s'pose."

"Yes, all kinds."

"Does seem as if the water must fairly swarm with 'em, doesn't it?"

"Then how is it"—the thoughtful man straightened up and shifted round so as to look the other man square in the face—"How is it that I go out fishing, sit all day from the first streak o' dawn till the evening shadows fall, and catch just one three-pound bass? Yes, and by thunder, get called a liar when I tell of that! How is it, I say?"

He continued to glare at the other man for a moment, but receiving no answer, he lit a cigar and relapsed into a brown study.—Detroit Free Press.

Her Great Objection to the City.

She was a fresh-looking young country girl, with rosy cheeks and sparkling eyes, and had come to visit her city relatives. She took a stroll around the neighborhood and when she returned to the house she seemed troubled.

"I guess I'll go home to-morrow," she said.

"What's the matter? Don't you like the city?" asked her city cousin.

"No, I don't," she said with decision.

"Do you miss the green fields?" queried the city cousin.

"O, no; it's not that," said the country girl.

"The noise of the streets troubles you, I suppose," suggested the city cousin.

"I don't mind it at all," returned the country girl.

"Of course the air is not so pure and the soot ruins everything," admitted the city cousin.

"O, I don't care about that," said the country girl. "And the cable cars don't frighten me, and I don't get bewildered by the crowds, but I haven't seen a front gate to swing on moonlight nights since I've been here. How in the world do you city girls ever get married?"—Chicago Tribune.

Hints for Housekeepers.

While fresh vegetables are in the market, cream soups or purees are the daintiest things one can serve from lunch. The trimmings from steaks and bones left from roasts always furnish ample material for stock, and this, in connection with vegetables, make most inexpensive purees. The remains of fresh fruit even different kinds, may be made over into dumplings, or boiled puddings, or escallops for lunch.

Children should not be bathed immediately after rising in the morning, and they should not be allowed to rush from the breakfast-table to the beach and get into the water as soon as they can. Very few children should be given a full bath in the morning. They may be sponged over quickly and then rubbed fairly dry; but as for plunging a child into water, even lukewarm, and soaking, the practice must soon prove injurious to the little one's health.

The Sheep Problem.

Three breeds of sheep and their crosses appear to stand out prominently for mutton and wool—the South Down, Merino, and Horned Dorsets. The Shropshires and Lincolns have their admirers. They are all good in their places. What the farmer wants to find out is which is best in his locality and on his particular farm.

"German Syrup"

Croup. We have selected two or three lines from letters freshly received from parents who have given German Syrup to their children in the emergencies of Croup. You will credit these, because they come from good, substantial people, happy in finding what so many families lack—a medicine containing no evil drug, which mother can administer with confidence to the little ones in their most critical hours, safe and sure that it will carry them through.

ED. L. WILLITS, of Alma, Neb. I give it to my children when troubled with Croup and never saw any preperation act like it. It is simply miraculous.

MRS. JAS. W. KIRK, Daughters' College, Harrodsburg, Ky. I have depended upon it in attacks of Croup with my little daughter, and find it an invaluable remedy.

Fully one-half of our customers are mothers who use Boschee's German Syrup among their children. A medicine to be successful with the little folks must be a treatment for the sudden and terrible foes of childhood, whooping cough, croup, diphtheria and the dangerous inflammations of delicate throats and lungs. ●

The Girl To Be Avoided.

She is the girl who takes you off in one corner and tells you things that you wouldn't repeat to your mother.

She is the girl who is anxious to have you join a party, which is to be "a dead secret"; and at which, because people are very free and easy, you are uncomfortable and wish you were at home.

She is the girl who tries to induce you, "just for fun," to smoke a cigarette, or to take a glass of wine, and you don't know, and possibly she doesn't, that many of the sinners of to-day committed their first sins "just for fun."

She is the girl who persuades you that to stay at home and care and love your own, to help mother and to have your pleasures at home and where the home people can see them, is stupid and tiresome; and that spending the afternoon walking up and down the street, looking at the windows and the people, is "just delightful."

She is the girl who persuades you that slang is witty, that a loud dress that attracts attention is "stylish," and that your own simple gowns are dowdy and undesirable. She doesn't know, nor do you, how many women have gone to destruction because of their love for fine clothes.

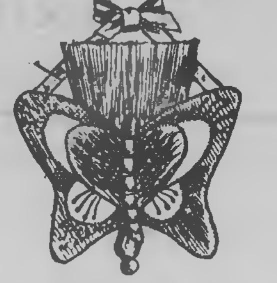
She is the girl who persuades you that to be on very familiar terms with three or four young men is an evidence of your charms and fascination, instead of being, as it is, an outward visible sign of your perfect folly.

She is the girl who persuades you that it is a very smart thing to be referred to as "a gay girl." She is very, very much mistaken.

And of all others she is the girl who, no matter how hard she may try to make you believe in her, is the girl to be avoided.—Ladies' Home Journal.

Butterfly Broom Case.

Harmonious shades of plush should be used for this, all the edges being worked with a button-hole stitch. Fancy stitching with the same silk should be inserted upon the leaves, as shown in the engraving. The long roll corresponding to the body of the butterfly is of plush, stuffed with cotton, and crossed five or six times with silk drawn tightly around it. The various pieces of plush should be lined with silk or satin, and a broad band placed across the back and stitched to the edges of the plush to hold the broom.



A CASE FOR A CLOTHES BRUSH.

Creamed Onions.

Cut nice onions in halves and boil in water ten minutes, then turn off the water and boil in milk and water, having it hot to begin with, until the onions are done. Drain and pour over them one cupful of nice rich milk with seasoning of butter, salt and pepper and use a very little corn starch wet with milk for thickening if you like it so. Let it boil up enough to cook the corn starch and send very hot to the table.

Tobacco and Liquors Run the Government

The new administration may meet the new Congress on December, 1893, with a report rendered by the Secretary of the Treasury somewhat as follows: The income derived by the treasury from taxes and duties upon liquors and tobacco is now sufficient to cover all the normal expenses of the government, including the army and the navy, and in addition thereto the interest upon the public debt.

It will be incumbent upon Congress, therefore, to make suitable provision only for the amount of revenue which may be necessary to pay pensions, and to contribute to the sinking fund for the ultimate redemption of the public debt, according to law.—Edward Atkinson in the September Forum.

The Golden Future for Authors.

It seems probable that, with the application throughout all the states of the world of the principle and the practice of international copyright, the returns to the authors, at least to those producing books that are wanted by the community (and by more than one community), must be very much increased. The author should be able, while asking from each reader but a trifling payment, to secure from his constantly increasing circles of readers throughout the civilized world indefinitely increasing returns, and there seems to be no reason, therefore, why the author of the near future (that is, the effective author) may not look forward to the "potentiality of wealth beyond the dreams of avarice."

The Millionaire's Daughter at School.

Even in schools that refuse to accept girls unless there is a reasonable chance of their getting through the year, it is not unusual for one third to be entered by their parents with the warning that their daughters are delicate and will need special consideration and watching—a warning in all probability followed by the request that they shall not be "bothered with mathematics." These weakly ones, if their mothers leave them alone, and if they themselves become interested in their work, by dint of three or four extra hours for rest and exercise, manage to hold out through the year, and frequently end it in improved health. But unless these two conditions are fulfilled they often fall by the way. Nervousness, backache, weakness, loss of appetite, generally follow soon upon the realization that school means work. A hard lesson to be mastered lays a girl low with a headache or dissolve her in floods of tears. Tears, indeed, especially during the first part of the year, are of daily downfall. Tears bedew knotty problems, tears greet the refusal to allow boxes of candy, tears fall copiously when overshoes are insisted upon and when short fur capes are declared insufficient covering for zero weather. Moreover, let the fun run a bit too high, or a mischievous boy tap on the window in the evening, or a mouse suddenly appear, and only a dose of plain English and the valerian bottle prevent an epidemic of hysterics.

Sunset in the Alps.

It had been a day of excitement and fatigue, and it was a luxury to rest upon the bench in front of the house where we were stopping, and listen to the sweet-faced old woman, our hostess, who was knitting by the door and trying to talk to us, writes Mary J. Holmes, the novelist, in the September Ladies' Home Journal. The streets were full of people, thousands of them who had come to see the play and were now going home. The high and the low, the rich and the poor, Americans and English, Germans and French, jostling against each other, and anxious to get away; the titled lady in silk and satin, whose destination was Munich or Innspruck, and the lowly peasant woman in her cotton gown and wooden shoes, who thought nothing of a walk of sixteen miles which must be accomplished before she reached her home far up among the Tyrolese hills. On Mt. Kofel, where the huge cross was standing, the sun was still shining with a brightness which the old woman pointed out, with the words, "See the glory showing."

And truly, it was a glory which that sunset threw over all the fir-clad sides of the mountains; and when the red disk disappeared behind a tall gray peak, and the purple shadows began to creep across the river and the valley and up to the heights where a few white, misty clouds were floating, it was easy to understand why to the superstitious fancy of the woman there was in every cloud an angel's face come to view the scene of the great tragedy, and to keep watch over the tomb which, to her, was more really in Oberammergau than in Jerusalem. How the colors deepened and changed as the daylight faded, until, at last, there were only a few bars of crimson and gold marking the spot where the sun went down. Then suddenly, on the opposite side of the valley, where the jagged peaks were piled high above each other, there came a luminous light like that which heralds a fire, except that it was soft and silvery, and the rocks and trees and hills grew white and ghostly as the moon rose higher and higher in the heavens and brought into greater distinctness the little town with its humble, low-roofed houses, nearly each one of which held an actor, who was either sleeping quietly after the day's excitement or praying for grace and strength for the morrow, when the work must begin again.

"'Tis like where He has gone," the old woman cried, dropping her knitting, and folding her hands reverently as the moonlight fell upon her upturned face, while I wondered if the city which needs no sun by day nor moon by night, could be fairer than this scene on which I was gazing.

"Aren't you ever going to grow old, like the rest of us?" asked a man of an acquaintance he hadn't seen for some time. "Well, not so long as I can purify my blood with Ayer's Sarsaparilla," was the apt reply. This man knew what he was talking about.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

A NAPANEE GIRL'S ROMANTIC MARRIAGE.

She Was Engaged to a Wealthy Detroiter But Joined Fortunes With an Old Flame—A Priest's Death—Sad Death of Two Hamilton People.

NAPANEE, Nov. 25.—Miss Edna Percy, a very pretty and accomplished resident of this place, daughter of the late John Percy of Ernestown, has been in Detroit for some months taking instructions in music and was engaged to be married to a wealthy gentleman of that city named Gould. She returned home two or three weeks ago and arranged to leave for Detroit last evening for the wedding, accompanied by her brother, Mr. E. Percy of Newburg, and her brother-in-law, Dr. Cowan, of this place. Mr. Fullerton, one of the best known of the young business men here, it seems, was an old admirer. Being a good staunch Tory he is decidedly opposed to annexation, and especially that particular annexation. He evidently found all his old flame revive and hers kindle. Yesterday about 3 o'clock they drove quietly to Deseronto, accompanied by a Napanee lady and gentleman, and were married. Dr. Cronin and Mr. Percy were at the station with necessary tickets and baggage checked for Detroit and remained until past train time, when they were informed of facts regarding an entire change of program for life. Mr. Fullerton and Miss Percy have long been well known and very popular here and are highly respected.

THE LIEUT.-GOV. ILL.

A Victim of Paralysis—Quite Unable to Move.

TORONTO, Nov. 25.—Sir Alexander Campbell, Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, has been confined to the his bed for the past few days with a stroke of paralysis, though so quiet was the matter kept that it was not until to-day that the news became public. There was a rumor on the street this morning to the effect that the Lieutenant-Governor was at the point of death, but although he is quite unable to move, still there is no immediate cause for fear. Dr. Grasett, who is Sir Alexander's physician, said: Sir Alexander Campbell was feeling a little poorly for a few days previous to last Wednesday. On Wednesday last, in the afternoon, about 4 o'clock, while sitting in his library he was seized with paralysis of sensation and partly of motion in the right leg, and it was found necessary to remove him to his room and summon medical assistance. The stroke has confined him to his bed since, but his general health, as far as eating and sleeping go, is not much impaired. He slept well last night and when I made a visit this morning he seemed very bright and cheerful. Of course it is an uncomfortable symptom to be seen in a man of Sir Alexander's age, but I do not think there is any immediate danger.

The news of his sudden illness saddened many a heart in Toronto this morning among the hosts of friends of the Lieutenant-Governor. He is 69 years of age, but is still a hearty and hale man, and has been closely connected with Canadian public affairs for the past 35 years.

BOTH DEAD IN A WEEK.

Mrs. Church Died on the Day of Her Husband's Funeral.

HAMILTON, Nov. 25.—Yesterday announcement was made of the death last Saturday of Henry Church of 119 Bay-street north. He was buried yesterday afternoon. When the mourners returned to the house they were met with the sad news that Mrs. Church had become much worse and was fast following her husband into the silent land. Half an hour after she breathed her last. It is supposed that the shock of her husband's death hastened Mrs. Church's end. She was 62 years of age and leaves a family of five children, all of whom are now grown up.

MANSLAUGHTER IN HASTINGS.

An Old Man Arrested for Causing the Death of a Trenton Lad.

BELLEVILLE, Nov. 25.—Daniel Mountenay, an old man residing in Trenton, was arrested there last night charged with manslaughter in killing a boy named Thomas Courtney. It is stated that on Sunday night, Nov. 8, Mountenay was walking on the street carrying a bag containing dishes when the boy kicked the bag and broke some of the crockery. Mountenay knocked the boy down and kicked him three times in the stomach. The boy took to his bed on the following day and died last night.

Charged to Padlewski.

BERLIN, Nov. 24.—The Cologne Gazette has received from its St. Petersburg correspondent a well-founded report which implicates Padlewski, who assassinated Gen. Seliverskoff in Paris in 1890, in another great crime. The report states that it was Padlewski, disguised as a cook and riding in the kitchen car, who threw the bomb which caused the disaster to the Czar's train at Borkia a few years ago.

Two European Suicides.

VIENNA, Nov. 25.—Herr Krapf von Liverhof, secretary of the Austrian legation at Washington, who has been staying here on leave, attempted suicide Monday by shooting himself with a revolver. He is now in a dying condition.

LIVERPOOL, Nov. 25.—G. B. Taylor, a noted merchant here, committed suicide Tuesday by shooting himself with a revolver.

THE CONSPIRACY CASES

M'GREEVY, CONNOLLY AND PARTNERS ON TRIAL.

What Became of the Books of the Firm?—Osler Proposed to Tell What Was in Them, but Was Ruled Out—The Evidence of the Session.

OTTAWA, Nov. 25—The case against Hon. Thomas McGreevy and Larkin, Connolly & Co. for conspiracy and false pretences was opened here again to-day before Judge Ross. The whole forenoon was occupied with the examination of Martin P. Connolly, bookkeeper of the firm. His evidence in regard to the books was that he saw them last on Nov. 2, at the Court House, Quebec. There was one of the two trunks containing them there now, but there were no books in it and the other trunk was gone. Cloney, who had charge of the books, was now in New York. The witness was with Cloney for a few days in Buffalo just at the time he was wanted in the first instance before the court.

There was little new in the evidence produced, beyond what already had been established before the Committee on Privileges and Elections. As the books of the firm could not be produced the judge decided to allow secondary evidence to be taken, but he was of opinion that the Connollys were responsible for the production of the books.

In the afternoon James Jennings, engineer, who reported to the Privileges and Elections Committee on the crosswall contract, identified the contracts produced. Witness identified schedules produced and explained his mode of working in arriving at the lowest tender. He identified the report put in as his. He found that Peters & Moore's tender was the lowest. After alterations in figures the final estimate gave Larkin-Connolly's tender as second highest.

Cross-examined by Mr. Fitzpatrick, witness identified the first plans produced as the original plans. He received information to ground his calculations on from the Public Works Department. Tenderer could do the same. The plans produced bore no trace of ever having been approved of by the Governor-in-Council. He saw no reason to suspect fraud in manipulating tenders, but all had not been moneyed out on the same basis. Had that been done Larkin-Connolly's would have been the lowest tender by $26,890.

George Beaucage, contractor, said he tendered for the crosswall. Robert McGreevy helped him in his tender and Lanson put up the money. He posted his tender and received a letter from the Public Works department, asking if he was not in error. He went to Robert McGreevy, who wanted to buy the tender for $5000. Witness signed a letter in blank and left it with Robert McGreevy to post.

Court rose till to-morrow.

The High Constable After Them.

QUEBEC, Nov. 24.—Warrants were issued this afternoon against Messrs. Richard White of The Gazette and Mr. J. P. Whelan, contractor, of Montreal, in connection with the alleged libellous articles. High Constable Gale leaves to-night for Montreal to arrest the above named gentlemen.

LOYAL TO THE QUEEN.

An Annexation Meeting at Woodstock With a Single Supporter.

WOODSTOCK, Nov 25.—A meeting to discuss the future destiny of Canada was held in the Canton Hall yesterday, about 500 being present.

Mr. James Anderson was chairman and Mr. Fred Mitchell of Innerkip secretary.

The principal speaker was Mr. Solomon White of Windsor, who advocated annexation to the United States.

A letter from Mr. Goldwin Smith was read, regretting that he could not be present, in which he attacked the trade policy of the Government.

The other speakers were William Stewart, Dr. McMullen, James Sutherland, M.P., John White and John M. Grant, all of whom opposed Sol. and declared in favor of remaining distinct from the United States.

On motion of M. Freeman, seconded by H. B. Beard, Q.C., this resolution was presented:

Resolved, That the people of Oxford of all parties are deeply attached to their beloved sovereign, the Queen of Great Britain;

That they proudly recognize the whole British Empire as their country and rejoice that Canada is part of that empire;

That Canadians have the most friendly feeling towards the people of the United States and desire the extension of our trade relations with them;

That while differing amongst ourselves as to the extent of the reciprocity to be [illegible] or agreed to, we repudiate any suggestion that in order to accomplish this object Canadians should change their allegiance or consent to the surrender of the Dominion to any foreign power by annexation, political or otherwise.

The resolution was carried, about two-thirds voting in favor of and the other third against, but at that time the hall had become somewhat depleted, a great many having left the building.

Good order prevailed and Mr. White was accorded a fair hearing, he being the only speaker that advocated annexation.

Precautions Against Smallpox.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—At the request of the Governor of Michigan and on the recommendation of the surgeon-general of the Marine Hospital service Assistant Secretary Nottleton Tuesday directed the assignment of medical inspectors at Detroit and Port Huron to board and inspect trains coming from Canada.

The Archbishop Fined.

PARIS, Nov. 25.—The trial of Mgr. Gouthe Soulard, Archbishop of Aix, took place to-day before the first division of the Court of Appeals. The Clerk of the Court read the charge against the prelate. When the reading was concluded the archbishop stood up and replied to the charges. He addressed his remarks entirely to the judges upon the bench. He recalled to them the violence to which the French pilgrims to Rome had been subjected and dilated upon the treatment that had been accorded by the Romans. In writing to M. Fallieres he had, he said, no intention of insulting the minister, and declared that in so writing he had only fulfilled his duty. His conduct, he said, had been approved by the Catholic Episcopate. In line of his action he had opposed the Government. Beyond that he had nothing to say. As the archbishop resumed his seat there was a murmur of suppressed approval from the high church dignitaries and clergymen, who were attentive watchers of the proceedings. The public prosecutor then set forth the Government's side of the case. The archbishop was convicted and fined 3000 francs.

The procureur in his argument said he asked for the conviction of the accused, not because he was a priest, but because he was a seditious citizen. He dilated upon the liberty accorded to the Catholic episcopate in France. Never, he said, had the French episcopate been treated with greater urbanity; never had religion enjoyed greater independence.

Counsel for the defence demanded the acquittal of the archbishop. Instead of breaking the law he said the archbishop had proudly raised aloft the flag of France.

Manager Gouthe Soulard, Archbishop of Aix, was summoned before the Court of Appeal in connection with the defiant letter sent by him to M. Fallieres, Minister of Justice and Public Works, in reply to the latter's circular reminding the French bishops that they were not at liberty to leave their dioceses without the minister's consent.

"Owen Meredith" Dead.

LONDON, Nov. 25.—Lord Lytton, British ambassador to France, died here to-day.

Lord Lytton had long been suffering from inflammation of the bladder. A few moments before his death he was suddenly seized with an attack of heart weakness and called to his valet for some medicine. While preparing the medicine the valet heard a cough and turning round saw his master suddenly expire.

Moral Suasion.

PARIS, Nov. 25.—President Carnot has signed the draft of a bill to establish a board of conciliation to arbitrate labor disputes. The decisions of the board will only possess moral, not legal sanction, but they will have a certain force in a court of law.

Tried to Buy the Secret.

PARIS, Nov. 25.—Two Englishmen, John Cooper and Walter Rundell, have been arrested at St. Etienne for offering a bribe to the foreman of a small arms factory to procure a specimen of the new Russian rifle.

BIRDS SANG HIS REQUIEM

Feathered Songsters Cheered the Presbytery of Rev. Father Girard.

WINDSOR, Nov. 25.—Father Girard of Belle River died here yesterday of diabetes. He was about 50 years of age and a native of France. He had been at Belle River for over 20 years. Father Girard was a great entertainer at his residence, which in some respects resembled a bird store, as he had never less than 500 or 600 live birds of various breeds.

Fatal Fall from a Haymow.

NEWMARKET, Nov. 24.—William Connolly, while assisting at a threshing machine, fell from the top of the mow to the barn floor on his head. His injuries will prove fatal.

B.C. Breweries Syndicated.

VANCOUVER, B.C., Nov. 25.—An option has been obtained on all the breweries in British Columbia by representatives of English capitalists, and the breweries will be managed by one company, the present owners taking stock and acting as local managers. The manufacture of lager beer will be undertaken; at present all the lager consumed here is imported.

Dead Baby Found on the Track.

WINDSOR, Nov. 25.—The body of an infant was found on the Michigan Central track about four miles from Windsor, between Maidstone and Sandwich, yesterday evening. It is not known whether the child was thrown from the train or placed on the side of the track.

A Gunsmith Shoots Himself.

SARNIA, Nov. 25.—Richard Glynn, gunsmith, accidentally shot himself Tuesday in the thigh while repairing a rifle. He bled profusely, but is expected to recover unless blood poisoning follows.

Baby's Face was Raw

Distressing Itching Skin Disease Cured in one Month by the Cuticura Remedies.

When our baby was six weeks old he had a rash on his cheek. It spread on both cheeks and chin. His face was raw. I doctored with various remedies, but it got no better. My mother advised me to try the CUTICURA REMEDIES. I used them faithfully, and in one week the boy looked better. In one month he was cured, and now he is three years old and no signs of it returning. The child was so bad I had to tie him in a pillow-case, and pin his hands down so that he could not scratch his face. I cannot speak too highly of the CUTICURA REMEDY. I recommend CUTICURA whenever I can. I would be pleased to see any one and talk to them of the good it has done my boy.

—THE—

GOLDEN LION.

You will find this a great store. The more you get acquainted with its ways, the more you will like it. You will always find great bargains here that will please you, as it does our regular customers. There are always bargains in every department.

Take for instance Jackets in their season, in a lot of 50 Cloaks of one kind, probably one or two will hang fire. Variety gone price was, say $20 but the two go for $8 or $10 each. That's done every week. Last week we sold a Beautiful Embroidered imported Dolman that sold at $22 for $10.

For another example take Dress Goods. Some lines of our 50c. goods go for 35c. and 25c. and so on.

People that understand shopping ask for these goods and get them.

Did you know that shopping require experience. We always keep a fresh stock by selling out the tail end clean, even if at a sacrifice. Nothing is carried over.

This week and for the coming month you will find exceptional bargains in Mantle Cloths.

Exceptionally large bargains in Men's and Boys' Overcoats.

If one price or style fails to suit, you ask for another. Don't be afraid of asking for what you want. Keep on until you get it. It's here. There are few stocks that excel ours outside of the large cities.

which is heavy double fold Amazon Cloths, 42 to 43 in. wide, at 50c. a yard, worth 90c., in ten different shades. They are soft as velvet, close and fine with a bright finish like Henrietta Cloths, but have the appearance of the old style broad cloth men used to wear. They have been on our counters only a few days at this price and are going out rapidly, but we hope to have enough to supply the demand while this notice appears in this paper.

Those Overcoats we talked about last week are a surprise to everybody. They sell themselves every time. The best of the lot only $8, lower grades down to $5.

White Wool Blankets fresh from the mill, at $2.50 and $3 a pair, extra large sizes particularly cheap.

A CHINESE RISING.

An Immense Revolutionary Force Marching on the Place—The Entire Christian Population of Kinchow Massacred.

LONDON, Nov. 26.—The Chronicle's correspondent at Tien Tsin says: The outbreak in the north, officially described as a raid of Mongolian robbers, proves to be an insurrectionary movement of serious dimensions. Despatches received here yesterday state that in Mongolia and some northern districts nearer the capital the revolutionary feeling is spreading rapidly and the number of rebels is becoming alarming. An insurgent force consisting of several squadrons of Mongolian cavalry, besides infantry, is reported to be advancing on Pekin, where the utmost alarm prevails.

The population of a large area, actuated partly by inclination and partly by fear of the rebel soldiery, has joined the movement, together with several mandarins.

Imperial troops have started to meet the rebels.

The entire Christian population of Kinchow was massacred, with Belgian priests.

French Strikers Dispersed by Troops.

PARIS, Nov. 26.—A despatch from Lens, one of the centres of the coal miners's strike in the department of Pas-de-Calais, says that a body of strikers attacked the engineers who were in charge of the machinery in a factory at that place. The factory had secured a supply of coal, which rendered it independent of the neighboring mines, and this fact enraged the strikers. The military authorities, believing that the strikers would make an attempt to compel the factory to shut down, ordered the detail of a small body of troops to protect the property and the employes. The strikers made a determined onslaught on the engineers despite the presence of the soldiers. Finally the latter interfered and after a sharp fight drove the strikers away.

Germany Doubling Her War Strength.

BERLIN, Nov. 26.—In the navy estimates for 1892 provision is made for an annual addition to the navy of 2218 men, exclusive of marines, the first levy to be in their ships in April, 1896, and the term of service to be 12 years. Thus upward of 20,000 men will be gradually added to the effective strength of the navy, more than doubling the present war strength. The torpedo corps will be increased by 750 men. The estimates also provide that 1800 officers and chief mates shall be gradually added to the navy, beginning in April, 1892.

Lord Dufferin Not a Home Ruler.

LONDON, Nov. 26.—Edmund Yates cables: The statement made in some of the Radical papers that Lord Dufferin is a Home Ruler is entirely unfounded. Lord Dufferin is a resolute opponent of the policy of separation, and I believe that in 1886 he wrote to Mr. Gladstone warning him against the dangers of the Home Rule scheme. As soon as Lord Dufferin's active diplomatic career is closed he will throw himself resolutely into the fight on the Unionist side.

Penal Servitude for 27 Years.

LONDON, Nov. 26.—Charles Grande, alias a dozen other names, who has been on trial on charges of blackmailing, was found guilty and sentenced to 20 years' penal servitude. Grande had been pursuing his nefarious practices for a long time and numbers among his victims several titled ladies. When Grande was arrested the police found his possession a forged bill of exchange. The prisoner was convicted on this charge also, and sentenced to an additional term of seven years' penal servitude.

No Chance of War.

BERLIN, Nov. 26.—In the course of an address to the recruits of the Berlin garrison yesterday, Emperor William said: "You will probably have only an opportunity for displaying your bravery and spirit in time of peace.

The Emperor added: "There may be impending, however, grave internal struggles."

The speech is the subject of extensive comment.

The Fine and the Vatican.

LONDON, Nov. 26.—Rome correspondent of The Chronicle says the imposing of a fine instead of term of imprisonment on the Archbishop of Aix is accepted at the Vatican as evidence of the moderate disposition of the Court of Appeal toward the accused archbishop.

MARRIED A CHORUS GIRL

AND DIED A SUICIDE'S DEATH IN TORONTO.

Romantic Career of Henry Hanbury, the Son of Wealthy English Parents, Who Was Sent to Canada Because of His Alliance With An Opera Singer—Charged With Theft He Took a Dose of Laudanum.

TORONTO, Nov. 26.—A bare room, an empty chloroform vial, the lifeless form of a man on the premises of George H. Lucas' veterinary establishment, King-street west, told eloquently of the sad end of Henry Hanbury, late of 28 Grange-avenue, who was driven to suicide yesterday by a culmination of misfortunes.

The facts connected with the finding of the body are as follows:

On Oct 5 Lucas allowed Hanbury to store his trunks—four of them—in a vacant room over his establishment.

Since Hanbury's trouble in the Police Court, where a charge of embezzlement from Liveryman Brown had been preferred, he had been in the habit of taking his things and selling them.

Hanbury called on Tuesday at 12 o'clock and told Mr. Lucas he was going upstairs to get something. Lucas replied that it was all right and thought no more of the matter. Mrs. Hanbury called on Mr. Lucas yesterday at 4 o'clock and asked for her husband, fearing that something must have happened, as he had not been home since Tuesday morning. She requested Lucas to go up to the room and see if her husband was there. Lucas complied and found the door locked. He then climbed out on the roof to a distance where he could have a view of the room. He saw Hanbury lying dead and at once informed the police. With Detective John Cuddy he broke into the room. There he found the body of Hanbury.

The Death Chamber.

Coroner Pickering viewed the body, examined the surroundings and concluded not to hold an inquest.

When found the body was lying doubled up on a cot, just as if he had been sitting and fallen over in a sleep. Between the finger of one hand was a half-smoked cigaret and beside him lay a 2 oz. phial containing a half ounce of laudanum, which had been purchased in Oshawa on Nov. 6, and also four letters. Hanbury had rolled up his overcoat so as to make a pillow out of it, but never used the pillow.

The body was removed to the undertaking establishment of W. H. Stone, to whom a letter had been addressed by Hanbury asking that all be done to relieve Mrs. Hanbury of trouble, and adding that she had been a faithful wife to him.

Besides the letter to Mr. Stone were four others addressed to Miss Ada Hanbury, Brisbane, Australia; Gerald Hanbury, the same address; Mrs. Hanbury, his wife, and Mr. Bowes who has acted as his legal adviser.

His Last Letter.

Mr. Bowes's letter is as as follows:

28 Grange-avenue, Monday night.

DEAR MR. BOWES: I write you these few lines as I have made up my mind on one point and that is by 12 o'clock to-morrow the world will know me no more. I shall be dead. Whether the strain of the last few days has unhinged me, I know not. I can't stand any more of it. My father's address is Bishop Stowe, Torquay, Devonshire. If you have occasion to write to him, and please do all you can for my wife when I am gone. I am writing to my father to-night telling him everything. But I hate to think she will be left friendless. I thank you heartily for all your kindness to me. Try and think as kindly as you can of the whole thing, but it is worrying me to death and it is better it should be so than to bring anymore disgrace upon those I love through deeds I may have done wittingly or otherwise. Do not forget my trust in you in my wife until needful assistance comes to her from England is my last wish to you. Sincerely yours.

HENRY HANBURY.

On his notepaper was a crest, with a crown, a lion and a battle-ax, and the initials H. H.

The other letters were of much the same nature and all pointed clearly to the fact that the young man had deliberately planned his own death.

Besides these letters, all of which were written in the St. Charles hotel on Monday, he wrote and posted one to his father; it is thought asking that immediate assistance be sent to his wife, who is at present in rather a destitute condition, so far at least as ready cash is concerned.

The Stricken Widow.

The position of Mrs. Hanbury is a sad one. She was not of the same social circle as her husband and had been connected with the theatrical profession in London, Eng. She married her husband to share his fortunes, for better or for worse. She participated in his joys. She joined him in his misfortunes. Now she remains to bear her sorrow alone without means, without friends, a stranger in a strange land.

Three years ago the couple came to Canada on account of family troubles. The family of Hanbury were opposed to his union with the choice of his life. She was scarcely regarded by them as his social equal, but still he persisted and took the consequences. The consequences were that he was compelled to leave home, was given £1000 and an allowance of $65 per month. This amount was paid to him by his father's agents at Montreal, B. & S. H. Thompson & Co., brokers.

Hanbury's Canadian Career.

After a year's residence in Toronto he decided to try his fortunes in Canadian farming. He rented a large farm from a Mr. Farewell near Oshawa for a term of five years, but soon found that the farm of Canada does not produce, without labor, gold-bearing grain. After 13 months of unfortunate efforts he retired from farm life and returned to the city

Mr. Hanbury was connected with an old, highly-respected and wealthy family. His father, an aged gentleman, is a wealthy iron-worker. His uncle is a large brewer. His brother is a justice of the peace in Brisbane, Australia.

Interview With the Widow.

Mrs. Hanbury said: "About the 1st of June last my husband fell from a dog cart in College-street and injured his head and spine. He was then confined to his bed for over a month and has never been the same since.

Mr. Bowes, who defended him in his late troubles, was also seen last evening had stated that he thought Hanbury's action very strange. On enquiries he found that his client was an excessive cigaret smoker, and he immediately came to the conclusion that Hanbury's mind had to a degree been affected by this excess.

This is indeed a sad sequel to the proceedings of Friday last. Then Hanbury was committed for trial, but was bailed out. It is thought that the impending trial and the consequent disgrace led to the commission of the act.

CASE AGAINST ARNOLDI.

THE BRASS DOG MAN IN THE POLICE COURT.

Crown Calls a Few Witnesses and Presents Its Case—The Ownership of the Celebrated Tug Joe—The Storage Business—John Rogers Arnoldi Out on Bail.

OTTAWA, Nov. 26.—The appearance of J. R. Arnoldi in the Police Court yesterday morning attracted more than the usual crowd.

F. Merritt, a clerk in the Bank of Montreal here and a nephew of Arnoldi's, testified that accounts appeared in the auditor-general's report against his name for the rent of a lot on Vittoria-street for Government purposes, which lot was Mr. Arnoldi's property, and he received the money therefor.

Mr. W. A. Allan of Ottawa testified to the registering of the steamer Joe at the Ottawa Custom House by Arnoldi's request.

Mr. J. R. Wilson of Montreal detailed the transactions by which the money for the Joe's services was handed to him, the accounts being in his name. He invariably handed the money to Arnoldi. In cross-examination Mr. Chrysler brought out the fact that many of the accounts for the Joe had been certified to by Mr. Perley, then chief engineer of the Public Works Department.

Mr. Z. Wilson, collector of customs, produced a copy of the abstract from the books at the Custom House showing the registration of the Joe.

Mr. Osler then said he had no further evidence to offer. Three counts stood against the accused. He was charged with obtaining money by false pretences, conspiracy and breach of duty as a public officer. He pointed out that the law provided that no payment could be made by the Government to a civil servant, beyond his regular salary, without the consent and authority of the Governor-General in Council. Here was a man put in a position of trust, certifying to the expenditure of money for the purpose of putting it into his own pocket.

The Magistrate: But if the money was honestly earned for services performed——

Mr. Osler: It makes no difference. There was no contract, and Arnoldi secretly certified money into his own pocket. It would shake the confidence entirely in the administration of public affairs if this practice were allowed. Proceeding Mr. Osler claimed that money had been obtained by false pretences and conspiracy made out by the cases of the Victoria-street lot and the Joe.

Mr. Chrysler contended that no case had been made out. Supposing an order in council had not been obtained for the payments of these moneys, as the Civil Service Act provided, did it make it a crime when the service had been properly performed?

The Magistrate said he did not think the Civil Service Act applied either to the steamer Joe or plots of land.

Mr. Chrysler, proceeding, said that Mr. Arnoldi was clearly outside the pale of the Audit Act, under the provisions of which he was partially being indicted with regard to both services. The money was clearly earned and was not a criminal offence. Nothing of a criminal nature had been shown. The lot in question had been fairly used by the Government, and the services of the Joe had been utilized to their full extent for the Government. The money was therefore honestly earned, and it would have been dishonest for the Government to have withheld it. Nobody from the department said they had been deceived. Where then was the false pretence?

Dr. McMichael said it seemed that this case had arisen because there had been an irregularity in the department, but it did not follow that crime had taken place. The crown had suffered no loss and crime had not been proven. The prosecution had utterly failed to prove conspiracy. It had not been shown that Arnoldi had conspired with anybody and, as far as the charge of "false pretence," the false pretence used must be to defraud, and clearly no fraud had taken place, as the Government had got good value for its money.

The case was then adjourned for a week when the magistrate will deliver judgment.

The Civil Service Commission.

OTTAWA, Nov. 26.—The Civil Service Commission sat yesterday and organized, George Hague, Montreal, being elected chairman. The committe sat till nearly 11 p.m. deciding what questions they would ask and how they would conduct their examination.

The Conspiracy Trials.

OTTAWA, Nov. 26.—The McGreevy-Connolly conspiracy investigation was resumed before Judge Ross yesterday morning.

J. Israel Tarte, who moved the enquiry into the present charges in the House of Commons, testified that he knew both the McGreevys, but did not know their relations in business. Robert McGreevy and Murphy had been together to him on business.

Quite a lot of additional unimportant evidence was adduced and the court rose.

The Writs Served.

MONTREAL, Nov. 26.—High Constable Gale of Quebec arrived here yesterday with warrants for the arrest of Richard White, manager of The Gazette, and John P. Whalen. The two gentlemen are charged with libelling Count Honore Mercier, Premier of Quebec. The writs were served at noon, and Messrs. White and Whelan will leave this evening for Quebec.

Appalling Disaster on the Northern

TACOMA, Washington, Nov. 26.—A terrible accident occurred yesterday near Canyon Station, on Green River, some 70 miles east of Tacoma, caused by a landslide on the Northern Pacific track.

Sixty workmen were sent to the locality of the disaster to repair the recent washouts on the road and while thus employed at the base of a high bluff extending from the river, several thousand yards of bluff suddenly tumbled on those beneath killing 12 outright, carrying 200 yards of railroad track and two men into the river and burying several others, some of whom it's thought may be rescued alive.

Relief trains has been sent from both sides of the disaster and were at last report working hard to rescue the buried men.

Drowned from a Raft.

OTTAWA, Nov. 25.—Baptiste Lamarche of Buckingham returning home from church Sunday came across an old raft. Lamarche and a companion ventured on it. When in midstream the raft went to pieces and Lamarche was drowned. His companion succeeded in getting ashore on a plank.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 26, 1891.

THE Italian Government proposes to increase the duty on sugar, coffee, alcohol, beer, seeds, and certain manufactured articles, by which it is expected to raise an extra revenue of $2,200,000.

AT yesterday's meeting of the Cabinet Council in Ottawa a very important document, was under official discussion. In this Messrs. N. K. and Michael Connolly, of the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co., challenge the justice of the conclusions as affecting them arrived at by the Committee of Elections and privileges, and propose that the entire question be submitted to the arbitration of two engineers, one to be selected by the Government and the other by the Connollys, the losers to pay the entire cost of arbitration. No decision was reached at yesterday's meeting of the Council.

The Discredited "Empire."

The St. Thomas Times, an intelligent Tory paper, has no confidence in the Empire. The Empire had a screamer the other day about the prosperity of the country at the present time in which it stated that we were making wonderful strides, the McKinley Act had not injured Canada in the least—why did the Old Man sue for reciprocity last winter?—that this "is really a reason of hope and triumph for Canada," with more to the same effect. The Times tells the chief mouthpiece that "there is no use trifling with facts." It points out that the McKinley Bill is "unfavorable to Canadian interests in various ways," and resents a particularly absurd burst about our being "able to stand alone," that is, to get along without selling our surplus products abroad. This the Times characterises as "empty balderdash" and "silly jingoism." The country, it says, is suffering and will continue to suffer until it is placed upon a more favorable economic footing. According to the view of the Times unrestricted reciprocity with the States might affect our status as a British colony. What we want is "England's backing to enable us to maintain our ground against an unscrupulous and self-aggrandising neighbor!" But what more can England do than to give us free access to her markets? She warned us in 1878 against entering upon a war of tariffs with the bigger brother across the road, and now that we have received a blow in the eye it is scarcely becoming to ask her to relieve us by clapping a differential duty on the food and raw materials of her own people for our particular benefit. If the Times will read Lord Salisbury's speech at the Lord Mayor's dinner on the 9th it will see that his lordship once more declares that it is simply impossible for Britain to revert to the cast-off clothes of 1846.

Defence of the Press.

An American scholar, in a lecture on the Press and Crime, said:—"We all get into the paper when we knock a man down; but if we live an upright, respectable life we are not mentioned except when married or dead." If this is meant as an adverse criticism, it is a criticism rather of human nature than of the press. Go into any place where men meet, and see how long the interest in a conversation upon the merits of leading citizen A will survive the announcement that leading citizen B has been arrested for embezzlement. Take up any historical work and see how much attention is given to the intrigues of courts, the assassinations of kings and favorites, to famine, pestilence and war. Ask any boy in a natural, healthy state whether he would rather see a sunset or a show of fireworks. Even the man who is ready to give a perfunctory assent to the finest things that can be said about the sunset will probably wait indoors until the serpents and pinwheels begin to fizz. It is human nature, and preaching against it is discouraging good. Good deeds are done slowly and often quietly; and it takes a lifetime to build up a reputation which may be destroyed by the weakness or passion of a moment. If a newspaper were to record the fact every day that John Jones passed the day virtuously and honorably, did not rob or kill anybody, performed such and such tasks faithfully, and was kind to everybody he met, the account would be wearisome even to the most thoughtful of readers. Then it must be remembered that not only the little virtues but the petty vices and little acts of baseness and selfishness are left unrecorded.

Society Does Not Admire Them!

They Are Generally Disagreeable—Require Care and Watching.

It is quite a common thing at the present time to meet nervous men and women. They are generally irritable, ill-tempered, sour and repulsive; they bring discredit on themselves; and it is often necessary for their friends to apologize for them and explain that they are not in their usual health. We strongly maintain that such individuals are a nuisance in general society, and that their presence in social gatherings should be discountenanced and frowned down. The happiness, joy and success of gladsome and intellectual occasions should not be marred or disturbed by irritableness and moroseness, or by unseemly and absurd actions.

It is true indeed that the nervous person is a cause of ceaseless misery to his or her friends. These friends are the first to resent the idea that there exists unsoundness of mind and a lack of mental ability to properly control the conduct. We strongly maintain that such individuals, who are not able to control their actions, are as bad as some of the insane in our asylums, and require special care and watching.

There is no advantage gained by attempting to conceal the truth. It is well known by those competent to judge, that such characters as we have described have brought trouble upon themselves and their relatives by pursuing a line of conduct directly opposed to nature's laws. The large majority of nervous and irritable people are victims of sleeplessness, brooding, morbidness and melancholia. They are generally dyspeptic subjects, in whose bodies the life stream flows sluggishly. A little trouble was at first neglected, and has now become a mountain. A few doses of Paine's Celery Compound, taken daily a few weeks or a few months ago, would have removed all trouble. Let us assure such individuals that even now their condition is not hopeless while Paine's Celery Compound can be procured. There is no medicine on earth that can so quickly strengthen the nervous system, give strength to the body, tone the digestive organs, give buoyancy of spirits, and a happy and contented disposition, as Paine's Celery Compound. It has renewed the life of many a nervous and disagreeable man and woman, and fitted them to become honored and desired members of society.

Trade Side of "Imperial Federation"

Those Imperial Federationists who are trying to make protection, in the shape of a preferential tariff, the basis of the permanent union of the Empire, and who made so much fuss over Col. Howard-Vincent and his preferential duties proposals, should read, mark, learn and inwardly digest the declaration of Lord Salisbury, Col. Vincent's political leader and chief, made at the Guildhall banquet. Lord Salisbury after showing some sympathy for the old Tories who still think there must be something in protection, especially for English agriculturists, and who are inclined to view approvingly, if not exactly hopefully, the adoption of protection by other countries, nevertheless laid down the doctrine of free trade for England most emphatically. He said: "I have no doubt that the commercial community of this country does not not falter in its attachment to Free trade; and I do not ascribe it to any special virtue in that respect, because the fact that the articles in respect to which we should have to exercise Protection, if we are to exercise it at all, are mainly articles of consumption bearing upon the necessities of the whole body of our population is, to my belief, an absolute guarantee that we shall never return to the ways of Protection." Surely that is flat. The idea that England would consent to a protective or preferential duty on grain was entertained only by Col. Vincent.

"Aren't you ever going to grow old, like the rest of us?" asked a man of an acquaintance he hadn't seen for some time. "Well, not so long as I can purify my blood with Ayer's Sarsaparilla," was the apt reply. This man knew what he was talking about.

The Late Timothy Fitzpatrick of Dummer.

An Old Settler and Highly Respected Citizen Gone.

Mr. Timothy Fitzpatrick, the subject of this sketch, was a native of Queen's County, Ireland. In early life, when a young boy, he was engaged in mercantile pursuits with his uncle and others for five or six years in the city of Dublin, after which he came to Canada, and settled in the township of Dummer in the year 1832, and remained there up to the time of his death, which sad event took place on the 9th of the present month. Having lived in that locality for more than half a century he was well and favorably known, having a large circle of friends and few enemies. Mr. Fitzpatrick was of a kind, genial and earnest disposition, very guarded in his language on all occasions, and always slow to give offence on any subject whatever. He was of a deeply sensitive nature, and having lately lost his youngest son, it so deeply affected his kind, good heart, that he succumbed to the sad and crushing blow. In politics he was an earnest and active Liberal. He leaves behind him to mourn his loss a wife and large family, most of whom were at his bedside when he breathed his last. Dr. Fitzpatrick, of Chicago, his son, attended him in his last hours, and Father Conway, parish priest of Norwood, attended to his spiritual wants. He died as he lived, a true and earnest Christian.

THAT DREADFUL NIGHT.

glowered at her all through that dreadful dinner. The poor child felt that she could not possibly stay longer in this dismal home.

She had found some ink, and had unpacked her little desk, when she chanced to open a blotting book lying on the table, and saw that it contained envelopes and note paper. On the top of each page of paper the words "Moor Hall" were clearly printed in German text. "Moor Hall!" And Uncle Mark had dated his letter from Broomside farm. She was more and more convinced that he was eccentric, and resolved to go back to London as soon as it was possible to beat a retreat.

There were two doors in her bedroom. The one by which she had entered was provided with a key which turned with fatal facility in the lock and afforded but a poor safeguard. The second door was locked or bolted on the other side, and when Elsie had tried to open it and failed she thought no more about it. Doors were always numerous in these ancient houses; moreover, her mind was so full of perplexity and disappointment that she had little leisure for fear. Who would molest a poor girl who had neither money nor jewels in her possession? And then, as her glance again rested on the words "Moor Hall" a wild doubt suddenly darted into her mind. Was it—could it be possible that she had come to the wrong place, and that the wrinkled old gentleman was not Uncle Mark after all? But how could there be any mistake? The carriage had been sent to the station to meet Miss King, and Miss King had duly arrived. She was getting into such a hopeless abyss of confusion that the task of letter-writing was beyond her powers. Flinging aside the pen she started up and began pacing the room with hasty steps and a troubled mind.

A slight creaking sound brought her abruptly to a pause. She looked up wondering if her excited imagination was about to play her a trick. No, it was not fancy; the door that she had tried to open was now softly unclosed, first a little, then wider, until there was space enough to admit the ill-favored visage of Denzil.

"No one will hear if you scream," he said, coming slowly toward her, with a malignant glitter in his eyes. "You came here because you thought you were going to marry me, didn't you? Well, you won't, that's all. Oh, I know my father has sworn to bring about the match, because he wants to secure your money. I hate you for having money. The girl I love hasn't got a sou, so they hunted her, and hunted her, and hunted her, till she ran away to the churchyard and hid herself among the graves. But she shan't stay there. I'll have her out by-and-by, only she won't come out till she knows I've got rid of you."

"Go away," panted poor Elsie, holding out her little hands to keep him off. "Go away; I don't want to marry you. I will go home to-morrow."

"If I were to let you live," said he, coming still nearer, "my father wouldn't let you go. He said he would keep you here and marry us. But he can't marry me to a dead woman, and that's why I'm come to kill you. Don't you understand? As long as you live my Nelly will hide among the graves and pretend to be dead. But when you are killed she'll come back to me alive. So you must die, you see."

He was mad; there was the glare of madness in his eyes. When Elsie realized this fearful truth a strange kind of strength came to her suddenly. She flung back her little head and eyed him with desperate courage.

"You are a fool, Denzil," she said. "Your Nelly knows that I don't want to marry you. Look, she's standing behind you—there!"

A swift change passed across the face of the lunatic, and he turned hastily back towards the door by which he had come in. Quick as thought Elsie seized the chance, made for the other door, and turned the easy-going key in an instant. And then began a wild race through the long gallery, which was like nothing but one of those frantic flights that occur to us in ill dreams. On went Elsie, flitting across bars of light and shade, for the moon was now pouring a flood of silver through the windows. On came the pursuer, inveterate, remorseless, maddened by the desperate speed at which she ran. Terror lent wings to her feet, but he was gaining upon her; she could almost feel the touch of his outstretched hands, when she came to the end of the corridor, and found herself face to face with a closed door. With a long, wild shriek, she seized the handle; it yielded, and she darted in a small room—and was saved! It was the work of an instant to bolt the door against her infuriated enemy.

The friendly moonlight seemed to favor her now, and calm her fears. Her place of refuge was a small chamber built over the hall doorway, and used as a sort of lumber-room. The bolt was heavy and strong; there was only one entrance, and she could hear her baffled pursuer muttering oaths outside. Had her scream aroused any member of the household? She fancied that she could catch the tread of hasty steps overhead, and screamed again with all the strength of her lungs. But just then a sound, still more welcome, met her ears; wheels were coming rapidly up the carriage-sweep, the lamps of a fly were shining through the trees, and presently a conveyance drew up before the house. Elsie did not hesitate for a second. She opened the window, leaned out into the moonlight, and sent forth a piercing cry for help.

"Heavens, what a reception!" said a man's voice from below. "What is it?" Who are you?"

"Save me," implored Elsie desperately. "Come in and set me free!"

"All right," shouted the voice in reply. And then the loud peal of the hall bell resounded through the house, and doors opened, and footsteps ran to and fro. Elsie waited listening to outcries and roars of rage—to struggles and scufflings and groans—till at last there was a great calm. She began to think that she was forgotten, but had not courage enough to withdraw the bolt. Perhaps her foe was crouching outside, ready to spring. The silence lasted—who can say how long? Just as she was beginning to fear that there might be no escape till morning, the quavering voice of "Uncle Mark" was heard outside the prison.

"Don't be frightened," he said. "There have been several mistakes made to-night."

"There's been a blooming muddle," muttered a second voice. And Elsie guessed that the buttler had been shaken out of his dismal propriety.

"There's been an awful blunder," shouted a third person, cheerfully. "Come out, Miss King; we've locked up the lunatic, and we'll explain everything."

And they did explain everything. Elsie soon learnt that it was not Miss King, but Miss Bying, who had been expected at Moor Hall on that memorable night. But Lucy Bying, an heiress, and niece of old Squire Belmont, was accompanied by her brother, a stalwart soldier, just returned from foreign service. The pair had got out at a wrong station, and has hired a fly to take them to their uncle's house. The squire had never seen Lucy, but her wealth had made her a desirable match for his son, and he had insisted that she should pay him a visit.

"Of course, I didn't know that my Cousin Denzil had gone mad," said Lucy to Elsie afterward. "And it seems that he had never broken out into frensy till you arrived. There was an unhappy love affair. He wanted to marry a village girl, but his father crossed him, and she died. Ugh! What a dreary place this old hall is! I am glad Arthur came with me, and I wish I could go back to that cheerful farm with you."

When good Uncle Mark Thurstone heard of this wish he begged Miss Byng to be his guest. His lumbering old chaise had been sent to the station to meet Elsie, and had arrived after the squire's brougham had carried off the supposed Miss Byng. As to the fair heiress, her dread of Denzil was so great that she refused to remain at the hall, and she and Elsie struck up a friendship under the farmer's roof. Of course Arthur Byng became enamored of his sister's friend, and so a sensational story had a happy ending. "But not even for Arthur," says Elsie, resolutely, "would I consent to live again through such a dreadful night!"

For Early Fall Wear.

In place of getting a new gown for September and October wear, why not make over one for that unsettled time and have a fresh one ready for November, keeping the first for general wear through the winter? Remodel a basque by inserting a long pointed vest of black surah brocaded with a color, and then have tapering revers of either material. Trim all of the edges with narrow silk gimp. A striped cheviot worn last winter remake with a skirt having the front slightly "broken" by a few belt plaits. The sides of the front cut in long slender scallops slightly turned upward and

The Motherless Boy.

There is little more pitiful than a boy who has lost his mother. The neighbors come in, and are kind to his sisters in their efforts to comfort them, but the boy seems to be out of reach of their sympathy. They cannot understand his grief, or that he grieves at all. He does not sit around, or weep into a lace handkerchief; he goes out and cries on his sleeve behind the barn, while his sisters in the parlor are having their tears wiped away by kind-hearted, motherly women with candy in their pockets. A boy is so awkward, and rough, and homely, and noisy, and when the only one in the world who believed in him or his possibilities lies dead in the house his heart aches the same as a girl's.

The soldiers of the Odessa garrison have voluntarily asked that the daily bread ration issued to them be reduced one-third for the benefit of the starving people in the famine-stricken districts. The Czar has made a very large donation for the benefit of the sufferers from his private purse, in addition to turning over to the Famine Committee the sums of money presented to him upon the occasion of his silver wedding. The Czarina, too, has given freely.

The miners' troubles in the Department of Pas de Calais, France, continue to spread. There has been some rioting. At Lievin a collision occurred between a number of the strikers and a small body of the police. Two of the gendarmes were injured. A detachment of troops was sent there. There are now only 1000 miners at work in the Pas de Calais districts. The total number of strikers is 33,400. English coal owners have offered to supply factories with coal at a price lower than the ordinary French rate.

In Memoriam

Of Chas. Fitzpatrick, of Dummer, Who Died Sept. 29th at St. Joseph's Hospital, From Injuries Received in a Threshing Machine.

I

When he talked of going away, his mother told him stay,
And cautioned him of danger lying ahead,
When jokingly he said, "mother do not be afraid,"
Then jumping in the buggy off he sped.

II

He left home light-hearted, through the gate quickly darted,
His light, joyous heart rippling over with fun,
His horse went off flying, his mother was sighing,
God help her, she knew not, his race was near run.

III.

But such was the case, though his bright, cheerful face,
Was wholly unclouded by shadow or sheen.
Life's pathway looked clear, though the mandate was near,
That should carry his soul to that world unseen.

IV.

That sweet, joyous form got no glimpse of the storm,
Though the death angel followed and shadowed him then,
And struck the dread blow that soon laid him low,
And his spirit took flight, endless life to begin.

V.

That living temple of clay the death ange did slay,
That the spirit within might take flight from those snares
Which beset us through life, in this world of strife,
And meet unexpected and strike unawares

VI.

Did he come back again to those sad scenes of pain,
To see how his father bore up 'neath the blows?
Did he beckon him on saying "follow your son"?
The answer is but God, and only God knows.

VII.

But the old man sank fast, and soon breathed his last,
And passed over life's bourne his loved one to greet.
Let us pray with the blessed, may they ever find rest,
And that those left behind may their lost ones yet meet.

Pat's Great Wonder.

We are surrounded by dangers all the way from the cradle to the grave. "The great wonder is," as Pat says, "that, after getting out of our cradle, we live long enough to reach our grave." Thousands are out of health—morose, morbid and miserable, because they do not avail themselves of the remedy within easy reach of them. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery would cure them.

For all chronic or lingering coughs, weak lungs, spitting of blood, bronchitis, shortness of breath, asthma and kindred ailments, it is a most potent remedy. It cleanses the blood, invigorates the liver, improves digestion, and builds up both flesh and strength. Dose small and pleasant to taste. Large bottles, one dollar. Of all druggists. a

Over a Century Old.

Many cases are known of persons living to be 100 years old and there is no good reason why this should not occur. By paying attention to the health by using Burdock Blood Bitters when necessary to purify the blood and strengthen the system much may be added to the comfort and happiness of life, even if the century mark is not attained. dw

A Popular Physician.

The popular physician is unassuming, pleasant and successful in treating disease. Such an one is Burdock Blood Bitters—unassuming—only a dollar per bottle —pleasant, agreeable in taste—successful in nine cases out of ten. In truth it may be said B.B.B. is the popular physician to the people, a tried and trusty friend in all diseases of the stomach, liver, bowels and blood. dw

Sufferers

FROM Stomach and Liver derangements—Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Sick-Headache, and Constipation—find a safe and certain relief in Ayer's Pills. In all cases where a cathartic is needed, these Pills are recommended by leading physicians.

Dr. T. E. Hastings, of Baltimore, says: "Ayer's Pills are the best cathartic and aperient within the reach of my profession."

Dr. John W. Brown, of Oceana, W. Va., writes: "I have prescribed Ayer's Pills in my practice, and find them excellent. I urge their general use in families."

"For a number of years I was afflicted with biliousness which almost destroyed my health. I tried various remedies, but nothing afforded me any relief until I began to take Ayer's Pills."—G. [illegible] Wanderlich, Scranton, Pa.

"I have used Ayer's Pills for the past thirty years, and am satisfied I should not be alive to-day if it had not been for them. They cured me of dyspepsia when all other remedies failed, and their occasional use has kept me in a healthy condition ever since."—T. P. Brown, Chester, Pa.

"Having been subject, for years, to constipation, without being able to find much relief, I at last tried Ayer's Pills, and deem it both a duty and a pleasure to testify that I have derived great benefit from their use. For over two years past I have taken one of these Pills every night before retiring. I would not willingly be without them."—G. W. Bowman, 26 East Main st., Carlisle, Pa.

"Ayer's Pills have been used in my family upwards of twenty years, and have completely verified all that is claimed for them. In attacks of piles, from which I suffered many years, they afforded me greater relief than any medicine I ever tried."—Thomas F. Adams, Holly Springs, Texas.

A WEEK AGO

"THE STAR" made the largest purchase of Overcoats ever made at one time in the history of the Clothing Trade—Over TWENTY THOUSAND DOLLARS' WORTH---the entire magnificent stock of one of the largest manufacturers of Fine Clothing in Canada. The owners of the goods were in Desperate Need of Ready Cash. We had it, and we got the stock AT OUR OWN PRICE. We placed about half our purchase on sale Monday morning, and to-day we place the balance of the stock on our tables. The last shipment included the Finest Goods. The first lots are all sold, and such scenes of excitement as have transpired during this sale never before occurred in a clothing store.

Customers stood in open-mouthed wonder at the wonderful values given. Many persons bought two and three Coats on account of their wonderful cheapness. Small Merchants have eagerly bought all we would sell them, our prices are so much lower than they could buy the same goods at wholesale.

The Overcoats are Simply Elegant, made of the Richest and Finest Fabrics and in the most "Correct" Style. "Schnabel's" Chinchillas and Beavers; "Carr's" Meltons, Eredon Kerseys, Fine Fancy Overcoatings and Shetlands, intended for Merchant Tailor's use. Many were intended to Wholesale at $15, $18 and $20. We bought them for less than the Raw Material Cost, and are selling for $8 and $10, garments worth two and three times the money.

Schneider's Jewellery Store.

The above store, lately conducted by Mr. R. W. Muncaster, is now in the hands of Mr. F. S. Schneider. The new occupant evidently intends to make "things hum" in the jewellery trade, having imported a new line of goods, consisting of silver ware, etc., whilst his stock of watches, chains, rings and other articles is quite a new and well-assorted one. Mr. Schneider has introduced into his window a new device for exhibiting his wares, consisting of a circular plush-covered stand, which automatically revolves, thus bringing into view the whole of the goods on the stand. Persons desiring to purchase Christmas, birthday or other presents, or those who contemplate undergoing "the operation" of matrimony, will find a splendid selection of rings of various kinds.

What They are Saying.

That they are over forty applicants for the vacant town clerkship.

That the majority have had assurances that they were "all right."

That in view of the anxiety of applicants, the office should be put up to tender—"the lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted."

That the chairmen and members of the Committee on Appointments are going off on a month's hunt till after the vacancy is filled.

That it is a pretty hard squeeze to pay taxes and provide for filling the children's stockings.

That the Collegiate Institute Literary Society have earned the public gratitude for providing so instructive and delightful an entertainment as that given in the Opera House last night.

That Mrs. Proctor's topic, though of the worlds worldly, was nevertheless a heavenly subject.

That there will be an immense demand for next Saturday's Globe.

Airless, Waterless, Lifeless.

Mrs. Proctor Shows "Fair Luna" to be a Dead World—The Sun an Infant—Mars in his Old Age.

The audience that assembled at the Opera House last evening to hear Mrs. R. A. Proctor's lecture on "The Life and Death of Worlds" was a most appreciative and attentive one. It was large and included most of the "moon starers" of the town. Evidently the people of Peterborough have made up their minds not to follow the example of our neighbors in the Queen City by allowing matters pertaining to this mundane sphere to occupy all their time, leaving none for the study of the other worlds so far removed from us, but took full advantage of the intellectual treat provided for them last night by the Collegiate Institute Literary Society. The rising generation was also well represented, and behaved in a very creditable manner, showing great interest in the lecture.

Mrs. S. D. Proctor, widow of Richard A. Proctor, the brightest, practical astronomer of this age, is quite an entertaining lecturer. Her delivery is graceful and vivacious, while her articulation is clear and perfect, and her manner quiet. No one, of course, goes to a public lecture to study mathematical astronomy, and those who went last evening for scientific entertainment were pleased to have the facts and surmises of the of the universe and solar system presented in such an attractive manner.

The lecture itself was supplemented by a number of shown by the oxy-ether lime light lantern, which when presented with her interesting explanatory remarks conveyed to the public mind a much more intelligent idea of the subject, than could be obtained from books.

The lecturer in introducing the subject spoke of the appearance of the sky on a still clear night, as suggesting perfect quiet and rest, yes, a great tumult was continually going on. Planets and stars rushing through space at enormous speeds, what appear to us as fixed stars, in reality moving bodies having a velocity of from 40 to 50 miles a second. The age of planets is calculated by astronomers by the various STAGES THEY HAVE PASSED THROUGH.

In the solar system which is the name given to planets that travel round the sun, there are orbs in various stages of growth. Water cannot exist on the planets in the first two stages of development owing to the intense heat. As their age however increases, the heat diminishes and in the later stages of growth, the bodies cool enough to let vapour rest upon them in the form of seas, etc. Our earth was given as an example of a planet in about mid-life, and it might last millions of years. The geologist has a decided advantage over the astronomer in being able to examine closely the striking record of the rocks, while the latter cannot come within millions of miles of the bodies he is studying. The sun is in the first stage of planet life, infancy, that is to say, he is not young in years, but in development. The spots on the sun do not, as some people imagine, affect our weather, but do affect our magnetic power. They affect our more when we are on the east side of the sun than when we are on the west. These spots are of great size. One of them would contain one hundred globes the size of this world. As an instance of the great distance of the sun from the earth, it is said that if a child on the day of its birth had an arm long enough to reach the sun, and had a finger on it, one hundred and eight years would elapse before the child would know that its finger had been burnt. It would take that length of time for the nerves to convey the impression to the brain.

Jupiter and Saturn were shown as examples of planets in the second stage of development, fiery youth, while Mars and the moon were cited, as the planets in the last stage of planetary life or devolution, decrepitude and death. The corrugations on the moon's surface were also dealt with, apparently caused by the contraction, while cooling, of the interior. The chain of reasoning by which astronomers have arrived at the conclusion that the moon is without air, water, and inhabitants was fully considered, and the sun was shown to be in a glowing vaporous state. Mrs. Proctor concluded a most interesting lecture by reciting the following poem composed by her late husband:—

VOICES OF THE SUNS.

As I gazed in depth of darkness infinite,
A Star came forth with even-gliding rush.
Till sweeping onward shone its orb,
With all the mighty meaning of a Sun.
A Sun girt round by many peopled worlds,
And worlds not yet peopled, being young;
And worlds long since unpeopled, being old and dead.

As it sailed past I heard its solemn voice
Proclaiming thro the realms of space, the song,
The everlasting song, of Life and Death—
Of wealth, of light, of ever-during waste,
Of Death and Life. Along my course it sped.

"Above, below, and back to whence I came Lie millions such as I through endless realms
Of star-strewn space. There is no end to God's Domain of Sun and systems ruled by Sun;
No end and no beginning; through all time,
But everlasting, mystic, wonderful;
The song of us sounds ever round the throne
Of Him who reigns supreme, the life of all,
Unknown, yea, evermore unknowable."

Then, as the Psalmist sang of old, I said:
(Being moved I could not choose but speak),
"What, Lord, is man, that Thou shouldst care for him,

Or son of man, that thou shouldest mindful be
For him or for his kind." Then rang a voice
Of solemn thunder through the spheres.—
"Say rather, what are worlds and suns to me
That thou shouldest deem mere mightiness of mass,
And plentitude of time, could outweigh mind
And soul; can world's and suns my power know?
Can æons after æons sing my praise?
As man, gifted by me with power to know
My power, can tell the meaning of
The music of my spheres, know that the least
Of all the minds my will hath made, outweighs
Not once, but many myriad times the mightiest
Mere mass the thoughts of human hearts outvie
The movement of a million suns,
Or rush of systems infinite through space.

Mr. Jerry Dolan has returned to town after a visit to Denver, Colorado.

Mr. J. D. McIlmoyle, who has been spending the past summer in Buffalo, is in town for a fortnight's visit.

Mr. R. F. Morrow, dentist, having recovered from his recent illness, has resumed the practice of his profession at his former rooms.

Mr. Walter Paterson and wife leave tonight for Clifton Springs, N.Y., where they will remain some time for the benefit of Mr. Paterson's health.

Mrs. Proctor, who took a Peterborough audience "up among the little stars" last night, leaves this evening for Toronto, and goes thence to Detroit to fill an engagement on Dec. 5th, thus ending her Canadian tour.

Dr. Pigeon is lying at his residence very seriously ill from the effects of blood poisoning, contracted through a slight scratch in the finger of one hand while performing a post-mortem examination some time ago. He had recovered from the first effects somewhat so as to be able to drive about, but there has been a severe recurrence of toxæmic symptoms. He is under the the care of Dr. Boucher and Dr. Halliday.

Police Court Paragraphs.

THURSDAY, Nov. 26th, 1891.

This morning at the police court Adam Dobbin, an old claimant on civic bounty, was charged with vagrancy. He was sent to prison for six months.

John Mullen, hailing from Montreal, was arraigned for the same offence. Accused said he was making his way to Toronto. He was discharged on promising to leave town.

A Horrible Story.

An Alleged Brutal Murder Committed in the Rainy Lake Region—Terrible Sequel to a Hunting Party.

A tale of a horrible and brutal murder comes from the Rainy Lake region by way of West Superior this week, say the Port Arthur Herald, which, if true, should immediately set the law officers at work hunting down the murderers. Following is the story sent out from West Superior, under date of Nov. 18:—

C. B. Gear, who has a claim about twenty miles from Grand Rapids, Minn., and who is in Superior, told a story of fearful bloodshed in the wilds near the Canadian boundary. Mr. Gear is a Canadian, who has been in this country about four years, and for the greater part of that time has lived in the heart of Minnesota, where he now resides. His errand in this city was to look up some relatives of James McBride, a Canadian also, who is now lying in a critical condition at his home on a claim adjacent to the one occupied by Gear. McBride is a young man unmarried, who came to this country from near Port Huron some three years ago. Since that time he has been with Gear more or less. About a year ago a sister of McBride's was married to a Canadian named Wilson. Shortly after they removed to Wisconsin and probably to Superior, although Gear has been unable to find them.

Gear says McBride joined a hunting party which went some weeks ago up the Canadian border on Rainy Lake to spend a winter in hunting. On Friday McBride returned in a deplorable condition, with his clothes torn, his arm broken, his feet and hands frostbitten. He is delirious most of the time.

McBride and Thos. Redding, who had control of the whiskey, one day refused to give out any more. Honey Hahn and another one of the party tied Redding to a tree and with a gun blew the top of his head off, killing him instantly. A man named Bruce, who had interceded for Redding, was murdered the same way. McBride was driven out of the camp. The murderers helped themselves to whiskey and became very drunk before killing Redding and Bruce. The tragedy happened near the Indian reservation, not far from Pelican Lake. It is feared that McBride will lose his reason altogether.

Mr. Gear found some Canadian friends of his here yesterday, and learned that Mrs. Wilson, McBride's sister, had gone to Lorimore, North Dakota. Gear returned home last night, having telegraphed from here.

The New Rector.

The Rev. W. E. Cooper, of Grafton, the newly appointed, rector of Christ church, Campbellford, will, says the Herald, officiate for the first time on Sunday next, at both morning and evening services. Mr. Cooper is a leading man in church work, and in his ministry he has been fully alive to the needs of his congregations. We extend to the rev. gentleman a hearty welcome to his new home and new congregation in Campbellford.

Presentation to Miss Davidson.

The boys of Miss Davidson's class in St. John's Church gathered on Tuesday evening in the rectory for the purpose of presenting to their teacher a handsome manicure case, together with an address expressive of their appreciation of her services and work in connection with her class in the Sunday school. The presentation was made by Mr. W. Brundrette, superintendent, on behalf of the class, accompanied by a few well deserved complimentary remarks as to the fidelity and value of Miss Davidson's services as teacher.

To the Public.

To avoid the rush of customers, which the magnificent Christmas stock of goods is sure to bring with the next week or two, the public are reminded of the advisability of visiting the Peterborough Bookstore and selecting their purchases now, to be laid aside till Christmas is within a day or so. This has been largely done in past seasons, and is more than ever necessary now, for with the double shop and magnificent stock complete in every department and of endless variety and unexcelled beauty, will create a demand to fill which early purchases will be necessary.

Routley's Santa Clause Headquarters.

This well known toy and fancy goods store has made extraordinary preparations for the coming holiday season. The venerable old man with the grey beard and rein-deer sleigh has dumped the large contents of his sleigh at C. B. Routley's headquarters. Every part of the shop is filled to repletion with toys, dolls and fancy goods suitable to the Christmas trade. Mr. Routley aims to profit every year by the experience of the past and therefore his preparations this season are on a grander scale than ever before and he feels confident that they will prove more than satisfacoory to the public. There is a beautiful display in the show windows, only a sample of the great stock that loads his shelves and tables, and the reserve stock that is found on the second and third floors. Work day and night is in progress getting things in shape for the first day of the grand annual opening of Routley's on Monday Dec. 6th. From that time out there will be a rush and first comers will have the best chance for selection.

The Town of Peterborough.

Simon, the Poet, "Does us Up" in Rhyme.

I've travelled a deal in my time, sir,
  And well you know I'm no blow,
But I haven't as yet seen a town, sir,
  To beat this Peterborough.

I've travelled all o'er the world, sir,
  I know every city and town,
But I really and truly can say, sir,
  That none this fair city can down.

The Yankees, they think they are smart, sir,
  And the Canadians are awfully slow,
But I say it is utterly false, sir,
  About this in Peterborough.

I do not remember this town, sir,
  When it had but a log house or two.
But I know for the past ten years, sir,
  It's surprising the way it has grew.

There are more manufactories here, sir,
  Than in any other town that I know,
And the inducements now offered are sure sir,
  To bring more to Peterborough.

Space would permit I would like sir,
  To mention each factory in town;
But if I did that, I would fill sir,
  Every column in your paper right down.

But a visit will convince the most sceptical sir,
  That this town is not at all slow;
And the Yankees I know would be proud sir,
  If they owned this Peterborough.

We have capable men at our head sir,
  Men that have good business tact;
And because they have done what was right sir,
  They have been by the citizens backed.

Our mayor, Mr. Stevenson, M.P., sir,
  Is about to resign from the chair;
And though he is pleasing us all sir,
  He wants others in the honor to share.

I think it is honorable and right sir,
  For the mayor to think in this way,
For though he should be a good man sir,
  Don't mean he should always there stay.

We have plenty of good men here, sir,
  Men of business from the word 'go,'
Men fitted for any position, sir,
  In the town of Peterborough.

The men that we bring out for Parliament, sir,
  Are a credit sure to the town;
But they all can't get there, that's certain, sir,
  So some of them have to sit down.

Mr. Stratton, so well known to all, sir,
  Has an M. and two P.s to his name,
And though he is quite a young man, sir,
  He gets there, you bet, just the same.

Although I am opposed to him in politics, sir,
  This fact I at once will admit,
That he's a good man for the town, sir,
  And on a better one we could not hit.

Our police force is perfection I think sir,
  With G. I. Rossel as its chief,
Whose keen dark eyes are e'er watching sir
  The rowdy as well as the thief.

But if I were to detail right here sir
  All the people and places of note;
I'm afraid all your readers would have sir,
  A touch of that dreaded sore throat.

So those who wish to know sir,
  About this fair town and its size,
Had better just come and see sir,
  With their own two motherly eyes.

But I would like to say just now sir,
  And its true as you all well know,
That there's not a better one to-day sir,
  Than this same Peterborough.

SIMON, THE POET.

Lakefield.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Court Lakefield, No. 43, C. O. F., met in their hall, Thursday evening.

Exeter Lodge, No. 89, S.O.E., have a concert on Friday night in the P.C.A. hall.

The steamer "Undine" is still running, taking up supplies for the Lakefield Lumber Co's shanties at Mount Julian.

Mr. D'Arcy Strickland left on Monday for Calgary, where he will enter upon his duties as Inspector of Mounted Police.

The last few days' rain has brought joy to the hearts of the farmers and lumbermen of the country.

After Monday next owners of cattle had better look after them, as owners of all found at large will have to interview the Cadi.

The Dominion Fishery Inspector informs us that the Order in Council to grant netting privileges on our back lakes next summer has been cancelled.

Mr. R. Q. Dench's team ran away on Saturday from Hull's mill, while their owner was in seeing about some chop. They were stopped up near Mr. Sheldrake's, the wagon being somewhat damaged. Fortunately Mr. Dench had taken his little boy into the mill to get warm, or there might have been a serious accident to chronicle.

There is at least one man in the village who cannot complain he has not had outing enough up the lakes this summer. Mr. Peter Baptie, builder and contractor, went up the first week in May, and with the exception of a few brief visits home, has been up at work ever since until last Saturday when he finished up for the season and came home for the winter.

The EXAMINER's remarks in last Thursday's issue in regard to the G.T.R. extension, were greatly appreciated in the village. Large numbers of our citizens visit Peterborough on Wednesday and Saturday, market days, besides the many who have to go up and down on business, and it is a source of great annoyance to run down to the crossing and then back to the station. Many now get off at Ashburnham, and have done their marketing before the train has reached the station. A better service is required, and the people look forward to the time when the C.P.R. will run a branch up, or we have electric cars; but the EXAMINER is astray as to the loss to the G.T.R. They take care to charge us for the extra mileage, and the loss falls on the travelling public, who have to walk, drive or "grin and bear it."

The old adage that "far off hills look green" was never better exemplified than in the case of a couple of our young Smith farmers who lately seem to have become dissatisfied with farm life, or had been reading Grip's sad tale of "Uncle Jedediah," and concluded to betake themselves to the "green hills"; quietly packed up their clothes and hied off to the "land of the free," but alas! they soon found the "Hills" were anything but "green", and were inhabited by "wild beasts" who stripped them of their hard earned savings, and left them to pitch lumber 10 hours a day. It did not take long to open their eyes and they sensibly concluded to return home, where they arrived a few days since poorer, but wiser young men, who will no doubt stick to the farms henceforth.

The season for deer hunting having closed our village hunting parties have all returned. One of the last to do so was the "Greenhorn hunting club" who got back safe on Saturday, no one lost, shot or drowned, and with two deer. They seem to have "had a big time" especially one of the party who while seated on the rocky shores of Turtle Lake last week observed what he took to be the limb of a tree moving rapidly across the lake; he could not account for it as the lake was calm, but soon discovered it was attached to some animals head. Firing off his gun he started on the run down the lake shore to prevent it landing, shouting as he ran for help from the camp some half mile off and blazing away as often as he could get breath to load. By this time his ammunition was exhausted and he was covered with bruises from falls on the rocks. Mr. Buck had gone ashore and our hero had time to think of his canoe, with which he could easily have headed off the game and most likely secured it, but then "buck fever" causes many an empty game bag.

Current Notes.

A contemporary has the effrontery to ask is the horse-race dying out? No, but its going fast.

A Milan letter states that efforts are to be made to straighten the Leaning Tower. This is a periodical Pisa nonsense.

Properly speaking, it is in the fall of the year that good resolutions should be made, as it is then that the leaves begin to turn.

Wun Man is the name of a Chinese high binder and general terror in Denver. Ah Tuf and Hood Lum are generally sources of annoyances in American cities.

"Can I see Mr. X—— this morning?" "Mr. X—— went to a blow-out last night and is not yet presentable." "Indeed; what kind of a blow-out?" "Gas."

"That little fellow deserves great credit to work as hard as he does to support his mother." "Perhaps he does, but then you can't very well give credit to a cash-boy."

The Wife—"My dear, there's a burglar in the room." The Editor—"I know it. Just keep still. He's doubtless got money on his person, and I'll make a big haul!"

Miss Benson—"It is too bad about brother. He wrote home for more money yesterday, saying that he had inspired his last penny." "Inspired?" "Blown it in was the expression he used."

"This is a good show," said a man in the orchestra chairs to a neighbor, "but you don't seem seem to enjoy it. Why don't you applaud?" "Applaud? Why, bless your soul, I'm here on a dead-head ticket."

Married the Man-of-All-Work.

BROOKLYN, N.Y., Nov. 8.—Society circles are much excited over the announcement that Miss Henrietta R. Crowell, youngest daughter of the late Stephen Crowell, former president of the Phœnix Fire Insurance Company, had married Nicolai Niben, the man-of-all-work, employed at Dr. Cates' sanitarium, Lakewood, N.J., with whom, it is said, she became infatuated while sojourning at that place. The lady was a favorite with her father. He left her half his fortune, estimated at $2,000,000. The antecedents of Niben could not be learned.

MR. AND MRS. BOWSER.

Mr. Bowser isn't the least bit particular about his shirt and collar and such things—[illegible] husband ever is. Every morning as regularly as clockwork when half-past 7 o'clock comes Mrs. Bowser, who has been up for half an hour, looks in to find him on the broad of his back with his hands under his neck and the bedclothes wrapped around him like some giant mummy.

"Mr. Bowser!"

No answer.

"Mr. Bowser!"

"Um!"

"Mr. Bowser, do you know what time it is?"

"U—m—m—m!"

"Come, breakfast will be ready before you are. You wanted to get away a little earlier this morning."

"Whas masher?"

"Come—wake right up!"

"Lemme 'lone!"

"Mr. Bowser!"

He opens his eyes, turns over with a grunt and a growl, and ten minutes after she has gone downstairs he carefully sits up in bed. He is all there. Then he kicks the clothes down with his right leg—then with his left—knocks his pillow off on the floor, and "sort-er" falls out after it with a growl like some old sore backed bear trying to get through a rail fence. Ten minutes later Mrs. Bowser feels the house shake and hears a voice calling:

"Mrs. Bowser, are you alive or dead?"

"What is it, dear?"

"Don't 'what-is-it-dear' me!

"Is this a dime museum, cider-mill, or the home of a hard-working, respectable man?"

"What is it?" she asks as she arrives on the scene of the fatal disaster.

"Look—a—there, Mrs. Bowser—look—a—there!" he hoarsely whispers as he holds out a pair of suspenders in his hand.

"Yes—I see. You broke 'em about a month ago and mended 'em with a piece of string. They've busted again. Go ahead and get on your collar and I'll fix 'em. Here they are, and you'd better buy a new pair today."

"Some mighty queer things around this house!" he mutters, as he buttons them on. "Them suspenders was all right when I went to bed last night. Next time you want to play circus take a piece of clothes line. Where's my front collar-button?"

"You must have flirted it out when you drew on your shirt. Here it is."

"After this when you go prowling around at night I wish you'd leave my things alone! If you want collar-buttons just say so and I'll buy you a cartload!"

"Here's your collar, dear."

It is beautifully clean and white, but he looks at it and growls. It is one of a dozen he had made to order and fits him to perfection, but it it no sooner buttoned than he gives it a hitch, and a hunch, and a yank, and roars out:

"By the great horn spoon! But can I never get a collar to fit me! It's bad enough to have to wear an old bag of a shirt, let alone having my throat cut with such collars!"

"But they were made to measure, you know."

"Measure! measure! Do you suppose there's a shirt-maker on earth who knows enough to measure a man's neck? The confounded cross-eyed idiot probably thought I wanted to button 'em on to my ears!"

Mrs. Bowser applies the soothing sirup and the third collar is allowed to remain. He growls over his necktie, but gets it on after awhile, and is then ready to inquire:

"I suppose the girl in the kitchen is using my toothbrush for a poker, isn't she? I'd just like the public to know how this house is run! It's no wonder that so many husbands walk off and are never heard of again."

"There's your toothbrush right in front of your nose," replies Mrs. Bowser.

"O! it is! Mighty funny how it got there all at once! Hairbrush isn't down in the coal bin, is it?"

"It's right there in plain sight. No one ever disturbs your things, Mr. Bowser."

"They don't, eh! Didn't nobody get up in the night and throw my shoes out into the yard, I suppose."

"Of course not!"

"Then where are they? I took them off right here, but they are gone! Such a system of housekeeping! People wonder that strong men become insane, but there is a cause for it, Mrs. Bowser, a cause for it I sometimes——"

"You took your shoes off downstairs last night. Your feet ached and you sat in your stocking feet."

"And those shoes were not deliberately picked up this morning and carried down there?"

"Of course not. Are you ready?"

"I suppose so. If not, I'll have to go as I am. I can't expect any one to care whether I have any comfort or not. No wonder I'm taken for a man 75 years old!"

Three times a week, after Mr. Bowser is in bed, Mrs. Bowser removes the buttons from his shirt, places them in a clean one, and hangs the shirt over the back of a chair. The other one is taken away to the hamper in the clothes-press, and she remarks:

"You'll find your clean shirt right here when you get up."

"Yes."

Morning comes and Mr. Bowser gets out of bed. He feels around with his feet; no shirt. He paws around under the bed; no shirt.

"Now, why on earth did that woman go and take my shirt down-stairs?" he growls as he gets up and goes hunting.

By-and-by he finds the clothes-press; then he finds the hammer; then he fishes up the shirt and continues:

"It's either got to stop, or I leave! Talk about system? Why, that woman knows no more about housekeeping than a bootjack! There it is again—not one single button in my shirt! Mrs. Bowser! Hello! down there!"

"Yes—yes! What's the matter, Mr. Bowser?"

"Matter! Matter!" he hoarsely whispers, as she arrives at the top of the stairs. "Look at me—at this shirt!"

"Mr. Bowser, do you see that clean shirt on that chair?" she sternly asks. "Didn't I fix it last night? Isn't every button in place? You are the queerest man I ever heard of!"

"I am, eh! Queer because I want shirt-buttons in my shirt. Queer because I can't have patience with your lack of system. Queer because I put up with a million times more than any other husband in New York. Mrs. Bowser, if you had some men to live with you'd soon find out what was what! Perhaps I can stand it three weeks longer, but——"

But she is gone, and he takes it out in kicking over a chair and knocking everything off the bureau before he is finally dressed and ready to go down to breakfast and inquire why in the name of common sense his knife and fork were put on the left-hand side of his plate instead of the right.

Would Try It Later.

Mrs. de Grampoey—Where did you get your divorce, Mrs. Downey—in Chicago?

Mrs. Downey—No; in South Dakota.

Mrs. de Grampoey—Is that so? I must try South Dakota next time. One gets wedded so easily to Chicago in such matters.

THE PRIME MINISTER'S PATRONAGE.

The Offices in Salisbury's Bestowal Would Make Mr. Flanagan's Heart Rejoice.

The patronage of the Prime Minister is extensive and peculiar. The Premier does not concern himself with post-offices and custom-houses, and such small fry; he has neither the power nor the desire to do so. The civil-service system takes care of the offices which in the United States gladden the heard of the politician. All that Lord Salisbuay has to do with the post-office is to appoint the Postmaster-General, who, in his turn, has to submit to civil-service restrictions which would bring tears to the eyes of an American politician.

What the Prime Minister has to bestow is certainly worth bestowing and worth receiving. The Premier's powers I have said are peculiar. The sovereign is supposed to be the head of the Church, but the Premier is practically the head. It is he who fills the Archbishoprics, the Bishoprics and the Deaneries. For ecclesiastical purpose England is divided into two "provinces"—Cantebury and York—and each Province has an Archbishop who takes from it his title. The Archbishop of Canterbury is the Primate of all England; he has the fifth place in the table of precedency, the Queen having the first, the Prince of Wales the second, the Queen's younger sons the third, and her grandsons the fourth. The thirty-two Bishops of the Church, twenty-four of whom have seats in the House of Peers, are appointed on the Prime Minister's advice. The salaries of the Church dignitaries range from $75,000 per annum (for the Archbishop of Canterbury) to $10,000 (for the Bishop of Sodor and Man). Then there are thirty deaneries. These are also filled by the Premier when a vacancy occurs by death or promotion. A Dean's income ranges all the way from $3,100, which is the sum received by the Dean of Peterborough, to $15,000 received by the Dean of Durham. The Dean of Westminster has $10,000 annually. But it is not in these figures alone that you will find expressed the full worldly rewards of ecclesiastical preference, for there are houses and lands and other trifles that go with these eminently desirable appointments.

The Lord Chancellorship is one of the treasures within the gift of the Premier. For even more than the emoluments of the position its dignities are to be desired. The Lord High Chancellor is the principal legal adviser of the Crown; he is Speaker of the House of Lords, and he takes precedence of all but royal dukes and the Archbishop of Canterbury; he has an extensive patronage, both in the courts and in the church—having in the latter respect to appoint twelve canons, to say nothing of awarding over six hundred livings. He receives $50,000 a year, and upon his retirement takes an annual pension of half that sum.

There are three Lords of Appeal, having $30,000 a year each; there is the Lord Chief Justiceship at $40,000; there are many high judgeships at $25,000. And so the list runs on, carrying a train of titles as well as of pounds sterling. Then there are rewards for service in the past, rewards which demand no official duties in the present or the future. Commoners are made peers, and peers are raised in rank. There are knighthoods to be conferred, and baronetcies, and Orders of the Garter. It may happen that during his administration the Premier is called upon to appoint a Viceroy of India. This post is a prize of the first degree, being indeed a vice-kingship. The Viceroy holds appointment for five years only. The Lord Lieutenancy of Ireland, and of the English connties, and the Colonial Governorships are within the Premier's gift. The members of the Cabinet have $25,000 a year each, and beside these there are thirty or more positions in the Ministry at from $7,000 upward, and each with peculiar powers and privileges.—Boston Herald.

The Markets.

General Features of the Markets.

Nov. 25th.—The market was depressed and unsatisfactory all around. Cables were all lower. News from the States was irregular, the wires being down; wheat at most points was down fully 2c per bushel. In Toronto the usual dulness of the last days of November prevailed; shippers are busy closing up and getting off all their grain before the close of navigation. All grains were dull and easy.

Buffalo Markets.

Spring Wheat—Offerings light; trading was limited, owing to irregularity of western and easter quotations, caused by demoralized telegraphic service No. 1 hard closed at $1 06¼ spot; 1,000 bush sold at [illegible]; 8,000 bush to arrive at $1.04½; c.i.f. closed $1.03¾; No. 1 northern spot closed at $1 04¼ Grain—Quiet. No. 2 hard Manitoba, $1.03 to $1.04; No. 3 d, 97; No. 2 northern, $1 04. Peas—78c per 66 lbs in store. Oats—36c per 34 lbs in store, Corn—72c, duty paid. Feed barley—48 to 59; good malting do, 60 to 62c.

Chicago.

November, 24.—Wheat was dull and lower. The corn pit was the centre of interest during the day, and to show the 4½c advance scored yesterday by the November future and further appreciation of 7½c was added to-day. It all grew out of the anxiety of the shorts in that month with settling day approaching, very small available stocks in store here and very little of the liberal receipt of contract grade. They made frantic efforts to buy. But the actual gain was in strong hands and the holders were disinclined to sell. The other futures sympathized with November to a minor degree during the early trading, but later, when the market became so wild, broke away, reacted and closed somewhat lower than yesterday. Oats sympathized with the deferred futures in corn and closed lower. Provisions were stronger. The leading futures closed—Wheat—November, 92½c; December, 92⅝; May, 99⅝c.

When, from any cause, the digestion and secretory organs become disordered, they may be stimulated to healthy action by the use of Ayer's Cathartic Pills. These pills are prescribed by the physicians, and are for sale at all drug stores.

MY NECESSITY MAKES YOUR OPPORTUNITY.

This will be the Clearing Sale of the season, and takes place before stock-taking, at
THOMAS KELLY'S.

Th season is now far advanced and as there is only a short time to clear out the stock before stock-taking, I have decided to make this the Greatest Clearing Sale of the season by reducing the whole stock to such prices as will effect a speedy sale. We are determined not to carry any goods over another winter season. The goods are all new, of the finest quality and the prices that are asked, unprecedented.

The balance of our Colored Surah Silks will be sold at 20c. per yard. How is this for price?

The balance of our Black Satin Merveilleux at 50c., 60c., 75c. and $1 per yard, are Bargains.

Remnants of silk, Black and Colored, to be cleared out at half price. See them.

DRESS GOODS! DRESS GOODS!

The whole of our large stock of Dry Goods will be cleared out at a slight advance of cost. The array of bargains which we are offering in Dry Goods is simply amazing; everyone that requires Dry Goods should call and inspect our stock and prices. Only one price to all.

NOW IS THE TIME TO GET WHITE AND GREY COTTONS AT MILL PRICES.

A Large Stock of Table Linens, Table Napkins, Sheetings, Tickings Quilts, Cretonnes, Grass Linens, Check Linens, Towels and Towellings, Lace Curtains, Pillow Cottons, Toilet Covers, &c., very low in price.
5 Pieces Circular Pillow Cotton for 13½c per yard, and 46 in. wide.

The time is short to clear out the stock, so you can expect to get bargains. It is money we want, and we are determined to have it.

"August Flower"

For two years I suffered terribly with stomach trouble, and was for all that time under treatment by a physician. He finally, after trying everything, said stomach was about worn out, and that I would have to cease eating solid food for a time at least. I was so weak that I could not work. Finally on the recommendation of a friend who had used your preparations with beneficial results, I procured a bottle of August Flower, and commenced using it. It seemed to do me good at once. I gained in strength and flesh rapidly; my appetite became good, and I suffered no bad effects from what I ate. I feel now like a new man, and consider that August Flower has entirely cured me of Dyspepsia in its worst form. JAMES E. DEDERICK, Saugerties, New York.

A worn-out Stomach.

W. B. Utsey, St. George's, S. C., writes: I have used your August Flower for Dyspepsia and find it an excellent remedy.

AGRICULTURE

In driving along a somewhat noted road that runs due west through a fine farming section of this State one is struck with the great difference in the appearance of the dwellings situated on the north side from those on the south. Nearly all of those on the north side have large bay windows filled with blooming plants and ample verandas fronting on the road and appear to be pleasant, sunny houses, while most of those on the south side seem cold, wind-swept, and rather forbidding in appearance. In contrast with them is a rather small house situated on the south side of the road, which the writer lately found. It seemed so neat and cosy that permission was obtained to examine it more closely, and procure the plan. The owner is an intelligent and prosperous American Agriculturist reader. In compliance with a request he made a drawing of the plan of his house, and also that of his brother, situated on the same side a few hundred yards farther on. He said that as he always felt safest near the ground in stormy weather he had built his house but one story high. The main part of plan, Fig. 1, is sixteen by twenty-four, with ten-foot posts. This gives a high ceiling and makes the rooms appear large, light, and airy. The parlor fronts north and east, and has a large bay window in the east side which catches all the morning sun and enables his wife to keep a fine collection of flowering plants in bloom. A neat window on the north gives a full view of the road. Adjoining the parlor are two bedrooms having a sliding partition between them which can be moved aside with a touch, converting both rooms into one. Instead of doors heavy curtains are used between the parlor and bedrooms. In the bedroom is a large closet which is kept warm and dry by the flue. From the parlor a door opens into the kitchen, which is west of the main part, and is twelve by fourteen feet. On the north of the kitchen is the entry having a fancy glazed outside door, and plain glazed doors opening into parlor and kitchen. The entry is thus lighted from without in daytime, and from within at night. Here are hooks and rack for coats and hats, a bootjack and slippers. Adjoining the entry is a small bedroom used by the hired man. On the opposite side of the kitchen is a convenient pantry. At the end of that an open porch entry inclosed with wire cloth to exclude flies. Here also is the entrance to the cellar which is under the kitchen. This porch entry is protected from cold west winds by a neat coal house, as shown in the plan. At the end of the coal house is an earth closet, a place which is so admirably arranged that it is as neat and free from odor as a parlor. It will be noticed that in order to enter the house from either way it is necessary to pass through two doors. This arrangement effectually excludes flies in summer and cold draughts in winter, which all sensible housewives will appreciate.

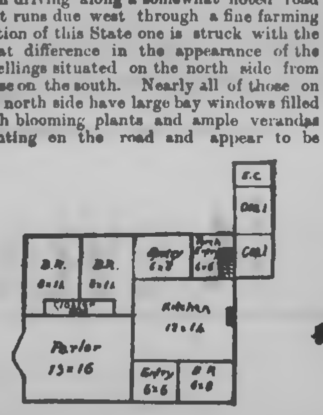

FIG. 1. PLAN OF FARMHOUSE FACING NORTH.

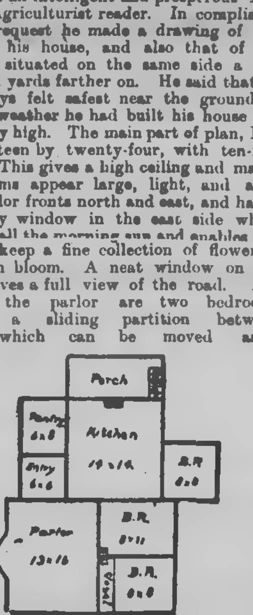

FIG. 2. PLAN OF FARMHOUSE AT LOW COST.

In plan No. 2 the side of the main part is toward the road, and a neat little entry is built in front of the door. The kitchen bedroom is built on the west side of that part. A large porch on the south, latticed at each end and inclosed with wirecloth, makes a nice dining-room in summer. I noticed that the path leading to the kitchen entry was worn much more than that leading to the front door. The coal houses were about thirty feet from the kitchen door. Both of these dwellings are well protected from the west and northwest winds, by effective windbreaks of Norway spruce and red cedar, while white pines judiciously distributed on the north and east destroyed the force of cold northeast gales. These two houses—especially the first—are neat and tasteful in appearance and possess much of the comfort and many of the advantages of those fronting south. The plans are commended to the consideration of those who are obliged to front their dwellings to the north, believing that they will find in them many useful hints.—F. Grandy, Illinois, in American Agriculturist.

Florida versus Manitoba.

Mr. Richard Waugh, of Manitoba, seems to think that the northern limit of production secures the most perfect vegetation, as well as superior animals and men. This is doubtless true of many vegetables and cereals that can mature in a short season. In high latitudes where the sun shines from sixteen to twenty-two hours during the day in summer, and the mercury gets up to 100° and 120°, the ground does not cool off, hence, vegetation gets a wonderful stimulus, other things being equal. In such climates short-lived vegetation may be expected to attain its greatest perfection, animals must be provided with a great amount of fat food, stored away to be burned up in the system during winter, to keep up the normal temperature of the blood. The animal must labor hard to eat and digest food and again to burn it up in winter to keep from freezing to death. It must wear out and die sooner than in a country where half of that labor only is required to sustain life. What is true of animals is true of men, and we must look for the perfect specimens of both farther south.

ana, where the crop is cut short by frosts. The same is true of rice and some other crops. Our vegetables here are mostly grown in winter, when the temperature varies from 50° to 84°, and are nearly twice as long in maturing than in Minnesota. They may not be as crisp as those grown farther north, but are certainly finer flavored and superior for food. The death rate here I find to be not more than half what it is farther north. I have lived fifty-nine years in the North and six years here, winter and summer. You may call me cranky, if you like, but I say a man coming here from Illinois will lose from ten to thirty pounds in weight and yet be in better health. We can do as much, if not more, manual labor any day of the year here than a man can in Illinois under the most favorable conditions.—Dr. L. C. Washburn, Lee Co., Fla.

In this part of Florida, four hundred miles south of Georgia, the sun shines eleven hours during our shortest days, and thirteen hours during our longest days, and the extremes of temperature between our coldest mornings in winter and hottest days in summer are 50° to 94°. Here the sugar cane grows all the year and turns out one-third more sugar per ton than in Louisi-

DR. JAMES' NERVE BEANS.

NERVE BEANS are a new discovery that relieve and cure the worst cases of Nervous Debility, Lost Vigor and Failing Manhood; restore the weakness of body or mind caused by over-work, or the errors and excesses of youth. This remedy absolutely cures the most obstinate cases when all other TREATMENTS have failed even to relieve. They do not, like other preparations advertised for Lost Manhood, etc., interfere with digestion; but impart new life, strength and energy in a quick and harmless manner, peculiar to themselves.

Sold by druggists at $1 00 per package, or six for $5.00, or sent by mail on receipt of price. Address The James Medicine Co., Canadian Agency, Montreal P.Q. Sold in Peterborough by G. A. SCHOFIELD, 402 George St. Write for pamphlet. 1yd78w10

THE TWO GREAT LEADERS

SALISBURY AND CHAMBERLAIN AT BIRMINGHAM.

The Unionist Leader Announces That There are More Reasons Than Ever Why the Dissidents Should Oppose Gladstone—The Premier on the Trade Qustion.

BIRMINGHAM, Nov. 26.—The Unionists of Birmingham gave a luncheon in honor of Lord Salisbury yesterday.

In a speech Lord Salisbury expressed sorrow for the death of Lord Lytton and said that the fame of that diplomatist would long remain.

Referring to the tariff question, he said that on all sides there appeared constantly-increasing protective duties, which were calculated to stifle British trade. The protection heresy, on which the tariffs were founded, grew like other evil passions upon what it fed. Watching English statistics, he could not but feel anxiety lest efforts of foreign protectionists should be partially successful. The errors of foreign statesmen might be translated to Great Britain; undoubtedly British trade was being hindered for the moment by foreign legislation.

Continuing, he said: "We have had trouble in the rural districts where no longer sound employment can be obtained, as formerly. Men have had to seek a desperate remedy by moving into towns. The Government will seize with avidity any measures promising legitimately to increase employment for laborers, either in town or rural district."

One of the most acute of the Government's anxieties was the fact that people, in their ignorance, tried remedies which, if obtained, would plunge them into far greater misery. The Government had a narrow path to tread. It must avoid dangerous apathy in attempting to cure suffering by simply ignoring the causes. On the other hand it must shun the far more dangerous course of wandering into economic errors that might plunge the whole country into irreparable disaster.

He concluded by congratulating the Liberal-Unionists on their steady adhesion to the Conservative alliance.

Mr. Chamberlain Speaks.

Joseph Chamberlain referred to the widening gulf separating the dissidents from the Gladstonians. He said he once hoped for a speedy reunion, but now he neither looked for it nor desired a reunion.

Whatever vicissitudes protracted the struggle, the Unionists would march shoulder to shoulder with the Conservatives until they finally defeated the conspiracy against the integrity of the empire. He predicted that England's foreign relations would be seriously menaced if Mr. Gladstone again came into power, thus giving effect to views against the Dreibund. The recent utterances of Mr. Gladstone about Egypt were an additional reason why the dissidents should try to prevent a change of Government. It was not necessary to ask Lord Salisbury for pledges on entering into competition with the authors of the Newcastle "bag of tricks" program. The joint efforts of Unionists and Conservatives would both save the country from disintegration and give the people legislation based upon democratic instincts.

...ent.-Governor Campbell's Condition.

TORONTO, Nov. 26.—Sir Alexander Campbell passed a quiet day yesterday and was much improved. His physician called in the morning and again in the evening and was gratified at his increasing strength and convalescence The ill effects of the partial stroke of paralysis which came somewhat suddenly upon Sir Alexander on Wednesday seems to be disappearing and he will probably be quite well again in a few days.

Shot Himself While Hunting

LONDON, Nov. 26.—A young man named Elliot, living at Pond Mills, was out shooting in a boat on the ponds there Monday. He had shot a muskrat, and was in the act of pulling in the animal with the butt of the gun, when the trigger of an undischarged barrel of his gun became caught, exploding the load of shot into the unfortunate sportsman. He may die.

Fatal Flood in Bruce.

INVERHURON, Ont., Nov. 26.—During a terrible rain yesterday the river undermined the house and stable of John Smith. Two of his children, girls, went down with the house and were drowned. Last night the house was four rods from the river.

A CRIMINAL'S CAREER.

Petition For the Release From Penitentiary of Edward Gahan.

OTTAWA, Nov. 26.—Petitions are before the Minister of Justice asking commutation of the sentence of life imprisonment which Edward Gahan, alias Graham, is now serving in Kingston Penitentiary. The crime of which he was last convicted he committed in August, 1887, in Toronto. One morning he entered a cigar store in Yonge-street, kept by one Sievert. He engaged the proprietor's son, a young man, in conversation, and in a few moments drew a bottle from his pocket and threw four ounces of vitriol in his face. Young Sievert was terribly disfigured and lost the sight of one eye completely. It is said that Magistrate Denison, who sentenced the prisoner, is opposed to any commutation.

Graham's criminal record, as adduced at the trial, shows that he has been a desperate character. In 1872 he was sentenced to 18 months' imprisonment for forgery in Kent, England; in June, 1880, he was sentenced to seven years for larceny in Chichester, and again in June, 1884, to another term of seven years for forgery in London, Eng. Detectives who are familiar with the history of his career say that Graham committed any number of crimes similar to those mentioned. The London forgery was one of the most daring pieces of rascality ever perpetrated. Graham, it is said, disguised himself in the uniform of a paymaster of a regiment stationed in the London district by the aid of several accomplices attired as officers, and drew about $20,000 due to the troops. For seven years he lived on the continent, chiefly at Paris and Berlin, on the proceeds of a a series of robberies. Graham's friends say that his incarceration is killing him, and allege that the crime for which he is serving his life sentence was committed under the provocation of an injustice done by his victim to a female member of the convict's family. It is also said that he very nearly effected his escape from penitentiary by sawing through the iron bars of his cell.

MURPHY'S LUCK.

It Would Be Libelous to Say That He Was Anything But "an Agent."

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Mr. Owen Murphy, the gentleman who some years ago sought the cool climate of Canada with a wallet well lined with excise moneys and recently returned because the climate changed, does not appear to be in any great danger of suffering. District Attorney De-Lancey Nicoll said to-day that he had been examining the law applicable to Murphy's case, but he had not yet succeeded in finding any way to prosecute him.

"Murphy took the money before the criminal code went into force," said Mr. Nicoll, "and at that time misappropriation of funds by a trustee or agent was not larceny. The money which Murphy took was in his possession as an agent and was to be returned if the applications for licences made by any of the owners were refused. In fact, the small remnant left by Murphy was distributed among the losers by a receiver afterward, while the city did not lose a cent. Under these circumstances I do not yet see how I can do anything to punish him."

ALLEGED CUSTOMS FRAUDS.

The Government Making a Thorough Investigation Into All the Circumstances.

OTTAWA, Nov. 26.—Inspector McMichael of the Customs service is here in connection with the recent Davison frauds in Toronto. The department is making a thorough enquiry into all the circumstances and it is believed that sufficient has already been proven to implicate at least one Toronto official in the frauds.

Canada's Proposed Fast Line.

OTTAWA, Nov. 26.—Mr. A. Adamson of Barrow-in-Furness, England, managing director of the Naval Construction and Armaments Company, which built the three Empresses for the C.P.R. is in town, and to-day had an interview with Hon. Mr. Foster. It is believed the object of his visit has to do with the proposed fast Atlantic service. Mr. Adamson says that he thinks Canada should have a fast service to the mother country and if the scheme is properly floated it could be made a success.

G.T.R. Express Business.

OTTAWA, Nov. 26.—The Railway Committee of the Privy Council met yesterday and heard the argument of counsel in the dispute between the Ontario Express Company and the G.T.R. During the discussion Mr. Bell announced that on Jan. 1 next the G.T.R. would assume all express business itself. Mr. Hall, for the express company, held that he was able to prove a conspiracy against his clients, and the committee granted a remand until Wednesday next, when witnesses will be examined.

Arbitrators Appointed.

PARIS, Nov. 26.—The Pas de Calais mine owners have appointed six arbitrators to meet and confer with delegates chosen by the striking miners.

Stanley to Leave in the Spring.

LONDON, Nov. 26.—Edmund Yates cables: I have reason to believe that Lord Stanley of Preston intends to resign his appointment as Governor-General of Canada next spring, but it is not true that he is to follow the steps of Lord Dufferin and Lord Lansdowne and proceed from Ottawa to Calcutta. It is certain, in spite of a quasi-official contradiction, that Lord Lansdowne will return home next year, so that both India and Canada will be for the second time at Lord Salisbury's disposal.

CLOSE OF THE CONVENTION.

Additional Resolutions Passed at the Birmingham Conservative Conference.

BIRMINGHAM, Eng., Nov. 26.—The conference of the National Union of Conservative Associations finished its session yesterday. These resolutions were carried:

That this meeting cordially endorses the principle of assisting local authorities in Great Britain to acquire land for the purpose of facilitating the creation of small rural holdings, and is of opinion that such a measure, if carefully safeguarded, will be of great advantage to the country by checking the present drain upon the rural districts and the consequent overcrowding in the towns.

That the principles advocated by the United Empire Trade League favoring the extension of commerce upon a preferential basis throughout all parts of the British Empire will be of highest collective and individual advantage, and further, that provisions of any treaties imposing limitations upon the full development of trade between the United Kingdom and other parts of the British Empire should be abrogated.

That the clauses in the ballot act which permit the illiterate vote tend to prevent that act being carried out effectually and that the repeal is therefore to be desired.

That this congress desires to express its regret that the reform acts of 1884 and 1885 failed to define the household qualifications for parliamentary voters, thus increasing the difficulties of registration and rendering the possession of the franchise largely a question of political effort, and affording opportunities for those, not qualified, to be placed upon the register and trusts that this question may be adopted by the Conservative party at the next general election with a view to the statute law being consolidated and simplified.

The delegates believe the work done at this congress will have an important bearing at the next general election by drawing to the party the votes of many of the electors, agricultural laborers, etc., who have long thought that the Conservative party should display more desire to bring about a betterment in their condition.

International Emigration Conference.

PARIS, Nov 26.—The International Emigration Conference opened here yesterday. The question of placing a check upon emigration has become of great importance to several of the European nations and it is also a matter of interest to America, to which country a large majority of the emigrants make their way. During the conference the delegates will visit Havre to inspect the vessels engaged in carrying emigrants from that port and to look into the arrangements for the accommodation of that class of passengers.

Mr. Jules Simon, the distinguished French statesman, will preside over the deliberations of the conference.

All the European countries in which the question of emigration has become a passing one have sent delegates to take part in the conference, with the exception of England and Russia. The former country will, however, have a representative present but he is instructed by his Government simply to watch the proceedings and take no active part in the deliberations.

—THE—

GOLDEN LION.

You will find this a great store. The more you get acquainted with its ways, the more you will like it. You will always find great bargains here that will please you, as it does our regular customers. There are always bargains in every department.

Take for instance Jackets in their season. In a lot of 50 Cloaks of one kind, probably one or two will hang fire. Variety gone, price was, say $20 but the two go for $8 or $10 each. That's done every week. Last week we sold a Beautiful Embroidered imported Dolman that sold at $22 for $10.

For another example take Dress Goods. Some lines of our 50c. goods go for 35c. and 25c. and so on.

People that understand shopping ask for these goods and get them.

Did you know that shopping requires experience. We always keep a fresh stock by selling out the tail end clean, even if at a sacrifice. Nothing is carried over.

This week and for the coming month you will find exceptional bargains in Mantle Cloths.

Exceptionally large bargains in Men's and Boys' Overcoats.

If one price or style fails to suit, you ask for another. Don't be afraid of asking for what you want. Keep on until you get it. It's here. There are few stocks that excel ours outside of the large cities.

We come before our readers to-day to tell them about one of the greatest bargains we have ever had to offer in which is heavy double fold Amazon Cloths, 42 to 43 in. wide, at 50c. a yard, worth 90c., in ten different shades. They are soft as velvet, close and fine with a bright finish like Henrietta Cloths, but have the appearance of the old style broad cloth men used to wear. They have been on our counters only a few days at this price and are going out rapidly, but we hope to have enough to supply the demand while this notice appears in this paper.

Those Overcoats we talked about last week are a surprise to everybody. They sell themselves every time. The best of the lot only $8, lower grades down to $5.

White Wool Blankets fresh from the mill, at $2.50 and $3 a pair, extra large sizes particularly cheap.

We pride ourselves in selling what we think is the best $15 Suit, made to order, in Town. A splendid selection of patterns to choose from.

LONDON ELECTION CASE.

THE PETITION TO UNSEAT MR. HYMAN, M.P.

The Trial Opened in the Forest City Yesterday—Great Interest Taken in the Proceedings—The Boodle Trials in Ottawa—The Mercier Prosecutions.

LONDON, Nov. 27.—The trial of the petition against the return of Charles S. Hyman as member of Parliament for this city began at the court house yesterday afternoon shortly after 1 o'clock, before the Hon Justices Ferguson and Robertson. The counsel are: B. B. Osler, Q.C., E. Meredith, Q.C., and J. C. Judd for the petitioner; John Pring and S. H. Blake, Q.C., and Gibbons, Q.C., for the respondent.

The interest aroused in the city by the trial caused the court room soon to be filled with eager people an hour before the judges took their seats.

George C. Gibbons, Q.C., was the first witness and was examined by Mr. Osler in regard to the organization of committees during the late campaign and his connection with the senior and junior Liberal Associations of the city, for the purpose of laying the foundation for the establishment of agencies.

CAPITAL GOSSIP.

Continuation of the Conspiracy Trials at Ottawa Yesterday.

OTTAWA, Nov. 27.—On the re-opening of the conspiracy investigation against Hon. Thomas McGreevy and the Connollys yesterday W. B. Cross again took the stand and presented a statement of the payment of the $25,000 note and the subsequent treatment of the same. In 1887 several contracts besides those mentioned in the indictment were being carried on by Larkin, Connolly & Co., but no trace of the amount of profits derived from any contract could be found. In March, 1888, $100,000 profits were divided, and in January, 1889, $130,000 were divided.

Mr. Hogg, Q.C., here addressed the court, stating that the Crown witnesses were exhausted.

Mr. Osler, Q.C., left hurriedly last night, but said he thought a short sitting would suffice after an adjournment.

Judge Ross thought they ought to be ready to go on. The matter was a very serious one for the gentlemen charged.

Mr. Ferguson, Q.C., said the defendants were simply made tools of by the crown counsels. It was an outrageous thing to lay the information in Ontario for charges committed in Quebec, and bring defendants and witnesses, at great expense, to Ottawa. The evidence so far amounts to nothing, and it was a gross wrong to these men of honorable position and substance in the country not to go on.

Judge Ross thought there ought to be some ground. He did not approve of the application.

After a long argument Judge Ross said he was very reluctant to grant the application. If he was there in capacity of judge, instead of as magistrate, he would not entertain the application.

The court adjourned until Monday.

THE MERCIER SUITS.

The Accused Arrive in Quebec and Promptly Give Bail.

QUEBEC, Nov. 27.—Messrs. Richard White and J. P. Whelan, arrested Wednesday in Montreal at the instance of Premier Mercier on an allegation of criminal libel, arrived yesterday with a number of Montreal sympathizers. They appeared this morning before Judge Chauveau and gave bail for their further appearance.

William Ros, the Quebec head of the shipping firm of Allan, Roe & Co., and John Sharples, head of the firm of J. & W. Sharples, lumber merchants, went bail for Richard White, Whelan's bondsmen being John J. Macdonald, contractor, and Owen Murphy, M.L.A.

It appears that there was a proposal that the accused should waive preliminary investigation and consent to be at once committed for trial. This was promptly declined.

Personal Charges Dismissed.

HALIFAX, Nov. 2.—The charges of personal bribery against F. G. Forbes, ex-M.P. for Queen's county, were dismissed yesterday. The seat has been declared vacant. The petition in the Yarmouth election case has been set down for trial on April 12, and the petition in the Shelburne case for trial on April 20.

WANTED TO DIE.

But Doctors Pumped Two Ounces of Poison Out of Him.

LINDSAY, Nov. 27.—H. Dennis, better known as "Doctor," attempted to commit suicide by taking a dose of laudanum. Dennis had been drinking hard lately, and when partly intoxicated he purchased a two-ounce bottle of laudanum and drank the whole of the contents. After two hours' work by physicians his life was saved, but he refused to submit to the doctors' treatment, saying "that he wanted to die."

STARTLING STATEMENT.

A SPY DISCOVERED IN LORD SALISBURY'S HOUSE.

Sensational Cablegram That an Emissary from the Vatican Secured Ingress into Hatfield House in the Garb of a Factotum—The Berlin Ripper.

LONDON, Nov. 27.—A curious story has just been made public, which appears to show that the Vatican has had an emissary in the household of the Marquis of Salisbury. This startling intelligence comes from a lady who was recently a guest at Hatfield House, the residence in Hertfordshire of the Prime Minister. The facts are set forth as follows in a letter written by the lady referred to:

"The last time I was staying at Hatfield house I was struck by the face of the man who was employed in the capacity of major domo of the establishment. The features of this man haunted me as those of someone whom I had seen before. While trying to remember where and when I had seen him I looked at the man rather frequently. He noticed me observing him and seemed somewhat disconcerted. Suddenly I remembered where we had met before and he instantly saw the recognition in my countenance. It was in the Vatican, over a part of which place while on a visit he had conducted me garbed in the robes of an Italian priest. He used fluent English in describing to me the various things of interest which he pointed out during our tour of the building, and appeared to me to be a most affable man. When I had discovered the identity of my former guide I at once resolved to tell the facts to Lord Salisbury at the first opportunity next morning, but found upon arising the following day that my quondam friend had decamped during the night, taking all his belongings with him. News of the sudden disappearance of the major domo caused considerable confusion in the Premier's household. I told the Marquis all I knew about the matter and he appeared to be very much put out by the intelligence which I imparted to him, but had little to say in regard to the strange occurrence. The members of Lord Salisbury's family, however, thoroughly discussed all the facts of the case, and the conclusion arrived at by them after everything had been considered was at the missing Major Domo was a Jesuit agent and that he had insinuated himself into the Premier's family for the purpose of discovering secret information for the Vatican."

Duties in Food Supplies.

LONDON, Nov. 27.—The Deliberative Committee of the Imperial Federation League Council meets next week to consider Sir Charles Tupper's and the other proposals for a closer unity of the Empire.

The supporters of the United Empire Trade League are much gratified by the enthusiastic adoption yesterday by a large majority of the National Conservative Conference of the resolution favoring prompt action by the Government to promote a customs arrangement throughout the empire. The papers to-day, however, dwell more upon Lord Salisbury's reply as showing that, though a portion of the rank and file of the Conservative party may support the idea, the Government is still persuaded it is not ripe for official sanction.

The Times says: It is impossible to discuss it without proof, of which none is likely to come, that the great colonies will cooperate on terms not involving the duties on food supplies.

The Morning Post, another Government organ, says the question will remain an open one, but The St. James Gazette warns the Government that the revolt against one-sided free trade is more real among the workingmen than the Premier imagines.

The Liberal journals applaud Lord Salisbury's remarks.

AN ACTOR MURDERED.

A Circus Performer Killed by a Rejected Suitor.

LONDON, Nov. 27.—Elizabeth Armstrong of Nottingham, a circus artist engaged in Cooke's circus, where she appeared as a pedestal performer and dancer under the professional name of Lizzie Pastor, was returning home after the performance when she was accosted by an old lover, who plunged a knife into her breast. The weapon penetrated her heart and she dropped dead. For some time past the man had been pressing his attentions upon the woman, but she did not favor his suit. She is said to have become engaged to a fellow-performer to the chagrin of her other admirer. The murderer was arrested.

No Scarcity of Coal.

PARIS, Nov. 27.—A number of manufacturers in the department of Pas de Calais, where the great miners' strike is in force, have succeeded in importing coal despite the appeal recently issued by the strikers to the miners of Great Britain, Belgium and Germany to limit their output to the actual requirements of their home trade, and thus prevent the export of coal to France. Large quantities of coal from German and Belgian mines are arriving daily.

British Bark Wrecked.

LONDON, Nov. 27.—The British bark Georgetown, Captain Scott, from Palma Majorica, which arrived at Faro, Nov. 5, has been wrecked. The captain's wife, who accompanied him on the voyage, and six members of the crew were drowned, but the remainder of those on board succeeded in reaching the shore.

Death of a Servant of the Queen.

LONDON, Nov. 27.—A very old and faithful servant of the Queen, Mr. Maslin, is dead, in his 82nd year, to Her Majesty's great regret. He entered Her Royal Highness the Duchess of Kent's service at the age of 17, early in the year 1828, when the Queen was only 9 years old, and remained with the Duchess until Her Royal Highness died, in 1861, when he entered Her Majesty's service as page, and was in attendance at the Jubilee, but retired that autumn on account of failing health. He was the last remaining person excepting one person who knew the Queen as a child, and remembered all her youth; and she deeply feels the severance of this link with the past.

The Attempt Successful.

VIENNA, Nov. 27.—Herr Krapf Von Liverhof, Secretary of the Austrian Legation at Washington, who was here on leave and who shot himself on Tuesday last, is dead. He was suffering from mental depression and no doubt is entertained that he was not responsible for his action.

THE CANADIAN BUDGET

TWO FATALITIES IN TORONTO YESTERDAY.

A Sailor Drowned—Killed by a Packing Case—Attempted Suicide at Lindsay—Shot in Mistake for a Deer—A Bigamist Sentenced.

TORONTO, Nov. 27.—About 12.15 last night P. C. Joe Phillips noticed a man stagger past him at the foot of Church-street, by all appearances making his way for one of the boats tied up at the dock. The man was an employe of the Shickluna and had been paid off yesterday morning, receiving an amount of about $180. He was known on board by the name of Sam Jean and hailed from Montreal. The unfortunate man had fallen in the water between the boat and the wharf and his cries attracted the attention of Captain Jackson, who was reading in the cabin. The captain placed a ladder between the ship and wharf to keep the boat away from the dock, but before help could be obtained the unfortunate man had sunk beneath the water. The body was recovered from the bay and removed to the Morgue.

THOUGHT IT WAS GIN.

A Druggist's Mistake, Which May Have a Fatal Result.

GRAND VALLEY, Ont., Nov. 27.—Mr. George Bennett of Laurel was in Shelburne, on business, and not feeling very well he went into a drug store for the purpose of getting something in the line of a stimulant. He was given a bottle of ammonia in mistake for gin and took a rather large dose before leaving the store. The mistake was noticed at once and he was removed to the residence of his brother-in-law, Mr. William Jelly, where he is at present lying in a very critical condition.

BOTH WERE DEAD.

Double Drowning of Two Young Skaters in New Brunswick.

WOODSTOCK, N.B., Nov. 27.—A very sad drowning accident occurred at Avondale, about 9 miles from Woodstock. Two promising lads named Tracey and Sherwood, about 14 years of age, went skating on the mill pond. About two hours after they left their homes one of the boys' uncles in passing noticed a hole in the pond, which aroused suspicion. He immediately collected a crowd, and upon reaching in the hole the bodies of the two boys were found in an upright position just below the surface.

MADE A CONFESSION.

Two Brothers Admit Having Attempted to Wreck a Train.

BARRIE, Nov. 27.—On Oct. 26 last an attempt was made to throw the passenger train going north off the track near Severn Bridge. A piece of iron was placed on the rail in such a way that the engine would assuredly have left the track had it not been seen and removed by a section man. It was also near an embankment that would have been fatal to any one falling over it. Suspicion rested on two persons named William and Herbert Bailey, reputed to be brothers. They were arrested, pleaded guilty to the charge, and were committed to Barrie jail for trial.

Bigamy Cases.

BRANTFORD, Nov. 27.—Herbert J. Smith alias Bert Lanmerte, operator, who married two women within a few months, was to-day, before Judge Jones, found guilty of bigamy and sentenced to three months in the Central Prison.

The judge, before sentencing Smith, said the punishment would be a light one owing to the mitigating circumstances which surrounded the case, his not having lived with his first wife at all, his subsequent good behavior to his second wife, and there being none to suffer for his crime but the two women.

An attempt to show that the young man was insane fell through. Mrs. O'Neail, the prisoner's mother, said Smith was her son. He was 19 on the coming Dec. 16. His mental condition was not good about the time of the first marriage. He was subject to epileptic fits. At that time he was a little over 16 years of age. His right name was Herbert Smith. Her son was at one time a Catholic, but renounced that faith afterwards. He had trouble with his stepfather. That was the reason he had changed his name. She did not think her son was sane at the time. When he took these fits he was very violent and became insane afterwards.

A Halifax Bigamist.

HALIFAX, N.S., Nov. 27.—Eight years ago John H. Lane married Lizzie Hamilton at Sheet Harbor, 50 miles from Halifax. Their union was blessed with four children. Two years ago Lane came to this city. Yesterday he was arrested, charged with bigamy. By his second marriage he has one child. Lane has been employed for some time as keeper of the Intercolonial Railway bridge across the narrows to Dartmouth.

Killed by a Box.

TORONTO, Nov. 27.—James Forrest, a carpenter in the Grand Trunk sheds, was engaged with two other men in trying to move a case of plate glass from a dray to a flat car on the siding yesterday. Forrest went to remove the props that held the crate on its edge, but using too much force they flew out suddenly, the crate toppled over and pinned the unfortunate man to the ground. Before the case could be raised from him life was extinct, the immense weight having almost cut his waist asunder. The deceased was about 60 years of age and lived on Bellwoods-avenue.

Shot For a Deer.

PARRY SOUND, Ont., Nov. 27.—George Clifford and a companion were out deer hunting in the township of Christie, and while walking in the woods were mistaken by another hunter named Thompson for a deer. Without waiting to make sure Thompson fired, the bullet fired hitting a tree and glancing struck young Clifford in the side. The bullet has not been extracted and Clifford will die.

The Bait Act Unconstitutional.

OTTAWA, Nov. 27.—The Imperial Government has notified the Newfoundland Government that her bait act is unconstitutional, and proposes that Canada and Newfoundland shall submit a joint test case to the Imperial Privy Council.

Committed for Manslaughter.

BELLEVILLE, Nov. 27.—The coroner's jury at Trenton returned a verdict that the boy Thomas Courtney came to his death from injuries inflicted by David Mountenay.

Photographer Notman Dead.

MONTREAL, Nov. 27.—William Notman, the well-known photographer, is dead. He was 55 years of age.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 27, 1891.

THE caterer of the Dominion House of Commons has been notified to have the restaurant in order on January 5, and this leads some to believe that the next session of Parliament will begin above the middle of January.

INSPECTOR McMichael, of the customs service, is in Ottawa in connection with the recent Davidson frauds in Toronto. The department is making a thorough enquiry into all the circumstances, and it is believed that sufficient has already been proven to implicate at least one Toronto official in the frauds.

THERE are twenty-five election trials, principally in the "interest" of Conservative members-elect, yet to take place in this Province, and all but three are fixed for next month. The Christmas season this year may, therefore, suggests the Mail, prove anything but a time of joy for some of our legislators. They may have to eat some crow with their turkey.

HON. THOMAS McGREEVY, who was in Ottawa city attending the inquiry into the case against himself and the Connelly's at the Police court, informed the Free Press that he had not yet made up his mind as to whether or not he would be a candidate for Quebec west. His friends were anxious that he should again contest that constituency, and so far refused to support any other candidate. If he did accept the nomination he would not run as a Conservative, but as Independent.

AT Woodstock, Ontario, on Tuesday, Mr. Sol. White, M.P.P. for North Essex, one of the leaders of the Conservative party in the Ontario assembly, addressed a meeting in favor of annexation, while Mr. James Sutherland, the Reform M.P. for North Oxford, opposed Mr. White and carried the meeting with him. And yet, the Ottawa Free Press remarks, there are idiots who assert that the Tories of Ontario are loyal to the core while the Reformers are all traitors and annexationists. Perhaps Mr. Abbott has put forward Mr. White to advocate a policy which he has not the courage to espouse himself.

ANOTHER test election comes off shortly in south-western England, which will be fought even more bitterly than that which took place a few days ago in Devonshire. The representation of the east division of Dorsetshire, which includes Wimborne, was rendered vacant by the death of Mr. G. H. Bond, the late Conservative member. Mr. Bond was defeated in 1885 by Mr. P. C. Glyn, by about 700 votes, but in 1886, on the split in the Liberal party, he carried the constituency by about 650 against the Liberal member. His death left the Conservatives unprepared and without a candidate and his party have induced Mr. Humphrey Sturt, the candidate for the neighboring constituency of Christchurch, in Hampshire, to run on the distinct understanding that in any event he is to be the Conservative candidate for the former constituency, a steadily Conservative one, though not by a large majority, at the approaching general elections. Mr. Glyn will again be the Liberal candidate and the Liberals are very confident of victory. They expect a majority as large as that of 1885, Mr. Glyn is the son of Lord Wolverton, and Mr. Sturt of Lord Alington, both barons of recent creation.

"Aren't you ever going to grow old, like the rest of us?" asked a man of an acquaintance he hadn't seen for some time. "Well, not so long as I can purify my blood with Ayer's Sarsaparilla," was the apt reply. This man knew what he was talking about.

The Annexation Meeting—Friends of British Connection Urged to Attend—An Earnest Argument for the Maintenance of the Connection With the Empire.

WOODSTOCK, Nov. 25.—Anent the public meeting held here yesterday afternoon in the interests of "continental" union, the following letter from the Hon. Oliver Mowat, addressed to Dr. McKay, M.P.P., for South Oxford, Liberal whip in the Legislature, appeared in this evening's Sentinel-Review :—

TORONTO, 23rd November, 1891.

MY DEAR MR. MCKAY,—With reference to our conversation this morning I desire to reiterate my strong opinion that it would not be a good policy for the friends of British connection and the old flag to stay away from Mr. Solomon White's meeting at Woodstock to-morrow. By doing so, or not voting at the meeting, they would enable annexationists to carry a resolution in favor of their views, and to trumpet it throughout the Dominion and elsewhere as the sentiment of the community as a whole. If in the loyal town of Woodstock, thriving beyond most, if not all, the other towns of Ontario, and in the banner county of Canadian Liberalism, formerly represented by the great champion of both British connection and Liberal principles the Hon. George Brown, and noted ever since for its fidelity at once to the old flag and to the Liberal views; if in such place a resolution were carried at a public meeting to which all had been invited, no subsequent explanation as to the thinness of the attendance, or as to the contemptuous absence of opponents would, outside of Oxford, have any weight.

There are in most counties a few annexationists; in some counties more than in others: but the aggregate number in the Dominion I am sure, is small as compared with the aggregate population. The great majority of our people, I believe and trust, are not prepared to hand over this great Dominion to a foreign nation for any present commercial consideration which may be proposed. We love our sovereign and we are proud of our status as British subjects. The imperial authorities have refused nothing in the way of self-government which our representatives have asked for.

OUR COMPLAINTS

are against Parliaments and Governments which acquired their power from our own people. To the United States and its people we are all most friendly. We recognize the advantages which would go to both them and us from extended trade relations, and we are willing to go as far in that direction that shall not involve, now or in the future, political union; but there Canadians of every party have hitherto drawn the line, and I trust will continue to draw the line. We do not wish to disconnect ourselves with the motherland, unless it should be by-and-bye to set up for ourselves as an independent nation in friendly alliance with the motherland, if no longer in political connection with it. But the time for absolute independence has not come. The strongest tie between the Provinces of the Dominion at this moment is British connection and all that such connection implies. British connection should therefore be cherished by all practical means until other ties and the mutual interests of the Provinces become strong enough to secure their union and their independence as a nation. North America is amply large enough for two independent nations; and two friendly nations would be better for both populations than one nation embracing the whole continent.

I am glad to believe that these are your views as well as mine; and I should strongly advise that as many as may be of our constituents who hold them should endeavour to attend the meeting to-morrow, and should carry a resolution or any present change in our political relations. Such a resolution would show that we love our own nation better than any other nation, and our own interests better than the interests of any other country; that we are prepared to sacrifice something if necessary—though I do not suppose any sacrifice will be necessary—in order to retain the allegiance of this great Dominion to the Sovereign we love, instead of suffering it to be transferred to another nation which may any day be at war with our own nation, the nation of our fathers.

For Liberals there is an additional reason for maintaining our political relations with the fatherland, in that the electorate of Great Britain and Ireland has recently been so extended that the Government and Parliament are now, and shall henceforward be more than ever before, under the control of the body of the people.

Agreeably to your suggestion, I have thus hastily stated my long cherished views; and these views and sentiments I hold very strongly. I believe and trust that they are the views and sentiments of the great majority of the Liberals, and of the Conservatives also, of the County of Oxford, and I am very anxious that the country, whose honoured representatives you and I are, should not be misrepresented or misunderstood, I wish the Dominion to know that Oxford has not forgotten the dear lands—England, Ireland or Scotland—from which most of its population, they or their fathers have come. There is no more enlightened or civilized or free nation in the world, and I venture to say that there is no nation Oxford or its representatives can now be induced to prefer to it.

Yours faithfully,
O. MOWAT.

SUN LIFE

ASSURANCE COMPANY OF CANADA.

The attention of our Policy-Holders is directed to the following summary of the leading items of the present report, which speaks for itself as to the progress and prosperity of the Company:—

Life Assurances in force, 1st January, 1891	$16,759,355.92
Increase over previous year	3,431,372.34
New Applications received in 1890	6,371,599.15
Increase over 1889	2,968,388.00
Cash income for year ending 31st December, 1890	889,078.87
Increase over 1889	325,928.35
Assets at 31st December, 1890	2,473,514.19
Increase over 1889	687,691.47
Reserve for Security for Policy-Holders	2,109,222.66
Increase over 1889	567,732.71
Surplus over all Liabilities and Capital Stock	232,175.69
Increase over 1889	75,649.05
Death claims fallen in during 1890	143,961.65

The progress made by the SUN LIFE during 1890 was remarkable. The new business was the largest in the Company's history, and was equalled by but one other Canadian Life Company. The income for the year exceeds $2,000 for each day in the year, Sundays included. The Assets are large and rapidly increasing. They are, moreover, of the highest character, yielding an average interest of 6.04 per cent. The overdue interest is small, and the Real Estate owned under foreclosure is only four per cent. of the amount of mortgages. This is a remarkable showing. The SURPLUS accumulated during the FOUR years of the current quinquennium is nearly THREE TIMES as much as the amount earned during any previous FIVE years, and the profits to Policy-holders cannot fail thus to be highly satisfactory. The following are the figures:—

Net Surplus, 31st Dec., 1881, (five years)	$64,824 07
" " " " 1886,	89,452 97
" " " " 1890, (four years)	232,175 69

THE HOME OF THE COD.

ABOUT FISHING ON THE NEWFOUNDLAND BANKS.

How the "Shore" and "Bank" Fisheries are Conducted—Where the Fishing Fleets Ply Their Perilous Trade—Wasteful Methods of Fishing.

Two distinct kinds of fishery operations are, or until recent years have been, conducted from St. John's and from St. Pierre. One is the bank fishery the other the shore fishery. Their names describe their character.

The Newfoundland banks are submarine plateaus distant less than a hundred miles from the island. The largest of them, the Grand Bank, an immense rocky elevation, extends over nine degrees of latitude and five of longitude. The depth of the water above it is from 50 to 360 feet. Here the lordliest of the lordly cod reside, and here the fishing fleets of the United States, Newfoundland, France, and Canada ply their perilous trade. At the present day the bank fishery alone can be depended on. Formerly the waters all along the American coast from Massachusetts to Labrador were prolific of cod and herring. But reckless and wasteful methods of fishing—the seine, the cod net, the cod trap, and the bultow—have gradually depleted the shore fisheries until they now supply but a precarious living to those who still engage in them. They are not yet wholly abandoned except by the French and the Americans. The fishermen of these nations, being compelled to go a long distance to find a fishing-ground, whether on the banks or along the coasts and therefore to fit out for a deep-sea voyage anyhow, naturally go where the fish are best and most plentiful. But those Canadians and Newfoundlanders who live along the harbors and coasts still frequented by the fish not unusually make good catches. They have the advantage of not being required to furnish themselves with large vessels. A stanch skiff is all they need, so that, although at best their fisheries are poor and incomparable with those they once enjoyed, there is still a measure of profit in the business.

There is an essential difference between the craft employed on the banks and those used by the shore fishermen. A "banker" of the American type is by far the stanchest and swiftest of the entire fishing fleet. A spectacle more picturesque than is presented by this queenly creature, with her long low black hull and her vast reaches of snowy wing, standing in waters here blue in the shadow of the rocky cliff, there iridescent in the sunlight, and yonder, where the fleecy clouds are passing, empurpled, soft, and rich, would be hard indeed to find. Not the seas alone, with their boisterous winds and their conflicting currents, but the land, bold, rocky, often weird, and always majestic seems to be the natural home of a free, brave-hearted people. The cliffs that rise sharply from the sea on either side of the harbor channel at St. John's are examples of the coast. Everywhere these monster rocks are found standing over against each other with grim hard fronts, like giants in a moment's rest from battle. The banking fleet seem to be their fit companions. They suggest the same dauntless spirit, the same inherent power. All things that float look feeble on the brow of a dashing sea, but if there is a craft that literally makes sport of the waves—not gentle caressing waves, but mighty billows that tear along in nervous ferocity—it is one of these stiff, saucy bankers.

Very different is the fleet that may any time be seen in the shelter of Petty Harbor. As an illustration of life in an outport, every scene in Petty Harbor is typical. The village is far enough from St. John's to possess an independent fleet of its own, and near enough to a profitable shore fishery to insure employment and profit to all its people. The boats, mostly sloop-rigged, light but well built, at nightfall fill the harbor, moored close by the flakes on which the fish are drying. Before daybreak the bows are turned seaward, and, like horses in a steeple-chase, off they dash through the inlet, a dozen abreast, often with no more than the room of a salted herring from rail to rail between them.—Harper's Weekly.

TRAINED POWERS OF VISION.

The Wonderful Feat Schwatka Saw Performed by Alaska Indians

The injury suffered by Lieut. Schwatka, which led to a report of his death recently, recalls to mind his story of a wonderful feat which he saw performed by Alaska Indians during his raft journey of 1,300 miles down the Yukon River in 1883. The water of the river at the point where the incidents occurred was so muddy that if a tin cup were filled with it its bottom could not be seen. Yet an old man, a squaw or a child, standing on the bank in front of the Indian village, would cry out that a salmon was coming up the river, perhaps from a quarter to a third of a mile away.

Thereupon some young man would rush out of the log cabins and from his elevated position in front of them, identify the salmon's position. Running down the beach he would then paddle out his canoe, being directed in his course by half a dozen Indians on the bank, all shouting advice to him at the same time. He evidently was guided by their directions rather than by his own power of vision until the fish was near him. When he had got his canoe near the point desired he would regulate his movements by using the paddle as a sculling oar with his left hand, grasping with his right a scoop-net, the handle of which was nine or ten feet long.

The Indian would plunge this to the bottom in front of the salmon, often leaning over the canoe and thrusting his arm far into the water. Of seven such attempts within three hours which Schwatka saw two were entirely successful, while in two others the salmon were caught but escaped before the net could be raised to the surface. The [illegible] weighed from fifteen to twenty pounds, [illegible] mouth of the net was about two [illegible] feet in dimensions. The Indians tried to point out the coming fishes to the white and red companions of Schwatka, but they could see nothing. Schwatka's original theory was that the salmon, swimming near the surface, exposed their dorsal fins until they approached the canoe, when they became frightened and went to the bottom, but his interpreters assured him that this was not so, and that the fish communicated motion to the water even when swimming at the very bottom.

The salmon were taken about 200 or 250 yards from the shore, and success depended largely on giving the net a dexterous twist as soon as the fish had entered its mouth, so as to prevent his escape.

Born in the Sky.

A Writer in Nature's Realm says that little fishes may be hatched in the clouds. What he says about it is so interesting that his whole letter is herewith given:

"I observe a reference made in the American Angler touching upon showers of fishes, in which it states that science has not yet fully explained the phenomena. This is perhaps slightly incorrect. Several causes have been suggested. Might it not very probably be that fish and frogs which fall apparently from the skies are really bred there?

"Water fowl, it is known, very frequently carry eggs of fish to great distances, having swallowed them and in their flight disgorging the same unharmed where they can and do fructify and mature in water over which these birds pass. The eggs of many old fish are very glutinous, and readily adhere to substances brought in contact with them during particular times of their incubation. It is not very probable that not only do these birds convey ova upon their wings as well as in their crops, and when flying at great heights the ova, becoming detached from the wings, may remain suspended in the moist atmosphere, which is quite possible under certain conditions of atmospherical pressure, and that when under development they become too heavy and naturally fall to the earth, as frequently witnessed?"

Railroad in Palestine.

What would be the astonishment of the venerable old patriarch Abraham, or Isaac or Jacob, were it permitted him today to tread again the soil of Canaan, as of yore, and see one of our huge modern locomotives, with its great train of cars thundering over the vineclad hills and across the plains, at the rate of 40 miles an hour, to and fro between the shores of the Great Sea and the city of Zion! Or could be allowed to speak through a telephone to some old Philistine in Gath, 60 miles away! And yet old Judea is to have her railroads, telegraphs and telephones. It is a fact that the railway from Jaffa to Jerusalem, which was commenced some months ago, has already made some progress. The works have just been stopped on account of the bad weather. The work of laying the permanent way is still being pushed on, however. The line presents no small engineering difficulties, Jaffa being on the seashore, and Jerusalem lying at an altitude of 3,650 feet, while the distance between the two places is but 61 miles. Except the engines, which come from Philadelphia, all the plant and rolling stock have been made in France. There is to be at first only a single line, but the embankments have the necessary width for a second line, should one become necessary. The intermediate stations are five in number—namely, Iazur, Ramleh, Lydda, Naane and Artuff. All the employes are French.

An Old-Time Georgia Monster.

In August, 1812, a party of hunters found in a mountainous region now known as Rabun county, Georgia, a being nearly eight feet high, covered with bluish hair and having a human face adorned with immense ears resembling those of an ass. The creature was stone deaf, and on that account seemed to be wholly unconscious of the approach of the men. This monster seems, from old accounts, to have been seen upon several occasions during the next four years.

In 1816 a number of adventurers from Virginia, most of them surveyors working up the unexplored portions of Georgia and the Carolinas, formed themselves into a party for the express purpose of capturing the uncanny being, if possible. They scoured the hills and valleys for several days, and at last returned unsuccessful to the starting point. The learned Joseph Earle, then living at Culpepper, Va., wrote the following in a letter to John Bishop of Boston, Lincolnshire, England.

"An awful creature, half animal and half man, of gigantic statue and fierce mien, is known to inhabit the wild regions to the south of us. Some think that there is a race of these monsters hiding in the hills and mountains of Georgia, the place where it or they have been the oftenest seen. Of the few people which inhabit this wild country, not a soul which we have approached doubts that the creature is all that it is represented as being. Indeed, sir, one poor planter, who guided us a great distance from the falls, is convinced that he saw him face to face not more than three weeks since, an assertion my adventurous companions were only too ready to believe."

The many tales told of this extraordinary being seem to have created quite a stir all along the Atlantic coast. A printed circular issued by a land company in 1815 says: "The climate of Georgia is exceedingly mild, the soil productive and the danger of attack from uncouth beasts, which are represented as being half beast and half man, are fairy tales not worthy of consideration."—St. Louis Republic.

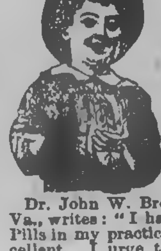
Sufferers

FROM Stomach and Liver derangements—Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Sick-Headache, and Constipation—find a safe and certain relief in



Ayer's Pills. In all cases where a cathartic is needed, these Pills are recommended by leading physicians.

Dr. T. E. Hastings, of Baltimore, says: "Ayer's Pills are the best cathartic and aperient within the reach of my profession."

Dr. John W. Brown, of Oceana, W. Va., writes: "I have prescribed Ayer's Pills in my practice, and find them excellent. I urge their general use in families."

"For a number of years I was afflicted with biliousness which almost destroyed my health. I tried various remedies, but nothing afforded me any relief until I began to take Ayer's Pills."—G. S. Wanderlich, Scranton, Pa.

"I have used Ayer's Pills for the past thirty years, and am satisfied I should not be alive to-day if it had not been for them. They cured me of dyspepsia when all other remedies failed, and their occasional use has kept me in a healthy condition ever since."—T. P. Brown, Chester, Pa.

"Having been subject, for years, to constipation, without being able to find much relief, I at last tried Ayer's Pills, and deem it both a duty and a pleasure to testify that I have derived great benefit from their use. For over two years past I have taken one of these Pills every night before retiring. I would not willingly be without them."—G. W. Bowman, 26 East Main st., Carlisle, Pa.

"Ayer's Pills have been used in my family upwards of twenty years, and have completely verified all that is claimed for them. In attacks of piles, from which I suffered many years, they afforded me greater relief than any medicine I ever tried."—Thomas F. Adams, Holly Springs, Texas.

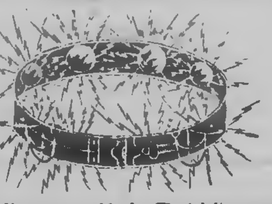
HEAD OFFICE—103 Yonge St., Toronto

THE WORLD'S BEST.



ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete BODY BATTERY. It has an independent Battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT of QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASE, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCE, SEXUAL DECLINE and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.

Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.

Do not class this Belt with the humbug combinations of leather and metal with which the country is being flooded. If you wish to experiment with cheap articles, buy them, but if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.

A WEEK AGO

"THE STAR" made the largest purchase of Overcoats ever made at one time in the history of the Clothing Trade—Over TWENTY THOUSAND DOLLARS' WORTH—the entire magnificent stock of one of the largest manufacturers of Fine Clothing in Canada. The owners of the goods were in Desperate Need of Ready Cash. We had it, and we got the stock AT OUR OWN PRICE. We placed about half our purchase on sale Monday morning, and to-day we place the balance of the stock on our tables. The last shipment included the Finest Goods. The first lots are all sold, and such scenes of excitement as have transpired during this sale never before occurred in a clothing store.

Customers stood in open-mouthed wonder at the wonderful values given. Many persons bought two and three Coats on account of their wonderful cheapness. Small Merchants have eagerly bought all we would sell them, our prices are so much lower than they could buy the same goods at wholesale.

The Overcoats are Simply Elegant, made of the Richest and Finest Fabrics and in the most "Correct" Style. "Schnabel's" Chinchillas and Beavers; "Carr's" Meltons, Eredon Kerseys, Fine Fancy Overcoatings and Shetlands, intended for Merchant Tailor's use. Many were intended to Wholesale at $15, $18 and $20. We bought them for less than the Raw Material Cost, and are selling for $8 and $10, garments worth two and three times the money.

Sadie Scanlan is the attraction at Bradburn's Opera House on Wednesday, evening, Dec. 2nd. The company and play come highly recommended by the press of both Canada and the United States. The play in which they will appear is Fred Marsden's Irish drama "Eily," a play full of pathos, comedy, and exceedingly strong situations—a story calculated only to please.

Business is Brisk in Lindsay.

The Lindsay Post says "Counter curling" is the newest game out, being invented during the recent damp spell by one of our enterprising merchants to while away the tedious intervals between customers' visits. The "tee" circles and "hog" lines were marked out at the opposite ends of the rear counter, and pencils were used in lieu of stones, "sweeping being dispensed with. It is very interesting to any one possessing a slight knowledge of the "roarin' game."

From Fireman to Farmer.

The Toronto News of the 24th says:—"Wm. Farley of the Junction, fireman on engine 455, Canadian Pacific Railway, has just fallen heir to a fortune of nearly $40,000 through the death of his father, James J. Farley, near Belleville, which occurred a few days ago. The estate consists of a well-stocked farm of 200 acres, together with carriages and fine horses. The farm is valued at about $20 000, and besides other goods there is between $10,000 and $12,000 in the bank. Mr. Farley has resigned his firemanship, and yesterday he said good bye to his fellow-workmen."

Destitution in Dummer.

It is somewhat remarkable, and what one would hardly expect of a new country like Canada, that there should be in the rural districts such cases of destitution as was brought to light on Thursday morning in Dummer. Mrs. Storms was arraigned before Mr. A. R. Kidd for vagrancy, being found begging from door to door. The poor woman was accompanied by five children, the two youngest being twins, in the lacteal stage of their earthly career, which at present certainly does not hold out very rosy prospects of future wealth. The party appeared to be quite destitute and the children were barefooted. Mrs. Storms was committed, and removed, with her children, to the county jail. It is a matter for regret that in rural districts, where everyone is supposed to be neighbours, that a case of this kind should appear, more so than in large centres of population, where, owing to great competition in business and other causes, such cases frequently occur, and where one in bestowing relief has to be exceedingly careful.

Dr. Davies' Evening Concert.

A Varied and Enjoyable Programme Presented—The Bad Weather Results in a Diminished Attendance—Delightful Choruses and Part Songs—Some Excellent Singing—Success of the Toy Symphony.

The wretched weather that ushered in last night had the effect of greatly reducing the attendance at Dr. Davies' evening concert given in Bradburn's Opera House—many engaged seats being occupied only by the card indicating that they were "taken." The programme opened by the singing, by a chorus of the St. Cecilia Society of about thirty voices, of the sterling part songs, Barnby's "Tell me Roses" and Macfarren's "The Sands of Dee." The production of these, in effective shading and phrasing and delicacy of effect gave evidence of the careful and skilful training received at the hands of Dr. Davies, which evidence was accumulated by the capital presentation of the subsequent concerted numbers, Gounod's, "By Babylon's Wave"; Benedict's 'Old May Day" and the concluding double number, "Il Carnavale," by Rossini, and Mercadante's daintily melodious "Sweet Hours of Rest."

Dr. Davies was compelled to announce that Miss Ethel Rogers, owing to a severe cold, was unable to take the vocal numbers assigned to her on the programme. But these were effectively supplied by others. Mrs. Macklin, though only put down for one selection, kindly volunteered to sing as her first number, Rockel's "The Bells of Bow," which she sang with great sweetness and excellent effect. Her programme number, however, showed her singing to the best advantage. The captivating manner in which she gave "My Love Thoughts are of Thee"—Kummer—with flute obligato, Mr. Batcher, made her performance a veritable triumph, winning her a claim to a first place among amateur vocalists. Sweetness, strength delicacy of shading, beautiful trueness of tone, and sympathetic feeling were prominent features of her excellent singing of this selection. The hearty applause that greeted its conclusion showed how highly her excellent vocalization was appreciated. Messrs. Manning and Budden sang with very good effect Benedict's duet, "The Moon has Raised her Lamp Above." Miss Bessie Philp in her pianoforte solo, "Les Courriers," by Ritter, showed, in her modest confidence, free, unconstrained performance, and clean round tone, the results of excellent training, and the possession of a true musical spirit. Streleski's song, "Day Dreams," received a sweet and sympathetic interpretation by Miss Nellie Carnegie. In response to a flattering recall she gave "Phyllis." Miss Davidson took Miss Roger's number in the second part, singing in a very acceptable manner, "The Distant Shore," by Sir Arthur Sullivan. Mrs. J. Wallis gave in a voice, not strong but sweet and well cultured, Trotere's fine song, "In Old Madrid." Mrs. J. E. McIntyre sang in excellent voice—strong and clear and with great fidelity of expression the exacting song, "O Loving Heart, Trust on." Miss Shaw gave in a delicate and effective manner, "Mora's beautiful ballad, "Catalina." But the grand feature of the evening was the production of Romberg's 'Grand Simfonie in C major" by the Children's Symphony Orchestra, consisting of about thirty very juvenile performers on a wide range of toy orchestral instruments, backed by a very effective adult orchestra. This symphony is a very ambitious composition of four movements, allegro mæstoso, minuet e trio, adagio lamentabile, and allegretto e finale. The performance was a musical novelty, but at the same time, a very pleasing, artistic and enjoyable musical treat. The little folks showed a great deal of talent and musical spirit. Dr. Davies deserves much credit for the patience and skill that must have been expended in bringing those bright little children up to so high a state of efficiency. Miss Nellie Wrighton and Mr. Fred Clark gave excellent service as accompanists.

Police Court Paragraphs.

FRIDAY, Nov. 27th, 1891.

At the police court this morning Matthew Wynn was again brought up on remand, charged with maliciously wounding W. Kerr in September last. Owing to Kerr being still unable to appear defendant was remanded for another week.

Mrs. Allen was arraigned for keeping a house of ill-repute. Mr. Edwards conducted the prosecution and Mr. Peck the defence. Evidence was given as to the character of the house and accused, by Chief Roszel, Constable Adams, Hy. McGill and J. O'Brien. After hearing the evidence the court reserved judgment until to-morrow.

Bobcaygeon.

News Items From an "Independent" Source.

The lakes were open on Wednesday, boats were over from Harvey.

All the world is a stage, and Bobcaygeon has three of them. Stages go out every morning for Peterborough, Lindsay and Fenelon Falls.

The pork crop is being marketed, and Mr. J. T. Robinson is being kept busy putting it down for future use. The price is 4½ to 5½ cents a pound.

A flutter of snow on Tuesday and Wednesday whitened the ground. It was reported that Kinmount on Wednesday had a foot of it.

The first sleigh of the season came into the village on Friday, with its merry jingle of bells. Mr. Wesley Lee was the driver, and he came in from Harvey.

The gale of Monday night played havoc with the telegraph wires, and Tuesday, the repairers were busy getting connections.

The Silver Lake Orange Lodge having built a new lodge room, gave a tea meeting and a social last week. The weather was not altogether favorable but there was a fair attendance, and the lodge realised about $60 which will nearly remove the debt.

Navigation closed up last week. The Esturion tried to get through the river on Thursday, but had to return, and went straight into winter quarters. The Beaubocage has gone into the dry dock, and will probably remain in for general repairs. Capt. Lane, having tied up his boat, left for Lindsay on Tuesday. The Maple Leaf has also laid up.

The court that was to have been held by the revising officer to hear complaints regarding that hotch potch of a Dominion voters' list, failed to materialise. It is presumed that the judge was storm-stayed. The next meeting should be more publicly advertised, so that those persons interested may have an opportunity of appearing.

The Soul Saving Troupe.

The first public meeting of the above was held last evening in the Salvation Army barracks. There was a large attendance and a good meeting was held, the musical portion being specially good, two bands taking part. Holiness meetings are being held to-day at 3 and 8 p.m. To-morrow (Saturday) evening, Adjutant Michael of the troupe will conduct the meeting and great times are expected.

News Nuggets.

—Port Hope High School's half yearly government grant amounts to $405 37.

Rev. C. B. Beck, son of the late Rev. J. W. R Beck, and formerly of Peterborough, is in town to day.

—Mr. Hamilton has resigned the position of English Master of the Port Hope High School.

—The Port Hope Benevolent Society collected last year $976.48, and expended $756 45. Collecting money for charitable purposes is benevolence but expending it is benificence.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

The members of the junior department contemplate holding a public meeting this evening, to which the parents and friends are specially invited. An enjoyable evening is anticipated.

The Ladies' Auxiliary will hold their adjourned meeting on Monday next at 4 p. m. All ladies interested in the work are invited to attend.

Preparations are being made for the Anniversary which is to be held on Friday next, Dec. 4th. The addresses will be given by Rev. J. E. Starr, of Toronto, formerly pastor of the George street Methodist church, Peterborough.

The Great Japan Earthquake.

Japan is maintaining its reputation as the great earthquake centre of the world. News from Yokohama states that the recent seismic disturbance, which lasted from October 28 to November 5, was the most terrible catastrophe the country has experienced since the great earthquake of 1855, and that it must be ranked as a national calamity. In two prefectures alone nearly 4 000 people were killed outright, 4 000 seriously wounded, 42,000 houses totally destroyed, and fully 200 000 persons rendered homeless. The top of the sacred mountain of Fusiyama was rent asunder for a distance of 1,200 feet in width and 600 feet in depth, and in some regions the roads were rendered impassable by landslides and great fissures through which belched volcanic mud and ashes.

The notion that expensive walls of stone and mortar are needed to keep ensilage has had its day. Experience shows that airtight wooden walls are better, as well as cheaper. The best location for a silo is against a barn, or inside of it, boarding the barn tightly on the side where the silo is built, and closely apertures so that no air can get through. The great compression of ensilage necessary to preserve it makes this the cheapest way to keep corn fodder, aside from the fact that it can be saved during weather when it would be impossible to save it by drying.

Uranus is behind the sun.

Encke's comet is out of view behind the sun.

Neptune comes to opposition November 29th.

Wolf's periodic comet is moving southwest through the constellation Eridanus, which is the next southwest of the familiar constellation Orion. The comet is slowly receding from the earth and sun, so that its light is diminishing, but we will be able to follow it for several months yet.—Sidereal Messenger.

Seasoning of Timber.

Oak timber loses about one-fifth of its weight in seasoning, and about one-third its weight in becoming dry. Gradual drying and seasoning are considered the most favorable to the durability and strength of timber. Kiln drying is particularly serviceable for boards and pieces of small dimensions, and unless performed slowly is apt to cause cracks and impair the strength of the wood. If timber of large dimensions be immersed in water for some weeks, it is improved, and is less liable to warp and crack in seasoning.

Another German Banker Arrested.

To the Public.

To avoid the rush of customers, which the magnificent Christmas stock of goods is sure to bring with the next week or two, the public are reminded of the advisability of visiting the Peterborough Bookstore and selecting their purchases now, to be laid aside till Christmas is within a day or so. This has been largely done in past seasons, and is more than ever necessary now, for with the double shop and magnificent stock complete in every department and of endless variety and unexcelled beauty, will create a demand to fill which early purchases will be necessary.

Sound Doctrine.

The Campbellford Herald remarks:—"Thousands of dollars will be paid to the dairymen of Seymour and those of adjoining townships during the next two weeks, as their earnings from the product of their milk during the past profitable season. The payment of this money will cause the circulation of large sums which have been locked up, and every man ought to use as much of what he gets as he possibly can in the payment of his debts. It is the circulation of money that keeps up the life in business. Let one hundred dollars be set afloat in Campbellford to-morrow, and kept moving in making payments, and one hundred thousand dollars of debts could easily be paid with it before night. Let the money go as fast as it comes when you have accounts unsettled, and everybody will be benefitted by its movement."

Entertainment in Ashburnham.

Last evening the members of Ashburnia Lodge, I.O.G.T., gave the first of a series of winter entertainments in the old town hall, Ashburnham. There was a large and most appreciative audience, and no doubt the Good Templar friends of Ashburnham will feel encouraged. The evening's entertainment, however, was somewhat marred owing to the disturbance caused by a number of boys. The various numbers of the programme were rendered in good style and the audience appeared to be well satisfied with the entertainment provided. Mr. S R Armstrong made an efficient chairman. The programme consisted of a chorus by the choir, instrumental duet by Messrs. W. Mitchell and J. Cummings, reading by Mr. A. D. Russell, song by Miss E. Manly, address by Rev. Mr. Thom, harmonica solo by Mr. J. Cummings, Mr. W. Mitchell accompanying him on the organ, recitation by Mrs A. D. Russell, song by Mr. T. Begley, reading by Mr. Bennett, song by Mr. Hayward, recitation by Miss M. Hamilton, duet by the Misses Courtney, recitation by Miss Whittington, and recitation by Miss Mabel Cummings, the whole concludings with "God Save the Queen."

HOW MARG'IE DIED.

A Homely Story From the Daily Life of a Homely People.

The Illinois Central train was half a hundred miles out of Chicago, headed for the city, and at a little station an old farmer came aboard. He was a little, weazened man, with a sensitive mouth half concealed by an iron-gray beard. His ill-fitting clothes were evidently his most uncomfortable best, and he moved awkwardly and stiffly in them. There were no vacant seats, and after some hesitation, he slid softly into one occupied by a grave stranger, intent upon his paper. The old man was ill at ease, and as he turned his careworn, haggard face toward the brown, flying landscape it showed marks of some recent trouble. The stranger laid aside his paper after awhile and half-wistfully the old man glanced at him. He spoke at last, with a strange huskiness:

"I'm goin' to the city for the second time in my life," he said, half startled at his own voice.

"Yes?" and in the intonation of the other's there was an invitation to go on.

"The second time," replied the old man; "thirty years ago, come June, I went there for a weddin' suit, and I'm a-goin' back there to-day for a coffin and a shroud for—the little woman that—married me."

His voice broke, and, turning again to the window, he looked out upon the dull, cold landscape and was silent many minutes.

"You don't know what it is, mister; you can't understand," and he was crying very softly and hopelessly. "You don't know what it is to live and work 'longside a woman for thirty years, day in and day out, to find her always patient and willin' and workin', and then leave her a-layin' dead and cold with her worn-out hands crossed on her breast. You don't have any idee what it is," and the sleeve of the old man was drawn apologetically across his eyes.

"I've be'n thinkin' a good deal since last night, when Marg'ie died; it kinder puts a man to his thoughts. It was just a little after the turn o' the night, and nobody but me was watchin', when she kinder woke up, like as if she'd be'n asleep.

"'David,' says she, 'it's restful—so restful,' and I took hold of her hand; 'is that you a-singin', David?' says she. 'Go on,' but I hadn't sung a word and couldn't a-done it—'go on, David,' says she, 'and I'll be restin', for I'm so tired.' And so she went to sleep again and waked up in eternity.

"And do you know stranger, them words o' her'n have set me to thinkin'. Poor, tired soul! and I never thought how much she needed rest. I thought as I set there watchin' her breath a-goin' out last night that mabbe we'd made a mistake of it all. We never thought of it while we was a-workin' and a-skimpin' and a savin'—tryin' to make both ends meet and to lay up somethin' for the children. But I thought about it all last night when only me and her was waitin' for the last. She never had no pleasure. She never took no holidays nor visited like other wimmin.

"She raised the children, and slopped the pigs, and milked cows, and churned, and cooked for harvest hands. I never knowed nor thought how she did it all till I saw them poor crossed hands with the little white posies in 'em. Some 'un o' the neighbors put 'em there, and it kinder choked me when I looked. I knowed she'd never had no time for posies when she might have smelled 'em. She didn't have time for nothin' but the thorns, mister, and—that's what hurts me."

After a moment he looked up through his tears.

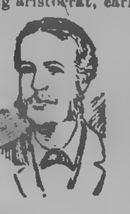
"Some folks may 'low it won't do no good, mister," and his voice grew stronger, "but I'm a-goin to see that she's put away in somethin' rich. We wasn't skimpin' and savin' thirty years for this, but I'm a goin' to have the best money'll buy. She's earned it, God knows: and she's earned somethin' else—she's earned that white raiment that the good book says is washed in the blood of the Lamb."

The old man's voice sunk into that reverent whisper so common to the God-fearing of his class at the utterance of holy things, and in the silence which followed he sunk into a reverie. He was awakened from it only by the stopping of the train at Van Buren street. At the door of the car he shook hands with his companion, and a moment later was swallowed up in the crowd.

It was pitiful—all of it. And yet there was a passenger on that train who is the better man for the recollection of the old farmer's look and gesture, and for the thought that there are silver handles to the coffin that holds his sacred dust, lying out under a dark mound amid the barren brown of an Illinois prairie.—Chicago Mail.

Right-Hon. A. J. Balfour, M. P.

The December Review of Reviews regards his inborn aristocracy as Mr. Balfour's great strength. He is an aristocrat, but he is not one of Lord Beaconsfield's aristocrats who read nothing. He is, on the contrary, a great but desultory reader. He is the man of letters of his party. He has an excellent literary taste, and would much prefer discussing books with Mr. Morley or Mr. Gladstone over a dinner table to debating politics with them in the House of Commons. . . . . Mr. Balfour is more sworn at and sworn by than any man in politics, save Mr. Gladstone. In some quarters it is regarded as the unpardonable sin to suggest that Mr. Balfour possesses a single virtue, or is not laden down with every vice. In others he is lauded to the skies as if he were a hero and a demigod. We never hear the last of his courage, his chivalry, his even-handed justice, his pluck. All this is very exaggerated. Mr. Balfour is neither fiend nor archangel. He is a clever young aristocrat, early trained to the service of the State, who has made the most of a capital chance. He has a considerable literary gift, great personal and social charm, and a good Scotch habit of application and persistence. In the substance of his character there is true grit, and in a tough fight any one who found himself in a tight place would have good reason to thank his stars if he had Mr. Balfour at his back. He is perfectly sincere, and he is as free from self-seeking as most men. If only he had more popular sympathy and a little more English faith he might be one of the most powerful Ministers of modern times.



A. J. BALFOUR.

Electricity vs. Steam.

Electric Motors Making Engines and Boilers.

Lightning as a usual antecedent of rain can claim a priority of power, and it is beginning to assert its claim to precedence. Steam, as a motive force, has "filled the bill" for three quarters of a century, but it seems fated to give place to electricity, which is rapidly supplanting it in the domain which steam has so long claimed its own. Steadily and rapidly electricity is edging its way into the field of motive power and has already gained a firm footing. Steam shows sign of giving up the fight, and of actually committing suicide, so to speak. The Ottawa Free Press tells us that three of the leading iron working establishments of Ottawa, whose chief business is the production of steam engines, have discarded their steam engines as motive powers, and replaced them by electric motors, which are now running their machinery: "Electric motors supplied by Messrs. Ahearn and Soper having been just put in at Messrs. Bannerman and Powers, P. Latour's and J. Low's. Mr. Low makes engines and Bannerman and Powers boilers—both by electricity." If this thing goes on the function of steam will be to make electric motors to displace itself. But steam will still have to be used for the generation of electricity, a fact which shows that nobody or nothing—except, perhaps, a politician—can be really independent. Electricity must depend on steam for generative force, and steam can for a long time thus hold its ground and justify its usefulness. At least till the day which, may yet easily come, when electricity may be used to reproduce itself. The rapidly increasing scarcity of fuel will tend to hasten this day. When a wooden city like Ottawa with an abundance of fuel knocking about its streets and suburbs, discards steam and adopts electricity as a motive power for driving heavy machinery, certainly there is a chance for the electric motor in Peterborough, especially for driving lighter machines. Our facilities both natural and created for generating the electric force are unsurpassed and we should not be slow to avail ourselves of these advantages.

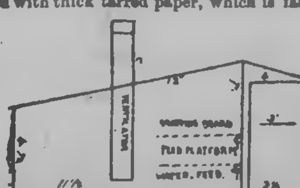
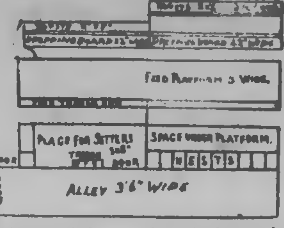
A Labor Saving Hen House.

After nine years experience in the poultry business I have adopted the following plan for a house which for convenience and practicability I think is about right. This house is 15 by 140 ft with a 3½ ft alley way extending the whole length. It is divided into 7 parts, making each part 11½ by 20 ft. The cut gives end views with dimensions of the house. It is simply boarded and covered with thick tarred paper, which is fastened by laths 10 inches apart. The front with 4½ ft posts, faces the south east and contains the windows, 18 sq ft to a house. The inside is planned to simplify work. A door 2 ft wide opens into the room from the alley. Plan No. 1 shows a place for water, inclosed from the fowls by laths 3 inches apart. The place to break up setters, with trough inclosed, is fenced in by laths three inches apart. The nests have two doors, one from the alley that is shown in No. 1, the ground plan. The eggs can be gathered and setters shut up and fed and watered from the alley. No. 2 is the feed platform, 3 ft wide and 18 inches from the ground, where the morning mush and clover rowen is fed in troughs 6 inches wide and 9 ft long, separated from the ends by laths three inches apart. No. 3 is the dropping board, 18 inches from the feed platform, with two doors 9 ft long and 10 inches wide, so it can be cleaned into a wheelbarrow in the alley. The roosts are two or three inch spruce joists, plain and painted with hot coal tar, eight inches from the dropping board. —W. B. Dwight, in Farm and Home.





MAINE'S HUMAN MAGNATE.

His Finger Tips Too Strong for the Heavy Weights of Maine.

Perhaps it is not generally known, but in the city of Lewiston lives a man who is possessed of magnetic or some kind of wonderful power which is truly miraculous. Oscar E. Whitman, the man in question, is 36 years old, and lives with his wife and little daughter in a cozy house at 76 College street. A reporter called on Mr. Whitman and received a cordial reception. Mr. Whitman is a man about the average hight, with a pair of broad shoulders and a deep chest. He is in every way an athletic and healthy appearing specimen of humanity, and his face, though at times it appears stern, is in itself a picture of benevolence and kindness.

After a brief conversation the party adjourned to the kitchen and Mr. Whitman proceeded to give an exhibition of his power.

Seating himself at the head of a large table in the middle of the room, Mr. Whitman held his hands out at an angle of 45 degrees. In a short time a convulsive expression seemed to creep over his face, and placing his finger, tips on the table he raised it up and held it in the air as if it was nothing but a sheet of paper. The reporter, with Mr. Whiteman's consent, then took a seat at the opposite end of the table and tried to hold it, but the magic finger tips were too much, and was pulled over, chair and all. Now, Mr. Bradbury prides himself on being a pretty strong man, so, with a smile on his face he changed his seat for the one at the end of the table. Grasping the table legs firmly he braced his feet, and the look that stole over his face plainly said: "Now, friend spirits, or whatever you are, I've got you." He did not have them, though, and the 215 pounds of human flesh, chair and table followed the dictation of the wonderful finger tips over the whole room in a manner which made every one else laugh.

Mr. Linscott during these proceedings has been rubbing up his muscles and preparing for a grip with the supernatural. He took the seat, calmly got a good hold and announced that he was ready. He was ready, too for his muscles stood out like whipcord, but still he was not "in it," and like the others yielded to the inevitable. Messrs. Tarr and Wood concluded it was no use to try it, and so this part of the proceedings came to an end.

Now some think that Mr. Whitman is a walking electric plant, but such is not the case, for he placed a pane of glass on the table and placing his finger on it lifted it just as if the non-conductor was not there.

Mr. Whitman does not claim to be a spiritualist or an electrician. When he wants to use his lanent power he holds his hands out, as stated above, at an angle of 45 degrees, and the current starts from his shoulders and runs to his finger tips, and when he is done using it he dips his fingers in cold water, sprinkles a few drops on his forehead, and, holding both hands in the air, allows it to run back to its receptacle in his shoulder. "It seems," said Mr. Whitman, "as if there was a hollow in my bones through which this power is transmitted."

This power was noticed in Mr. Whitman when he was a small boy. Sometimes, when playing with other children, he would place his fingers on a chair and, for his amusement, pull the other children around the room hanging to it. Mr. Whitman grew up the same as other boys, and, being of a rather reserved disposition, said little about his powers. He has been working and is now employed as a cutter with the firm of Gry, Woodman & Co., although lately he has not worked more than half the time.—Anbern Gazette.

DYSPESIA WAFERS.

What to Take For a Burning Sensation in the Throat.

A question which patients always ask their physicians is:—"What must I do?" It makes little difference after all to the patient to know what his complaint is, to ascertain its origin or to be enlightened as to the reasons that make it seem likely to be severe or mild; what he wishes is to be taken care of—to get well.

And yet to stop a disease we must of necessity know it thoroughly; we must estimate its extent and intensity in order to be able to gauge the resistance to be opposed to it, and to direct with greater certainty our efforts. What should we say of an engineer, who, having to repair his machine, would not seek for the exact point out of order, or who would be content with replacing by a frail piece of wood one of its parts that should have been made of the hardest metal?

The human organism is infinitely more complicated than any machine, and although it is only on very rare occasions that physicians can replace one of its pieces, still they should be capable of ascertaining what is out of order in its working gear. When this is done, in order to treat the defective element they should not have recourse to ready made formulas, of which the sole merit is that they have been handed down us by tradition, but should draw on the large stock of substances of which experience and experimentation have demonstrated the therapeutical value.

Although empiricism still holds a place in the art of healing it no longer rules there as a sovereign master, as we hope to be able to prove to the reader, by explaining from time to time the reasons governing the composition of a certain number of formulas. To-day we will only give the following one:—

WAFERS FOR PYROSIS.

Bicarbonate of soda	5 gr.
Prepared chalk	2 gr.
Extract of nux vomica	0 gr. 20c.

For twenty wafers, theer to be taken each day.

Pyrosis is a painful burning sensation, the seat and starting point of which is in the stomach, whence it rises up to the throat accompanied by escape of gas and slight vomiting of a liquid that is acid bitter and irritating.

It can be successfully treated by the foregoing wafers. The bicarbonate of soda seizes the acids in the stomach, its carbonic acid gas is liberated and it stimulates the secretion of the gastric juice. The chalk absorbs also and acts as an anti-acid. The nux vomica in turn stimulates the digestive functions, increases the appetite and regulates the motions in persons who are constipated.

In my article of last week I laid down the basis on which a rational course of therapeutics should be founded and furnished examples of the theory that I should like to see adopted in modern medicine. The formula which I have just analyzed is destined to relieve one of the most disagreeable effects of a form of dyspepsia to which can be given the name of lactic dyspepsia, or dyspepsia caused by abnormal fermentation in the stomach. This symptom, called pyrosis, is as well one of the best signs betraying the existence of this kind of dyspepsia. It is my intention to give examples of this kind quite frequently, and to analyze the method of action of certain formulas that have stood the test of time as to their curative effect.

Told of His Reprieve.

He Knew the Horse.

There is a bookmaker down at Sheepshead Bay named Lackman, who has a very fine vein of natural humor. Before the first race, Tuesday afternoon, Mr. Lackman was standing on his box, feeling unusually humorous.

The betting had hardly begun when a little man with a red face who had been wandering aimlessly down the long line of bookmakers, stopped in front of Bookmaker Lackman's slate and stared hard at it.

"Mighty long odds against this Kingstock," remarked the little man at last. Mr. Lackman glanced at the board lazily. Kingstock was 50 to 1.

"That ain't no 50 to 1 horse," continued the little man; "that's a good, fair horse."

"Yes," responded Mr. Lackman, with keen wit, "I know he is a remarkably fine animal. That's the reason I'm laying 50 to 1 against him."

"But I ought to know more than you do," persisted the little man, who evidently had not yet learned that no human being knows as much as a wise bookmaker. "I think he'll win."

"Well, well," cried Mr. Lackman, merrily, "you really think that? Here's what I think," and he rubbed out 50 to 1 and chalked up 75 to 1.

"Why don't you make it 100 to 1?" said the little man, getting redder. Mr. Lackman is of an accommodating disposition, and marked up 100 to 1.

"Now," said the little man, pulling out a roll of money, "I'll bet $50 on Kingstock."

Mr. Lackman called to his sheet-writer, "Five thousand to fifty," and the little man took the ticket and walked away. A few minutes later Mr. Lackman glanced down the line of boards and saw 15 to 1 the longest price against Kingstock.

When the race was over and Kingstock won the little red-faced man was the first in line behind Mr. Lackman's box.

"You see," said he, as Mr. Lackman's cashier was counting out $5,050 to him, "I ought to know something about this Kingstock horse; my name's Kelly and I own him."—Boston Globe.

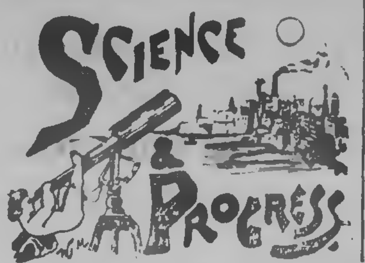
"German Syrup"

The majority of well-read physicians now believe that Consumption is a germ disease. In other words, instead of being in the constitution itself it is caused by innumerable small creatures living in the lungs having no business there and eating them away as caterpillars do the leaves of trees.

A Germ Disease. The phlegm that is coughed up is those parts of the lungs which have been gnawed off and destroyed. These little bacilli, as the germs are called, are too small to be seen with the naked eye, but they are very much alive just the same, and enter the body in our food, in the air we breathe, and through the pores of the skin. Thence they get into the blood and finally arrive at the lungs where they fasten and increase with frightful rapidity. Then German Syrup comes in, loosens them, kills them, expels them, heals the places they leave, and so nourish and soothe that, in a short time consumptives become germ-proof and well. ●



A German factory supplies all of the chemically pure sugar that is used in the world.

The telephone between Paris and London having been so successful, it is proposed to connect Brussels and London. For that purpose a cable will be laid between Ostend and Dover.

The valuable copper wires used in outside electrical work is a great temptation to thieves, and accounts of arrests for stealing of this kind appear in papers all over the country.

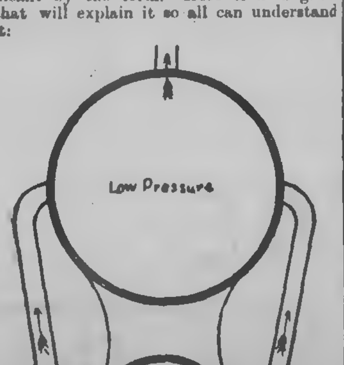
TRIPLE EXPANSION ENGINES.

How They are Helping the Ocean Steamers to Lower the Record.

How many people who have read of the remarkable voyages of the Teutonic, Majestic, City of Paris and other Atlantic racers know what is meant by a triple-expansion engine? All the new ocean steamers have triple-expansion engines, but probably not one in a hundred of those who read of their achievements understand what is meant by the term. Here is a diagram that will explain it so all can understand it:



A triple expansion engine is really three engines driven with the steam that was formerly used for a single engine. In an engine with a single cylinder the steam enters this cylinder, gives one push to the piston and then escapes. As the escaping steam has considerable energy left, there is just that amount of power wasted. The first step of improvement was to convey this escaping steam into another cylinder and make it do more work there. This gave the double expansion engine. The next step was to supply a third cylinder to make still further use of the same steam, constituting the triple expansion engine. The process has been carried still further, and engines are now made in which the steam is used in four successive cylinders before it is finally allowed to escape.

HOW THE STEAM EXPANDS.

The three cylinders shown in the diagram, stripped of all their valves, steam chests, etc., show the relation that the cylinders of the engines of the Teutonic bear to each other. In these engines the steam enters the high-pressure cylinder, as indicated by the arrow in the pipe, at a pressure of 180 pounds to each square inch. A portion of this enormous expansive force is expended and then the steam passes through the pipes to the intermediate cylinder.

As the steam has lost a portion of its energy, this cylinder is given a larger diameter in order that the reduced pressure may be exerted upon a greater area. When the steam has expended a further portion of its energy in the intermediate cylinder, it passes to a still larger cylinder at a still further reduced pressure, and from the low-pressure cylinder it escapes to a condenser to be turned into water and used over again in the boilers.

WHERE THE ADVANTAGE LIES.

The introduction of the double and triple expansion engine has resulted in a great saving of fuel.

A CHEAP STUBBLE-BREAKER.

The accompanying sketch gives a good idea of a homemade stuble-breaker and leveler to use after sowing grain. The inventor of it, J. Flomerfelt, Somerset Co., N.J., writes us that it works best on a mowing when the stubble is frozen, as then it breaks it "like pipe-stems." The breaker is made of a two or three-inch plank, and with pieces bolted on the top, so that a hinge can be attached, it works well on uneven ground, and is easily taken apart in storing away. Being eighteen feet long, it works fast and is not hard for the team. To take it to the field, unhook the chain at one and draw it endwise. The hinge should be one of those with an eye and key to take apart easily.

I have used your Emulsion in a case of Phthisis (consumption) with beneficial results, where patient could not use Cod Liver Oil in any form.
J. H. DROGE, M. D.

NERVOUS PROSTRATION

Brooklyn, N. Y., Dec. 20th, 1888.
I can strongly recommend Flax Seed Emulsion as helpful to the relief and possibly the cure of all Lung, Bronchial and Nervous Affections, and a good general tonic in physical debility.
JOHN F. TALMACE, M. D.

GENERAL DEBILITY

Brooklyn, N. Y., Oct. 10th, 1888.
I regard Flax Seed Emulsion as greatly superior to the Cod Liver Oil Emulsions so generally in use.
D. A. GORTON, M. D.

WASTING DISEASES

137 West 34th St.,
New York, Aug. 6, 1888.
I have used your Flax-Seed Emulsion Compound in a severe case of Mal-nutrition and the result was more than hoped for—it was marvelous, and continuous. I recommend it cheerfully to the profession and humanity at large. M. H. GILBERT, M.D.

DR. JAMES' NERVE BEANS.

NERVE BEANS are a new discovery that relieve and cure the worst cases of Nervous Debility, Lost Vigor and Failing Manhood; restore the weakness of body or mind caused by over-work, or the errors and excesses of youth. This remedy absolutely cures the most obstinate cases when all other TREATMENTS have failed even to relieve. They do not, like other preparations advertised for Lost Manhood, etc., interfere with digestion; but impart new life, strength and energy in a quick and harmless manner, peculiar to themselves.
Sold by druggists at $1 00 per package, or six for $5.00, or sent by mail on receipt of price. Address. The James Medicine Co., Canadian Agency, Montreal P.Q. Sold in Peterborough by G. A. SCHOFIELD, 405 George St.

DICKSON'S,

THE BERLIN RIPPER.

The Woman Nitsche is Thought to Have Been His Second Victim.

Berlin Nov. 27. The Berlin police have arrived rather tardily at the conclusion that the murderer of the woman Nitsche, in the Holzmarkt strasse, was the same mysterious ripper who cut Pauline Wilden, also a woman of the town, behind the Kuestrin railway station on last February 21. Despite her terrible wounds the Wilden girl lived two weeks after the encounter. She described the man who attacked her as about 25 years old and having light hair, a small mustache and a slight but athletic figure. This description corresponds with that of the man seen by a nightwatchman to leave Nitsche's rooms shortly after she had been mutilated.

The man who killed the Wilden woman told her that he had been a soldier in Berlin. In the police archives this man is credited with having tried to kill four women of the town in December and January.

Horrible Barbarities in India.

CALCUTTA, Nov. 27.—Much indignation is expressed among Europeans throughout India at the failure of the Government of Madras to interfere with the ceremony of hookswinging, the particulars of which were recently cabled. Investigation does not sustain the excuse of the authorities that it was a case of voluntary suffering, as the victim selected for the torture was chosen by lot, and would probably have been compelled to submit if he had been unwilling. The custom had been discontinued for about 24 years, having been denounced, if not actually prohibited, by a former administration. The unusual visitation of famine, cattle disease and other misfortunes led to its revival. It appears that the victim was not merely swung up by hooks. A curved knife was first thrust through the muscles of the back on one side and an iron hook pushed in. Then the same was done on the other side. The man was then swung by the hooks to the end of a pole 50 feet long. The pole was fastened to a car in such a way the victim was elevated in the air about forty feet. The car was then drawn through the streets amid the cries of the people. All this was done to propitiate the goddess of evil destinies, and a figure of the goddess was carried where she would have a full view of the proceedings. The victim stood the torture stoically and when released showed no sign of fatal injury. For some months to come he will be the recipient of liberal gifts at the hands of those for whose assumed benefit he endured the torture.

Lytton's Burial To Be At Knebworth.

PARIS, Nov. 27.—It has been decided by the French ministar that the remains of the late Earl of Lytton are entitled to the ceremonies and official marks of respect as those of a field marshal.

M. Ribot, the minister of Foreign Affairs, has consulted with Hon. Edward Edgerton, first secretary of the British Legation, in regard to the funeral. It is now definitely decided that the remains will be interred at Knobworth.

The Evenment says the presence of Earl Lytton was a more reassuring pledge of peace than all the protests made by the Cabinet of St. James. All the Parisian papers refer to the late ambassador in the highest terms.

Lord Salisbury from the Birmingham convention telegraphed that he was deeply grieved at the death of the Earl of Lytton, who he said was one of his dearest friends, adding that though dead the Earl of Lytton's name will long remain dear to many.

LONDON, Nov. 27. — Memorial services will be held in Westminster Abbey for the late Lord Lytton. The exact time of the services is not yet made known, but it is believed that they will occur on Sunday.

Garbutt Must Go Back.

TORONTO, Nov. 27.—The Common Pleas Divisional Court yesterday delivered judgment in the Garbutt extradition case. Their Lordships' found that the evidence of alibi was properly refused by Judge Morgan, and remanded the prisoner for extradition. Mr. Lount, Q.C., appeared for the prisoner, and asked for a stay of proceedings to enable an appeal to be argued before the Court of Appeal. This their Lordships granted. The forgery which Garbutt is charged with was committed at Van Alstyne, Texas, and it is to that place the prisoner will be sent for trial if the Court of Appeal decides against him.

Balfour as Rector of Glasgow University

GLASGOW, Nov. 27.—A. J. Balfour, First Lord of the Treasury, who some time ago was elected to the rectorship of the University of Glasgow, was installed in office today with all the honors attendant upon that ceremony. Mr. Balfour received an ovation from the students. He made an address in which he dwelt at length upon the subject of progress.

Ran Into a Street Car.

CHICAGO, Nov. 27.—A street car was struck by a switch engine here yesterday. The most seriously injured were Mrs. Kate Terry and babe. Eleven others were injured. It is said the engineer and fireman were under the influence of liquor.

Mercier Still Moving.

MONTREAL, Nov. 27.—Warrants were issued this afternoon for arrest of Senator Tasse of La Minerve and Mr. Berthiaume of La Presse on a charge of libel against Mr. Mercier. They will appear before the Police Court in Montreal.

INTO A FORGE.

An Intoxicated Farmer Fatally Burned in a Blacksmith Shop.

GLENCOE, Ont., Nov. 27.—Mr. Howes, blacksmith, left his wagon shop for a few minutes. While he was away an elderly man, Archibald Leitch of Kilmartin entered and sat on the forge. Being under the influence of liquor he fell into the fire, which was smouldering, and being unable to extricate himself was badly burned on the right arm and shoulder. Mr. William Munro, happening to enter the shop, pulled the unfortunate Leitch out of the fire. Dr. MacIntyre was summoned, but the flesh being half consumed it is doubtful if the injured man can recover.

A Son's Bereavement.

HAMILTON, Nov. 27.—Mr. Albert S. Caspar, the actor, called at The Times office yesterday to confirm a report he had heard that his mother was dead. Caspar was celebrating his 50th birthday on Friday last with some boon companions here when his mother died in Toronto. He was a member of the Marshall Company, played many years ago, and was for a long time associated with Harry Lindley. His mother resided at No. 174 John-street, Toronto, opposite St. George's Church.

Detroit Defeats the All-Canadians.

DETROIT, Nov. 27.—The first Association football match between the local eleven and a picked team of the Western Association kickers took place here yesterday, when the visitors were defeated by four goals to nothing. Play was very even in the first half, when the Canadians were unlucky in not scoring and Detroit tallied once. The locals had all the best of it in the second half and put in three more points. Jones, the Canadians' goal-keeper was badly but not seriously injured.

An Electric Railway to Grimsby Camp.

HAMILTON, Nov. 27.—Mr. C. J. Myles, one of the lessees of the Hamilton & Dundas Street Railway, is forming a company to build an electric railway from Hamilton to Grimsby camp, passing through Bartonville, Stoney Creek, Winona and Grimsby. The road will be 22 miles in length and will cost $175,000; $75,000 has already been subscribed, and as soon as a charter is obtained the road will be commenced. The cars will be run on the trolley system and the line will tap the big fruit district between here and Beamsville.

Snowstorm in the West.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 27.—A blinding snowstorm, lasting six hours, has been followed by a drizzling rain. Special despatches from Minnesota, Wisconsin and Dakota indicate that the storm was very severe. There is now about a foot of snow on the ground in portions of Minnesota.

Yale Defeats Princeton.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—The annual intercollegiate football match between Yale and Princeton took place here yesterday before 40,000 spectators in rainy weather. No points were made in the first half. In the second Yale made 19 and prevented the tigers from scoring, thus winning by 19 to 0. None of the players were hurt.

Street Car Horses Burned.

BELLEVILLE, Nov. 27.—At 2.30 yesterday morning fire broke out in the street car stable, a large frame building near the Grand Trunk Station, which was entirely consumed, together with three horses, two street cars, several sleighs, a quantity of harness and other articles. Mr. Stanley Lockwood, the proprietor, estimates his loss at $4500.

INTERESTING ITEMS BY WIRE.

A man and his wife and two children were suffocated by fumes from a charcoal stove at their home in Geneva yesterday.

An autopsy on the body of Lord Lytton, who died suddenly Tuesday, reveals the fact that death was due to the formation of a clot on one of the valves of the heart.

Despatches from the various Continental bourses show that a strong tone has prevailed in the markets to-day. There was a general advance in foreign Government securities on all the bourses.

The old story that Chancellor von Caprivi intended to offer his resignation to Emperor William was again put in circulation in Berlin yesterday and for a time caused no little excitement. It was not confirmed, however.

The car house of the Second-avenue Traction Company at Hazlewood, Pa., was burned yesterday, together with 26 cars and 5 head of horses. The flames spread to the Electric Hotel, a large frame building, and it was also destroyed. The total loss is $105,500.

The members of the Cabinet of the late President Balmaceda of Chili and other Chilians to the number of 70 are to be tried for infraction of the constitution and for the malversation of funds. If found guilty they will be compelled to repay to the extent of their means all the national funds illegally expended.

By the Queen's command Mascagni's opera, "Cavalleria Rusticana," was produced at Windsor Castle yesterday by Signor Lagos' Royal Italian Opera Company from the Shaftesbury Theatre. The audience was composed of the Queen, the Princess of Wales, Prince and Princess Christian, Prince and Princess Henry of Battenburg, the Marchioness of Lorne, Princess Victoria and Princess Maud, beside a number of peers and peeresses.

CURIOUS SUPERSTITION.

Flowing Blood Checked By the Use of a Charm.

ADRIAN, Mo., Nov. 27.—What is probably one of the queerest superstitions held by man is to be found in this town. Among the citizens is "Old Uncle John" Kneisley. "Uncle John" has obtained great reputation among the people as a natural doctor and the power to stop the flow of blood from wounds and cuts of all sorts. He claims to do this by a charm, and one of "Uncle John's" cards is the greatest present which can be given to the women of the neighborhood. The charm is a small card, on which is written the following:

i. m. i. K. i. BP. a. x. v. ss. SS. vas
i. p. o. my lit Dom uper. vobism

It is only necessary to place this card in the hand of anyone who is bleeding and the flow will instantly stop. A case is cited where a boy cut the main artery of the foot and two doctors worked half a day without being able to stop the blood. They were about to cut into the calf of the leg and tie the artery, when Mr. Kneisley came along and stopped the hemorrhage within five minutes.

STILL ANOTHER!

This Time the Swindle Is in the Shape of a Sulky Harrow.

GRAND VALLEY, Ont., Nov. 27.—The other day Mr. Martin Hawes of Marysville had to pay $187.50, and all he has to show for this large sum is five or six worthless old sulky harrows which nobody will buy. Last spring a polished agent called on him, said that he had six harrows at Orton Station worth $37.50 each, and offered to give Hawes one of them if he would take the lot from the station to his barnyard. The agent said that he wanted to have a central point from which to distribute the harrows among the farmers around.

The trouble was that Hawes signed a paper which he thought embodied the agreement or was only a recommendation of the harrows. A few weeks later another agent called and then Mr. Hawes made the alarming discovery that he had agreed to purchase five sets of harrows for $187.50. A long story is made short by simply stating that Mr. Hawes had to pay the $187.50 last week. The harrows are still lying in his yard, and no one will give him $5 for them.

Struck in the Windpipe.

SPOKANE FALLS, Wash., Nov. 27.—A sad and peculiar accident occurred at the Franklin public school yesterday, by which Eugene Bollock, a 6-year-old son of Max Bollock, lost his life. Several boys were engaged in the game called "zipsticks," a pastime popular in the noon hour. The game is played with two sticks. One about five inches long, sharpened at each end, is placed in a hole made in the ground and one end of it is struck by the longer stick, causing it to fly in the air, and the trick is to strike it before it reaches the ground. This game was being played as usual to-day by some of the larger boys. Little Eugene was just returning from his noon lunch when the stick was struck by one of the boys, and in flying it struck him in the windpipe. The little fellow walked a few steps and fell. When picked up there was a small blue spot on the throat and he was unable to speak. Within 30 minutes he was dead.

Blaine and the Presidency.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—Blaine's boom is on the increase, and it is the general impression that he is in the field. His friends say that if this is not the case he ought to let them know their mistake in assuming his position. There seems to be a belief that it would not be many weeks before such an announcement appeared, and a prominent politician undertook to predict that Blaine, while urging the party to recognize the excellent administration of the President by a renomination, would add that if this was not the wish of the party he would accept the nomination if it came to him as the unanimous expression of all the delegates.

Canadian Electricians.

TORONTO, Nov. 27.—An adjourned meeting of the Canadian Electrical Association, to receive the report of the committee appointed in September last to formulate a sheme of organization, was held in the Auditorium building yesterday. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: J. J. Wright, president; H. J. Dunstan, 1st vice-president; John Carroll, Montreal, 2nd vice-president; C. H. Mortimer, sec.-treas.; Executive Committee, C. S. Edmenson, Oshawa; H. O. Fisk, Peterboro; W. A. Johnson, Toronto; S. J Parker, Owen Sound; A. B. Smith, Toronto; D. Thomson, Thomas H. Wadland, Hamilton; A. A. Wright, Renfrew; John Yule, Guelph. It was decided that the first annual meeting is to be held in June next at Hamilton.

BUCKWHEAT
SELF-RISING
FLOUR!

This article is specially prepared by a careful process of desiccation with a view of producing, not only a palatable and delicious plate of griddle cakes, but what is far more important, a nutritious and easy digested hygienic food that will agree with the most sensitive stomach. It is, therefore, far superior to anything of the kind in the shape of Buckwheat Food, that has yet been manufactured or offered to the public.

—THE—

GOLDEN LION.

You will find this a great store. The more you get acquainted with its ways, the more you will like it. You will always find great bargains here that will please you, as it does our regular customers. There are always bargains in every department.

Take for instance Jackets in their season. In a lot of 50 Cloaks of one kind, probably one or two will hang fire. Variety gone, price was, say $20 but the two go for $8 or $10 each. That's done every week. Last week we sold a Beautiful Embroidered imported Dolman that sold at $22 for $10.

For another example take Dress Goods. Some lines of our 50c. goods go for 35c. and 25c. and so on.

People that understand shopping ask for these goods and get them.

Did you know that shopping requires experience. We always keep a fresh stock by selling out the tail end clean, even if at a sacrifice. Nothing is carried over.

This week and for the coming month you will find exceptional bargains in Mantle Cloths.

Exceptionally large bargains in Men's and Boys' Overcoats.

If one price or style fails to suit, you ask for another. Don't be afraid of asking for what you want. Keep on until you get it. It's here. There are few stocks that excel ours outside of the large cities.

which is heavy double fold Amazon Cloths, 42 to 43 in. wide, at 50c. a yard, worth 90c., in ten different shades. They are soft as velvet, close and fine with a bright finish like Henrietta Cloths, but have the appearance of the old style broad cloth men used to wear. They have been on our counters only a few days at this price and are going out rapidly, but we hope to have enough to supply the demand while this notice appears in this paper.

Those Overcoats we talked about last week are a surprise to everybody. They sell themselves every time. The best of the lot only $8, lower grades down to $5.

White Wool Blankets fresh from the mill, at $2.50 and $3 a pair, extra large sizes particularly cheap.

We pride ourselves in selling what we think is the best $15 Suit, made to order, in Town. A splendid selection of patterns to choose from.

BALFOUR IS POSITIVE.

IRELAND WILL NEVER GET HOME RULE, HE SAYS.

Important Speeches in the German Reichstag—The Defensive Alliance Between France and Russia Formed—Semi-Official Announcement of M. DeGiers.

GLASGOW, Nov. 28.—The Rt. Hon. A. J. Balfour was the first speaker at the Conservative meeting held yesterday. He declared very positively that Ireland would never attain her desire to have a parliament sit in Dublin. The differences which separate the Conservative and Liberal parties are more profound at the present time, he declared, than they have ever been before in the memory of two generations of British statesmen. Before the last five years the Unionists had had to fight for principles which heretofore had been supposed to be under guardianship of both parties. The Unionists would ever be found on the side of order and loyalty. They would deal with crime promptly and effectively. They believed that society was founded on certain principles of law and morality and that if in obedience to political inducements they relaxed their hold on these principles they would do the country the most profound injury.

Mr. Balfour said that whatever the success of the Government's policy in Ireland, it, at any event, had been a sincere policy. The first duty of the Government was to see that the laws were obeyed and by wise administration and a lavish expenditure of money to endeavor to increase the happiness of the people in every part of Her Majesty's dominions.

In conclusion, Mr. Balfour declared that no matter what the future might bring forth it would never bring Home Rule to Ireland.

Modern Belshazzar's Feasts.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—In a speech at Wolverhampton Mr. John Morley described the recent Conservative banquets as "Belshazzar's feasts" and said that the writing was plainly visible on the wall. The speeches of Lord Hartington, Mr. Goschen and Mr. Chamberlain, continued Mr. Morley, proved that the Tories had captured and absorbed the Unionists.

FORMED AN ALLIANCE.

The Result of M. De Giers' Recent Visit to Paris.

LONDON, Nov. 27.—According to a semi-official statement based on M. De Giers' declarations to Chancellor Von Caprivi, the Russian statesman's recent interviews at Paris with President Carnot, M. De Freycinet, Premier and Minister of War, and M. Ribot Minister of Foreign Affairs, resulted in a definite agreement for an exclusively defensive alliance. The entente agreed upon according to the statement quoted differs on one most essential point from the triple alliance treaty inasmuch as while that makes the European status quo the basis of the maintenance of peace the Russo-French entente aims at what M. DeGiers has called "respect for treaties," meaning especially the restoration of the Russian grip on Bulgaria and British evacuation of Egypt. The differences on these features of the situation are not meantime to be regarded as constituting danger of war, as both the Russian and French Governments desire to assure a strict application of the existing treaties by specific means. M. DeGiers has further communicated the fact that no treaty has as yet been signed, and has intimated that the French ministers desire the conclusion of a formal contract as alone properly defining future responsibilities and rendering it possible to pursue a distinct policy before Europe, while at the same time avoiding the reproach of cherishing warlike designs. The sum of these official assurances from the Berlin embassy is that the Paris conferences of M. DeGiers, instead of having an empty character as was generally reported, have resulted in a scheme to maintain diplomatic warfare against the Dreibund and England, awaiting a more propitious period for engaging in actual war. M. de Giers' communications assume importance, not for what they disclose so much as because they constitute the first official admission of the Russian Government to the powers that a Russo-French alliance has really been arranged.

THE CANADIAN BUDGET.

CONFESSION OF THE MITCHELL WIFE MURDERER.

Terrible Fatality at Petrolea—Warmed a Dynamite Cartridge—Verdict for $6000 Against the Toronto Street Railway Co. —Sequel to the Napanee Elopement.

STRATFORD, Nov. 28.—Daniel Whale of Mitchell, a former Toronto hotel keeper, who is now serving a life sentence for killing his wife, has made a confession. Whale's confession in effect is that on Nov. 30, 1890, he had an altercation with his son-in-law Seldon, and the latter threw him out of the Royal Hotel. Some days after, during the course of a quarrel, Mrs. Whale had twitted him about being thrown out of the hotel. He said he became very angry and told her that if she ever mentioned the matter to him again he would kill her. On the morning of the terrible tragedy Mrs. Whale again mentioned the affair to him in a sneering manner. Being under the influence of liquor he became so enraged that he seized an empty ale bottle and struck her a powerful blow on the head. This was the blow that drove the skull in and finally produced death. He then threw the bottle behind the wood pile in the yard, where it has been found since.

DROWNED WHILE SKATING.

The Ice Was Only One-Eighth of an Inch Thick.

STRATFORD, Nov. 28.—Fred Edmunds, the 12-year-old son of Cruickshank Edmunds of Ontario-street, and Willie Quinn of Walkerton, skated across Victoria Lake, but on the return trip Edmunds broke through. Quinn went to the assistance of his comrade and went through himself. Edmunds succeeded in pulling himself out and in turn went to the assistance of Quinn with the result that he was soon in the water again. Quinn succeeded in making his way to shore, but Edmunds sank. It was nearly an hour before the body was recovered. The ice was not more than an eighth of an inch in thickness.

STATE OF TRADE.

There is an Active Demand for Cheese, but Leather is Dull.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Special telegrams to Bradstreet's point to a moderate improvement in general trade. Sales of groceries and provisions, of dry goods, clothing, boots and shoes and holiday goods have all increased in volume.

In Canada general trade is quieter, notably in wheat and flour and with shoe manufacturers. There is an active demand for cheese and cottons are somewhat firmer. Leather is dull.

The Dominion reports 37 business failures this week, against 47 last week and 36 this week last year. The total number Jan. 1 to date is 1671, against 1489 last year.

Bank clearings at four Canadian cities aggregate $21,200,662 this week, a decrease of 12.9 per cent. compared with last week.

SHOT THE BABY.

A Petrolia Infant Instantly Killed by a Reckless Marksman.

PETROLIA, Nov. 28.—Some young men were shooting at a mark in Windover's bakery and missed the target, the ball going outside into the adjoining yard, where a little girl named Ethel McKay, aged five years, was playing snowball. The ball from the rifle struck this little child in the body near the lungs. She only lived about five minutes. The police have taken into custody one of the parties who is supposed to have fired the fatal shot.

AFTER THE LOCHNIVAR.

Who, Having a First Mortgage, Took Possession of a Sweetheart.

NAPANEE, Ont., Nov. 27.—Mr. Clarence Gould of Detroit, whom Miss Edna Percy of Newburgh rejected for Mr. Fullerton of this town, arrived here to-day and proceeded to Newburgh. It is said that Mr. Gould intends instituting an action for damages for breach of promise of marriage against Mrs. Fullerton, nee Miss Edna Percy.

Gould is the son of W. J. Gould, one of Detroit's leading wholesale merchants. The bridal trosseau which he purchased for his prospective bride cost $3000.

VERDICT FOR $6000

Against the Toronto Street Railway Company.

TORONTO, Nov. 28.—At the Assize Court yesterday the sealed verdict returned by the jury last evening in the case of Osgoodby v. the Street Railway Company was opened and the answers to questions were found to attribute negligence on the part of the company's employes. The plaintiff was awarded $6000 damages.

Lost His Hand.

TORONTO, Nov. 28.—James Flynn, a young widower living near Mimico, engaged at work on the industrial school there, yesterday had his left hand blown completely off while heating a dynamite cartridge at the stove in the building for the purpose of using it in blasting a piece of rock, the cartridge suddenly exploding. The stove was blown to atoms and Flynn narrowly escaped with his life.

A Manitoba Smashup.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 28.—Last night a heavy wheat train in running down the steep grade leading to Morden got up so much speed that the brakes were powerless to check it. The runaway train dashed through Morden at a terrific rate and telescoped a freight train standing on the track. A brakesman named Fraser was instantly killed, a passenger named Hartney had his arm fractured and 20 cars of wheat were completely wrecked. The damage will run well up in the thousands. There will be an inquest.

The Charge That Failed.

GUELPH, Nov. 28.—J. McK. Barclay was married to Kate O'Neil on Oct. 18 by the Archdeacon. A day or two afterwards he was arrested on the complaint of the girl's mother and brother that he had a wife living. He was committed to jail and the newly married wife was taken away by her mother. It appeared that some years since he had been living with a woman, who is now married in the Northwest. The County Attorney made diligent efforts to procure evidence of the alleged marriage, but without success, and to-day Barclay was discharged. Some five weeks in jail was pretty hard on the alleged bigamist without definite proof of his guilt, and now he is out and his wife, it is said by her mother, won't return to him.

THE LONDON PETITION.

THE PETITION AGAINST THE RETURN OF MR. HYMAN

Several Witnesses Examined Yesterday But Little Brought Out—Amusing Passages Between Counsel and Witnesses Which Convulsed the Crowd—

LONDON, Nov. 27.—On opening of court yesterday the judges disallowed the amendment asked for Thursday.

John William Little was called to prove agency rendered necessary by the mysterious disappearance of the books containing the committees.

During the course of the evidence Mr. Justice Ferguson remarked on the way in which material evidence was abstracted in important cases nowadays.

Continuing witness said there was no formal appointment of an executive committee, as the time was so short. Little merely superintended operations and knew nothing of the outside vote.

Mr. Osler on the cross-examination of this witness shed some light on the length of examinations. There were only 130 questions to 1½ hours.

During the afternoon session the court-room again assumed the crowded appearance of yesterday and the evidence took a decided change towards sensational developments.

George M. Reid said the abused box had been brought in his warehouse about the middle of March; it had remained there till July. He had opened it to make up a list of committees from the books for Mr. Hyman. He had no key, but had unloosened the screws to secure admittance. He had collected subscriptions, but destroyed the books containing names about May on account of a promise made to several subscribers. The outside vote was witnesses' care. He had sent lists to various places and had asked to have the voters forwarded, but how they came he knew not, all he knew was he met them at the station from different points and sent them to their proper polling places.

On cross-examination Mr. Blake proposed to put in as evidence a poster relating to the election being conducted honestly.

Mr. Osler objected to its being put in and said the time had not arrived for putting in general declarations of virtue. They had been left in the box all the time. The court sustained him.

On re-examination, witness said that Donald Ferguson, who was a liveryman, did the furnishing of rigs and witness did the placing.

Aleck Hardy had come from Brantford to vote, paid for his ticket and received a receipt from the agent because he had heard rumors in the air of there being free trains. On being asked what breeze blew the rumors to him Mr. Blake suggested the breeze from the C. P. R.

Fred W. Saunders was employed as a clerk in rooms. He expected remuneration and he voted. He did not receive anything until afterwards.

C. W. Taylor of The Globe said he had arranged with Arthur White, general district freight agent of the G.T.R., Toronto, for a special to carry voters to London on the day of election, but said nothing about payment.

Beer for Colored Voters.

Robert A. Carruthers is a tavern-keeper. On the request of Frank Halpin, a worker for Hyman, he had ordered lager beer for a meeting of colored brethren at the Waterloo-street school house and also for a meeting at the colored band room. In all, 56 gallons were ordered. The beer for the Waterloo-street school house went the night before election and that for the colored band two or three days before. Witness was present at the playing of the colored band and some speeches were made.

One on Mr. Blake.

Frederick Phœnix, colored, was at both the Waterloo school house meeting and the colored band. He was one of the band and had helped to take the beer to the school house. He had taken it there on a wheelbarrow of Carruthers'. He had been there all day—cleaning in the morning and fixing up, and being tired had taken a short nap. When he woke the room was full of people. After that he went for the beer. The beer disappeared, the band played and speeches were made for Hyman. The Witness was also at band room meeting, he was on his way to practise when he met Carruthers and Halpin in a coupe with a keg of lager and a basket. They had asked him in and they went together to the room. As soon as the beer got in the crowd gathered and it speedily disappeared. There were whites present and speaking was indulged in. Witness had notified people for the schoolhouse meeting.

Mr. Osler: Did you tell them the bill of fare?

Witness: The bill of fare was to vote for Hyman.

On cross-examination Mr. Blake asked the witness if it wasn't very thirsty work playing in the band.

Witness said not playing his instrument.

Mr. Blake: Not on these by wind instruments?

Witness: "I play the snare drum."

This convulsed the whole court and it was some time before order could be restored. As it was now getting late the court adjourned.

Lost in a Fog.

LIVERPOOL, Nov. 28.—A dense fog prevailed over the River Mersey last night. An unknown bark, supposed to be the Harmony, anchored off the "Bar Lightship," with her masts gone and her hull seriously damaged. She has been in collision with an unknown steamer. The latter vessel was so badly damaged that she filled and sank and her entire crew were drowned.

A number of workmen on board a steam launch were crossing the River Tyne at Shields when a passenger steamer ran into them, crushing the launch to pieces. Three of the workmen were instantly killed.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 28, 1891.

THE courts for the final revision of the Dominion voters' lists, for the electoral district of West Northumberland, which opened at Grafton on Oct. 21st, closed at Cobourg on Friday last. The gross Liberal gain was 257, and the gross Conservative gain was 92, leaving the net numerical Liberal gain in the matter of voters, 165, quite an important element in deciding the result of an election.

THE Lindsay Post says that last Thursday Mr. John Waldon, of Ops, purchased from the Hudspeth estate the well known Brass-Graham farm, lot 14 in 3rd con. of Ops, for which he gave $7,750. This is one of the best farms in Ops, about three miles s. w. from Lindsay, and was held by the late, Mr. Hudspeth at $12,000. He was offered $11,000 but refused it. Ten or twelve years ago it was probably valued at $70 an acre. There are on it two good barns with stone foundations for stables, good brick house, wells, etc. and 180 acres are cleared and cultivated. The transaction shows how the values of farm lands have been benefitted by the N.P. and anti-reciprocity. Farmers can now see every day that reciprocity will put $10 an acre or more on the value of their lands, because it will increase the value of farm products.

The Horse Market.

To use an every day expression, the English market for horses is simply not in it with the American market. Any class of horses that will realize a good price in England, will realize a much better price in the United States, and with much less risk and cost of shipment. The talk about the big demand for our horses in England and how it would pay Canadian breeders to cater for that market is simply bosh. True, the war authorities require a large number of horses every year, but their purchasing agents are surrounded with more red tape restrictions in the purchase of them and restrained by such iron limits as to the price they are allowed to pay, that their custom is not of the slightest value to Canadian owners.

Any horse that an English army purchaser would buy would command fully twenty per cent. more across the border, even after adding the cost of duty. And we can produce a hundred proofs if necessary to substantiate our statement. On the last occasion when the English army buyer was trying to operate in this market we know of several horses that he could not buy because they were a few dollars over his limit, that were immediately bought by parties in Toronto, shipped to New York and sold at an advance of one hundred per cent. Take for instance the average realized at Tattersall's New York, by Mr. Grand at his late sale there,—does the editor of the Empire imagine that such an average could have been secured in London? If he does he has but little acquaintance with the horse business. Wealthy Americans are coping English styles and customs. English carriages, English harness, and bangtailed carriage horses, high stepping cobs and breedy looking saddlers are all the rage with them just now. As a consequence they will pay big prices for the right article. The English market for the Canadian horses is simply of no account in comparison with that at our very doors, and no point of value is to be gained by representing it otherwise.—E King Dodds (Tory) in Canadian Sportsman.

Danger in Electric Lighting!

Scientists Say That it Ruins the Eyes—A Greater Danger to the Nation.

It is asserted by scientists that the inventors of the electric light system must at once devise some means of softening our present arc light, or we will become a nation of blind people in a few generations. It is contended that no eye can sustain the strong glare of the electric light that now meet the gaze everywhere. The light is ruinous to the sight and induces paralysis of the eye; and it has been proved that any defect of the eye is readily transmitted to children. While we believe in the correctness of the theory, the chances of danger to the nation are small when compared with one, about which scientific men and the press have uttered no uncertain sound.

We refer to that fast increasing malady, nervousness, which has already become a national danger. We have in our midst today thousands of men and women whose lives are in extreme peril through this disease, and who transmit it to their children. The first symptoms of this prevalent trouble are not very alarming, and for years the matter is neglected, until the victim is in such a condition as to create surprise and alarm. Do our readers fully realize the true condition of a broken down, nervous organism? It is a fearful and dreadful state, and life cannot be guaranteed for a week.

Accompanying nervousness we find all those characteristics which make existence miserable and burdensome to the poor victim. We find insomnia (sleeplessness), great irritability, dull brain, tired body, listless disposition, dyspepsia, moroseness and melancholy. Doctors for ages have tried to grapple with nervousness and its terrible consequences, but have only been partially successful. The great remedy that nature required was providentially introduced to men and women by that eminent physician, Dr Edward E. Phelps, and is now known all over the world as Paine's Celery Compound. It has done a work for the nervous and suffering beyond human calculation, and still blesses individuals and families in all parts of the earth. The record of successes and triumphs achieved by Paine's Celery Compound in Canada alone has placed it at the head of all medicinal preparations. It is the only true nerve food known to the medical profession, and is regularly prescribed. It never fails to give satisfactory results when faithfully used.

The Gaelic-Speaking People of Scotland.

A return has been issued relating to the Gaelic-speaking people of Scotland, as taken at the last census by an arrangement come to at almost the last moment. Of the 3,734,441 comprising the whole population of Scotland, 231,602 are put down as speaking Gaelic, or 1 in 16. The chief Gaelic-speaking counties are Ross and Cromarty, Inverness, Argyll, Sutherland and Perth. In Caithness about 1 in 10 of the population speak Gaelic, and in Dumfriesshire 1 in 4500. In Lanark the number of Gaelic-speakers is 11,500, which is accounted for by the number of Highlanders in Glasgow, 8,517. In Edinburgh the number is 1770.

"Aren't you ever going to grow old, like the rest of us?" asked a man of an acquaintance he hadn't seen for some time. "Well, not so long as I can purify my blood with Ayer's Sarsaparilla," was the apt reply. This man knew what he was talking about.

WHO WAS CHERRY RIPE?

QUEER STORY AS TO MILLAIS' LITTLE ORIGINAL.

A Sequel to the History of a Print That Gave Delight to Thousands, with a Reproduction of the Famous Artist's Picture.

Fourteen-year-old Blanche Barrett, a professional model, was missed from her mother's home, at Wandsworth, near London, some weeks ago. In notifying the police Mrs. Barrett said that her daughter, at the age of three years, had been found by Sir John Millais playing in Wandsworth Common, and that he had copied her quaint and pretty face in his famous Graphic print "Cherry Ripe."

Blanche was subsequently found at Fulham, a London suburb, where she had been serving as an artist's model.

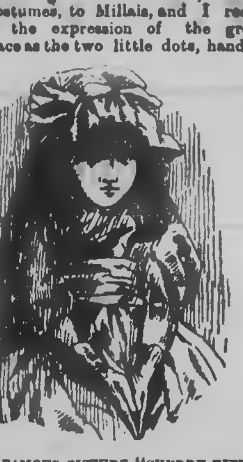
The print in question was issued with the Christmas Graphic in 1880.

THE TRUE CHERRY

In an article, "The Making of the Graphic," in the Universal Review of September, 1888, W. L. Thomas, manager of the Graphic Company, gives the following account of the picture and its model: "No picture ever painted, to my knowledge, has ever gained such extraordinary popularity as Millais' 'Cherry Ripe,' and as numerous fond parents have dressed up their children at costume balls with such perfect imitation that they have at last convinced their friends and themselves that their darling sat to Sir Everett for the original picture, it will be well to set down in black and white its history. I had a children's fancy dress ball at my own house, and my niece, with her artistic taste, brought her little girl, Edie Ramage, exactly as shown in the picture. Every one was charmed with her winning appearance, the more so when she trotted about with a little fair-haired boy of my own dressed in white as a man cook.

A DEMURE LITTLE SITTER.

"Next morning I took them both, dressed in their costumes, to Millais, and I recollect now the expression of the great master's face as the two little dots, hand in hand, entered the door of his lofty studio. He was delighted, and said so, and the subject he arranged to paint was the little girl sitting on the stairs, and the boy offering her some fruit. He decided to paint the girl in first. After some days hard work Millais was so pleased with his demure little sitter and his own rendering of the subject that he decided she should be alone and do without her attendant cook, and of course he was right.



MILLAIS' FAMOUS PICTURE "CHERRY RIPE."

A HALF MILLION COPIES.

"It was reproduced in colors remarkably well. Nothing on so large a scale had ever been before attempted, and the sensation was extraordinary.

"We printed 500,000 copies. Our publisher had to refund £4,000 ($20,000) in hard cash for orders he could not execute, and defend actions at law for not supplying the trade with the quantity required."

IN DARKEST FRANCE.

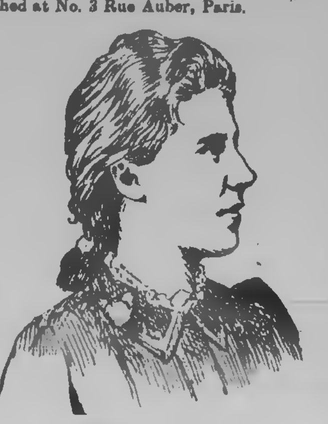
Marechale Booth-Clibborn Writes of Her Life Work.

La Marechale Booth-Clibborn, the leader of the Salvation Army movement in France and Switzerland for the past ten years, has just landed in this country, and will make a grand tour, telling of the good work of salvation.

The lady is about thirty-two years of age. She is the eldest daughter of Commander-in-Chief Booth, of London.

When the army made its first move towards the salvation of countries apart from England, Mrs. Booth-Clibborn was selected to lead in France and the cantons of Switzerland.

Her forthcoming book is one of the greatest tributes to the work of the Salvationists the army has ever known. It is to be published at No. 3 Rue Auber, Paris.



LA MARECHALE BOOTH-CLIBBORN.

"The new tricolor," says Mrs. Booth-Clibborn, "was first raised by the weak hand of a woman in March, 1881, in a little hall in a courtyard up an impasse in the rowdy Quartier du Temple in Paris, at the foot of Belleville. To-day there are 216 stations and outposts of the Army dotted over twenty-three of the Departments of France and ten of the Swiss Cantons, and 430 French and Swiss officers "raised on the soil" are hard at work every day and every night in the week for the salvation of their countrymen, aided by 300 local officers (also converts of the work). More than thirty other converts are working as evangelists, pastors or colporteurs in connection with the churches."

"The gloomy prophesyings," says the author, "that met Catherine Booth when she came to France, the assurances that it would be impossible to raise a solid, steady fighting force out of the volatile French, that it would be impossible to bring gay Frenchwomen to be Miriams or Deborahs, have all been swept away."

He Remembered It.

Grocer—Mrs. Hauah says she doesn't remember getting any butter here last week.

Clerk—I remember it.

"Did you sell it to her?"

"No, sir; but I board at her house."

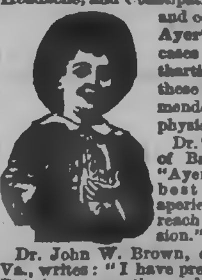
Sufferers

FROM Stomach and Liver derangements—Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Sick-Headache, and Constipation—find a safe and certain relief in Ayer's Pills. In all cases where a cathartic is needed, these Pills are recommended by leading physicians.



Dr. T. E. Hastings, of Baltimore, says: "Ayer's Pills are the best cathartic and aperient within the reach of my profession."

Dr. John W. Brown, of Oceana, W. Va., writes: "I have prescribed Ayer's Pills in my practice, and find them excellent. I urge their general use in families."

"For a number of years I was afflicted with biliousness which almost destroyed my health. I tried various remedies, but nothing afforded me any relief until I began to take Ayer's Pills."—G. S. Wanderlich, Scranton, Pa.

"I have used Ayer's Pills for the past thirty years, and am satisfied I should not be alive to-day if it had not been for them. They cured me of dyspepsia when all other remedies failed, and their occasional use has kept me in a healthy condition ever since."—T. P. Brown, Chester, Pa.

"Having been subject, for years, to constipation, without being able to find much relief, I at last tried Ayer's Pills, and deem it both a duty and a pleasure to testify that I have derived great benefit from their use. For over two years past I have taken one of these Pills every night before retiring. I would not willingly be without them."—G. W. Bowman, 26 East Main st., Carlisle, Pa.

"Ayer's Pills have been used in my family upwards of twenty years, and have completely verified all that is claimed for them. In attacks of piles, from which I suffered many years, they afforded me greater relief than any medicine I ever tried."—Thomas F. Adams, Holly Springs, Texas.

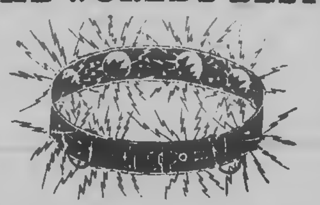
Self Application of Electricity
FOR MEDICAL PURPOSES
BY THE
DORENWEND ELECTRIC BELT
And Attachments.

HEAD OFFICE—103 Yonge St., Toronto.

THE WORLD'S BEST.



ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete BODY BATTERY. It has an independent Battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT OF QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASE, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCE, SEXUAL DECLINE and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.

Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.

Do not class this Belt with the humbug combinations of leather and metal with which the country is being flooded. If you wish to experiment with cheap articles, buy them but if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.

A WEEK AGO

"THE STAR" made the largest purchase of Overcoats ever made at one time in the history of the Clothing Trade—Over TWENTY THOUSAND DOLLARS' WORTH—the entire magnificent stock of one of the largest manufacturers of Fine Clothing in Canada. The owners of the goods were in Desperate Need of Ready Cash. We had it, and we got the stock AT OUR OWN PRICE. We placed about half our purchase on sale Monday morning, and to-day we place the balance of the stock on our tables. The last shipment included the Finest Goods. The first lots are all sold, and such scenes of excitement as have transpired during this sale never before occurred in a clothing store.

Customers stood in open-mouthed wonder at the wonderful values given. Many persons bought two and three Coats on account of their wonderful cheapness. Small Merchants have eagerly bought all we would sell them, our prices are so much lower than they could buy the same goods at wholesale.

The Overcoats are Simply Elegant, made of the Richest and Finest Fabrics and in the most "Correct" Style. "Schnabel's" Chinchillas and Beavers; "Carr's" Meltons, Eredon Kerseys, Fine Fancy Overcoatings and Shetlands, intended for Merchant Tailor's use. Many were intended to Wholesale at $15, $18 and $20. We bought them for less than the Raw Material Cost, and are selling for $8 and $10, garments worth two and three times the money.

The Brennan House, Norwood.

This fine village hotel has changed hands. Mr. James Graham, of Peterborough, formerly of the Persian Steam Laundry, has purchased the hotel and took possession on Tuesday last. The new proprietor is a popular, genial and enterprising young man, and will no doubt add to the attractiveness and popularity of this hostelerie, which has worked up a fine business. The former proprietor, Mr. O. A. Brennan, states that on a certain day there were no less than forty commercial travellers registered at the hotel and that 109 pieces of baggage have been handled in one day. Jimmy Graham's Peterborough friends will receive a warm welcome when they call at his hotel in Norwood.

Police Court Paragraphs.

The Hiawatha Indian who had a taste of Ashburnham justice the other day, was this morning allowed to a sample Peterborough's brand of that important article. He was arranged for furious driving while under the influence of "fire water" In consideration of his previous good character, he was "let off" under suspended sentence.

John McCoy, a "gintleman" on his way to the shanties, decided to have a little relaxation before going. As it took the shape, however, of a little too much of the "cratbur" and making more disturbance than was necessary, John was given a night's free lodging in the cells. On being arraigned this morning, he was discharged on promising not to offend in like manner again.

Mrs. Elizabeth Allen, who was charged yesterday with keeping a house of ill fame, was brought up this morning to hear the judgment of the court. The court decided to suspend judgment, giving Mrs. Allen one week in which to leave town.

Town Council Meeting.

The adjourned special meeting of the town council will be held on Monday evening.

The Edison Phonograph.

Messrs. J. W. Crosby and E. H. Turner, the enterprising music dealers of Peterborough, have procured direct from New York the latest invention, the Phonograph. It is now in operation at their music store, 404 George street. Patronage is respectively solicited.

An Expression of Appreciation.

Messrs. J J. Turner & Son this morning received a letter signed by the officers of the Emily Agricultural Society expressing the great satisfaction the large tent supplied them gave, and also expressing satisfaction an the courteous and businesslike nature of the dealings of the firm with the directors of the Society.

Salvationists Keep on Fighting.

Shot and shell are still being poured red-hot into the devil's ranks by the "Soul Saving Troupe" commanded by Adjutant Michael, assisted by the Peterborough corps led by Ensign Steele. The holiness meetings held yesterday were well attended, and it is expected much good will result. Great public demonstration to night. Two bands; good speakers. Farewell of Lieut. V. M. Green to morrow afternoon at 3 p.m.

The Pumpkin Ridge Histrionists.

The "Pumpkin Ridge" dramatic company gave the thrilling play from which it takes its title at a very successful entertainment given last night in Lakefield by Exeter lodge of the Sons of England. The members of the company reached town at two o'clock this morning, and those who were sleeping in the houses on the line of their route through town were not sleeping after they had passed. The excellent treatment they had received in Lakefield made them feel very happy and they were not ungratefully quiet in giving expression to their joyous feelings.

Onward and Upward.

The great 5 per cent. discount sale continues daily at J. J. Sheehy's. Already this fall over one hundred pairs of white blankets have left the store. The special bargains for next week will be grey flannels, white all wool blankets, and carpets. In the last mentioned line of goods Mr. Sheehy has splendid value. Having purchased the goods direct from the manufacturers he will be in a position to fulfil all promises made to the purchasing public who have so generously bestowed their patronage towards him during the past six years. To-night the ladies are invited once more to inspect his excellent stock of kid gloves, every pair of which is guaranteed at or over $1. The goods are arranged in such a manner that it is absolutely no trouble to show them.

Hockey in Peterborough.

At a meeting of friends of this exciting and exhilarating sport held last evening, a club was organized for the practice of the game. It will be known as the "Peterborough Hockey Club," and the scene of its operations will be the Lansdowne Skating Rink. The members anticipate meeting for play on Tuesday and Thursday evenings. Officers were elected as follows:

PRESIDENT—Dr. Brennan.
VICE-PRESIDENT—E B. Loucks.
SECRETARY-TREASURER—D. C. King.
CAPTAIN—Mr. Montgomery.
COMMITTEE — The above officers and Messrs. H. Roy, J. Connal. W. Bradburn, T. Connal, W. Phelan and J. Gemmell.

Parties desiring to join the club will receive full information from, and may give in their names to, any member of the committee.

Society Notes.

Carswell Lodge I.O.G.T. held their last meeting in the Oddfellows' hall last evening. There was a large attendance of members and visitors, and five persons were initiated. After routine busines the following programme was well rendered:—Chorus, choir; reading, Sister Williams; duet, Sisters Anderson; reading, Sister Moore; mouth organ solo, Brother Hudson; reading, Brother R. S. Munro; organ solo, Sister McKim; closing chorus, choir. The Carswellites are to be congratulated on the present prosperity of the Lodge, and no doubt some useful temperance work will be accomplished this winter. They will meet next Thursday in the B. T. of T. Hall, having changed their meeting night.

Ashburnia Lodge, Ashburnham, held their usual weekly meeting last evening in the lodge room, Ashburnham. Despite the inclemency of the weather, there was a good attendance of members, and a most enjoyable evening was spent.

Burritt-Horrocks Wedding.

The Globe contains the following report of a wedding, in which a former Peterborough gentleman was one of the principal parties: "An interesting ceremony took place at St. Luke's Church Wednesday morning. It was the marriage of Miss Ethel Horrocks, daughter of the late Joseph Horrocks, to Mr. Fred. W. Burritt, second son of Dr. H. C. Burritt. Only the nearest relatives of the contracting parties were invited, but a large congregation composed of many of their friends and a number of interested spectators were present. As the bridal party entered the church the organist played "The Bridal Chorus" from "Lohengrin." Rev. Dr. Langtry officiated. The bride was attired in a costume of ivory duchess satin and bodice of pearls and chiffon and carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums. The bridesmaids were Miss Bunting and Misses Kathleen and Elsie Riordon, cousins of the bride. They wore gowns of nuns' veiling. Mr. Ernest Campbell was the groom's best man. The bride was given away by her brother, Mr. Percy Horrocks. After the ceremony, as the party was leaving the church, Mendelssohn's Wedding March was played. The wedding breakfast took place at "Woodlawn." The bride's presents included, besides a number of costly gifts, some checks and drafts for handsome sums. Mr. and Mrs. Burritt have gone to Denver, Colorado, where they will take up permanent residence."

News Nuggets.

The jury and voters lists which should have been issued some weeks ago, are nearing completion and will, it is anticipated, be out next week.

—The result of the Cullers' examinations held on Wednesday last are not yet to hand, but will probably be announced about Wednesday next.

TRAVELLING.—A prudent person leaving on a voyage never fails to put into her trunk a bottle of Persian Lotion, the most agreeable and reliable article for the toilet that druggists have ever offered the public. 1d

For Good Conduct.

Mr. G. B. Sproule has intimated his intention of taking gratis the photographs of all the scholars in the county schools who stand highest in their classes for good conduct. This will be a competition of a very laudable character, and should be taken advantage of by every scholar. It begins with the new year, and will be for the first three months of 1892. The teachers will be communicated with by circular in due course.

St. Paul's Mission Band.

A large attendance of the members and friends of the above gathered in the school room of St. Paul's church last evening to enjoy the entertainment provided for them by the Mission Band. The different numbers on the programme were very much appreciated, Mr. Arlidge being deservedly encored for his rendering of the vocal solo, "When I had Nothing Else to do." The programme opened with an instrumental duet by Misses Hall and Fairweather, which was capitally given, followed by the piano solo "Moonlight on the Hudson," Miss Maud Elliot, vocal duet, "Oh tell us merry birds," Miss Dixon and Montgomery; vocal solo, "To-morrow will be Friday," Mr. Drope, and the vocal solo, "The remembered song," by Miss Cameron, which were well received and cordially applauded, as well also the reading which succeeded—"The Natural Bridge, Dr. Clark; "The Magpies," Miss Ostrom, and "Mr. McFarlane's Rabbit Dinner," Mr McCallum. The other numbers of this excellent programme were rendered in good style, particularly the recitation by Mrs. Goldsmith. The vocal solo "The Song for Me" by Miss Lillie Jackson, and the piano duet "Charge of the Cavalry" by Misses Annie and Helen Dennistoun. The rendition also of J. C Arlidge's vocal solo, "Reminiscences of Childhood" by Master Gussie Arlidge was very creditable, as was the quartette "Annie Laurie," given by the Harmony quartette, the whole concluding with God Save the Queen by the audience. The members of the Mission Band are to be congratulated on the success of their entertainment and it is hoped that the pecuniary results are as satisfactory to the treasurer, as the programme was to the audience.

REGULAR MONTHLY
PRIZE COMPETITION!

$1,000 in Cash Will be Paid in Prizes to Successful Competitors Each Month.

Nothing is more interesting and entertaining in the cultivated family circle than a bright Prize Competition, which will bring into active use the abilities of competitors, when it is known that such competition is to be carried out by the originators in a perfectly fair and honorable manner. As a means of advertising and introducing the LADIES' PICTORIAL WEEKLY, which is universally acknowledged by those acquainted with it as the par excellence of popular Canadian literature, its proprietors will appropriate $12,000 of their capital to be distributed during the coming year to successful competitors in these popular monthly Prize Competitions. $12 000 in cash; not in trips to Europe, silverware or jewelry, but in cash prizes. Successful competitors in these monthly competitions will be given an opportunity of investing their own prize money and will not be obliged to accept prizes, which, in many cases, they have no particular use for. Any intelligent person can readily form an opinion as to the bona fide of these Monthly Competitions by simply obtaining a copy of the LADIES' PICTORIAL WEEKLY for inspection. It speaks for itself; in fact, it is the only publication in this country equal in every respect to the high priced English and American illustrated weeklies. Sample copy can be procured through your newsdealer, or will be mailed FREE by the proprietors on receipt of your request for it.

Prize Competition for December.

For the largest list of nouns made from the letters contained in "LADIES' PICTORIAL WEEKLY," the proprietors will pay $400 in cash; to the person sending the second best list will be paid $250 in cash; to the person sending the third best list will be paid $150 in cash; to the person sending the fourth best list will be paid $50 in cash; the fifteen persons sending the next best lists will be given $10 each, making a total of $1 000 in cash to be given to the successful competitors in this, our December Competition.

RULES.

This month's Competition will be open to persons residing in Canada or the United States. To place all competitors (residing near or at a distance) on an equal footing, no list will be received bearing an earlier postmark than Nov. 30 h, and none must bear postmark later than December 20th. Prizes for this Competition will be paid in cash, so that they will reach successful competitors by Christmas. The names of successful competitors, together with the best list received, will be published in the LADIES' PICTORIAL WEEKLY. No letter can be used in the construction of any noun more times than it is contained in "LADIES PICTORIAL WEEKLY." No noun is admissable not found in the last edition of Webster's Dictionary. Proper or common nouns can be used in either singular or plural, but not in both numbers. Lists must be written on one side of paper only, and contain the name and post office address of competitor, with the number of nouns contained therein. All Lists will be Carefully Examined. The editors of the LADIES' PICTORIAL WEEKLY cannot undertake to enter into personal correspondence with any one concerning these competitions, but no list will be thrown out on account of containing a few mistakes.

This competition open to any person, but as the object in offering these cash prizes is to introduce our large, handsome, illustrated sixteen page Weekly to ladies who are the most apt to become permanent subscribers to it, the name and address of some lady together with $1.00 for six months' trial of the publication to be sent to her address, must be enclosed with list of nouns for this competition. Prizes will be awarded by disinterested parties whose decision will be final. Send your address on a postal card at once for free sample copy of the LADIES PICTORIAL WEEKLY and commence work on your list to-day. It should be mailed as early as possible after Competition opens, for in case of a tie the list bearing earliest postmark will take precedence. No additions can be made after it has been mailed. Address, LADIES PICTORIAL WEEKLY, Canada Life Building, Toronto, Canada.

A GREAT BOON
To the citizens of Peterborough. Having seen the necessity of an office in Peterborough where parties having accounts to collect would have some reliable place to go to, I have availed myself of the opportunity and have established such an office where I make account collecting a specialty. Parties having accounts to collect will do well to place them in my hands where they will be promptly attended to. As a rule all business men are poor collectors, therefore, they let their accounts run on from year to year when they should have the cash. Now all the Dry Goods, Grocers, Druggists Doctors, Furniture Dealers, Harness Makers, Barbers, Real Estate Brokers, Bakers, Bankers, Ministers and any other business man not mentioned here and having accounts to collect, will do well to call on me. Now the reason I can collect better than other men, is, I go and take the account personally to the parties, therefore, I must get some answer. I also do a Real Estate business, buying, selling and renting town and country property; money lending, discounting notes, also insurance, fire, life and accident.

A Cobourg Lady's Invention.

From the Winnipeg Free Press we clip the following description of a novel invention which has been perfected and patented by Miss H. Stephens, a former well known resident of Cobourg:—"Visitors to the main building at the exhibition might have noticed near the top of the stairs a trunk of unique and convenient design. When closed it looked like an ordinary trunk, only the lock was near the centre of the front side and the hinges in the middle of the top. Upon taking hold of the lid to open it, about one-quarter of the trunk turns up and rests on the other quarter, making a complete bureau, on the top of which are bolted panels, which, when removed, reveal recesses for storing clothes. Beneath this is a set of drawers which may be locked. The bottom, or lower half of the trunk, is one spacious compartment, revealed by a moveable panel over the front half of it. The whole is firmly bound and bolted to resist the onslaughts of hustling baggage-men. One of its recommendations is that it need never be removed from the wall. There are no trays, and a child can handle it. Miss Stephens of this city is the Canadian patentee."

Collegiate Institute Literary Society.

Yesterday afternoon the society held its second debate. The resolution read that "town life affords greater advantages than country life." The affirmative was upheld by Messrs Cragg and VanEvery of Form IV, the negative by Messrs. Eddy and Porter of Form III. The subject was opened in a strong, vigorous manner with a systematic exposition of the advantages of the town, social, intellectual, moral and religious. The leader of the negative denied the moral and religious inferiority of the country instancing his own village of Bridgenorth. The town, he claimed, is given to gossiping and the streets are commonly disgraced with profanity and rowdyism quite unknown in the country. Then, too, towns are more favorable to the rapid spread of fire or disease. Next, and in a speech really remarkable for the elegance of its language, the second speaker on the affirmative, dwelling on the elevating influence of town society, added to the list of town advantages the greater accessibility to medical aid, and maintained that the healthfulness of the country was fairly well attended by our able boards of health. The negative was then closed with a vigorous reply to some reflections upon the cleanliness and refinement of the farm house and also with a warm eulogy of the independence, healthfulness and beauties of rural life. After a few remarks from the leader of the affirmative, a critic's report from Mr Fife and short voluntary impromptus from Mr Laing, Mr. Brooks and Miss Fife. The judges returned from consultation and declared in favor of the affirmative.

The Finance Committee Meets.

The above committee met last evening, but owing to the confusion existing amongst the papers in the town office, were not able to transact as much business as demanded attention. A few accounts were passed and the committee decided to recommend that the School Board and Edison Pipe by-laws be prepared.

Millbrook Curling Club.

The Reporter says that a meeting of the Millbrook Curling Club was held in the council chamber on Friday evening, when the following officers were chosen:

President—D Hampton.
Vice President—W. T. Wood.
Sec.-Treas.—J. A. Preston.
Committee—J. W. Walsh, Capt. C. H. Winslow, Dr. H. A. Turner, S. W. Clark, and J. A. Vance, Skips—R. H. Kells, John Steele, W. T. Wood and Chas. Needler.

To the Public.

To avoid the rush of customers, which the magnificent Christmas stock of goods is sure to bring with the next week or two, the public are reminded of the advisability of visiting the Peterborough Bookstore and selecting their purchases now, to be laid aside till Christmas is within a day or so. This has been largely done in past seasons, and is more than ever necessary now, for with the double shop and magnificent stock complete in every department and of endless variety and unexcelled beauty, will create a demand to fill which early purchases will be necessary.

Telfordian Temperature Topics.

Peterborough, Nov. 28.—Sharp weather change on the 25th at sunrise. The thermometer stood at 28°; highest during the day, 33°. Some drifting flurries of snow in the evening. On the 26th, with white frost, the thermometer marked 12° and 40°, with some rain in the evening. On the 27th the thermometer showed 29° and 32°. Snow began to fall about noon, and this morning the thermometer stood at 14°, with 3½ inches of snow and a dropping mercury. The snow plough made its first appearance this morning.

A Narrow Escape.

The Millbrook Reporter says:—There was not a little excitement for a while in Kells, Fowler & Co's. millinery department on Monday evening about five o'clock. A lamp was accidentally knocked off a table in the southwest corner of the room, and, the glass smashing into fragments, the oil came in contact with the burning wick. Instantly flames sprang up and spread in great volume, and but for the prompt appearance of Messrs Richard Kells and Geo. Fowler the whole block would probably have been destroyed. Blankets were got without loss of time, and the flames were smothered before they had secured a hold on the floor or casings.

A Pointer for the Board of Trade.

The Board of Trade has shown itself active in agitating matters that pertain to the interest of the town, and they are doubtless thankful for any suggestion that will afford an outlet to their energies. The attention of the board is called to the fact that the city of Belleville is unduly favoured, as compared with Peterborough, in the matter of the accessability of persons on the line of the Grand Junction Railway to the market of that city. Belleville has three one-fare market day rates from Campbellford east on the G J.R line, while Peterborough has only one one-fare market day—Saturday—from Hastings west. There is no good reason why Peterborough should not be put on even terms with Belleville in this respect. The board has only to take the matter in hand to secure justice in this regard, not only to Peterborough, but to the people living on the line of the Grand Junction, who have just reason to complain that they have not the greatest possible freedom of access to the best market and best buying facilities in the district.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

The junior department of the Y. M. C. A. gave a very enjoyable entertainment last evening in the rooms. Despite the severe weather a good number of members and friends attended. After a few earnest and well chosen remarks by the secretary, Mr. Colville the following programme was very creditably gone through:—

The anniversary services will be held on Friday evening next in St Andrew's Presbyterian church. Rev. J. E Starr Toronto, will deliver one of his eloquent addresses. Special music by the St. Andrew's church choir and others. Public are cordially invited to attend.

Personal.

Mr. E. H. Turner, of Messrs. Crosby & Turner, has returned from New York, where he has purchased an Edison phonograph, comprising the very latest improvements, which will be kept on exhibition at their music store, 404 George street.

Mr Alonzo W. Spooner, the well known oil and copperine manufacturer of Port Hope, is in town to-day introducing "Phenyle," a new disinfectant deodorizer and germ destroyer, said to possess wonderful properties. It may be had at Mr. Henry Best's, as will be seen by advertisement in another column.

The Montreal Witness in its report of a concert thus refers to the singing of a lady well known and highly appreciated in Peterborough:—Mrs. Chambers' beautiful soprano voice was never heard to better advantage than when she sang as her first solo of the evening, "It is a Wondrous Mystery." Throughout the programme she ably sustained her reputation."

Excellent Sons of England Concert.

A grand concert under the auspices of Exeter lodge of Sons of England was held in the P.C.A. hall Friday night. There was a good house and the entertainment was in every way a success. The following programme was very acceptably presented:—

Piano selection	"Don Giovanni"
Misses Grylls and Hendren.
Song	"Soldier's Farewell"
Miss Tivey.
Duet	"List to the Woodbird's Song"
Misses White and Galvin.
Reading	Mr. Sheldrake
Song	"Madeline"
Miss Long.
Reading	"Jim Wolf and his Cats"
Mr. Hooper.
Comic song	"I did It"
Mr. Turner.
Reading	Mr. C. J. Blomfield
Song	Mr. Mellor
Impersonations	Selected
Mr. Packenham.
Comic duet	"Upper Ten and Lower Five"
Messrs. Gaskins and Turner.

Mr. Fred Clark played the accompaniments, and rendered very acceptable pianoforte selections. While the several number were loudly applauded, encores were not responded to, except in the case of Mr. J. J. Turner, who could not really help it. The general programme was followed by the side splitting farce, Pumpkin Ride, by the Ashburnham company, which was well played and enthusiastically received. This is the first concert given under the auspices of this lodge, which has every reason to be proud and gratified by their first attempt.

Norwood News Items.

A branch of the Ingres-Coutellier school of modern languages has been opened at Norwood.

On Wednesday evening, Dec. 9th, a grand concert will be held in the town hall by the students of the Model school.

The clergy of the Rural Deanery of Northumberland held their quarterly meeting in Christ church parsonage yesterday.

Address and Presentation.

Norwood's Oddfellows' Valedictory Tribute of Respect and Good Will to Rev. Wm. Peer.

The removal of the Rev. Wm. Peer from Norwood in the near future was considered a suitable opportunity by his brother Oddfellows for the presentation of a handsome fish knife and fork, as a slight token of their appreciation of his services among them during his connection with the Order. On Thursday evening he was waited upon by the deputation of the brethren of the "triple link" of Norwood Lodge, when the following address was read by Bro. R. J. Stewart, P. G., and the presentation made by Bro. E. Gear, N.G., on behalf of the members:—

To the Rev. Wm. Peer:

Dear Sir and Brother,—We the members of Norwood Lodge, I. O. O. F. No. 262, having learned of your intended departure from among us, cannot permit you to leave without endeavoring to show, in a slight degree our appreciation of your valuable services to us as a member of our lodge for the past four years. Your daily walk and Christian character have made us to love you as a brother, and will leave an impression upon our hearts, long to be felt by the brethren of our lodge. As an Oddfellow you have shown, by example as well as precept, the tenets of our beloved Order. Bro. Peer, we belong to a society which has for its object the uplifting of the character of man; it imbues him with proper conceptions of his capabilities for good, and also cares for the fatherless and widow and alleviates the wants of our brethren, no matter from what state or nation they may come. Your counsel and advice when at our meetings were always in keeping with our principles. Dear Bro. Peer, we trust in carrying out the will of Him who knows all things, that you and Mrs. Peer may be long spared to labour successfully in the Master's vineyard and at last when your work shall have ceased here below, we may all meet in that Grand Lodge above. Kindly accept this fish knife and fork, not for its intrinsic value but for the associations connected therewith. Wishing you and your loving wife health, happiness and prosperity in your new field of labour, and that God's richest blessing may rest upon you, dear sir, and brother, we are yours in F. L. and T.

Signed on behalf of the members.

Bro. Peer, although taken entirely by surprise, made a feeling reply, thanking the brethren for their kind address and beautiful present. He said in leaving Norwood he had only the kindest feelings for the brethren of the Three Links.

As an Oddfellow and a citizen Ridgetown's gain will be Norwood's loss.

MR. VAN HORNE AT HOME

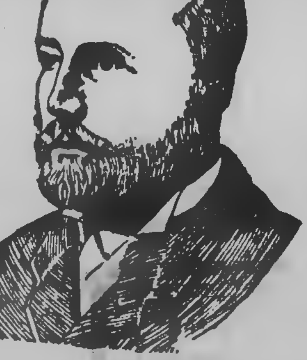
THE QUIET PRIVATE LIFE OF A NOTED MAN.

Where the President of the Canadian Pacific Railway Goes When He Wants to Leave the Railway and Its Great Business Behind Him.

"Gad," in the Toronto News, writes as follows about Mr. W. C. Van Horne and his home life:

He has a beautiful home in Dorchester street and there he unbends. Surrounded by every evidence of refinement and good taste and those costly things which are treasured for their rarity and are within the reach only of the opulent, he leads a comparatively simple life and whoever has the entree there meets an easy-paced, informal and interesting gentleman from whose conversation something can always be learned. An elegant home, truly. Here cabinets of rare china, there collections of Satsuma ware, which Japanese officials have come to admire and regret that it is so far from home, vases of delicate and long-forgotten glazes, relics of fluxes the secret of which has been lost even to those who once employed them. Here a real peachblow bowl worth a small fortune, there ox-blood urns before which collectors would linger in admiration. The cabinet which containsa priceless possession in fragile porcelain, was once a Buddhist shrine, before which the barefooted heathen erstwhile fell prostrate. Here a Rembrandt revealed itself in that deft mingling of light and shade, the secret of which has perished and the truth gone, there a Gainsboro', different but almost as desirable. Picked up abroad, probably, as were the works of Dutch and French masters, which made the walls beautiful. Pictures everywhere, and vested in one who evidently understands their artistic value and their material worth.

"Here's where I go when I want to forget the railway and leave all that business behind me," he said one Saturday night not long ago as he led the way to the top of the house where his "den" is.



MR. W. C. VAN HORNE.

It was a man's room, the one place where this busy one allowed disorder to prevail, for disorder in places of this kind is agreeable to the masculine mind. A green-clad table, where plebeian and aristocratic pipes mingled in the most democratic way beside tobacco boxes, waiting to transmit their calming influences to any troubled nerve center requiring their solacing touch, called for attention and met with ready response. Here he does his painting, and round about on easel and floor were pictures in all stages of advancement. Books everywhere, maps, drawings and mathematical instruments, but perhaps most interesting of all, a cabinet containing a collection of Japanese sword guards, collected at different times in Japan and presented to him. Each one of them has a history and each one shows exquisite workmanship in bronze and inlaid silver and gold, over a hundred of them, and nothing of the kind like them in America, maybe. Innocent amusement, this collecting, for a man's leisure hours, but there must be means withal or they can't be got.

The talk lasted far into the night. He has a peculiar lisp which lends a certain charm to his conversation. He compared cities as places of residence and remarked that in the quietude of declining years if he had his choice he would prefer Haarlem, where the tulips grow and the Dutch bulbs, and where quiet, cleanliness and simplicity of life prevail. A drowsy place with nothing to jar one in its somnolent attributes. A matter under discussion was the preparation of a work on the resources of British Columbia, and to show his knowledge of the theme he produced all the books and pamphlets on the subject which he could secure on this side and in England, some of them going back a hundred years and more. His bibliophism took this form, the collection of Canadian books, especially those relating to British Columbia and the far West. During the talk he expressed the opinion that the best book-work so far as printing is concerned is done in Scotland. He can speak the Chinook, that jargon or conglomeration of linguistic terms or sounds which serves the purpose of a language in intercourse with the Indians of the western slope, the Siwashes and others, and he gave samples of its absurd and laughable derivations. He seemed to interest himself in astronomy. He had a powerful binocular glass which a young gentleman present manipulated so as to observe Jupiter and his satellites. If the earth's atmosphere is subject to planetary influences, those might be valuable observations upon which to base conjecture as to the condition of the Manitoba crops as contrasted with the climatic differentiation in the banana belt of Dakota. Such was suggested and he laughed a merry, boyish laugh. Indeed, when he puts off the official demeanor of the manager of a great railway, he is like a boy in his way and in his pleasures. That is best. May the heart with all of us ever be young. Then it will be truer, more confiding, and not warped as in those who hurry themselves to be old.

Deer Park Sanitorium.

A brief description of this institution, recently opened in Toronto, and its objects, will perhaps prove interesting. About four years ago, through the influence of ex-Mayor Howland, an effort was made to establish an inebriate asylum in the city, but a by-law asking the appropriation of $30,000 for that purpose was defeated. Realizing the necessity for an institution of this kind, in January, 1889, the late Ald. Gillespie and Dr. C. Schomberg Elliot obtained a charter from the Ontario Government and began soliciting purchasers of stock, the capital being $50,000. Their efforts were eminently successful, and recently the residence and grounds of Mr. George Hague, formerly manager of the Merchants' Bank here, were purchased at a cost of about $30,000. The building was very much enlarged, and the new sanitorium is now one of the prettiest places in Toronto, being three storeys high and over 100 feet in length. It is situated in one of the most beautiful parts of Toronto. There are three acres of ground in connection with the institution, and this is really a delightful spot. The grounds have been well laid out, and the walks and drives, shaded by great maples and oaks, would seem in themselves to be life-giving. But a few hundred yards away is the new Upper Canada College. The Sanatorium is a private retreat for the subjects of inebriety or narco-mania, and accommodation has been made for about 35 patients. The interior of the building has every appearance of a home, and one of the main objects of the founders is to surround a patient with a Christian influence and send him out not only cured of his appetite for alcohol and other narcotics, but a thorough Christian man. Dr. Elliot's residence is in the building.—Globe.

The First Snow-Fall.

The snow had begun in the gloaming,
And busily all the night
Had been heaping fields and highway
With a silence deep and white.

Every pine and fir and hemlock
Wore ermine too dear for an earl,
And the poorest twig on the elm tree
Was ringed inch-deep with pearl.

From sheds new roof'd with Carrara,
From chanticleer's muffled crow,
The stiff rails were softened to swan's down
And still fluttered down the snow.

I stood and watched by the window
The noiseless work of the sky,
And the sudden flurries of snowbirds,
Like brown leaves whirling by.

I thought of a mound in sweet Auburn
Where a little headstone stood;
How the flakes were folding it gently,
As did robins the babes in the wood.

Up spoke our own little Mabel.
Saying "Father, who makes it snow?"
And I told of the good All-Father
Who cares for us here below.

Again I looked at the snowfall
And thought of the leaden sky
That arched o'er our first great sorrow,
When that mound was heaped so high.

I remembered the gradual patience
That fell from that cloud like snow,
Flake by flake, healing and hiding
The scar of our deep-plunged woe.

And again to the child I whispr'd,
"The snow that husheth all,
Darling, the merciful Father
Alone can make it fall."

Then with eyes that saw not I kissed her;
And she, kissing back, could not know
That my kiss was given to her sister,
Folded close under deepening snow.
—James Russell Lowell.

QUICK SHOOTING.

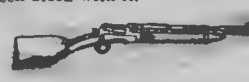
Marvelous Work Done by the Pitcher Magazine Rifle—The Mechanism Described.

One of the most remarkable rifles ever invented is the Pitcher magazine rifle, recently tested at Fort Sheridan. This gun becomes automatic after the firing of the first cartridge, the gas caused by the combustion escaping into a gas-chamber and acting on a piston set against a spiral spring, the recoil of which sets the mechanism of the gun in motion. The empty cartridge is removed by this mechanism and the gun is also cocked. This is done so rapidly that by pressing against the trigger the nine cartridges required to fill the magazine are discharged in two seconds.

In the first illustration is shown the working of the rifle, the result being obtained by the application to a barrel and lock mechanism of a cylinder in which is a piston and in front of which is a spiral spring. A small vent extends from the interior of the barrel to the interior of the cylinder, through which a small portion of gas passes at each discharge of a cartridge. The energy of a part of the gas is stored in the spring at the instant of discharge, and operates upon the lock immediately as the explosive force leaves the barrel.

A SECTIONAL VIEW OF THE GUN.

When the trigger is pulled the explosive force, operating upon the piston through the vent, presses it forward against the spring, carrying forward the drive rod. The explosive force, having left the barrel, the piston and drive rod are forced back by the spring to their former position. The drive rod, when at its forward limit, engages with a notch in the segment, and thus it will be seen that when the piston is pressed to the rear by the spring it also forces the segment to the rear, unlocking the abutting arm through the link and carrying the breech block with it.



GENERAL APPEARANCE OF THE GUN.

When the utmost rear limit is reached a knock-off disengages the drive rod and permits the recoil spring to close and lock the gun.

The entire operation of extricating the shell, cocking the hammer, replacing a fresh cartridge, and closing the breech is performed automatically, leaving but one operation of pulling the trigger to repeat at pleasure. It is only necessary to place the cartridges in the magazine and load the gun for the first charge by hand. The magazine is on top of the barrel, the cartridges being fed into the receiver through an opening on the right hand side near the upper edge, as shown in the second cut.—Graphic.

INTENSE SUFFERING!

Mr. William Buchanan, 24 years engineer in the Cunard Steamship Company's service, 8 St. John's Road, Kirkdale, Liverpool, Eng., writes: "I suffered two years of agony from an affection in the head which six physicians pronounced incurable. They were divided in opinion as to whether it was acute neuralgia of the head or rheumatic affection of the brain, but all agreed that I could never recover. In my paroxysms of pain it needed two and sometimes three men to hold me down in bed. When at death's door,

ST. JACOBS OIL

"August Flower"

I had been troubled five months with Dyspepsia. The doctors told me it was chronic. I had a fullness after eating and a heavy load in the pit of my stomach. I suffered frequently from a Water Brash of clear matter. Sometimes a deathly Sickness at the Stomach would overtake me. Then again I would have the terrible pains of Wind Colic. At such times I would try to belch and could not. I was working then for Thomas McHenry, Druggist, Cor. Irwin and Western Ave., Allegheny City, Pa., in whose employ I had been for seven years. Finally I used August Flower, and after using just one bottle for two weeks, was entirely relieved of all the trouble. I can now eat things I dared not touch before. I would like to refer you to Mr. McHenry, for whom I worked, who knows all about my condition, and from whom I bought the medicine. I live with my wife and family at 39 James St., Allegheny City, Pa. HOW IT FEELS TO KILL.

A SOLDIER'S DESCRIPTION OF THE HORRORS OF A BATTLE.

Graphic Word-Painting—The Preparations for the Legal Slaughter Described—The Awful First Moment—The Face Which Haunts a Man Forever.

They do not call it murder when men meet to slaughter each other in battle. They simply report so many dead, wounded and missing. When you fire into the smoke concealing the other battle line you fire in the hopes to kill or wound. It is your duty. Battles cannot be won without killing, and the result of battles changes the whole system of governments. You load and fire—load and fire—move to the right or left—advance or retreat, and when the battle is over you may have fired fifty rounds and yet you have not had a near sight of the enemy; you have simply fired at him, and you cannot vouch that one single one of your bullets have found a living target.

Here is a brigade of us in battle line across an old meadow; our right and left join brigades. We have thrown down the rail fence, gathered logs and brush and sods, and erected a breastwork. It is only a slight one, but enough to shelter us while lying down. A division of the enemy breaks cover half a mile away and comes marching down upon us. The field-pieces behind us open on their solid columns, but they are not checked. Under the smoke we can see the work of the shells, but they cannot halt that mass of men. The grape and canister does awful execution, but there should be a dozen guns behind us instead of six.

They are going to charge us. The guns cannot prevent that. Orders run along the line, and we are waiting until every bullet, no matter if fired by a soldier with his eyes shut must hit a foe. I select my man while he is yet beyond range. I have eyes for no other. He is a tall, soldierly fellow, wearing stripes of a sergeant. As he comes near I imagine that he is looking as fixedly at me as I am at him. I admire his coolness. He looks neither to the right nor to the left. The man on his right is hit and goes down, but he does not falter.

I am going to kill that man! I have a rest for my gun on the breastwork, and when the order comes to fire I cannot miss him. He is living his last minute on earth. We are calmly waiting until our volley shall prove a veritable flame of death. Now they close up the gaps, and we can hear the shouts of their officers as they make ready to charge. My man is still opposite me. He still seems to be looking at me and no one else. I know the word is coming in a few seconds more, and I aim at his chest.

I could almost be sure of hitting him with a stone when we get the word to fire. There is a billow of flame—a billow of smoke—a fierce crash, and 4,000 bullets are fired into that compact mass of advancing men. Not one volley alone, though that worked horrible destruction, but another and another, until there was no longer a living man to fire at.

The smoke drifts slowly away—men cheer and yell—we can see the meadow before us heaped with dead and dying men. We advance our line. As I go forward I look for my victim. He is lying on his back, eyes half shut and fingers clutching at the grass. He gasps, draws up his legs and straightens them out again, and is dead as I pass on. I have killed my man!

My bullet alone struck him, tearing that ghastly wound in his breast, and I am entitled to all the honor. Do I swing my cap and cheer? Do I point him out and expect to be congratulated? No! I have no cheers. I have no elation. I feel that I murdered him, war or no war, and that his agonized face will haunt me through all the years of my life.—Detroit Free Press.

ONE KING'S COURTSHIPS.

Some Mathematical Calculations About the Ruler of Annam and His 579 Wives.

An Oriental despatch casually mentions the fact that the King of Annam has at present 579 wives. Consider for a moment what this statement entails. Glancing back a few years in the life of the King it is evident that at one time, not long past, Annam's ruler must have had 579 sweethearts. If he had visited each one a whole evening it would have been impossible to have gone through the list in a year. Now, no self-respecting girl will be satisfied with a lover who calls once a year. Twice a week is a good average. On this basis let us do a little figuring.

The King of Annam visited 579 girls twice a week. That would be 1,158 visits a week, or counting Sundays, 165 visits a night. To anyone who knows how hard it is to tear himself away from the front gate under the circumstances in which Annam must have found himself, the terrible wear on the king's constitution is evident at a glance. Besides keeping on the jump to cover the 165 assignments, there were on each evening 165 cases of mental anguish occasioned by the "tearing-himself-away" process.

Suppose, next, that Annam said to each girl: "I love you, dearest. You are the loveliest woman in the world." Suppose, if you can, that he said this only. That is twelve words to each woman, or 1,890 words each evening. That is over a column and a half of minion type, such as this paper is printed in.

Again, if each of the 579 papas kept bulldogs, as all self-respecting papas are supposed by the newspaper paragraphers to do, there would be 165 bulldogs per night to be guarded against.

Now let us come to the marriage. Five hundred and seventy-nine persons must have tied the nuptial knots. Suppose Annam anted $25 to each one, for, of course, a royal ruler could not be niggardly. That would entail an expense of $14,475 for parsons alone, to say nothing of small bills like $100,000 for engagement rings, $10,000 for wedding rings, etc.

But the worst is not yet. Annam has 579 mothers-in-law. Every spring he has, instead of one, 579 bills for Easter bonnets; every winter he has 579 bills for sealskin sacques. Multiply your household expenses by 579 and you will understand the quality of the soup Annam's ruler has dropped into.

Compared with this, who will say that the life of the young married citizen of that free Republic of North America is not a happy one? Is the King of Annam 579 times happier than you are?

There's a practical question for you, and the first one, by the way, in this article.—Minneapolis Tribune.

The Smallest Theatre in the World.

That of Professor Herkomer, in connection with his residence at Bushey in Hertfordshire. The building which the professor has converted from a chapel into a theatre is designed to seat about 130 persons. The Patti Theatre, which Madame Patti has erected at her home at Craig-y-nos Castle in Wales, is only slightly larger than that of Professor Herkomer.

A Frank Opinion.

"Amy, what do you think of my voice?"

"Well, Sue, I think if you'd break it into proper lengths you would have quite a lot of merchantable files to sell."

It is a mistake to suppose that a remedy for constipation, stomach and liver troubles should be harsh or purging, as the great success of McGale's Butternut Pills fully prove. They are mild and natural in their action, prompt and effective in results, and are specially adapted to ladies, children, and persons of weak constitution. dw

BETRAYED BY HIS PEN.

A Murderer Caught Near Port Jervis By a Letter He [illegible]

MIDDLETOWN, N.Y., Nov. 27.—Chief of Police Martin of Port Jervis brought a man here last night who is charged with the murder of Mrs. Amelia Gregory, the farmer's wife who was killed near this city on Oct. 14 last. The prisoner is a hard-featured young man of perhaps 28 years. He formerly worked as a farm hand here and was also employed for a time as a laborer at the state insane hospital.

Noah Gregory, the husband of the murdered woman, recognized the prisoner as a man who worked for and boarded with him for about a week in July last. He left there and went to Port Jervis and had since been running occasionally as an extra brakeman on the Erie Railroad between Port Jervis and New York. Last week he hired out as a farm hand to Wade Westbrook, a farmer living about two miles below Port Jervis. He there gave the name of C. H. Kenney. He talked and acted so suspiciously that Mr. Westbrook was led to believe that he was in hiding on account of some great crime. Last Sunday he gave Mr. Westbrook's boy a letter to mail at Port Jervis, which was addressed to P. E. Wright, Coatsburg, New York, who, he said, was his uncle. Mr. Westbrook opened and read the letter, which contained among other things a statement that the writer had changed his name to Kinney and that there was much talk about the murder but that he (the writer) now felt safe.

Mr. Westbrook handed the letter over to Officer Martin, who arrested Welsh, alias Kinney, and brought him here.

TOOK POISON IN THE DOCK.

Sensational Suicide in an English Court Room.

LONDON, Nov. 27.—A fearful tragedy occurred yesterday at the Newcastle assizes. A man named Baker, who heretofore has held a respectable position in society, was convicted of an unnatural crime. The prisoner had shown great agitation during the trial, and when the verdict of guilty was announced he seemed utterly downcast. Justice Lawrence, who presided, sentenced the prisoner to 10 years' penal servitude. The prisoner's relatives were in the court room and they too manifested deep emotion, which seemed to have an additionally depressing effect on Baker.

As the latter was leaving the dock in charge of the wardens he waved a farewell to his relatives, quickly drew a bottle from his pocket and swallowing a dose of poison almost instantly fell unconscious into the arms of one of the wardens. Medical aid was instantly summoned, but it was too late. The jury which convicted Baker were witnesses of his suicide, and some of the dead man's relatives did not hesitate to denounce the jury as having convicted him wrongfully and thereby driven him to his desperate deed.

German Reichstag.

BERLIN, Nov. 28.—The debate on the budget began in the Reichstag Friday. The Secretary of the Treasury said it was expected there would be a deficit of 8,000,000 marks during the present fiscal year. The sum derived from the customs showed the effect of the commercial treaties in restricting exports. The Secretary of the Treasury also said nothing had as yet been decided regarding a new loan. At any rate the loan would not be required for a few months. The depreciation in the German 3 per cents, he declared, was due to the nervous feeling on the Bourse. The Government would not issue a 4 per cent. loan It hoped to entertain more favorable terms.

Chancellor Von Caprivi was present at the session of the Reichstag to-day, and in a short speech he referred to the rumors which had been circulated that he intended to resign his position as head of the Imperial Chancellorie. He said that these rumors were ridiculous. He was by no means tired of holding office.

Herr Rickert also declared that there was general dissatisfaction throughout the country, but it was not the fault of the present Government. It was an inheritance from Prince Bismarck's system. He condemned the extravagance shown in the military and naval estimates, but approved the conclusion of commercial treaties to which he said the Freisinnige party would give their strongest support.

Chancellor Von Caprivi followed. He refuted the reproaches brought against the Government on account of its so-called vacillating policy. Truth and frankness, he said, were the best methods in foreign politics. The Kaiser's journey to Russia, he continued, had established friendly intercourse between the two monarchs, but no political matter had been discussed between them. The press had indulged in too much drumming and trumpeting in regard to the visit of the French fleet to Cronstadt, which had engendered on the other side a wish for more drumming. The position of France and Russia toward the Dreibund had not changed. All that happened at Cronstadt was that the existing conditions became manifest. But there was no need of uneasiness. The Czar's intentions were most pacific. Only care must be taken to avoid clumsy errors. The Czar's Government was in a position to make its will prevail Its increased confidence in the French constituted no danger to Germany.

Referring to the state of general armament in Europe, the Chancellor said that this would continue much longer uninfluenced by the resolves adopted by the Peace Congress.

In East Africa Germany still had a long task to fulfil. She had been obliged to have recourse to the doubtful plan of a lottery, but Germany's possessions in Africa were ten times more important than those of England, with which nation Germany had not made a bad bargain.

Bumping Pupils.

TORONTO, Nov. 28.—The Common Pleas Divisional Court yesterday heard a motion to quash the conviction against Druggist Elborne of King-street and reserved judgment. The conviction was made for non-compliance with the Act which requires druggists selling liquor to keep an account thereof in a book kept for that purpose. Elborne kept an account of the sales made by him, but on a slip of paper instead of in a book. The same court quashed with costs the conviction in the case of the Queen v. Balfour. This is the case in which the defendant, a school teacher near Niagara Falls, was fined $1 and costs for using abusive language towards one of her scholars. The learned judges waxed very warm when the evidence was produced before them, the chief justice remarking that a good horse-whipping should have been administered to the boy. The conviction was quashed with costs to be paid by the private prosecutor, the court remarking that if ever there was a case in which the private prosecutor should pay the costs this was the case. An order was made protecting the magistrate and prosecutor, but had a warrant been issued by the magistrate instead of a summons, no such order would have been made. The offensive language was to the effect that the pupil was a dirty thing and unfit to associate with animals, and was called forth by a leading part which the lad had taken in a game (?) known as "bumping." One of the pupils was being "bumped" for refusal to comply with an alleged agreement to expose his person.

Some time ago a syndicate of English capitalists got hold of the Dominion Brewing Company (Bob Davies), and they are evidently so well satisfied with their investment that they have formed another company and have got hold of three other city breweries, which are to be consolidated into one concern. These are the Davies Brewing and Malting Company (Thomas Davies, president); Cosgrave & Co. (L. J. Cosgrave), Ontario Brewing and Malting Company (W. J. Thomas, president, Thomas [illegible], sec.-treas.); all of which are now running full blast. The English money has been in town for some weeks waiting the conclusion of the deal, which it was announced yesterday had been completed.

A Russian Wreck.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 27.—An accident attended by many deaths occurred on the railway between Orel and Griasowetz in Northern Russia. Owing to the breaking of a tire a train became derailed at the bridge which crosses the River Optoukha. The engine, followed by the carriages, plunged along, tearing up the track and breaking through the parapet of the bridge. Five carriages in all fell from the bridge to the ice-covered river and breaking through the ice were submerged with their passengers in the waters beneath. Up to the present 26 corpses have been recovered, and many more are supposed to be under the ice.

It has been learned that the damaged bark lying at anchor off the Bar lightship is the Harmonie, from Dram. The steamer that was sunk was a small vessel engaged in the coasting trade.

A despatch from Lourches, in the department of the north, announces that the miners employed in a large colliery there, impregnated with the general discontent prevailing in the northern coal fields, struck yesterday.

Mr. Chaplin, chairman of the Board of Agriculture, has been charged by the Government to undertake the framing of their agricultural bill for enabling laborers and small farmers in Great Britain to acquire holdings.

The influenza now prevalent in Germany is of a much more virulent type than that which caused so much suffering in 1889. Thirty deaths from the affection during the eight days past are reported. Physicians estimated that 40,000 persons have been attacked with influenza since November 1 in Berlin alone.

The committee of the French Chamber appointed to examine the Government bill dealing with the souteneurs has rejected the measure, declaring that as prostitution is not a crime it is impossible to introduce it in the legal code as a criminal offence by providing for the punishment of souteneurs as accomplices in prostitution.

The London correspondent at Tien Tsin telegraphs as follows: Li Hung has received news that the Imperial troops witnessed the recent massacre at the Belgian missions without making an effort to check the mob. The revolution is spreading in the north. The Mongolian rebels are advancing southward. A conflict with the Imperial forces is imminent.

NONE OF THEM LEFT.

CHADRON, Neb., Nov. 28.—The death of Charles Barnett, a farmer, aged 40 years, living about four miles south of here, is the end of a chapter of fatalities which is out of the usual run. Ten weeks ago the Barnett family numbered eight people. They were Charles and his wife and five children and Miss Martha Barnett, his sister.

One after the other these have all died and to-day not a soul remains of the family. The youngest, a child, was the first to be taken. Diphtheria of a malignant form attacked the babe and it died within two days, followed by the next child with the same disease one day later. The other children were attacked, but all recovered with the exception of the oldest, who was slow in convalescing. He took cold just when it was thought that he was getting well and died.

The next day one of the remaining children fell from the loft of the barn, and when found its neck was broken. On returning from the funeral of this child the team ran away and threw Mrs. Barnett and her sister-in-law from the wagon, killing the latter instantly and inflicting such injuries on the former that she died three days later.

Two weeks ago the remaining child was trying to light a fire in the cook stove when her clothing caught fire, and before assistance could be rendered she was so badly burned that she died from the injuries received.

A week ago Barnett was working in his stable when he received a kick from one of his horses, from the effects of which he died the next day, this death completing the round of fatalities and wiping a family out of existence, for they had no relatives that are known. The farm will revert to the State unless it can be shown that there were other members of the family.

ALLEGED LEPROSY.

John Powers, a Laborer, Afflicted With a Malignant Type of It.

CLARE, Mich., Nov. 27.—John Powers, a laboring man of Sheridan township, is afflicted with a malignant type of genuine leprosy.

Powers is a most disgusting object to behold. His flesh seems to have been already invested with the putrescence of the grave, and is dropping off in great masses. A foul odor emanates from the decayed tissues so powerful that it is said to be impossible to enter the room where the unfortunate man lies without experiencing a feeling of nausea.

After 37 Years.

OWEN SOUND, Nov. 28.—A few weeks ago an advertisement appeared in one of the Toronto dailies asking as to the whereabouts of John Middlebro. The attention of Mr. W. Middlebro, law student of this city, being directed to it he communicated with the advertiser, Mr. Edward Middlebro of Sawyer City, Pa., resulting in the establishment of the fact that the late John Middlebro of Owen Sound was the person referred to in the advertisement and that it was his brother who had made the enquiry. In this way communication between the families, interrupted in 1855, nearly 37 years, has been restored. When the brothers lost track of each other it was concluded that Edward was killed in the American war. It now transpires that he is a wealthy citizen of Sawyer City and the owner of ten oil mills.

"Lord" Beresford Appeals.

ROME, Ga., Nov. 28.—Argument on a motion for a new trial in the case of Walter S. Beresford (or Sidney Lascelles as he was known in St. Thomas, Ont.) began to-day, and will be completed to-morrow. If the motion is not granted the case will be carried to the Supreme Court.

The wife of Beresford, whom he married in New York, is dangerously ill, and is in a most critical condition at her hotel. The defendant has been unable to give bail.

Mrs. Robert Mantell Wants a Divorce.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Howe & Hummell have been engaged by Mrs. Robert Mantell, whose stage name is Marie Sheldon, to secure her a legal separation from her husband. The lawyers say that Mr. Mantell's relations with well-known stage beauties will be exposed in the suit. The couple have three children.

A Maniac Attempts Murder.

OTTAWA, Nov. 28.—James Brownlee of Osgoode, said to be insane, was brought to the County Jail to-day charged with shooting at two girls with intent. It appears he took offence at some remarks made by the girls whilst passing him on the road and fired at them. The bullet fortunately missed its mark.

Baby's Face was Raw

Distressing Itching Skin Disease Cured in one Month by the Cuticura Remedies.

When our baby was six weeks old he had a rash on his cheek. It spread on both cheeks and chin. His face was raw. I doctored with various remedies, but it got no better. My mother advised me to try the CUTICURA REMEDIES. I used them faithfully, and in one week the boy looked better. In one month he was cured, and now he is three years old and no signs of it returning. The child was so bad I had to tie him in a pillow-case, and pin his hands down so that he could not scratch his face. I cannot speak too highly of the CUTICURA REMEDY. I recommend CUTICURA whenever I can. I would be pleased to see any one and talk to them of the good it has done my boy.

—THE—

GOLDEN LION.

You will find this a great store. The more you get acquainted with its ways, the more you will like it. You will always find great bargains here that will please you, as it does our regular customers. There are always bargains in every department.

Take for instance Jackets in their season. In a lot of 50 Cloaks of one kind, probably one or two will hang fire. Variety gone, price was, say $20 but the two go for $8 or $10 each. That's done every week. Last week we sold a Beautiful Embroidered imported Dolman that sold at $22 for $10.

For another example take Dress Goods. Some lines of our 50c. goods go for 35c. and 25c. and so on.

People that understand shopping ask for these goods and get them.

Did you know that shopping requires experience. We always keep a fresh stock by selling out the tail end clean, even if at a sacrifice. Nothing is carried over.

This week and for the coming month you will find exceptional bargains in Mantle Cloths.

Exceptionally large bargains in Men's and Boys' Overcoats.

If one price or style fails to suit, you ask for another. Don't be afraid of asking for what you want. Keep on until you get it. It's here. There are few stocks that excel ours outside of the large cities.

which is heavy double fold Amazon Cloths, 42 to 43 in. wide, at 50c. a yard, worth 90c., in ten different shades. They are soft as velvet, close and fine with a bright finish like Henrietta Cloths, but have the appearance of the old style broad cloth men used to wear. They have been on our counters only a few days at this price and are going out rapidly, but we hope to have enough to supply the demand while this notice appears in this paper.

Those Overcoats we talked about last week are a surprise to everybody. They sell themselves every time. The best of the lot only $8, lower grades down to $5.

White Wool Blankets fresh from the mill, at $2.50 and $3 a pair, extra large sizes particularly cheap.

We pride ourselves in selling what we think is the best $15 Suit, made to order, in Town. A splendid selection of patterns to choose from.

EDMUND YATES DYING.

THE FAMOUS EDITOR OF THE LONDON WORLD ILL.

Bleeding at the Lungs and Dissoluton Expected—Obsequies of Lord Lytton—An Immense Throng Do Honor to the Poet-Statesman.

LONDON, Nov. 30.—A despatch from Brigton states that Edmund Yates, the novelist and editor of The World, is in a critical condition. He is bleeding at the lungs and his death is expected.

Death Failed to Burst their Cerements

PARIS, Nov. 30.—It is said that the late Lord Lytton was a devoted spiritualist, that he believed he had communications with Joan of Aac, Balzac and Napoleon and that he complained that he was always baffled in trying to have access to the spirit of his father.

PARIS, Nov. 28.—The obsequies of the Right Hon. Edward Bulwer Lytton, Earl of Lytton, the British Ambassador at Paris were held to-day in the Church of England. The ceremonies, which were very impressive, were attended by an immense number of people. Among those present besides the family of the dead statesman and author, were many of his personal friends, men who have won high positions in the literary world, all the members of the diplomatic corps at present in Paris and a large number of the members of the French Senate were also there. Hundreds of persons, unable to gain admission to the church, contented themselves with reverently baring their heads as the body of the Earl was carried past.

The celebrated painter, Leon Bonnat, has just finished a portrait of the Earl of Lytton and this picture was placed on an easel, which stood at the head of the casket as it laid in the church.

After the services the body was conveyed to the railway station en route to England, where it will be interred. The route followed by the cortege from the church to the railway station was lined by 3500 troops, who had been detailed for this duty by the French Government.

DROVE NAILS INTO HIS BRAIN.

The Desperate Act of an Aged Man in Far Away Vienna.

VIENNA, Nov. 29.—A man about 70 years old living in this city was recenty attacked with religious mania and became impressed with the idea that he was called upon to make a sacrifice. He therefore procured seven nails, each three inches long, and himmered them into his skull. He only lived a few hours.

Decreased Conservative Majority.

LONDON, Nov. 30.—The election in the Eastern Division of Dorset, to fill the vacancy in the House of Commons caused by the death of George Hawkesworth Bond (Conservative), was held yesterday, and resulted in the return of the candidate of the Conservatives, Humphrey Sturt, son of Lord Alington. The Gladstonian candidate was Pascoe Glyn, who represented the Division from Nov., 1885, until the general election of the following summer, when he was defeated by Mr. Bond. The result of yesterday's election was as follows:

Humphrey Sturt (Conservative)	4421
Pascoe Glyn (Gladstonian)	4074
Sturt's majority	347

At the last election the vote stood:

George R. Bond (Conservative)	4317
Pascoe Glyn (Gladstonian)	3662
Bond's majority	655

It will thus be seen that the Gladstonians succeeded in reducing the previous majority of the Conservatives by 308 votes.

GONE OVER FOR GOOD.

Mr. Chamberlain's Final Renunciation of the Gladstonian Party.

LONDON, Nov. 30.—The scene at Birmingham this week is remarkable for more reasons than one. Mr. Chamberlain for the first time has made a formal declaration of his final alienation from his old associates. The passage will long be memorable in the political history of this country. After explaining that it was for no slight cause, fo nothing less than the security of the empire, that rupture could have occurred, he says:

"Even after the rupture had taken place there were many of us—I was one of them—who hoped it would be only temporary, who believed that the Gladstonians would speedily abandon the path upon which we knew, and they had good cause for knowing, they had reluctantly entered. We looked forward therefore to a speedy re-union. If I refer to that now it is to say that since then the gulf has widened and deepened. Now I neither look for nor desire re-union." He goes on: "The Gladstonians have accepted the policy of the Parnellites. Yes. But they have accepted something more. They have accepted their principles, their methods and even their manners. Meanwhile the branches of the Unionist party have been brought into closer and more cordial relations."

It is no common occasion which elicits such an announcement as this.

TALE OF THE TICKETS.

VOTERS WHO ACCEPTED ASSISTED PASSAGES.

The Examination of Witnesses in the Hyman Election Petition at London Continued—The Case to be Enlarged For Eight Weeks.

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 30.—P. J. Slatter, Grand Trunk city passenger agent, Toronto, was the first witness called Saturday and examined in regard to his understanding how the tickets furnished for election purposes were to be settled for. He simply furnished the tickets on presentation of certain requisitions, which he forwarded to the company's audit department in Montreal, and the tickets so furnished had not yet been paid for. He could not say how many of the tickets had been used, nor whether any rebate had been allowed for those not used.

Thos. Reid, barrister, Toronto, and brother of Geo. M. Reid, said that he had received a list of London voters residing in Toronto from his brother, with a request to see them and try and have them come to London to vote for Hyman, which he did. All the letters, telegrams and lists which he had received were destroyed immediately after the election, but there were no corrupt suggestions in any of them. He received the tickets from some one unknown to him in the Reform committee building, Toronto, on presentation of certain requisition. He understood that tickets were given by the Grand Trunk free, otherwise he would not have taken them. He was very particular in telling those he gave the tickets to that they were free, so that there would be no more trouble should the oath be administered.

Henry H. Job, a London voter, residing in Toronto was one of the parties seen by Mr. Reid. The ticket was no inducement to him, as he had also been offered one by the Conservatives to go via C.P.R., and it was simply a choice of routes. He had received no money for his vote.

John H. Chester found an envelope a few days before the election containing two tickets, but without instructions. He supposed they were intended for himself and one of his men named Keasts to come to London and vote and used them for that purpose. As it was his intention to come to London anyway, the ticket was no inducement.

J. Fred Walker, auditor of the G. T. R., Montreal, said all receipts and earnings passed through his hands. He had received Preston's requisitions and the tickets printed thereon, but they had been destroyed he thought. There were excursion tickets issued from Stratford to London and return and 44 from Toronto and return. There was also a memorandum of a special train running from Toronto to London last 5th March. Preston has been charged with the tickets.

Alexander J. Boyd, the registrar of North Perth election trial, produced three tickets and a requisition for tickets filed as exhibits in that trial.

After a long consultation the court announced that after to-day they would adjourn till the 18th of January.

A MONTH WITHOUT FOOD.

Tilsonburg Furnishes the Latest Sensational Fasting Story.

TILSONBURG, Nov. 30.—A man named McDonald is said to have lived 6 weeks in a hay mow without food. McDonald, who is a cripple, went into the barn to rest, and for several days was able to crawl out to the pump for a drink, but at last he became so weak that he was unable to move. From that time until the other day he was slowly dying of hunger. Mr. Thompson, who lives on another farm some distance away, but had occasion to visit the vacant farm to make arrangements for wintering his cattle, found McDonald, when he was nothing more than a skeleton of his former self. He was a man of 180 pounds when he entered the barn, but when found did not weigh over 80 or 90 pounds, and being so emaciated and weak could give but meagre accounts of himself. He is now receiving good attention and may get around all right in time.

Fell Forward Into the Fire Dead.

ELORA, Nov. 30.—Mr. Case of Elora, between 70 and 80 years of age, was visiting his son, Mr. Benjamin Case, lot 24, con. 5, N.E., Melancthon, when he was seen to fall forward into a fire over which some pig feed was being boiled. He was immediately lifted up, but life was extinct. The fire had not injured him to any extent, his flesh being but slightly burned and his hair singed. He had intended returning to his home Saturday morning. The corpse was taken to Elora for burial.

A New Jersey Mine Explosion With Fatal Results.

BELVIDERE, N.J., Nov. 30.—An explosion occurred in one of the mines at Oxford furnace Saturday. Peter Hamshire was instantly killed, George Dove fatally injured, and several others were badly hurt. The men while drilling struck an old blast which had not gone off and an explosion followed with the above results.

A Dishonest Lady Principal.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—The Herald says: Mrs. E. S. West, who for six years was the lady principal of Rutgers Female College, West 55th-street, and who for a much longer period has been regarded as the personification of goodness, stands convicted by her own confession of converting the funds of the college to her own use. Dr. Samson, the president of the college was inclined to regard her as a sort of kleptomaniac.

CHINESE ATROCITIES.

HORRIBLE STORY OF WHOLESALE MASSACRE.

Children Roasted Alive, Priests Have Their Hearts and Tongues Torn Out—Gladstone Replies to Salisbury—Balfour on Ireland—Foreign News.

LONDON, Nov. 30.—The Chronicle correspondent at Tien Tsin says: Official reports of the Takow massacre contain details almost without parallell, even in the history of China. Previous despatches have given but a faint idea of what happened. The members of little Belgian mission had no opportunity of escaping. The slaughter commenced with the killing of native converts, many of whom were put to death with fiendish cruelty. Children of tender years were seized by savages, hacked with knives and roasted at a huge fire. A worse fate still befel the nuns who were subjected to the grossest indignities, being brutally outraged by the fiends who afterwards brained them with massive clubs.

The Belgian priests were cruelly tortured, but met their fates with Christian resignation. One of them had his heart and tongue torn from his body and burned by savages in a murderous frenzy.

The most astonishing statement is one that after the miscreants had been satiated with outrage and slaughter they were feasted and feted by the leading Chinese mandarin in the district.

The foreign diplomatic body at Pekin are simply furious. The whole European colony is boiling with indignation.

A despatch from St. Petersburg gives the contents of a private telegram about Chinese disturbances, confirming those of The Chronicle's Tien Tsin correspondent.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—Advices received here from Shanghai state that the rebel forces in Manchuria have defeated the Imperial troops sent to suppress the rising in the region. The Imperial forces numbered 4000 men and their defeat causes the Government the gravest anxiety. Reinforcements to the number of 6000 men have been despatched from Tien Tien to oppose the rebels, who are marching on Pekin. If the Imperial troops are again defeated the position of Pekin and Tien Tien will be extremely critical.

GLADSTONE ON SALISBURY.

He Compares the Premier to a Nurse Maid—Home Rule.

LONDON, Nov. 30.—Mr. Gladstone was Saturday a participant in the exercises attending formal opening of a recreation hall at Port Suntight, near Birkenhead. The ambiguities of the position of the so-called Liberal-Unionists were now lifted, said the Premier. The last shred of their pretext of Liberalism had been removed by Lord Hartington's frankness. This left the battle to be manfully and good-humoredly, he hoped, fought out between Liberals and Tories.

Mr. Gladstone declared that Lord Salisbury seemed ignorant of what was going on in the British Empire. When he was a young man all colonies were governed in Downing-street. Since then all the colonies had been given local autonomies, infinitely more than Ireland had asked, for yet their hearts beat warmly in unison of the Mother Country. Lord Salisbury had called Home Rule capsuled medicine. Doubtless he was an authority on physic, as he had to take several nasty doses in recent years, like that of the South Molten election. The two reasons for placing Home Rule in the van of the Liberal policy was injustice to Ireland and the necessity for clearing the road for self-legislation. Having no hope in the present, Lord Salisbury had occupied himself by predicting what would happen when a Home Rule bill was passed. He had talked of coming massacres and cruelty in Ireland. Did such predictions proceed from the brain of a Premier, or did he hear them in bedlam? They were certainly much worthier of the latter than the former. Salisbury was like a silly nursemaid, who, when unable to pacify by rational means, tried to frighten by stories of hobgoblins. [Laughter and cheers.] Let the people dismiss such imaginations.

Speaking later, Mr. Gladstone dealt at length with the labor question.

A Permanent Cure in Sight.

EDINBURGH, Nov. 30.—Mr. Balfour attended a Conservative meeting here to-day. In the course of his remarks, referring to Ireland, he said he believed that Great Britain would never again see a gigantic agrarian conspiracy, fed by American funds, raise its head in Ireland. He did not believe that again would be seen anything like the obstruction and defiance formerly thrown into the teeth of the British Parliament by a few Irish representatives. Mr. Balfour added that he hoped the country had at last successfully emerged from its greatest difficulties. All that Ireland now wanted, he declared, was a firm, liberal and kindly government. If only Mr. Gladstone abstained from advocating impossible legislative remedies, Mr. Balfour was confident that a permanent cure of the Irish troubles was effected.

Many Fires in Montreal.

MONTREAL, Nov. 30.—The cold weather of last night brought on a large number of fires. The saw mill of F. Tremblay, 43 Basin-street, was destroyed and damage amounting to $33,000 was done. In the grocery stables of William Blanchard, St Elizabeth-street, two horses were burned to death, and at another fire in the bakery of A. Smith, St. Maurice-street, four horses were fatally burned. There was a large number of smaller fires, and seven false alarms had also to be responded to by the brigade.

13,000 Immigrants.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 30.—Dominion Government Immigration officers at this point has just issued a statement by which it appears that over 13,000 immigrants came to this country during first ten months of present year against 109,000 last year.

Another Highbinder Murder.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 30.—The Highbinder feud, which has been raging in Chinatown for some time, resulted in another murder last night. A. H. Wah Kiong, a cigar maker, was shot and killed and before he died he identified A. H. Sing, who had been arrested on suspicion, as the man who shot him.

Brakeman Orr Dead.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 30.—Brakeman Orr of the Canadian Pacific, who lost a leg while coupling cars at Chater the other day, is dead.

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 30. 1891.

A SPECIAL committee of the Anglican Diocese of Ontario met Friday at Kingston to consider the scheme initiated at the Winnipeg Conference for the union of the Church in Canada. The committee expressed in general terms its approval of the idea, and expressed a hope that at the next meeting in May an agreement on the subject may be arrived at

Mr. BALFOUR, speaking at a Conservative meeting in Glasgow recenty, declared very positively that Ireland will never attain her desire to have a Parliament sit in Dublin. He also declared that the differences which separate the Conservative and Liberal parties are more profound at the present time than they had been before in the memory of two generations of British statesmen.

La Patrie does not wish to champion Horace Talbot, the civil servant who is in gaol awating trial at the assizes on a charge of boodling, but it thinks it strange that while a poor devil who "got away" with a few hundred dollars is locked up, the thieves who stole hundreds of thousands are allowed out on bail and even without bail. Our contemporary is of opinion that justice is not dealt out with an equal hand in this country where boodling is concerned.

COMMERCIAL telegrams from the United States report a fair improvement only in general trade in Chicago, Duluth, Cincinnati, New Orleans and San Francisco. The demand for groceries, dry goods, clothing, boots and shoes is more active. Specialties for the Christmas trade are in considerable request. The holiday on Thursday has, of course, checked the general movement of business, but the condition all round is encouraging. Textile manufacturers are quiet. The 1ake shipment of wheat are enormous, and the railways are taked to their utmost capacity to meet requirements. There has been no material change in speculation on the Stock Exchange of New York. The more seasonable weather of the past few days is stimulating business everywhere.

HON. EDWARD BLAKE, Q.C., was in Ottawa recently making arrangements for the conduct of the celebrated case of the Canadian Pacific Railway vs. Conmee which will come up in the Supreme court in a few days. This is one of the most important cases which will be argued at the present sitting of the Court, involving, as it does, a large sum of money. Mr. Conmee, who is local member for West Algoma, was one of the contractors for the construction of a section of the Canadian Pacific Railway north of Lake Superior and sued the railway company in connection with the work. The case was referred to arbitration in the first instance. It was decided in favor of Mr. Conmee in the Ontario Court of Appeal. From that decision the company now appeals. Mr. Blake had a conference with Mr. Christopher Robinson, Q C., regarding the case.

Effects of the McKinley Bill.

The trade returns of the United States for the fiscal year ending June 30 show a large decline in the importation of the articles struck by the McKinley Bill. The bill went into force on October 6th, 1890, so that the full effect is not displayed. From July 1st, 1889, to June 30th, 1890, fifteen million dozen eggs were imported. From July 1st to October 5th, 1890, seven million dozen were imported. Then the five-cent duty went into force and the imports from October 6th to June 30th, 1891, were less than a million and a quarter dozen. The barley importations in 1889-90 came to 11,332,000 bushels, in 1890-1 to only five millions. There was a falling off in the imports of sheep and horses. The number of horses imported in 1889-90 was 38,000, in 1890-1 only 16,000. The imports of hay fell from 124,500 tons to 58 000, and those of barley malt from 217,000 bushels to 123 000. There was a light yield of potatoes in the States last year, and the imports jumped from 3 400,000 bushels to 5 400,000. There was also an increase in the imports of lumber, thanks to the reduction of the duty on sawn pine. These figures tell their own story. In a recent article Mr. David A. Wells says every farmer must see that the greater the facilities afforded him for exchanging his surplus products the greater his opportunities for trading to advantage become, whether those facilities be good roads, cheap railway rates or low tariffs. On the other hand, poor roads, few railroads and high tariffs all tend to restrict or to destroy his trade. Mr. Wells likens a 20 per cent. tariff to a bad road, a 50 per cent. tariff to a broad river without a bridge, a 75 per cent. tariff or over to "a band of robbers who strip the producer of nearly all he takes to market and make him thankful that he has escaped with his life." The McKinley tariff and the N.P. are a couple of robbers and between them the Canadian farmer is thoroughly done for.

Extradition of Murphy and McGreevy.

The rumour is current in Ottawa that the Government is taking steps to extradite Owen E. Murphy and Robert H. McGreevy, and the Free Press enquired of Mr. Sedgewick if such was the case, or if their alleged offences, namely, conspiracy and false pretences came within the terms of the extradition act. To the first question the deputy minister of justice did not give a direct answer, but to the other he said that a man could be extradited for false pretences. Looking over the latest extradition treaty between Britain and the United States which passed on July 12th, 1889, and proclaimed in March, 25th, 1890, there is only one paragraph which in any way could be interpreted as referring to the case of either of the accused: It is the third clause of article 1, and reads as follows: Embezzlement, larceny, receiving money, valuable security, or other property, knowing the same to have been embezzled, stolen or fraudulently obtained. It is possible that the charges against the accused might be interpreted as coming under one of these heads, but it is not likely that the United States would grant extradition, as the plea would be set up that the parties were wanted for political offences committed against the Canadian government.

The Great Cheese Industry.

Reports of the Season's Operations of Stony Lake, Warminster and Keene Factories.

The cheese industry is of such an important character in this district that the EXAMINER publishes with great pleasure anything that refers to its present record or prospects. Below we give the report of the past season's operations of three cheese factories, kindly furnished by a correspondent, whose example, it is to be hoped, will be followed by those connected with other factories in the country.

Stony Lake Factory.

This factory is a new one, starting in May of this season, Francis Parker, proprietor; David Drain, salesman; John A. Robb, treasurer. The factory has been managed during this season by Miss Mattie Pashley, and all parties concerned are to be congratulated on the success of this new enterprise. The land in this locality is rough for cultivation, but makes good pasture land, as it is high and well watered and should give a good quality of dairy goods. The price has been a good one considering the distance from market and the quantity of their make as yet. Their average is lower than any factory in the county, I presume. They have been making butter and have not been breeding for a flow of milk as those who have been the united dairy business for 10 or 15 years. Those who were noticing the dairy statistics in the report of the Bureau of Industries may have seen that in 1883, 10.08 was the number of lbs. of milk for a lb of cheese and how it gradually rose up to 10 54 in 1890. Feeding and breeding both have probably effected this change. However this, no doubt explains why Stony Lake only took 10 12 lbs milk for a lb. of cheese, and leaves their milk worth more per cwt, than some of those factories getting higher prices.

The Beet Sugar Business.

Baron Seilliere, the head of the Farnham beet root sugar concern, was in Ottawa recently with a deputation consisting of Messrs P. Leighton Kinmond, Osborne Plunkett, R. L. Gault and H. R. Prevost, to ask the government to follow the example of the United States authorities and give a bounty to beet root sugar producers for a period of 20 years from July 1st next, when the present bounty expires. The visitors saw the ministers of finance and customs this afternoon and pressed their claims to protection. In this connection it may be stated that Prof. Saunders has just returned from a visit to Kansas, Nebraska and other western states, where the sugar beet has been successfully grown, and that he is now drawing up a report in which the capabilities of Canada for producing the same crop will be pointed out. Mr. Shutt, the analyst of the Experimental Farm, is also engaged in a series of analyses to determine the comparative merits of beets grown in various parts of Canada.

Butternut was well known and appreciated by our grand parents for its medicinal qualities. In fact the nuts in an unripe condition were largely used for habitual constipation, liver troubles and foul stomach. The great difficulty was the necessity of preparing from the fresh green nuts which could only be in small quantities, as the medicinal strength weakened from keeping. McGale's Butternut Pills are prepared with a concentrated extract made from the Butternut held in combination with other valuable and purely vegetable ingredients, as the uniform strength is retained for any time in any climate. They are the best liver and stomach pills in the world. dw

FROM Stomach and Liver derangements—Dyspepsia, Billiousness, Sick-Headache, and Constipation—find a safe and certain relief in Ayer's Pills. In all cases where a cathartic is needed, these Pills are recommended by leading physicians.

Dr. T. E. Hastings, of Baltimore, says: "Ayer's Pills are the best cathartic and aperient within the reach of my profession."

Dr. John W. Brown, of Oceana, W. Va., writes: "I have prescribed Ayer's Pills in my practice, and find them excellent. I urge their general use in families."

"For a number of years I was afflicted with biliousness which almost destroyed my health. I tried various remedies, but nothing afforded me any relief until I began to take Ayer's Pills."—G. S. Wanderlich, Scranton, Pa.

"I have used Ayer's Pills for the past thirty years, and am satisfied I should not be alive to-day if it had not been for them. They cured me of dyspepsia when all other remedies failed, and their occasional use has kept me in a healthy condition ever since."—T. P. Brown, Chester, Pa.

"Having been subject, for years, to constipation, without being able to find much relief, I at last tried Ayer's Pills, and deem it both a duty and a pleasure to testify that I have derived great benefit from their use. For over two years past I have taken one of these Pills every night before retiring. I would not willingly be without them."—G. W. Bowman, 26 East Main st., Carlisle, Pa.

"Ayer's Pills have been used in my family upwards of twenty years, and have completely verified all that is claimed for them. In attacks of piles, from which I suffered many years, they afforded me greater relief than any medicine I ever tried."—Thomas F. Adams, Holly Springs, Texas.

ELECTRIC BELT

And Attachments.

HEAD OFFICE—103 Yonge St., Toronto

THE WORLD'S BEST.

ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete BODY BATTERY. It has an independent Battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT of QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASE, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCE, SEXUAL DECLINE and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.

Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.

Do not class this Belt with the humbug combinations of leather and metal with which the country is being flooded. If you wish to experiment with cheap articles, buy THEM but, if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.

A WEEK AGO

"THE STAR" made the largest purchase of Overcoats ever made at one time in the history of the Clothing Trade—Over TWENTY THOUSAND DOLLARS' WORTH---the entire magnificent stock of one of the largest manufacturers of Fine Clothing in Canada. The owners of the goods were in Desperate Need of Ready Cash. We had it, and we got the stock AT OUR OWN PRICE. We placed about half our purchase on sale Monday morning, and to-day we place the balance of the stock on our tables. The last shipment included the Finest Goods. The first lots are all sold, and such scenes of excitement as have transpired during this sale never before occurred in a clothing store.

Customers stood in open-mouthed wonder at the wonderful values given. Many persons bought two and three Coats on account of their wonderful cheapness. Small Merchants have eagerly bought all we would sell them, our prices are so much lower than they could buy the same goods at wholesale.

The Overcoats are Simply Elegant, made of the Richest and Finest Fabrics and in the most "Correct" Style. "Schnabel's" Chinchillas and Beavers; "Carr's" Meltons, Eredon Kerseys, Fine Fancy Overcoatings and Shetlands, intended for Merchant Tailor's use. Many were intended to Wholesale at $15, $18 and $20. We bought them for less than the Raw Material Cost, and are selling for $8 and $10, garments worth two and three times the money.

Miss Scanlan as "Eily."

The Ottawa Citizen of the 24th inst, says: In face, figure and melodious brogue Miss Scanlan is the typical heroine she essays to represent, while her singing of favorite Irish ballads is smooth and sympathetic. In Mr. Nelson Compton as Andy O'Shiel; Mr. Chas. Dede, as Herbert Elston, and Mr. Malcolm Bradley and Mr. Robert Fitzmorris as the Palgraves, Miss Scanlan is well supported. An impersonation, too of more than usual merit is Miss Alice Gale's Mrs. O'Shiel, the woman who sins and suffers. An Irish play that is all Irish needs originality to lift is out of the rut, and the brilliancy of Marsden's dialogue is rather dimmed by the cloud of characters in "Eily" amongst whom its wealth of wit is distributed. It is, however, full of fresh wholesome fun and, as has been said, is altogether free from that wretched caricature of peasant life that is doing its best to drive the Irish drama from the stage. Serious Coasting Accident.

This morning as Miss Marion C. Sherwood daughter of W. E. Sherwood Esq, was on her way to the Central School she was struck violently by a large coasting sleigh, coming down on the sidewalk of the steep slope of Murray street. The sleigh was occupied by several boys who in spite of the repeated warnings from the janitor and others, persisted in their dangerous pastime, until as a result an accident occurred. It is not necessary to say much here on the dangers of coasting on the sidewalk, as so much has already been said on this subject, still it is to be regretted that the notices prohibiting the same were not posted up earlier, having left the printers' hands last week. The injuries sustained by the little girl were such as at first to cause the gravest apprehension for her life, and it is not yet known what the outcome will be. She was carried into the house of the janitor, who lives near the school, and medical attendance at once summoned. There were fortunately no bones broken, but the young lady was badly shaken and a severe blow given the back of the head. It is not yet known how serious her injuries are. Later on she was removed to the house of her brother on George street, where she now lies in a serious condition.

St. Andrew's Church.

Progress of the Church—Addition to its Membership—The Special Sermon to St. Andrew's Society.

Yesterday morning the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was dispensed in St. Andrew's church. Never before in the history of the church did so many at any one time partake of the sacrament, there being present over one hundred and sixty.

On Friday evening at the preparatory services forty-four new members were received into the church, thirty-four by certificate and ten on profession of faith. This makes fifty-six members in all added to the roll since June, which must be very encouraging to the new pastor, Rev. A. McWilliams. The communion roll is now as large as ever, and the attendance on the Sabbath probably greater than ever before. The Sunday School has so increased that the room is becoming quite inadequate, and will soon be enlarged. The Y.P.S.C.E. has also increased very rapidly, and now numbers between 70 and 80 members. Every department of the church is now in a most healthy condition, far surpassing the expectation of the most sanguine, when last June the Rev. Mr. MacWilliams was inducted into this congregation. All this augurs well for the future which at present seems bright.

THE EVENING SERMON.

In the evening the Rev. Mr. MacWilliams by request, preached to St Andrew's Society. He took for his topic, Andrew," basing his remarks on St. John I, 40 By way of introduction he pointed out the different passages in the word that referred to Andrew etc. showing his birthplace, home, probable nationality, call to be a disciple, afterwards an apostle etc. Returning then to his text, he first referred to Andrew as a hearer of the word. In this connection he referred to John as the preacher, the size of the audience, only two small in numbers yet large in quality. The sermon be listened to was very short, just five words, yet pregnant with great cardinal truths, "Behold the Lamb of God," implying and teaching the sinfulness of man, the necessity of a substitute, the insufficiency of the blood of bulls and of goats to take away sin. They pointed forward to the cross, etc., they also look backward to the eternal covenant of grace. In the second place the rev. gentleman referred to the influence of the word upon Andrew. It moved him to follow Jesus, so that he came to Him, saw him, and abode with him. This was not merely a physical coming but also a coming in spirit. He came by faith, saw with a spiritual eye and abode by a constant faith and communion. Then in the third place the speaker dwelt at some length upon how this new spiritual life possessed by Andrew manifested itself. It was in his missionary spirit, his strong desire to bring others to this same Messias. He brought his own brother Peter, afterwards some Greeks, and therefore he was both a home and a foreign missionary. The speaker then analyzed the missionary spirit, showing its elements that they were of divine origin, their source being God, and being in God linked the soul to God, elevated it, and made it sit in heavenly places in Christ Jesus. This being true, nothing else so powerfully heralded the beauty and divine nature of Andrew's noble character. The speaker then concluded this eloquent and interesting discourse by saying that it was well worthy of note that Andrew as a home missionary brought Peter to Christ. Then Andrew and Peter were very close together; but since these more than eighteen centuries have rolled by, and during these years Andrew and Peter have become separated far apart—far apart politically, far apart religiously—Peter's politics of the present day being first and last the advancement of the church—the extension of ecclesiastical power until such times as it reigns supreme in both church and state. To this Andrew cannot assent, hence the political breach; and need I tell you that within the last few years in Canada that this breach has been widened—widened by time-serving politicians, Tory and Grit, by the passing and allowing of the measure known as the Jesuit Bill, which gives the disciples of Peter undue advantage over the disciples of Andrew. Thus it is, to me, a foul blot on the statutes of Canada, a pill of aloes that many of Andrew's disciples can never swallowed. This and other measures, need I say, have widened the political breach between Andrew and Peter. But they are also far apart religiously. We have every sympathy and respect for the disciples of Peter, but we believe that to-day the many are far separated from the Messias by superstition, ignorance of the truth, idolatry and relying upon an arm of flesh, rather than upon the strong arm of Jehovah Jesus for salvation. "Intellectual darkness is religious light," says Newman. This being true, Andrew and Peter are now far apart religiously. What then, asked the speaker, was the remedy? The only remedy was to carry to the disciples of Peter the true light of of the Word. Let this shine into their souls, enlightening them and soon Andrew and Peter will find themselves together again with the Messias? Who then will bring Peter the second time to the Christ by carrying to him the word of life. Let us hope that it may be the disciples of Andrew, that they may have imbibed something of his spirit and zeal for the salvation of souls. This is the Andrew then, whom you have chosen as your patron saint. Having chosen him then as such, implies your admiration for his character, and that you profess to follow him. Go forward then, as a society, and as individuals, walk worthy of so noble an example. Be not guilty of such conduct, as many are at these times, as would cause Andrew to blush, but the rather be inspired to manly deeds and a noble life, by the thought that from the celestial city, the spirit world, Andrew may be looking down upon your conduct, and is either rejoiced or grieved in heart according as your life is noble or base. Follow Andrew then in his hearing the word, in his heeding its mandates, in his coming, seeing and abiding in spirit with the Messias. Follow him, not merely in acts of benevolence, but in his love for, and efforts to lead precious souls to Jesus. Peter and the Greeks are still waiting to be brought to Christ. But ever remember that while it is right to follow Andrew so far as exemplary, that there is a grander and nobler then Andrew whom we ought to follow, that is Andrew's Lord. None other spoke as did he, none other ever lived a life so pure and holy. Then as did Andrew, follow Andrew's Lord. By so doing you will rejoice the heart of Andrew and the greater heart of Andrew's Lord, and by and bye when the last battle is fought and the victory won, and you are called to home, sweet home, no doubt Andrew will be there on the celestial shore to welcome you home and to your reward, while Andrew's Lord will say, "Well done, well done, good and faithful servants, enter now into the joy of your Lord."

The Perfect Man.

Dr. Smith Tells Where he is to be Found—Good Sermons at St. Paul's.

At St. Paul's yesterday the Rev. Dr. Smith, of Kingston, occupied the pulpit in place of the pastor, Rev. E. F. Torrance, who is suffering from indisposition. The venerable preacher delivered most eloquent sermons, attracting and holding the attention of large congregations that gathered to hear him, by the force and power of his rhetoric, yet presenting the great truths of the Gospel in such a manner as to be easily understood by even the youngest of those present.

The lessons were taken from the twentieth chapter of the Book of Exodus, and St. Paul's Epistle to the Romans, third chapter from the nineteenth verse, and the text from the Epistle to the Hebrews, first chapter and third verse.

The reverend gentleman commenced his discourse by drawing attention to the words, "Express image of His person," found in the text and urged his hears to study them well, as by a repetition of them a few times they would receive a much greater interest in the work of Christ. They would be led into a line of reflection and thought which would give them more bright ideas than even God Himself has expressed in His word as to the first man that He made and placed in the garden of Eden. How many could form a correct idea of what Adam was like? From the evidences given in the Scriptures a correct portraiture of the man God made could not be formed, beyond the fact that be bore the express image of his Creator. The acorn was cited as an example. The oak is in the acorn. It could not be seen at first. Perhaps the image of the oak could not be found in the acorn, yet in some form it was there. Where could be found the image of God in man in the men being so diverse, so many kinds of faces, forms and thought? Where in the world can be found the man bearing the image of the first man in the Garden of Eden? It could be found even in the lowest of men, no matter how low sunk in degradation, however bloated or disfigured in features, even though every door should be closed against him

AND HE AN "ISHMAEL"—

"his hand against every man and every man's hand against him." Yet if he were approached as He ought to be, not as if in condescension, or as if he were composed of a lower class of material than the rest of men, but approached as a brother, then the image of God in him would show itself. Eyes wept for him and hearts ached on his behalf, and if the hearts and hands of his fellow-men were extended to him, his lips would tremble and his eyes become suffused with tears and the better part of his nature would assert itself, and through that better man would be seen the express image of God. If the people wanted to find in this world the image of God in man, as it was in Adam, they are not to be selfish, thinking only of "number one," but were to do what lay in their power to help their poor neighbours. The perfect man was shown to have once lived in the Garden of Eden, but temptation came, doubt was soon in the heart of the woman and through her of the man. Doubt of God's authority over them and their responsibility to Him, after which they were to be found before the judgment seat of God trying to prove that one was wiser than the other. The result was that doubt and sin entered into the world, which in ten thousand forms transposed man from what he was at the time of the creation to what he was ages later. Unbelief and doubt were then treated upon as being the two worst forms of sin entering in the heart and mind of man, and if suffered to go unchecked, affecting the whole character of the future life, and inculcating ingratitude to God, to whom so much is owing. The ten commandments formed the next portion of the discourse, the preacher showing that they contained the perfect man, and if studied as they should be prayerfully, would give clearer ideas of life and how man bearing the image of God should live. Christ was shown to be the embodiment of the ten commandments, and if men would observe what they teach, walk in the light of Christ, and believe in the power of God, again would be seen the likeness of man made in God's express image.

AT THE EVENING SERVICE

Dr. Smith took as his text a portion of the fourteenth and fifteenth verses of the second chapter of Hosea, "Therefore behold I will allure her and bring her into the wilderness, and speak comfortably unto her. And I will give her her vineyards from thence, and the valley of Achor for a door of hope." This was referred to as an Old Testament fable, and illustrations were given showing God's way of alluring people from their sin. Some touching anecdotes were related bearing upon this part of the subject. The sin of Achor, in having stolen the Babylonish garments, was next touched upon. After he had been punished in the severe manner he was by being stoned to death, the Israelites were received back into God's favor. This was one of His ways of alluring them from the paths of evil back to the paths of good. Some vivid word pictures were then drawn by the preacher showing how Satan allures people to sin, yet when man is truly repentant, and casts off his sin, confessing all to God, he is received back into favour, as the Israelites were when Achan was doomed to destruction.

The sermons were listened to with great interest by the congregations at both the morning and evening services, and the hope was expressed by a number of attendants that they might soon have an opportunity of hearing Dr. Smith again It may be said that the doctor holds the position of general secretary to the University in Kingston, Ont., and after the morning service made a reference to the great prosperity that was attending their efforts, there being a great increase both in the number of students and the interest taken in the university by the outside public.

A GREAT BOON

To the citizens of Peterborough. Having seen the necessity of an office in Peterborough where parties having accounts to collect would have some reliable place to go to, I have availed myself of the opportunity and have established such an office where I make account collecting a specialty. Parties having accounts to collect will do well to place them in my hands where they will be promptly attended to. As a rule all business men are poor collectors, therefore, they let their accounts run on from year to year when they should have the cash. Now all the Dry Goods, Grocers, Druggists Doctors, Furniture Dealers, Harness Makers, Barbers, Real Estate Brokers, Bakers, Bankers, Ministers and any other business men not mentioned here and having accounts to collect, will do well to call on me. Now the reason I can collect better than other men, is, I go and take the account personally to the parties, therefore, I must get some answer. I also do a Real Estate business, buying, selling and renting town and country property; money lending, discounting notes, also insurance, fire, life and accident.

Telfordian Temperature Topics.

PETERBOROUGH, Nov. 30th.—On Saturday my notes said that we had a dropping mercury, but I did not think that on Sunday morning at sunrise the thermomoter would be standing at 7° below zero, being the first sub-zero register of the season. At noon it stood at 10° above, at sundown at 7° above; this morning 16° above, with every indication of a heavy storm of snow or rain.

The First Medal for Good Farming.

Mr. J. Fred. Davidson, of Smith township, son of the late Hugh Davidson, has received an elegant bronze medal for the best farm cultivated by the best methods, awarded by the Board of Agriculture and Arts. This is the first medal won in the Smith and Lakefield district. There were three farms in the competition from this district and Mr. Davidson has reason to feel proud of the distinction of having carried off the medal. It speaks well for his management of the farm and the training he received from his late father, who will be remembered for his active and intelligent interest in the promotion of advanced farming methods, and to which his son's success is no doubt largely to be attributed, as well as to the profit and improvement derived during his course at the Ontario Agricultural College. The world is certainly moving when young agriculturists like Mr. Davidson, jr., can successfully compete with advanced and experienced farmers of the district, and wrest from their brows the laurels which it would be thought long experience would enable them to secure. The farms in this competition were, as noted in the EXAMINER at the time, examined by Mr. J. J. Hobson, of Mossboro', and Mr. F. W. Hodgson, of London. Mr. Davidson is to be most heartily congratulated on his success, and will, no doubt, perpetuate the reputation which his late lamented father enjoyed, of being one of the most successful farmers in the Midland district.

Last evening the hall was filled to overflowing for the Gospel service. The meeting was conducted by Mr. J. C. Turnbull, who gave a most thoughtful and impressive address on "The new Birth," which was very helpful and sure to prove a power for good in the minds of those who heard it. Mr. A. Jolley, who leaves this week for Hamilton, said a few farewell words, urging young men to be "Steadfast, unmoveable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, for as much as ye know that your work is not in vain in the Lord. A Successful and Enjoyable Royal Templars' Entertainment.

(From a Correspondent.)

North Monaghan Council of Royal Templars held a very successful entertainmet on Friday evening, Nov. 27th. The hall was packed to the doors and many who were unable to secure seats stood throughout the whole performance, and, if I were not capable of criticising myself, I think this fact alone would convince me that the programme was of a very interesting nature. A noticeable feature of the entertainment was the introduction of Mr. Herb. D. Williamson's compositions before the public. His first composition was a recitation given by Miss Minnie Lillico, entitled the "Temperance Cause." He was also writer of the comic song, 'Green the Tailor," as sung by Mr. W. Hazel, and also of the temperance song, "Stay at Home, Papa, To-night," as sung by little Laura Davidson. Each of his compositions brought forth hearty applause and showed the capabilities of this young writer. The programme in full was as follows:—

The Duty of the Winter.

Yesterday morning in St John's in making the announcements for the coming week, Rev. Mr. Davidson, rector, remarked that the coming of the severe weather suggested the necessity of looking after the needs of those brethren who had not means to provide themselves with clothing suitable for the inclement season. The Ladies Auxiliary would have this matter in hand and those who had unused clothing which they felt disposed to part with, might leave the same with the treasurer, Mrs. Geo W Rubidge, 294 Rubidge street. The EXAMINER gladly gives publicity to this announcement, for with a little concerted action in this matter, all who are in need of clothing might be warmed Lack of thought or of being reminded leaves many a sufferer unrelieved.

County S.S. Convention

The following circular has been issued in connection with the forthcoming Sunday School Workers' Annual Convention for the county of Peterborough:—

DEAR SIR,—The village of Hastings extends a cordial welcome to the Sunday School Workers of the county of Peterborough to hold the annual convention in the Presbyterian church there, commencing on Monday, the 14th of December, and continuing all day Tuesday. The executive will issue in due time their programme, presenting important subjects of investigation on the line of S. S. work. Some of the strongest workers of the county are secured to present these subjects; also the general secretary, Mr. Alfred Day, of Toronto, will be present. All schools are requested to appoint their delegates at once, and forward their names to Mr. B. F. Doxsee, Hastings, secretary of the local board of management, not later than December 11th, 1891. This is the first call.

J. CARMICHAEL, M.A., President. J. McEWEN, Sec.-Treas.

To the Public.

To avoid the rush of customers, which the magnificent Christmas stock of goods is sure to bring with the next week or two, the public are reminded of the advisability of visiting the Peterborough Bookstore and selecting their purchases now, to be laid aside till Christmas is within a day or so. This has been largely done in past seasons, and is more than ever necessary now, for with the double shop and magnificent stock complete in every department and of endless variety and unexcelled beauty, will create a demand to fill which early purchases will be necessary.

NOTICE.

THE removal of Dr. A. J. Robertson from Peterborough, renders it necessary that the management of all business connected with the firm of Robertson & Rose, Dentists, be assumed by Dr. A. GISELE'S CAPRICE.

The salon was lighted by a single lamp which shed a soft radiance throughout the room. It was simply furnished, but was adorned with a profusion of flowers and plants. Three persons were in the salon—Mme. de Balny, Gisele her daughter, and the latter's betrothed, Robert de Gillis, who was soon to be her husband.

Gisele, who was in her eighteenth year, was very beautiful. She was a natural blonde. Her smile had the double advantage of showing pretty teeth and two charming little dimples in her rosy cheeks. Her eyes were very handsome, but their glance was somewhat imperious. She was dressed in a robe of a soft, white, clinging material that set off to advantage her girlish beauty.

Gisele was an only daughter. She had been reared by an indulgent mother, her father having died during her infancy. Although Mme. De Balny's income was barely sufficient to support herself and her daughter, she managed to gratify Gisele's every whim, and her whims were many, for she was a child of caprices.

Many admirers paid suit to Gisele, but she smiled on none until Robert de Gillis threw himself and his fortune at her feet.

In Robert Gisele found her supreme triumph, for by his unselfish devotion he gave her the greatest satisfaction a woman can have—to be loved for her beauty, which was Gisele's only dower. Robert had every qualification to be desired in a lover. He was twenty-five years old, handsome, manly and very wealthy.

While Mme. de Balny was working at her embroidery and Robert and Gisele were holding a tender conversation, the door of the salon was opened and Georges Langle was announced.

"Good evening, my dear madame," said the new comer, as he entered, bowing to the mistress of the house.

"Ah, good evening, my dear Langle," said Mme. de Balny, welcoming the guest. "This is, indeed, an agreeable surprise."

"When the others had welcomed him, turning to Robert, Langle said:

"I knew that I would find you here, and that is why I called so late, wishing to have you present to second a proposition which I desire to make to these ladies."

"Ah! tell us. What is it?" exclaimed Gisele.

"My mother's cottage at St. Cloud has just been put in order for the Summer," replied Langle. "We are going to drive there to-morrow morning, and she desires that you will accompany us. We shall leave Paris in good season so as to avoid the heat of the day. Breakfast will await us on our arrival. We will spend the warm part of the day swinging in our hammocks and gossiping under the elms.

"We will dine al fresco, and then, if Mlle. Gisele approves of the plan, we will attend the fete at St. Cloud, at which, among other attractions, will be the great lion tamer, the illustrious Bidel, with his menagerie. That is the proposition I have to offer."

"Bravo!" cried Gisele. "Your plan is charming, charming! Is it not, Robert?" she added, turning to her lover.

Robert agreed with Gisele that their friend's plan was faultless, and it was adopted with enthusiasm.

Accordingly the following day found Mme. de Balny, her daughter and Robert at St. Cloud, as the guests of M. Langle and his mother. The day was spent in those delightful ways which people escaping from the city in the early Summer find for passing the time in the country.

Gisele, however, was all anticipation in regard to the approaching fete, and especially in regard to the lion tamer, Bidel, of whose exploits she heard a great deal, immediately after dinner, therefore Gisele, Robert and Langle went to the fete, the elder ladies preferring to remain at the cottage.

They first attended Bidel's performance with his lions, which Gisele watched with the liveliest interest. As the performance grew to a close Gisele became so enthusiastic in regard to Bidel's bravery that Langle said, jokingly that she ought to marry a lion-tamer.

"Such is my intention," replied Gisele, "for I am sure that Robert will not deny the first request I have ever made to him. Will you, Robert?" she added, turning to him.

"What!" exclaimed Robert. "Do you wish me to enter the lions' cage?"

"Yes. Does that surprise you?"

"A little, I confess."

"You ought to have as much courage as a vulgar tamer of animals," said Gisele, who seemed to be put out by her lover's backwardness in bearding the lions to please her whim.

"But to do what you ask me to do would by no means be a proof of courage," answered Robert. "It would be a ridiculous act on my part, for I would be exposing myself for no purpose."

"You speak lightly of the prospect of being devoured," said Langle, laughing.

Langle wished to laugh Gisele out of her caprice. Gisele, on the other hand, did not really want her lover to enter the lion's cage, but she wanted him to seem ready to do even that for her.

"Then you refuse?" she asked Robert with an air of disdain.

Langle, without giving Robert an opportunity to reply, said:

"Certainly he refuses, for the conditions are not the same for him as for Bidel, who has been long accustomed to being among wild animals and has made a careful study of their character."

"You seem to take great interest in a matter which does not concern you," said Gisele, who was vexed by Langle's opposition.

"But," replied Langle, gravely, "what you ask Robert to do is very dangerous. Besides, you forget that his mother adores him and that she will never forgive you if you make him expose himself in this perilous manner."

But Gisele insisted.

"Very well," said Robert, coldly. "I will enter the cage, if Bidel will allow me to do so, as soon as the spectators have departed. I do not wish to give a public exhibition of my courage," he added, with a tinge of sarcasm in his tone.

"Ah! I knew you would consent," exclaimed Gisele, with apparent delight.

"I will arrange the matter at once," said Robert.

He went to Bedel, with whom he held a short conversation, then returned, saying:

"The lions will be fed in a few minutes. I will enter the cage then with Bidel."

By this time the spectators had departed. Robert, Langle and Gisele approached the cage. Presently the lion-tamer joined them. He told Robert that he was ready to feed the lions and invited him into the cage.

"No, Robert, do not go," said Gisele. "I do not wish you to enter the cage. I asked you to do so only because I wanted you to seem ready to expose your self to any danger for my sake."

"Pardon me, Gisele, for not acceding to this new caprice of yours as to the first," replied Robert. "I have resolved to enter the cage and I shall do so."

Robert turned away from Gisele, and a moment afterward he and the lion-tamer entered the cage. The lions, eight in number, moved hither and thither, obedient to the command of their master, but their large golden eyes showed their astonishment at the presence of this intruder who accompanied him.

Gisele and Langle looked on in silence and in agony. Gisele, who was very pale, was only prevented from giving voice to her anguish by the fear of aggravating her lover's peril. Her eyes, which were big with fright, were fixed on Robert. He, on the other hand, was quite calm, at least in appearance. Like Bidel, he was armed with a bar of iron and a raw-hide. He was thus doubly prepared to repel the lions if they came too near him.

Robert was in the cage about five minutes. Then he left it and rejoined Gisele, who radiant with joy, her hands extended, exclaimed:

"Oh, Robert! how I admire you! how I"

Robert took one of Gisele's hands in his, and, interrupting her, said, in a calm voice:

"Do not praise my exploit so much, for the act which you applaud was performed for my own sake rather than yours. If I am brave, as now you evidently think me, I confess that I am not without fear that I shall not always be able to accede to your desires, and as it would pain me to cross so charming a woman, I renounce the honor of being your husband."

As soon as they returned to the cottage the party started for Paris. When they reached Gisele's home Robert bade her good by with a profound bow. On entering the house Gisele found the superb bouquet which she was accustomed to receive each day from Robert; it was the last. Gisele has never married.—Translated from the French.

THOMAS F. BAYARD.

A Graceful Tribute Which Makes Him the Typical American Gentleman.

In an informal talk on "Social Life in Washington," ex-Postmaster General Dickinson paid a graceful tribute to his former Cabinet associate, Thomas F. Bayard. He said:

The typical American gentleman, as drawn from life, is a familiar figure at your capital.

He may come of a long and distinguished lineage, but he does not vaunt it. He is a democrat in the broad sense; believes in his country and her future; is proud of her progress and feels a responsibility as a unit of the sovereign people, with a public duty to do as such.

He is a man of wide learning and information, and his reflective mind makes constant use of its treasures of knowledge; they are not permitted to mold or to rust.

A man of the world, and a student of mankind, his charity for the foibles and sins of humanity is broad and his judgments gentle. Never arrogant, censorious or intolerant in discussion, he wins an opponent by respecting his opinions, while differing from him, and sends him away in a spirit of reflection rather than of controversy.

To borrow his own apothegm, he never "mistakes rudeness for courage, or violence for strength."

He clothes his ideas in garments of apt expression, felicitous, beautiful, and always Anglo-Saxon. There is nothing of the pedant about him. His diction is pure like his heart, and is unmarred by profanity or slang.

He is deferential to all women.

An unconscious dignity freezes impertinence, and closes the mouth of vulgarity, while his gentle manners and winning countenance give confidence to the embarrassed and loosen the tongue of the modest or the timid. He cares nothing for mere rank in his intercourse with manly men—with true American manhood—and you feel at once, as he grasps your hand and greets you, that with him,

> The rank is but the guinea's stamp,
> The man's the gold for a' that.

To enter his home, to partake of his hospitality in the place where he lives, is a privilege and delight. At the head of his table his genial grace, "the mind, the music breathing from his face" warm and move the heart of every guest, who thus influenced, unconsciously becomes not merely an observer and a listener, but a contributor to the common enjoyment of all.

This man, by healthful exercise, keeps his body sound as the repository of his sane mind. His physique is athletic and vigorous.

A scholar, a statesman, an American gentleman, this figure is not merely an [illegible] one, and I personify the type, with [illegible] description must but poorly impress your minds, when I name Thomas F. Bayard.

RHEUMATISM.—COL. DAVID WYLIE, Brockville, Ont., says: "I suffered intensely with rheumatism in my ankles. Could not stand; rubbed them with St. Jacobs Oil. In the morning I walked without pain."

NEURALGIA.—MR. JAMES BONNER, 156 Yonge St., Toronto, Ont., writes: "St. Jacobs Oil is the only remedy that relieved me of neuralgia, and it effectually cured me."

BACKACHE.—"I can highly recommend St. Jacobs Oil as being the best medicine in existence; it promptly cured me of severe lumbago." G. N. BOYER, Carillon, Quebec.

SPRAINS.—"My mother received a very severe sprain and bruise by falling down stairs. St. Jacobs Oil cured her in a couple of days." E. BURNAND, 124 Tecumseth St., Toronto, Ont.

BRUISES.—MR. AITCHISON, Hamilton, Ont., Fire Department, says he met with a serious accident and his back and shoulders were terribly bruised, but by the use of St. Jacobs Oil he was completely restored.

SUN LIFE

ASSURANCE COMPANY OF CANADA.

The attention of our Policy-Holders is directed to the following summary of the leading items of the present report, which speaks for itself as to the progress and prosperity of the Company:—

Life Assurances in force, 1st January, 1891	$16,759,355.92
Increase over previous year	3,421,372 84
New Applications received in 1890	6,371,399 15
Increase over 1889	2,268,888.60
Cash income for year ending 31st December, 1890	889,078 87
Increase over 1889	325,938 35
Assets at 31st December, 1890	2,473,514 19
Increase over 1889	687,091 47
Reserve for Security for Policy Holders	2,109,222.68
Increase over 1889	567 732.71
Surplus over all Liabilities and Capital Stock	232,175.69
Increase over 1889	75 649.05
Death claims fallen in during 1890	143,961 63

The progress made by the SUN LIFE during 1890 was remarkable. The new business was the largest in the Company's history, and was equalled by but one other Canadian Life Company. The income for the year exceeds $2,000 for each day in the year Sundays included. The Assets are large and rapidly increasing. They are, moreover, of the highest character, yielding an average interest of 6.04 per cent. The overdue interest is small, and the Real Estate owned under foreclosure is only four per cent. of the amount of mortgages. This is a remarkable showing. The SURPLUS accumulated during the FOUR years of the current quinquennium is nearly THREE TIMES as much as the amount earned during any previous FIVE years, and the profits to Policy-holders cannot fail thus to be highly satisfactory. The following are the figures:—

Net Surplus, 31st Dec., 1881, (five years)	$84,894 07
" " " " 1886,	89,442 97
" " " " 1890, (four years)	232,175 69

MY NECESSITY MAKES YOUR OPPORTUNITY.

This will be the Clearing Sale of the season, and takes place before stock-taking, at

THOMAS KELLY'S.

The season is now far advanced and as there is only a short time to clear out the stock before stock-taking, I have decided to make this the Greatest Clearing Sale of the season by reducing the whole stock to such prices as will effect a speedy sale. We are determined not to carry any goods over another winter season. The goods are all new, of the finest quality and the prices that are asked, unprecedented.

The balance of our Colored Surah Silks will be sold at 20c. per yard. How is this for price?

The balance of our Black Satin Mervellieux at 50c., 60c., 75c. and $1 per yard, are Bargains.

Remnants of silk, Black and Colored, to be cleared out at half price. See them.

DRESS GOODS! DRESS GOODS!

The whole of our large stock of Dry Goods will be cleared out at a slight advance of cost. The array of bargains which we are offering in Dry Goods is simply amazing; everyone that requires Dry Goods, should call and inspect our stock and prices. Only one price to all.

NOW IS THE TIME TO GET WHITE AND GREY COTTONS AT MILL PRICES.

A Large Stock of Table Linens, Table Napkins, Sheetings, Tickings Quilts, Cretonnes, Grass Linens, Check Linens, Towels and Towellings Lace Curtains, Pillow Cottons, Toilet Covers, &c., very low in price.
5 Pieces Circular Pillow Cotton for 12½c per yard, and 46 in. wide.

The time is short to clear out the stock, so you can expect to get bargains. It is money we want, and we are determined to have it.

"August Flower"

I had been troubled five months with Dyspepsia. The doctors told me it was chronic. I had a fullness after eating and a heavy load in the pit of my stomach. I suffered frequently from a Water Brash of clear matter. Sometimes a deathly Sickness at the Stomach would overtake me. Then again I would have the terrible pains of Wind Colic. At such times I would try to belch and could not. I was working then for Thomas McHenry, Druggist, Cor. Irwin and Western Ave., Allegheny City, Pa., in whose employ I had been for seven years. Finally I used August Flower, and after using just one bottle for two weeks, was entirely relieved of all the trouble. I can now eat things I dared not touch before. I would like to refer you to Mr. McHenry, for whom I worked, who knows all about my condition, and from whom I bought the medicine. I live with my wife and family at 39 James St., Allegheny City, Pa. Signed, John D. Cox. ●

When Mrs. Jefferson Davis began to assist her husband soon after they were married by acting as his amanuensis, her handwriting was too girlish to please him, and she determined to imitate his handwriting. With tracing paper she copied and recopied his manuscript until by practice she could produce his writing in facsimile.

A female jewelry drummer is the latest novelty on the road in Maine. She is handsome, dresses stylishly, wears a man's soft felt hat and hails from New York. She is away up on the art of travelling, cannot be imposed upon by hotel clerks, hackmen or railroad men and always sells as many goods as the smartest of her male competitors.

California, according to the census taker, has 300,000 orange trees, but a careful count made by the state board of agriculture show that California has 4,000,000 orange trees, of which 1,000,000 are in bearing. There are more than 300,000,000 lemon trees in the state. The report shows oranges are growing in thirty-eight out of the fifty-two counties.

The superstition of sailors that ecclesiastical associations bring bad luck to the ship will be strengthened by the recent explosion of the steamship Evangel's boiler on Puget Sound, by which three men were killed outright and five others badly hurt. The Evangel had been a gospel ship, and was built by small subscriptions from a great number of churches.

On the African shore, near the Gulf of Aden, and connecting the Lake of Assal with the main ocean, may be found one of the most wonderful rivers in the world. This curiosity does not flow to, but from, the ocean toward inland. The surface of Lake Assal itself is nearly seven hundred feet below the mean tide, and it is fed by this paradoxical river, which is about twenty-two miles in length.

If you are to sleep in a strange bed, says an exchange, and entertain a suspicion of dampness of the sheets, lay your watch between them and either smoke or read a while. Then take out the watch and if there is mist on the glass do not go to bed, or if you do, sleep between the blankets, which are never damp. Hundreds of drummers, especially men past middle age, take this precaution and profit thereby.

While ascending Pike's Peak by the new rack railway about one person in 200 is affected by the rarity of the air at the high altitude. The indications of distress are itching and redness of the nose and then blackness under the eyes. A woman who was dying apparently on a trip recently was sent back on the locomotive to the foot of the mountain, where she recovered. The summit is 14,400 feet above the level of the sea.

Near Horn Head, County Donegal, Ireland, there is a hole in the rocks called McSwiney's Gun. It is on the sea coast, and is said to have connection with a cavern. When the north wind blows and the sea is at half flood the wind and the waves enter the cavern and send up jets of water from the "gun" to a height of more than a hundred feet. The jets of water are accompanied by explosions which may be heard for miles.

A kind of bituminous rock which is found in several places in California is being extensively used for street pavements in that state. These pavements are very like the asphalt pavements in New York and other eastern cities, such as that in Wall street. The only difference between the two materials is said to be that asphalt is a manufactured article made of bitumen and sand, while the rock has practically the same elements naturally combined.

Seton-Carr, who has passed some summers exploring in Alaska and the Selkirk ranges of the Dominion has this season set out for Central Africa. He writes home from one of his camps on the way to Lake Tanganyika that some people told him in England that it would require at least $25,000 to fit out a pleasure expedition to Lake Tanganyika. He says he would undertake to go from England to that Central African lake and back for $1,000, and that the expense could be still further reduced if there were more than one white man in the party to share the cost.

To send flowers by mail cut them early in the morning and let them stand in water for some time before packing, so as to absorb moisture enough to prevent them withering, in which case they will not need to be sprinkled after they are in the box. Pack in a light wooden box lined with cotton batting and covered with tissue paper. Lay the flowers, not on top of each other, but in rows side by side, the blossoms of each row on the stems of their neighbors and as close as possible; cover with paper and cotton; see that the lid of the box is securely fastened, and remember to write on one corner "Cut Flowers," as that will insure the package being carefully and quickly handled.

Japanese on the Move.

Since the Mikado of Japan permitted his subjects to emigrate to other countries nearly 100,000 of them have left their native land. There are about 20,000 of them in Hawaii, and more of them arrive there every month. There is a large number of them in Australia. They are to be found in various countries of the Asiatic Continent, and some of them are in Europe. There are about 2,000 of them in California, and others are constantly arriving there to work in the vineyards. In the City of New York there may be 200 Japanese, and there are a few of them in many other American cities. Wherever they go they have the reputation of being industrious and inoffensive. The population of Japan is 40,000,000.

A Mother's Hand.

Her hand is soft and white and fine,
It flutters when sometimes in mine
It lies.
Its veins, so delicately blue,
Forever fill me with new Surprise.

It is so dainty and so fair!
On it she bows her head in prayer,
Perhaps.
But when she spanks her wayward boys,
With what a loud, resounding noise
She slaps!

Aerial Wedding Trip.

A young couple who had just been married at Prague determined to make their way to their new home in Stettin by balloon voyage instead of by the railway journey, which, it is gravely suggested, they thought to be less safe in these days of frequent Continental railway accidents. The balloon came down at Beeskow, in Brandenburg, and could not be further used without refilling, a process for which there seems to have been no facilities at hand. The married couple were, after all, obliged to resort to the hateful and prosaic railway train.

An Observing Visitor.

"In spite of your unexampled prosperity," remarked the visitor from London, "there is much want in Canada."

"Ah!"

"Yes; even the papers have want columns."

All those heating and itching humors of the scalp, so troublesome to many persons, are effectually cured by the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. If not attended to in time, these diseases are very liable to result in the loss of the hair.

The Best Yet.

Dear Sirs,—My mother was attacked with inflammation of the lungs which left her very weak and never free from cold, till at last she got a very severe cold and cough. She resolved to try Hagyards Pectoral Balsam, and, on so doing, found it did her more good than any other medicine she ever tried.

For several years I was presistently annoyed with an excessive accumulation of Dandruff and although using various preparations recommended and shampooing regularly once a week, no material relief was realized until my attention was called to Anti-Dandruff, which has produced unlooked for results in my case, four applications removing every particle of Dandruff and as a specific for this trouble it certainly has no equal.

DICKSON'S,

Couldn't Make Ends Meet.

MITCHELL, Nov. 30.—The sensation of the day is the sudden departure of Mr. Seldon and his family from the Royal Hotel. Seldon is a son-in-law of Dan Whale, recently sentenced to penitentiary for life for murdering his wife and formerly conducted the American Hotel in Toronto. Seldon had for a week or two been badly badgered by creditors in person, creditors through writs and creditors by judgments. The thing seemed to harass him until he became overwhelmed and decided to take a quiet departure. Thursday he got some of his effects away among the baggage of the commercial travelers and in the afternoon he took the train himself, as he claimed, for Toronto. It was soon learned that on reaching Stratford he turned his face westward and made for Detroit. The following day the thing was all out and the sheriff came up and took possession of the hotel in the interests of the creditors. Yesterday Mrs. Seldon and family left to join Seldon in Chicago. The local creditors are numerous, among the largest of them being Mr. James Dougherty, with a meat account of nearly $100; Messrs. Kyle & Barnett, coal, etc., $100; Fred. Davis, groceries, nearly $100; William Canning, wages, $100, and other employes greater or less sums. Among the most shamefully treated creditors in the long list is Miss Dawes, who during the Whale trouble sewed almost night and day to accommodate Mrs. Seldon and the family. Miss Dawe's claim is over $25. The sheriff is still in possession of the premises, and the effects, business and lease are to be offered for sale Friday.

They Met by Chance.

WEATHERFORD, Tex., Nov. 30.—A double killing occurred near here yesterday. The victims are two well-known citizens of Parker County, A. S. Freeman and William Rivers. A feud existed between them and their families. They met yesterday on Rivers farm. An altercation occurred and both men commenced firing. Freeman was killed on the spot and Rivers only lived a few hours.

Another Vacant Seat.

HALIFAX, Nov. 29.—E. C. Bowers, M.P. for Digby, has acknowledged corrupt acts by agents in his election and vacated his seat. The charges of personal bribery will not be pressed by the petitioner.

INTERESTING ITEMS BY WIRE.

A customs boat collided with the steamer Oriental at Gravesend. Three customs officers were killed.

The captain of the American schooner, D. H. Rivers, which arrived at Queenstown yesterday, was washed overboard and drowned on the passage.

The White Star Line steamer Tauric collided with the British steamer Baltimore in the Mersey Saturday night. No lives were lost.

Emperor William met the King of Denmark on his arrival at the railway station at Potsdam yesterday. Cordial greetings were exchanged, and a grand reception was given to the King at the castle.

The Archbishop of Aix in celebrating mass at Lyons, France, Sunday referred to his recent trial. He did not regret what he had done, he said, and the fact that a fine had been inflicted would not have the effect of silencing him.

It is probable that the action taken by coal mine owners in South Wales and Monmouthshire will tend to precipitate a strike of the miners in those regions The mine-owners will announce that next month they abolish the sliding scale. This announcement affects 70,000 men in the coal districts mentioned.

There was a fair demand for discount in London last week. The condition of the money market is now considered the best that it has been for a year past, and a reduction in the Bank of England rate is looked for. On the stock exchange business showed signs of improvement. On the bourses business was quiet during the week but the outlook is brighter.

Mistaken Relief Measures.

LONDON, Nov. 30.—The Standard's Moscow correspondent says the Russian Government discovers the disadvantages, if not folly, of pouring forth millions for famine relief before winter is well begun. The realization of this want of foresight, he states, has resulted in efforts to restrain and regulate relief contributions, but he considers that it is now too late to resort to restraint and that action in that direction will have only the effect of inciting the famished peasant to revolt.

Tried to Kill the Preacher.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—As Dr. John Hall, pastor of the Fifth-avenue Presbyterian Church, was passing from the church to the parsonage adjoining just after the close of the morning service to-day, an insane German real estate dealer named John G. Roth fired three shots at him in quick succession, none taking effect. Roth was overpowered by the sexton and locked up. Roth said a conspiracy had been gotten up against him by the pastor.

OBITUARY.

The Member for Waterford Dies a Week After His Wedding.

LONDON, Nov. 30.—Richard Power, M.P. for Waterford City, Ireland, died to-day, aged 40. He was the Parnellite "whip." He was married only a week. He had sat for Waterford since 1874.

Death Roll of a Day.

M. Berg, leader of the Radical party in Denmark, is dead at Copenhagen.

Sir James Porter Corry, Baronet, member of the British House of Commons for the middle division of Armagh, died Saturday.

Deserted His Bride.

SUSPENSION BRIDGE, Nov. 30.—Tuesday morning a gentleman and lady alighted from a New York Central passenger train from the east about 9 o'clock. The couple went to the Western Hotel, where they registered as James Taylor and wife of California and were assigned apartments. Yesterday morning Mrs. Taylor reported to Mr. Howe, proprietor of the hotel, that her husband had disappeared and that all the money she possessed, about $1000, was also missing. Taylor told her he had left the money with the landlord for safe-keeping and left the hotel, saying he would be back in half an hour. A long time elapsed, and becoming uneasy, she consulted Mr. Howe and found that the money had not been left with him. Chief of Police Miller was notified and given the facts of the case. She is a French lady of good appearance and about 40 years old. She arrived in New York about three months ago and was married in that place to Taylor last Saturday. Taylor said to her that he owned a large farm in California, and they were apparently on their way there to live. The $1000 which Taylor skipped with was her own earnings, and, save a few personal effects, was all she had in the world. Taylor is about 50 years old, has a smooth shaven face and hair very gray. His right arm is taken off just below the elbow. Chief Miller has telegraphed to different places, but no clue has yet been found.

The Female Abortionist Convicted.

PARIS, Nov. 30.—The sensational trial at Batignolles of the woman Mme. Thomas, which was begun on the 16th inst., is concluded. She was charged with committing wholesale abortions, her crimes extending over a period of 23 years. She has been sentenced to 12 years' imprisonment at hard labor and Floury, her male accomplice, is to undergo 10 years' imprisonment. Fifty-three women who were charged with subjecting themselves to her treatment were also tried with her. Two of them were sentenced to a year's imprisonment each and 45 acquitted.

Twenty Years' Collection.

LONDON, Nov. 30.—The wonderful collection of postage stamps that has just been bequeathed to the British Museum by the late Mr. Tapling, M.P., contains 200,000 stamps, exclusive of a very large number of postal cards and envelopes. The collection is valued at £60,000 and the owner was 20 years in forming it. During that time he visited almost every country in the world and offered exorbitant prices for rare specimens.

Famine and Typhus Increasing.

ODESSA, Nov. 30.—The latest news from Saratoff and Kasan is to the effect that famine and typhus are increasing. The Government has added the large districts of Korosk to the famine list. Five thousand horses and eight thousand cattle have been slaughtered in Voronesh in one month on account of lack of fodder.

Against French Aggression.

TANGIER, Nov. 30.—At a meeting of various tribes in the oasis of Touat, the possession of which is disputed by France and Morocco, it was decided to accept the protection of Morocco to ensure the independence of the tribes and to save them from French aggression.

Milan Goes to Persia.

PARIS, Nov. 30.—Le Paix prints a story to the effect that the Shah of Persia has appointed ex-King Milan commander of the Persian cavalry. The ex-King will shortly proceed to Teheran to organize the cavalry forces of the Shah.

Russia to Mobilize Her Troops.

LONDON, Nov. 30.—A despatch to the Standard from Sebastopol says the Russian Government is preparing to mobilize the troops in 1892.

Smuggling Frozen Fish.

WINDSOR, Nov. 30.—Special Agent Pratt of the U.S. customs yesterday seized 218 tons of frozen fish, valued at $37,000. The fish were owned by the Buffalo Fish Co. and Detroit Fish Co. and are alleged to have been smuggled from Canada.

Earthquake Shocks at Seattle.

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 30.—At 3.27 o'clock this afternoon two earthquake shocks lasting about 5 seconds each were felt here.

Two British Officers Disgraced.

LONDON, Nov 30 —The names of Captains Boileau and Butcher have been removed from the list of officers in the British army as the result of a long enquiry into their action at the time of the massacre at Manipur on March 20 last, when Chief Commissioner James W. Quinton, Agent Grimwood, Col. Skene and a number of British officers, together with nearly 500 native soldiers, were killed.

Wants to Resign.

BERLIN, Nov. 28.—M. De Giers, the Russian Foreign Minister, speaking at the banquet given to him in this city declared that he was anxious to retire from public duty, but that the Czar wished him to retain office.

A FRIGHTFUL WRECK.

Many Passengers Killed in a Collision on the Lake Shore.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Nov. 30.—A Flint and Pierre Marquette train crashed into the rear of the Boston and Chicago special on the Lake Shore Friday night, and the pilot plowed its way more than midway through the coach.

Mrs. Susan McCoy of Rawson, Ills., and her two children, aged 8 and 18 months, were killed and 11 injured, two of whom will die.

The severed hand of a laboring man, probably a brakeman, was found in the wrecked car, but so far the injured man has not been discovered.

In addition to the three killed outright four more have since died and several others cannot survive. Nearly all the wounded were frightfully burned and scalded, and many must be disfigured for life.

CARRIED OFF A BABE.

A Servant Kidnaps a Kansas City Banker's Infant Son.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 30.—This place was startled Thursday evening by the announcement of the bold kidnapping of the 2-year-old son of David T. Beals, president of the Union National Bank. The abduction occurred under conditions that make the tracing of the child and his abductors extremely difficult, inasmuch as they appear to have disappeared as completely as if they had been annihilated.

Mr. Beals is an elderly man, and this being his youngest child was regarded by both parents with peculiar favor.

The kidnapping was done by the waitress, known as Lizzie Smith, engaged in the Beals household. Just as the family were finishing dinner the waitress remarked that she would go out after the evening paper, which is always delivered on the verandah of the house. She had been gone but a few moments, when Mr. Beals heard an outer door slam. This, while not being unusual at all, somewhat excited Mr. Beals' suspicions, and going into the hall he found that his little son was not playing about. The child had been playing in the hall with two of Mr. Beals' grandchildren. Upon being questioned they said that Lizzie had taken the child out of a side entrance.

Mr. Beals at once put the case in the hands of the city police and the Pinkertons.

The waitress has been in the Beals household only three weeks. Very little is known of her.

Mr. Beals offered a reward of $5000 for the recovery of the lad and no questions asked and last night a masked man appeared at his residence with the child in his arms, received the $5000 and at once surrendered the child.

King was arrested Saturday morning and last night the woman, who is believed to be his wife, was also taken into custody. They were remanded to jail.

NEARLY 300 LIVES LOST.

Loss of a Brig with Gilbert Island "Slaves" on Board.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 30.—A despatch from Manzanillo, Mex., says the American steamer Roseville has arrived there and reports passing a wreck—that of the brig Tahiti—at sea. She was floating bottom up and the captain of the Roseville says she must have been capsized The Tahiti created a sensation Sept. 30 last, putting into Drake's Bay, near this city, in distress. She had 270 Gilbert Islanders on board under contract for work in Mexico at starvation wages. These men were practically slaves and there was much talk of seizing the vessel. Collector Phelps, however, decided he had no right to detain her and the brig left. It seems almost certain that all on board have been lost, as the ship's boats were still with her. Besides the Islanders the vessel carried a crew of 21, making a total of 291 on board the ill-fated craft.

PAPER MILLS COMBINE.

A Quartet of Paper Mills Form a Combine.

DETROIT, Nov. 30.—The Cliff Paper Company of Niagara Falls, Lockport Paper Company of Lockport, N. Y.; Rochester Paper Company of Rochester, N. Y.; Riordon Paper Company of Merritton, Ont., and Charles L. Ortman of Detroit will this week complete the organization of a syndicate with a capital of $150,000 for the purpose of buying spruce timber in Georgian Bay district.

—THE—

GOLDEN LION.

You will find this a great store. The more you get acquainted with its ways, the more you will like it. You will always find great bargains here that will please you, as it does our regular customers. There are always bargains in every department.

Take for instance Jackets in their season. In a lot of 50 Cloaks of one kind, probably one or two will hang fire. Variety gone, price was, say $20 but the two go for $8 or $10 each. That's done every week. Last week we sold a Beautiful Embroidered imported Dolman that sold at $22 for $10.

For another example take Dress Goods. Some lines of our 50c. goods go for 35c. and 25c. and so on.

People that understand shopping ask for these goods and get them.

Did you know that shopping requires experience. We always keep a fresh stock by selling out the tail end clean, even if at a sacrifice. Nothing is carried over.

This week and for the coming month you will find exceptional bargains in Mantle Cloths.

Exceptionally large bargains in Men's and Boys' Overcoats.

If one price or style fails to suit, you ask for another. Don't be afraid of asking for what you want. Keep on until you get it. It's here. There are few stocks that excel ours outside of the large cities.

We come before our readers to-day to tell them about one of the greatest bargains we have ever had to offer in which is heavy double fold Amazon Cloths, 42 to 43 in. wide, at 50c. a yard, worth 90c., in ten different shades. They are soft as velvet, close and fine with a bright finish like Henrietta Cloths, but have the appearance of the old style broad cloth men used to wear. They have been on our counters only a few days at this price and are going out rapidly, but we hope to have enough to supply the demand while this notice appears in this paper.

Those Overcoats we talked about last week are a surprise to everybody. They sell themselves every time. The best of the lot only $8, lower grades down to $5.

White Wool Blankets fresh from the mill, at $2.50 and $3 a pair, extra large sizes particularly cheap.

ADRIFT IN AN OPEN BOAT.

ONE SAILOR DEAD AND THE COCK BADLY FROZEN.

Another Babe Burned to Death—Shot for a Moose—A Canadian Killed by Indians—A Gin Flask Beside the Corpse—A Father's Crime.

BAYFIELD, Ont., Dec. 1.—Capt. Jex of the wrecked barge H. N. Goodell arrived here with his crew, with one sailor dead and the cook badly frozen. They were in a yawl boat on Lake Huron for 48 hours and suffered much from exposure.

The Goodell left Alpena, Mich., lumber laden last Monday in tow of the steambarge Oswego. Monday night during a heavy gale she became separated from the Oswego and drifted ashore near Thunder Bay, where she began to break up. The crew abandoned her on Wednesday in open boats. In the meantime the wind had changed, and after drifting four days without oars or food they arrived here yesterday.

KILLED BY INDIANS.

An Ontario Man Named Downing Slaughtered in Arizona—Red Devils Rising.

WILCOX, Ariz., Dec. 1.—The Apaches are on the warpath and have committed several depredations. One man was killed and another wounded, and the settlers are arming to protect themselves. Major William L. Downing, who lives 30 miles south of this place, rode in in great haste and reported that one of his men had been murdered by a war party of Indians, who disappeared soon after the killing and cannot now be found. The name of the dead man is B. H. Daniels of Ontario, Canada, an ex-soldier 35 years old.

Major Downing was also shot near Fort Bowie, but not fatally.

THE CRIME OF A PARENT.

An Old Man Tries to Kill His Son, Then Suicides.

HALIFAX, Dec. 1.—An old man, a resident of Vogler's Cove, named Joseph Leitz, stealthily crept into his son's room with a razor in his hand with the intention of murdering him. The son awoke, jumped out of bed and threw his father down stairs. The old man cut his own throat and made an effort to tear out his windpipe. A doctor was summoned and his wounds sewed up, but the man will die.

Found a Murdered Babe.

HALIFAX, Dec. 1.—While driving on the Malpeque-road, near Charlottetown, Hon. Malcolm McLeod, Q.C., ex-provincial secretary, discovered the nude body of a dead infant. It was lying in a gully at the side of a bridge and had been murdered.

THE ROYAL COMMISSION.

Their Report On the Boodle Charges Will Not Be Ready for Ten Days.

QUEBEC, Dec. 1.—It is expected the report of the Royal Commission in connection with Baie des Chaleurs Railway scandal will be laid before the Lieutenant-Governor in-council on the 10th of December.

The Manitoba Crops.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 1.—Bulletin No. 11 on crops and live stock in Manitoba during the past season issued by Manitoba Department of Agriculture and Immigration, is a gratifying one, showing that in Manitoba the wheat yield is over 23,000,000 bushels. Counting in the territories, the aggregate will not be much below 30,000,000 bushels of wheat for the Canadian Northwest. The estimated yield of wheat for Manitoba is 23,191,599 bush., against 14,665,769 last year, an estimated average per acre 25·3 bushels, as compared with 21.1 bushels last year. The bulletin says the wheat crop has undoubtedly suffered from frost to a considerable extent, but just how much it is impossible at present to determine. Some correspondents estimate the damage in their localities as low as two per cent., but in the aggregate there will be, as near as can be determined from reports, 40 per cent., all the way from No. 1 hard to chicken feed.

J. H. Stein, editor of The Whitson Advance, was shot and killed last night by C. C. Cook, a railroad section boss. Cook then blew his own brains out. The men were friends and were walking along the road together, when Cook suddenly drew a revolver and shot Stein in the back of the neck. Cook has been acting strangely of late.

Archduke Henry died of inflammation of the lungs at Vienna yesterday. The Archduke was born in Milan in 1828. He held the rank of field marshal in the Austrian army. In 1872 he contracted a morganatic marriage with Leopoldin Hofman, who was born in 1842. She was raised to the nobility in 1872 and created Baroness of Waldeck in 1878. Of this marriage there is an issue of one daughter. The Baroness died Sunday of the same disease from which her husband died.

ENGLISH CITY SHAKEN

A TERRIBLE EXPLOSION IN THE STREETS OF BLACKBURN.

Gas Kills Many People and Blows Up Several Buildings—Two Berlin Partners Commit Suicide Through Brooding Over Losses Caused by the Recent Bank Failures.

BLACKBURN, Dec. 1.—A terrific explosion occurred Monday in the cellar of a shop under the Crown Hotel. The establishment was blown up and the report of the explosion was heard all over the town. A cheap goods bazaar was wrecked. Several people were killed and a large number wounded.

The work of extracting the victims proceeds slowly. So far five persons have been recovered more or less injured and one woman has been taken out dead.

BLEW OUT THEIR BRAINS.

A Double Suicide Results From the Recent Berlin Bank Failures.

BERLIN, Dec. 1.—When Friedlander & Sommerfield failed a short time ago the Sommerfields, father and son, committed suicide. Paarmann & Cohen, wholesale watch dealers, lost 125,000 marks through the collapse of Friedlander & Sommerfield. This fact so preyed upon the minds of Paarmann & Cohen that last night both of them procured revolvers and shot and killed themselves in their offices.

Both Paarmann and Cohen took a dose of poison before shooting themselves. Their losses made them hopeless bankrupts. They had been established in business 30 years and were much respected. Their bodies were found by employes, on arriving this morning, on the counter of the shop, surrounded by a pool of blood. A letter from Paarmann announcing his intention was the first intimation received by his wife of his suicide.

AN ENGLISH EXPLOSION.

Several People Killed and a Number of Buildings Wrecked.

LONDON, Dec. 1.—Five boys while playing on the beach at Southampton found a bomb embedded in the sand. They did not know what it was and began playing with it, tossing it from one to the other and rolling it along the shore. While they were engaged in this sport the bomb exploded and pieces of it flew in every direction. One of the boys was instantly killed and the other four will die.

Mr. Balfour Makes Another Speech.

HUDDERSFIELD, Eng., Dec. 1.—Mr. Balfour in an address Monday said that Ireland as an electoral cry was played out. The Liberal leaders appeared to be in doubt whether to play on Home Rule or the agricultural vote. Mr. Gladstone took one side and Sir William Vernon Harcourt the other. This was a judicious arrangement, being planned so that whatever turned up winning card they could carry the game betwean them. The question presented by the condition of the agricultural laborers in Great Britain deserved better treatment than to be bandied about between wire pullers. The question in fact was one of supreme, absorbing interest, and the Unionists could claim that they had shown unwillingness to treat it in a broad liberal spirit. The Liberals had promised to deal with the question of village councils, but this was but a clumsy method of putting a coping stone on local self-government. It was not likely that village councils would materially alter the condition of the laborer.

Lord Lansdowne Speaks.

CALCUTTA, Dec. 1.—The Marquis of Lansdowne, Viceroy of India, at the St. Andrew's annual dinner spoke strongly in favor of subordinate states so far as possible managing their own affairs. It would be a misfortune, he said, if the remnants of indigenous rule were effaced. He admitted that the famine outlook was gloomy, though he said the supply for relief was ample. He firmly believed that it was beyond any power to stop the use of opium, either in India or China, and declared that if that traffic was abolished to-morrow the use of the drug would continue unabated. He denied that sales were pushed.

DEAD WITH PEN IN HAND.

De Blowitz's Picture of Lord Lytton's End.

LONDON, Dec. 1.—The version of the death of Lord Lytton given by the great De Blowitz, "our own correspondent in Paris" of The London Times, is said to be the correct one, though there seems to be no good reason why the newspaper stories should differ. De Blowitz describes the event thus: All the morning Lord Lytton had been writing verses in bed. The morphia taken to allay the pain had doubtless inflamed his imagination, and his mental activity seemed hourly increasing. About 4 o'clock, just as Lady Lytton had entered the adjoining room and was taking off her cloak, Lord Lytton asked his valet to give him some carminative, a mixture which he took to allay pains in the side. He was continuing to write. The valet went for the mixture, and while turning to the window to pour out a dose he heard a slight noise, looked around and saw Lord Lytton dead. The ink was not dry on the sheet of paper, and the last line was unfinished. Such a death was characteristic. The poet struck down, pen in hand, after a morning in which the diplomatist had listened to the report of the Embassy Secretary."

To-day DeBlowitz writes: "I have had the melancholy satisfaction of looking on the mortal remains of Lord Lytton. The body lay on a plain iron bedstead. A crown of laurels placed at the head. Close at hand were a few books, among them a volume of Tennyson which he had been reading in the morning to Lady Lytton, and the sheet of paper on which he was writing at the moment of his death. I have never looked upon a dead face so impressive in its calm. It is that of a man who has done his work and has entered into eternity without fear."

An Old Quarrel Recalled.

The fact that Lord Lytton was reading Tennyson the morning of his death has called to mind the celebrated quarrel in verse between the first Lord Lytton and the Laureate, and The Pall Mall Gazette has created some feeling by republishing Tennyson's bitter lines, which he never included in his work. When Tennyson was placed on the pension list in 1845 considerable jealousy was aroused in certain literary circles, and among the critics of the pension was Bulwer Lytton. Tennyson retaliated in scornful verse entitled "The New Timon and the Poet," which was published in Punch, in which he refers to Lytton as "The padded man who wears the stays."

The late Ambassador's friends consider it bad taste on the part of The Pall Mall Gazette to recall their quarrel at this time, particularly as it was afterward made up, and Tennyson and the Lord Lytton who has just died were on terms of the warmest friendship.

German View of De Giers' Visit.

The German view of M. De Giers' visit to France and Germany is expressed by The Strassburger Post, which is an inspired Government organ. Naturally the article is attracting much attention. It is as follows: "M. De Giers is a sharp old gentleman, and has learned from Prince Bismarck. He takes advantage of his journey to kill several birds with one stone. His first object is to keep France on the line, his second to relieve the feeling in Central Europe toward Russia. It has been stated that the financial crisis in Russia has compelled the Government to enter into economic negotiations with Germany, and certain proposals were said to be already on the way. Well, M. De Giers is also on his way. Will he find open ears in Berlin? It is very likely that he will be treated with the greatest amiability; but he will most certainly not reap any great advantage for Russia from his visit. The threatening war preparations and disturbances of trade of which Russia is guilty and the numerous unpaid visits of the Czar to the Berlin Imperial Court form a chain of hostile facts which are a dead weight on poor M. De Giers. He has nothing to expect in Berlin unless a most improbable thing happened, namely, that Russia should say plainly, 'Pater, peccavi' and stop all her hostile undertakings. Should Russia put an end to her military preparations and apply herself in peace to the solution of her domestic difficulties then, perhaps, an economic understanding may be thought of."

A "Moral" Liberal Victory.

The Gladstonians won another "moral victory" in the East Dorset election to-day, in spite of the fact that drunkenness and corruption brought about a majority for the Tory candidate. Sturt, the son of Lord Alington, wins by a majority of 347 votes off the Liberal candidate, while in 1886 the Tory majority over Hume, the candidate, was 655, as against a Liberal majority of 697 in 1885, when Glyn was elected. The Liberals claim that the registration has of late been entirely neglected in East Dorset and that there have been many complaints by Liberal workingmen who have been unable to get their names on the voting list.

A Scotland Yard Detective's Work.

During the last two or three weeks guests of the Metropole and Victoria Hotels, on Northumberland-avenue, have had an opportunity to make the acquaintance of a good-looking young Englishman, dressed in the height of London fashion, who has been hanging about the smoking rooms of the two hostelries, apparently with no further purpose in view than the consumption of brandy and soda.

The good-looking young Englishman, however, did have a further purpose in view, and he accomplished it last Wednesday when he arrested Tom O'Brien, the well-known New York crook, who is wanted on Manhattan Island for grand larceny and at Albany for jumping his bail. The good-looking young Englishman was Inspector Frank C. Froest of Scotland Yard, and the capture on Wednesday was by mere chance.

Froest was taking lunch in Gatta's restaurant in the Strand early in the afternoon with Charles Hodson, a clerk in the United States Legation, who knew O'Brien by sight, when O'Brien, who had just arrived from Paris, came across from Charing Cross station to get something to eat. He chose a table in a quiet corner near the door, and had just taken off his coat when he recognized Hodson. O'Brien at once rose and proceeded to resume his coat, but before he had accomplished it Froest had called him by name and placed him under arrest.

O'Brien was taken so completely by surprise that he admitted his identity at once and made no effort to escape. "You can't do anything with me, anyway," said he, "the extradition law wasn't in force when I made my play." In an hour O'Brien and his luggage were at Bow-street, but within that hour he had sent for Arthur Newton, the celebrated criminal lawyer, and he will make a fight to resist extradition.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Nov. 30.—At Easton sale of thoroughbreds here Saturday the prices realized were on the whole good and the sale will be a very profitable one. Imported Loyalist, a full brother to Paradox and once the property of the Prince of Wales, was sold to General W. H. Jackson, the proprietor of the Belle Mead stud, for $12,000. Frank Kinney of New York purchased Imported Deceiver for $4500 and False B., by Falsetto, was knocked down to Green B. Morris, the well-known Eastern horseman. Mr. Morris also purchased Tom Tough, by Fellowcraft, who in his palmy days was among the kings of selling platers

Sir Alexander Campbell's Illness.

TORONTO, Dec. 1.—Less hope is now entertained of the recovery of Sir Alexander Campbell. There appears to be no decided change for the worse but a gradual decline. TUESDAY, DECEMBER 1, 1891.

THE POOR YE HAVE ALWAY.

WINTER and its frosty rigour have inspired little dread in the breast of the average prosperous citizen, who sits by the open grate with the fire roaring ruddy defiance to the weather, the thick walls and double glazed windows forbidding a single touch of the rough blast to enter; or by the glowing coal stove, in a snugly curtained and carpeted room, with, in both cases, a good stock of coal in the bin, with a well stocked larder and a comfortable bank account. And he or she has little to fear, for they carry their comfortable home surroundings, their warm and well fed condition, abroad with them in the shape of cosy furs and warm clothing. Persons thus situated can hardly realize the fact that in the same street, perhaps, within sound of their dinner bell, there exist destitution of home and scanty clothing of person which entail daily misery and nightly suffering. There are scores of homes in this very town where the winter wind enters though countless crevices and crannies, where rude blasts shake the crazy panes and make them shiver in sympathy with the shivering inmates, cowering at fireless hearths and crouching on wretched beds; where food, even of the coarsest kind, is irregular in supply, and of rare sufficiency; homes from which the inmates go forth poorly fed and scantily clothed, the keen knife of the winter wind piercing through the thread-bare garments to the bone—driven forth to search for, more than to find, the food that is so scarce and hard to get. That such suffering exists in this town there is no doubt, and that the machinery for relief is inadequate is equally undoubted. Civic relief only reaches those who care to sink their finer feelings to demand it. There are hundreds who are slowly starving rather than approach so perilously near the "work-house" level. Now in this Christian town with its half dozen Christian churches it is to be reasonably assumed that their congregations and ecclesiastical entourage collectively embrace the whole population of the town. The idea of each and every church looking after its own poor is suggested by the paragraph in yesterday's EXAMINER, noting that St. John's congregation had been stimulated by the cold weather to enter upon its winter work of clothing the naked and feeding the hungry. This form of relief may seem selfish and exclusive, but it is not really deserving of that characterization. The churches collectively embrace all the needy poor of the town, and if each church, whose function is to work on earth in Christ's stead, looks after its own poor—Christ's poor—then all will be warmed and filled. Whereas, if one church organizations should undertake to look after all the poor in the town, it would fail to give any relief of a really effective character. It would, in effect, be trying to make a pound of butter serve for half a dozen loaves, which, if applied to one loaf, would be of appreciable benefit. It is to be hoped that every church will feel that it falls far short of doing its duty if it fails to devise some efficient organization to provide for supplying the physical needs of and alleviating the sufferings of its very poor during the coming winter. Let every member of the congregation feel that he is only partially punished, if lie in a sleepless bed, troubled of conscience the night long, if he knows of a case of destitution which he could have relieved and did not relieve. When we each feel our individual responsibility and seek the co-operation that will make our work effective, we may do beneficent work in bringing comfort and fulness to the bodies, and hope to the hearts of those who know so little of one and have almost lost the other—of these of whom it was said—"Inasmuch as ye have done it unto the least of these my little ones, ye have done it unto Me."

The Ottawa Free Press throws out this dark insinuation. It says: "Volunteers who served in the Northwest campaign of 1885 relate that when General Middleton addressed the troops at Regina he told them that when they met the enemy they were to strike for their country and their homes. When they met the insurgents the volunteers did strike for their country, with the exception of one of Mr. Abbott's colleagues—and he struck for his home."

Mr. A. C. MILLER, the Conservative M. P. for Prince Edward county, has admitted bribery by agents, with a view of avoiding a trial of the petition entered against his return. It is said that some of his supporters who were summoned to give evidence against him induced him to take that step. The cross-petition against Dr. J. M. Platt, who was defeated by Mr. Miller, has been abandoned. Dr. Platt was defeated by a majority of 39 in March last, and the Reformers believe that they can redeem the county now.

It is the greatest blessing of the century to all in delicate health, or who suffer with coughs, colds and ailment that tend to consumption. Remember, Miller's Emulsion contains all the constituents found in wheat. It is used in the hospitals and asylums of the country. In big bottles, 50c. and $1. at Peterborough Drug Store's. dw

Butternut was well known and appreciated by our grand parents for its medicinal qualities. In fact the nuts in an unripe condition were largely used for habitual constipation, liver troubles and foul stomach. The great difficulty was the necessity of preparing from the fresh green nuts which could only be in small quantities, as the medicinal strength weakened from keeping. McGale's Butternut Pills are prepared with a concentrated extract made from the Butternut held in combination with other valuable and purely vegetable ingredients, as the uniform strength is retained for any time in any climate. They are the best liver and stomach pills in the world. dw

BY-LAW No._____

A By-Law to Raise, by Way of Debentures, the Sum of Fourteen Thousand Dollars for Drainage and Purchase of Right of Way to the Edison Works.

Passed..................

WHEREAS it is necessary and expedient to raise, by way of debentures, the sum of Fourteen Thousand Dollars for the purpose of paying for the drain on Park and Rink streets, and the purchase of the right of way from the lines of the Grand Trunk Railway Company and the Canadian Pacific Railway Company to the lands of the Edison General Electric Company, such debentures to bear interest at the rate of five per cent. per annum and to be payable in thirty years from the date of issue thereof;

And, whereas, the amount of the whole ratable property of the Town of Peterborough, according to the last revised assessment roll of the said town, being for the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one, is the sum of four million one hundred and thirty-five thousand nine hundred and fifty-five dollars;

And whereas, the amount of the existing debenture debt of the said municipality is the sum of two hundred and fifty-four thousand five hundred and fifty dollars, and there is no part of the principal or interest in arrears;

And, whereas, the amount required to be raised annually for the payment of the said debentures is the sum of seven hundred dollars for interest, and the sum of one hundred and forty dollars for sinking fund;

The Corporation of the Town of Peterborough by the Council thereof therefore enacts as follows:

1. This By-law shall take effect on the 31st day of December, one thousand eight hundred and ninety one.

2. The Mayor and Treasurer of the said Corporation are hereby authorized to borrow the sum of Fourteen Thousand Dollars, and for that purpose to issue debentures of the said Corporation for the said sum of Fourteen Thousand Dollars; such debentures to be made payable at the office of the treasurer of the said Corporation in thirty years from the date of issue thereof, and to bear interest at the rate of Five per cent. per annum, payable half-yearly, on the Thirtieth day of June and the Thirty-first day of December in each year, and to have coupons attached thereto for the payment of such interest.

3. There shall be raised and levied in each year during the currency of the said debentures the sum of Seven Hundred Dollars for the payment of interest, and the sum of One Hundred and Forty Dollars to provide a sinking fund for the payment of the said debt by a special rate sufficient therefor upon all the ratable property in the said Municipality in addition to all other rates levied in the said Municipality.

4. Upon the sale of the said debentures the moneys received therefor shall be applied to the purposes hereinbefore set forth.

5. The votes of the duly qualified electors of the said Municipality shall be taken upon the said Bylaw on WEDNESDAY, the

Twenty-Third Day of December, 1891

commencing at the hour of Nine o'clock in the forenoon, and closing at the hour of Five o'clock in the afternoon of the same day at the following places and before the Deputy-Returning Officers:—

NUMBER ONE WARD—At Mission School House, to be Deputy-Returning Officer, Joseph Lundy.

NUMBER TWO WARD—At Market Building, to be Deputy-Returning Officer, Chas. Cameron

NUMBER THREE WARD—At Rathbun's office, to be Deputy-Returning Office, John Irwin.

NUMBER FOUR WARD—at Wm. Lee's shop, to be Deputy-Returning Officer, Wm. Lee.

6. The Twenty-Fourth day of December, Eighteen Hundred and Ninety-One at the hour of Twelve o'clock noon, and the Office of the Town Clerk of the said Town, are hereby fixed as the time when and the place where the Clerk of the said Town shall sum up the number of votes given for and against the By-law, and the sixteenth Day of December, Eighteen Hundred and Ninety-One, at the hour of Twelve o'clock noon, and the Office of the Clerk of the said Town, are hereby fixed as the time and place for the appointment of persons to attend at the various polling places and at the final summing of the votes by the Clerk respectively on behalf of the persons interested in and promoting or opposing the passage of the by-law.

NOTICE.

Take notice that the foregoing is a true copy of a proposed By-Law which has been taken into consideration and which will be finally passed by the Council in the event of the assent of the Electors being obtained thereto after one month from the first publication in the Daily Evening Review and DAILY EXAMINER newspapers, the date of which first publication is the 1st day of December, 1891 and at the hour, day and places therein fixed for taking the votes of the Electors the polls will be held.

The Exodus in West Durham.

In his letter to his brother officers of the Liberal association about the results of the voters' list revision in West Durham, published in the Globe of Saturday, Mr. Burke Simpson of Bowmanville told a sad tale about the exodus from that constituency :—

"Lamentable indeed is the showing in this revision. Look at it, it is a great picture for contemplation. Removals 1,768, and gone where? Think for yourselves, and count how many of your friends who have been removed from the list are now under another flag. Look to the number who are leaving daily, who left our town last week to take up homes in New York, Toledo, Buffalo and other parts of the States to swell the 2,000 000 Canadians now there and to be lost to us forevermore. Why is it that in our town of Bowmanville not one of our leading citizens is staying at home? Look at the boys of the families of the late Rev. Dr. Macnab, Messrs. Cubit, Britain, Philips, Lovekin, McIntosh and many other Conservatives, and of Messrs. McArthur, Allen, Bleakley, Fairbairn, Rice, Brown and many other Reformers? There is not one boy of a leading family I know in this vicinity who intends staying and settling here. Many of you know how it is with the sons in the rural districts; what is true of our town is also true of our country. We want a policy which will keep these boys and not send the best of them away to help a foreign nation."

These are true words, but alas! they will make little impression upon our Tory rulers, who would rather see the country depopulated than lift a hand to deliver it from the the trade restriction which is bleeding it white Young Mr. Tupper rejoiced at Perth the other day over the exodus from Picton, his own constituency. He said the emigrants were "faint-hearts" and the Dominion was better without them. The West Durham people could probably tell this feather-headed politician that the young men and women who turn their backs upon home and kindred in Ontario are the flower of the population—the active and adventurous spirits whose departure weakens both the material and moral force of the country.

The West Indian Trade.

The idea of trading with the West Indies is not of to-day, or yesterday, or even of this century. A writer in the Dominion Illustrated gives an admirable sketch of Talon, the great intendant of New France. Talon was the first to recommend closer trade relations between the Canada of that day and the West Indies. In 1666 one of the Jesuit missionaries wrote:

"The first thought of Talon was to apply himself with indefatigable activity to the search for means whereby he might render this country flourishing, whether by making an essay of what the soil could produce, or by establishing trade and securing business relations not only with France but also with the Antilles. He was so successful that fisheries of every kind are carried on in our own rivers, which abound with such fish as salmon, sturgeon, herring and codfish. The trade which Talon proposes to carry on with the West Indies will not be one of the least of Canada's advantages. He is forwarding this very year to these islands codfish, salt salmon, eels, peas, fish oils, the whole the produce of this country."

Two hundred years afterwards, in 1866, an effort was made to extend our trade with the West Indies, but it came to nothing; and last fall Mr. Foster made an especially unsuccessful attempt. It says much for Talon's sagacity and energy that he should have succeeded better than we moderns. Talon introduced the feudal tenure into the colony, and it lasted until 1854. He did his utmost to promote the growth of population, and had young girls sent out from France as wives for the soldiers and settlers. "All the girls shipped to us," he wrote in November, 1699, "in the spring of last year are married and have had, or are about to have, children, a sign of the astonishing fertility of this country." Madame Bourdon, the directress of the house set apart to receive the girls who came from France, selected their husbands for them. We wonder what steps Talon would have taken to check the exodus now going on. He would hardly have augmented the taxes or rushed into a war of tariffs with the United States.

Collecting Sugar Beets.

The Cobourg Post says that the minister of agriculture has authorized W. J. Westington and John Bowman to collect sugar beets in the Harwood district to be analyzed. The gentlemen have commenced their labors, and have already procured quite a collection in that neighborhood. It is a pity that the scheme to establish a beet root sugar factory fell through, as it would have afforded quite a market for those who cultivate the roots.

British Bark Wrecked.

LONDON, Nov. 27.—The British bark Georgetown, Captain Scott, from Palma Majorica, which arrived at Faro, Nov. 5, has been wrecked. The captain's wife, who accompanied him on the voyage, and six members of the crew were drowned, but the remainder of those on board succeeded in reaching the shore.

Death of a Servant of the Queen.

LONDON, Nov. 27.—A very old and faithful servant of the Queen, Mr. Maslin, is dead, in his 82nd year, to Her Majesty's great regret. He entered Her Royal Highness the Duchess of Kent's service at the age of 17, early in the year 1828, when the Queen was only 9 years old, and remained with the Duchess until Her Royal Highness died, in 1861, when he entered Her Majesty's service as page, and was in attendance at the Jubilee, but retired that autumn on account of failing health. He was the last remaining person excepting one person who knew the Queen as a child, and remembered all her youth; and she deeply feels the severance of this link with the past.

The Attempt Successful

VIENNA, Nov. 27.—Herr Krapf Von Liverhof, Secretary of the Austrian Legation at Washington, who was here on leave and who shot himself on Tuesday last, is dead. He was suffering from mental depression and no doubt is entertained that he was not responsible for his action.

Conjugal Wisdom.

"She who ne'er answers till her husband cools,
Or, if she rules him, never shows she rules"—

is a type of wife happily becoming common in these days when women may have good health, cheerful dispositions, strong nerves and clear minds, simply through the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Before the reputation and use of this remedy became world-wide, irritable, cross, nervous, debilitated women, suffering with displacements, hysteria, and every female disease, were the rule rather than the exception. The "Favorite Prescription" has proven to be the key to a long and happy life—the key which effectually locks out that old array of uterine disorders, periodical pains, weak back, prolapsus, inflammation, ulceration, nervous exhaustion and general debility. See printed guarantee on wrapper. Money refunded if it doesn't give satisfaction in every case. b

For several years I was persistently annoyed with an excessive accumulation of Dandruff and although using various preparations recommended and shampooing regularly once a week, no material relief was realized until my attention was called to Anti-Dandruff, which has produced unlooked for results in my case, four applications removing every particle of Dandruff and as a specific for this trouble it certainly has no equal.

Sufferers

FROM Stomach and Liver derangements—Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Sick-Headache, and Constipation—find a safe and certain relief in Ayer's Pills. In all cases where a cathartic is needed, these Pills are recommended by leading physicians.

Dr. T. E. Hastings, of Baltimore, says: "Ayer's Pills are the best cathartic and aperient within the reach of my profession."

Dr. John W. Brown, of Oceana, W. Va., writes: "I have prescribed Ayer's Pills in my practice, and find them excellent. I urge their general use in families."

"For a number of years I was afflicted with biliousness which almost destroyed my health. I tried various remedies, but nothing afforded me any relief until I began to take Ayer's Pills."—G. S. Wanderlich, Scranton, Pa.

"I have used Ayer's Pills for the past thirty years, and am satisfied I should not be alive to-day if it had not been for them. They cured me of dyspepsia when all other remedies failed, and their occasional use has kept me in a healthy condition ever since."—T. P. Brown, Chester, Pa.

"Having been subject, for years, to constipation, without being able to find much relief, I at last tried Ayer's Pills, and deem it both a duty and a pleasure to testify that I have derived great benefit from their use. For over two years past I have taken one of these Pills every night before retiring. I would not willingly be without them."—G. W. Bowman, 26 East Main st., Carlisle, Pa.

"Ayer's Pills have been used in my family upwards of twenty years, and have completely verified all that is claimed for them. In attacks of piles, from which I suffered many years, they afforded me greater relief than any medicine I ever tried."—Thomas F. Adams, Holly Springs, Texas.

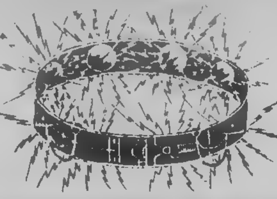
HEAD OFFICE—103 Yonge St., Toronto
THE WORLD'S BEST.



ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete BODY BATTERY. It has an independent Battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT of QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASE, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCE, SEXUAL DECLINE and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.

Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.

Do not class this Belt with the humbug combinations of leather and metal with which the country is being flooded. If you wish to experiment with cheap articles, buy THEM but, if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.

"THE STAR" made the largest purchase of Overcoats ever made at one time in the history of the Clothing Trade—Over TWENTY THOUSAND DOLLARS' WORTH---the entire magnificent stock of one of the largest manufacturers of Fine Clothing in Canada. The owners of the goods were in Desperate Need of Ready Cash. We had it, and we got the stock AT OUR OWN PRICE. We placed about half our purchase on sale Monday morning, and to-day we place the balance of the stock on our tables. The last shipment included the Finest Goods. The first lots are all sold, and such scenes of excitement as have transpired during this sale never before occurred in a clothing store.

Customers stood in open-mouthed wonder at the wonderful values given. Many persons bought two and three Coats on account of their wonderful cheapness. Small Merchants have eagerly bought all we would sell them, our prices are so much lower than they could buy the same goods at wholesale.

The Overcoats are Simply Elegant, made of the Richest and Finest Fabrics and in the most "Correct" Style. "Schnabel's" Chinchillas and Beavers; "Carr's" Meltons, Eredon Kerseys, Fine Fancy Overcoatings and Shetlands, intended for Merchant Tailor's use. Many were intended to Wholesale at $15, $18 and $20. We bought them for less than the Raw Material Cost, and are selling for $8 and $10, garments worth two and three times the money.

A' JOHN TAMSON'S BAIRNS.

St. Andrew's Birthday Celebrated.

Local Scotchmen Honor the Natal Day of Their Patron Saint—Toasts, Songs, Speeches, Heather and Haggis.

Yesterday was St. Andrew's Day. Had there been any doubt on the subject, it would have been dispelled by a journey down Water street about 8.30 last evening, when on passing the Morgan House there would have been heard the rattle of knives and forks in active service and also would have been noticed the appetizing odors arising from the culinary department, showing that something out of the ordinary was taking place. That something was the annual supper of St. Andrew's Society. Everyone knows that a Scotchman, after his love for his country is particularly on any special occasion fond of the good things of this world, partaken in good company, and last night was no exception to the rule. About 50 of the members and friends of the St. Andrew's Society of Peterborough, gathered in the Morgan House dining hall which had been suitably decorated for the occasion, to celebrate the anniversary of their Patron Saint. The celebration took the form of the supper before mentioned, and the "spread" was much appreciated by those present. All the constituents of a good supper were there not forgetting that which is so dear to every Scotchman's heart and stomach, the immortal, inevitable haggis. Needless to say, the members and friends present showed a practical appreciation of the grand opportunity offered by Mine Host Morgan. All things have an end and so had the supper. After the tables were cleared Mr. R. M. Dennistoun, the president of the Society, and who occupied the chair, with Vice-President Carmichael as his vis a vis,

CALLED THE ASSEMBLY TO ORDER,

and the second part of the evening's festivities commenced. The president in the course of his opening remarks, expressed his pleasure at seeing so many warm-hearted Scotchmen gathered around the festive board, and expressed a hearty welcome to all to St. Andrew's supper. It had been said that the society was going down, but such was not the case, and as long as there was such a number of warm-hearted Scotchmen in Peterborough, as were represented at the supper, neither the society nor the benevolent fund would supper. He then referred to the fact of St. Andrew's day being celebrated by Scots all over the world, and gave expression to the feeling of loyalty that pervaded Scots throughout the whole of that Empire upon which the sun never sets. He concluded by proposing the toast of "Our Empress Queen." This was drunk with enthusiasm, followed by the National Anthem.

Mr. GEMMELL in proposing the toast of the Army, Navy and Volunteers, coupled with it the name of Lieut. Stevenson, of the 57th Battalion, who briefly replied, thanking the society for the toast, and in the course of his remarks said that if Canadians ever intended this great country of theirs to become an independent nation, they must look after the little army they now had in the Volunteers.

Mr. DENNISTOUN then sang a Scotch song with a bagpipe chorus which created much merriment.

A letter of regret was then read from the Second Vice President, Mr. Chas. Cameron, regretting his inability to be present, which concluded with the words "for we a' al John Tamson's Bairns." The Third Vice President, Mr. N. Hamilton, Jr., was also unable to attend owing to illness in his family.

The President proposed the toast of

THE DAY AND ALL WHO HONOR IT.

Coupled with the name of the Bard, Mr. W. Telford who replied briefly, acknowledging the honor that had been done him in being allowed to respond to the toast of the evening. He then read his annual poem, composed for the occasion and entitled "Lines on St. Andrew's Society of Peterborough, 1891," or, as some Scots have designated it, "The Sinking Ship." The poem will be given in our issue of to-morrow.

DR. CALDWELL in a few brief and well chosen remarks referred to the society and expressed hopes for its future prosperity, and proposed the toast of "The Land we Left and the Land we Live In."

Mr. J. HAMPDEN BURNHAM in a brief, yet most eloquent speech, replied to the toast. He spoke of the Scot, who he was and where he came from, the language he spoke and his influence upon the world's history. He gave instances, not only in the world of letters, but in the learned professions and the army and navy, of Scots who have attained eminence and fame.

To this succeeded Mr. Bowie, who sang a Scotch song, "When we Were at the Schule."

Mr. ALEX. GIBSON then proposed the toast of the "Learned Professions," which was responded to by Mr. W. F. Johnston and Mr. R. R. Hall on behalf of the legal profession, and Dr. Caldwell for the medical.

Mr. Brackenridge sang the "Tinker's Wedding," which was heartily applauded.

The next toast on the list was "Our Mercantile and Farming Interests," proposed by Mr. T. Telford and replied to by Mr. Fowler and Mr. Morrison by songs, and Mr. Cleghorn, who gave a few remarks.

Mr. Harry Munroe followed with a Scotch song, which was encored, after which was proposed by Mr. Fred Cameron, and was reponded to by Mr. C. W. Brown and Mr. A. Clegg. Songs were then sang by the President, Mr. H. Bowie and Mr. Thos. Peden. Mr. Jas. Munroe then gave the toast of "Our Host," which was responded to by Mr. A. P. Morgan with a few short remarks, after which came the toast of "The Press." This was responded to by Mr. F. D. MacKay, of the Review, and Messrs. Yokome and J. E Richards, of the EXAMINER. The succeeding toasts were "The Lieut-Governor of the Province and the Members of the Dominion and Local Legislatures," which was proposed by Dr. Carmichael, first Vice-President of the Society, and responded to by Mr. R. R Hall and Mr. J. H. Burnham, after which came a number of songs, the whole concluding with the toast "Auld Lang Syne" sung with "Hielan' Honours," and "God Save the Queen."

THE TOAST OF "THE LADIES"

Police Court Paragraphs.

TUESDAY, Dec. 1st, 1891.

At the police court this morning Dennis Slattery, who has "been there before," was arraigned on a charge of vagrancy and was committed to jail for six months.

John Quigley was brought up on the same charge. On being questioned by the court he said he was on his way to Boston, where he had friends. Sentence was suspended to give him an opportunity of proceeding on his journey.

Education Begets Thoughtfulness and Prudence!

Canadians are Wiser Than They Were Ten Years Ago—An Agent That Has Attained Great Popularity.

As education extends in our land, our people become more thoughtful and prudent, and are ever ready to listen to the voice of reason and truth. The benefits of education have enabled our Canadian people to live better. By this we mean that the physical condition of our people is better observed, and the common ailments of life are guarded against by common sense treatments. Ten years ago, those who were afflicted by nervous complaints, headaches, wearied and tired brain, dyspepsia and indigestion, sought relief and cure by using many of the vile nostrums and preparations which then existed; indeed, some of them are still before our people as healers of all diseases that flesh is heir to. Science, in due time, came to the rescue of afflicted, nervous and rheumatic mortals, and gave them nature's great restorer, Paine's Celery Compound. It was tried, and in a short period it attained a popularity and fame never accorded to any other preparation. It became the people's medicine; its work was quick and effective; it cured when all other remedies had failed; and restored the weak, broken-down and nervous to health and strength. Paine's Celery Compound and its wonderful cures is now the subject of conversation from the Atlantic to the Pacific. No other preparation in existence is more popular with physicians, and they recognize its worth by prescribing it daily.

BY-LAW No.——

A BY-LAW to raise the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars for Public School Buildings in the Town of Peterborough.

PASSED

WHEREAS the Board of Education for the Town of Peterborough have in accordance with the Statutes in that behalf applied to the Corporation of the Town of Peterborough for the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars for "Public School Purposes" to wit: to pay for the improvements and additions to the smaller of the Public School Buildings known as the Central Schools, and it is necessary and desirable to comply with said application,

AND WHEREAS for raising said sum it will be necessary to issue Debentures of the said Corporation for the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars,

AND WHEREAS for the purpose of paying the amount of such indebtedness and interest thereon it will be necessary to raise annually by special rate upon the rateable property of the said Town liable thereto the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars,

AND WHEREAS the amount of the whole rateable property of the said Municipality according to the last revised Assessment Roll being for the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety one is the sum of four million one hundred and thirty-five thousand nine hundred and fifty five dollars,

AND WHEREAS the amount of the rateable property of the said Municipality liable for the support of Public Schools is the sum of three million four hundred and ten thousand eight hundred and seventy-five dollars,

AND WHEREAS the amount of the existing Debenture debt of the said Municipality is the sum of two hundred and fifty-four thousand five hundred and fifty dollars and there is no part of the principal or interest thereof in arrear,

The Corporation of the Town of Peterborough therefore enacts as follows:—

1. This By law shall take effect on the thirty-first day of December, 1891.

2. The Mayor and Treasurer of the said Corporation are hereby authorized to issue Debentures of the said Corporation to be signed by the Mayor and counter-signed by the Treasurer of the said Town and the Secretary of the Commissioners of the Peterborough Town Trust for the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars. Such Debentures shall be made payable in thirty years from the day fixed for this By-law to take effect and shall bear interest at the rate of five per cent. per annum, payable half-yearly, on the Thirtieth Day of June and the Thirty-first Day of December in each year and shall have coupons attached thereto for the payment of such interest.

3. For the purpose of paying the Interest and Sinking Fund necessary for the repayment of such Debentures there shall be raised and levied in each year during the currency of such Debentures the sum of—for interest the sum of Five Hundred Dollars, and the sum of One Hundred Dollars for Sinking Fund for the payment of such debt by a special rate sufficient therefor upon all rateable property in the said Municipality liable to such assessment in addition to all other rates levied in said Municipality.

4. Nothing herein contained shall be deemed to render any Property in said Town that is by law liable to contribute to the support of Separate Schools, also liable for Assessment under this By-law.

5. Upon the sale of such Debentures the money received therefor shall be paid over to the Board of Education of the said Town, and shall be applied to the purpose of paying for the improvements and additions to the smaller building of the Central School Buildings in the Town of Peterborough.

6. The votes of the duly qualified Electors of the said Corporation being supporters of the Public Schools within the said Town shall be taken upon the said By-law on the Twenty-third day of December, 1891, at the hour of Nine o'clock in the forenoon and closing at Five o'clock in the afternoon of the same day at the following places and before the following Deputy Returning Officers:

Number One Ward at Mission School House; to be Deputy Returning Officer, Joseph Lundy.

Number Two Ward at Market Building; to be Deputy Returning Officer, Chas. Cameron.

Number Three Ward at Rathbun's Office; to be Deputy Returning Officer, John Irwin.

Number Four Ward at W. Lee's shop; to be Deputy Returning Officer, William Lee.

7. That the Twenty-fourth Day of December at the hour of Twelve o'clock noon and the Office of the Clerk of the said Town are hereby fixed as the time when and the place where the Clerk of the said Town Council shall sum up the number of votes given for and against the By-law; and the Sixteenth Day of December at the hour of Twelve o'clock noon and the Office of the Clerk of the said Town are hereby fixed as the time and place for the appointment of persons to attend at the various polling places and at the final summing up of the votes by the Clerk respectively on behalf of the persons interested in and promoting or opposing the passage of the By-law.

NOTICE.

Take notice that the foregoing is a true copy of a proposed By Law which has been taken into consideration and which will be finally passed by the Council in the event of the assent of the electors being obtained thereto after one month from the first publication in the Daily Evening REVIEW and Daily Examiner newspapers, the date of which first publication is the First Day of December, 1891, and at the hour, date and places therin fixed for taking the votes of the Electors the polls will be held.

A GREAT BOON

To the citizens of Peterborough. Having seen the necessity of an office in Peterborough where parties having accounts to collect would have some reliable place to go to, I have availed myself of the opportunity and have established such an office where I make account collecting a specialty. Parties having accounts to collect will do well to place them in my hands where they will be promptly attended to. As a rule all business men are poor collectors, therefore, they let their accounts run on from year to year when they should have the cash. Now all the Dry Goods, Grocers, Druggists Doctors, Furniture Dealers, Harness Makers, Barbers, Real Estate Brokers, Bakers, Bankers, Ministers and any other business men not mentioned here and having accounts to collect, will do well to call on me. Now the reason I can collect better than other men, is, I go and take the account personally to the parties, therefore, I must get some answer. I also do a Real Estate business, buying, selling and renting town and country property; money lending, discounting notes, also insurance, fire, life and accident.

Court Langton, No. 344, C. O. F.

The first organization meeting of members to form a new court of Canadian Order of Foresters will be held this evening in the Foresters' Hall, Simcoe street, at 8 o'clock. The membership will be largely composed of Edison works employees, and they have decided to name their court after their popular general manager, Mr. John Langton. The new court starts with very good prospects and about one hundred charter members.

Appeal to the Charitable.

As the winter season advances the ladies of the W.C.T.U. will meet with many cases among the poor where practical help is needed. Already there are urgent calls for help, especially in procuring warm clothing. Therefore they will be grateful to the citizens of the town for any aid rendered in this direction. Donations of any kind, especially clothing may be left at J. Carey's shoe shop, George street and will be judiciously distributed by the W.C.T.U.

Salvation Army Notes.

On Monday evening the Soul Saving Troupe held a public meeting which was remarkably well attended, the singing being led by the united orchestras of the Troupe and the Peterborough corps. On Sunday evening the barracks was filled by a large number of people who had attended to hear the farewell address of Lieutenant V. M. Green. Some stirring words were spoken by the Lieutenant and others, and a very successful meeting was held. Special holiness meetings are being conducted by the Troupe, until Thursday at 3 and 8 p.m., their departure being arranged for Friday morning.

St. Andrew's Y. P. S. C. E.

Last evening the Y. P. S. C. E. held an "At Home" for all the young people of the congregation. There was quite a large attendance of St. Andrew's young people, also a number of visitors from some of the other societies. After the regular meeting of the society, which was shortened, the young people enjoyed themselves much for a time in social conversation and in becoming better acquainted with each other. There was also a short programme prepared for the occasion. The Rev. M. MacWilliams sang "The Master stood in His Garden," Prof. Ketcham and Miss Heubeck then sang in fine style the beautiful duet, "Is Life Worth Living?" This was highly appreciated. Then Mr. Gray recited "The Old Maid's Prayer," after which the Professor sang a beautiful solo. The tea prepared by the ladies now being ready, all were invited to surround the tables where a social cup was enjoyed and a pleasant time spent. This ended, the meeting was brought to a close by singing "God be with you till we meet again," and the benediction.

The Civic Edison Company Expenditure.

Statement of Expenditure Submitted—The Exact Figures, $28,647.18—Two Bylaws to be Submitted to the People—One for $14,000, Another for $10,000—Applications for the Clerkship—Referred to the Committee—The Field Still Open.

The council met in special session. Present the mayor in the chair and councillors Cahill Davidson, Winch, Kelly, Hall, Bradburn, Dawson, Meldrum, Langford and Kendry.

The mayor said he had called the meeting because the year was wearing on and that there was considerable work to be done. He had found it necessary, with the concurrence of the committee on appointments to suspend the Town Clerk for cause, and he had appointed Mr. F. Dover temporarily. The work of the office had got into a very backward condition and he had procured extra clerical help to get out the juror's lists and the voters lists, and he was pleased to say that the voters lists would be ready for the printer, the greater part of them, at least, to-morrow night. He was sorry to say that affairs were in a very unsatisfactory condition, but there had been, as far as he was aware of, no actual loss. He suggested that Mr. Dover should, by resolution, be permitted to act as clerk pro tem, and on motion of Mr. Kelly, seconded by Mr. Dawson, he was appointed for the evening, and the mayor called on him to read the minutes.

Mr. DOVER—I had to prepare the minutes from very meagre material.

The MAYOR—Yes, I know; things are in a very mixed state, and I hope that the councillors will pay attention and see that the minutes have been correctly recorded.

The minutes were adopted.

COMMUNICATIONS

were received from:

Geo. I. Russel, asking extra policemen for night duty, in order that he might properly protect the town.

From Miss E. Sanderson, asking to have taxes remitted upon the Y.W.C.T.U. Hall.

From E. A. Peck complaining of the injustice done to Mr. Williams, the scavenging contractor, in fixing a rate, and then permitting competition.

From W. H. Cluxton, stating that contrary to rumours connecting his name with the town clerk, he was not an applicant for that position.

Applications were received from the following gentlemen to be appointed to the position of town clerk:—John A. Cobb, W. VanEvery, L. Croly, Geo. T. Leonard, Geo. Seethem, Frederick Dover, Geo. J. Blaikskill, A. E. Scott, Thomas Rush, F. D. McKay, Felix Brownscombe, D. H. Barritt, R. W. Errett, A. E. Scott.

Referred to the Committee on Appointments.

From Mark Lockington, applying for license for a bowling alley.

From Mr. Edg. Pearse, stating that the Town Trust Commissioners require $6,200 to retire debentures falling due on Oct. 1st, '91.

From R. Hay, asking remission of dog tax.

From Albert, Frederick and James Metheral, respecting taxes.

From Mrs. Cornell, respecting taxation.

From Francis White, to the same effect.

From Mr. Thornton, asking remission of taxes on account of ill health.

C. McGILL,
Town Treasurer.

Mr. DAVIDSON, in comment on the statement, gave a short history of the beginning and progress of the work. He said the council had raised $15,000 for the purposes required, and they had to do what was done with the utmost expedition. There was little time to work, little time to make negotiations. The work, for unavoidable reasons, had cost more than was expected. Especially was there an excess of expenditure in the matter of the sidings beyond what was looked for. It was expected that a comparatively small sum would have to be devoted to the siding—that the siding to the Edison works could be taken from the junction of the two lines; but the railway companies would have none of that. The town had to have the right of way, and, not being a chartered corporation, the council was at the mercy of that portion of the public who put up their lands at a fancy price for the right of way. The council had every reason to believe that it was no difference which road put in the siding—the other could have transfer privileges over it. But when the C.P.R. switch was put in that company charged the G.T.R. $2 per car and demurrage at $14 per day. Things were at such a pass that the town had to take action and provide right of way for the Grand Trunk switch line. The town paid $1,463 for the C.P.R. siding and now owned it. There had been, Mr. Davidson said, a great deal of random talk about this matter and from even councillors, who knew all about the circumstances and should have had more honour than to talk as they had done. As to the rumours that members of the council had personally profited by the deal he spoke for himself and asserted that he had never got one cent from the railways. Those of the councillors who had most at stake had least to say. Mr. Davidson referred to the extra expense to which the town had been put; when it was found that the town would require land for right of way, private persons got options on the land and showed their public spirit by putting fancy prices upon it against the town. There was no end of obstacles and difficulties placed in the way of the committee and the council and he thought that under the difficult circumstances the best had been done that could be done and that in contradiction to the wild rumours of the cost of the Edison company, the cost would be within $29,000, a comparatively small figure when we considered the immense benefits the town derives from the presence of so great an institution in our midst.

Mr. KENDRY said that we had made a bad bargain; the Grand Trunk had broken faith with the town. The town had made a bad bargain and he took his share of blame in the matter but he continued to "play to the grand stand" by pointing out how the thing should have been managed, while at the same time he took his share of the blame for what he had neglected to do.

Mr. DAVIDSON said that the agreement of the town with the Edison Company had a great deal to do with the course the council had been compelled to pursue in respect to the two railway sidings.

Mr. BRADBURN—Did the Grand Trunk pay for its siding?

Mr. DAVIDSON—Yes; up to their junction with the C.P.R (or now the town's) siding.

The MAYOR entered into a statement of the matter. He said he was assured by the engineers of both roads that there would be no trouble with the matter of having the one siding used by both roads. Then it was found that the cheaper entrance to the Edison works was by the C. P. R.—the cost of right of way would be less than by the G. T. R. Then when the C. P. R. siding was built it was found that the G. T. R. could not use the C. P. R. siding, and when the town was faced with a charge of two dollars per car, something had to be done. The C. P. R. would not let the G. T. R. use their siding, the Edison company wanted to get in material by the G. T. R. and something had to be done quickly. The committee had done their best to do the work as cheaply as possible. But the price of right of way was forced up—the Brooks company, charged $5000 for a slice off the corner of their property, and had at last to take the outrageous price of $2,500. The G.T.R. agreed to build the line, and refund the demurrage charges, which would amount to $800. The committee did the best it could for the town, and if he (the Mayor) had been doing the work for himself, he could not have made a closer bargain. He said the drain on Park street was a great boon, and had made a large track of feverish land habitable and healthy, and the town was under agreement to drain this land long ago. In this matter there was not an unnecessary dollar spent. The railway engineers had told the committee that one siding would do both lines. The committee acted on that belief, and all knew what the result had been. The cost had been great in connection with the Edison Company, but the biggest ratepayer in the town had assured him (the Mayor) that getting that company here was the best stroke of business the town had ever done—it had added 2,000 to our population, and caused an extra expenditure of $4,000 per week in town among business men. The town should be satisfied with what had been done, the east ward especially, which had been benefitted ten times the cost of the whole work.

Mr. DAVIDSON asked Mr. Kendry several questions which brought out that Mr. Kendry had been conversant with all the matters as they progressed and had found no fault at the time, but now he, Mr. Kendry urged strong objections and found fault. He said the agreement with the railways had not been properly drawn.

THE MAYOR—The solicitor was responsible for the agreement.

Mr. LANGFORD pointed out that Mr. Kendry was in some way trying to make capital out of this Edison matter, (laughter) he went on to show that after the by-law was passed the Edison Company came, they began their works and wanted material, and there was a charge of $2 per car. Myers threatened to shut down works and leave if this were not remedied, and we had to build the extra siding. There was no time to make agreements; everything had to be done quickly and Mr. Kendry agreed to all that was done.

Mr. HALL thought Mr. Kendry was ill advised. He was as much responsible as any member of the council, and had assented to all that had been done. The extra siding had to be built, and it had to be done quickly. Why did not Mr. Kendry foresee the trouble then that he is condemning now? He knew that the town had to pay $2 per car for all freight moved over the C P R. siding, and he knew the town had no other alternative than to provide right of way for the other siding, and he was primarily responsible. If at the first the council would have thought we would have to pay for 2 sidings we would have paid it. Meyers said: "If you do not put in siding at once the company will quit building operations." There was no time to make hard and fast agreements, work had to be proceeded with at once. Mr. Hall closed by asserting that the G. T. R. had treated the town better than the C. P. R., who would not allow, as their engineer had led the council to expect, the G. T. R. to use their siding in common.

Mr. KENDRY said that other shippers who had to use two sidings had to pay nothing extra. He mentioned Mr. Langford's name, and in connection said that he Mr. Kendry never had speculated in lands in connection with the rights of way.

Mr. LANGFORD took the insinuation to apply to him and he warmly asserted that he had never bought a foot of land to make money out of the town. He had bought part of the Hilliard lot and had sold a piece of it to the town at the same rate he bought it. He had saved the town $1,500 by having bought this land and selling it to the town at $1,500 lower cost than speculators who were after it would have sold it for.

Mr. DAVIDSON asserted that every member of the council was responsible. Mr. Kendry had never raised a word of objection during the whole course of the business till now, when it suited his purpose.

The MAYOR said he was a large shipper and never paid a cent for transhipping over another road. The G.T.R. engineer had assured him the Edison Company would never have to pay a cent for transhipping—it made no difference who built the siding. But Myers, for the Edison Company, demanded an independent siding, and it had to be built at once, and the council had done the best that could be done under the circumstances. Mr. Kendry had never objected to a single item of expenditure till now.

Mr. CAHILL stated that Mr. Tait (C.P.R.) had assured the council that the extra siding would not result in any extra cost to the shipper. Mr. Kendry had attended meetings where all these matters were discussed and assented to all that had been done. The two railways had made assurances that there was no necessity for two sidings, but they had not kept faith, and the council did what was best. As to himself, he got $675 for a part of his property, that was crossed by the siding, of the same size as that the Brooks company got $2,500 for.

Mr. MELDRUM said the sidings had cost more than they should have done but the council could not have done any better. The Edison Company was a great benefit to the town and no other city or town had got works of such magnitude located in their midst for four or five times the amount the Edison company had cost Peterborough. The Edison company had spent more money than they had agreed to do. Under the circumstances no one had reason to think that there would be need of a second siding. The right of way had been bought as cheaply as possible. Mr. Langford had sold the town a part of the Hilliard lot for less than it could have been bought for on the open market.

A by-law to raise by way of debentures $14,000, to pay for the drain on Park street, the right of way for C.P.R. and G.T.R. sidings, was introduced by Mr. Davidson and the council went into committee on the second reading, Mr. Bradburn in the chair. The by-law was put through its second reading, and will be submitted to the ratepayers on Wednesday, Dec. 23rd.

SCHOOL DEBENTURE BY-LAW.

A by-law was passed through its first and second readings to raise $10,000 for Public School purposes, (enlargement of Central School etc.) the by-law to be voted on by the ratepayers on Wednesday, Dec. 23rd.

The rate of interest in both by-laws to be 5 per cent.

Mr. Kelly moved, seconded by Mr. Hall that the committee be authorized to receive and deal with further applications for the office of town clerk—Carried.

Mr. Cahill moved, seconded by Mr. Winch, that the town treasurer, chairman of the Finance Committee and the mover be a special committee with authority to make such corrections as they find necessary owing to errors made in copying the collector's roll.—Carried.

Mr. Davidson moved that the bylaws passed at this meeting be printed in the daily EXAMINER and daily Review, each to receive $10 for publishing each by-law.

The council adjourned.

Personal.

Dr. Pigeon is resting much more comfortably since the operation of opening the abscess, which was performed by the attending surgeons at noon to-day.

Mr. Arthur Jolly, late of the Barnardo Home, left this morning for Hamilton, where he takes the position of assistant secretary of the Y.M.C.A. in that city.

Mr. F. E. Bottle, who has been in the Nicholls' Hospital for some time with typhoid fever, has recovered, and he wishes to thank those of his fellow-employes in the Edison works who so kindly and generously contributed to his comfort during his illness.

Rev. Father Conway is determined to have the musical services of the Roman Catholic church, Norwood, up the mark. He has appointed Miss Annie Dunn of Peterborough to the position of organist, and she entered upon her duties last Sunday. Miss Dunn will be greatly missed in the choir of St. Peter's Cathedral, of which she has been a leading soprano singer for about a dozen years.

News Nuggets.

—The School Board meets to-night at 7.45 p.m.

—The Y.M.C.A. are erecting a large lamp in front of their new premises.

—Carswell Lodge, I. O. G. T., hold their first meeting in R. T. of T. Hall on Thursday.

—The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y.M.C.A. held their adjourned meeting yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

—Persons desirous of becoming members of the new hockey club are requested to hand in their names as soon as possible, as it is intended that the membership shall be limited.

—The usual weekly service was conducted at the Protestant Home by Mr. R. J. Colville, general secretary of the Y.M.C.A., yesterday afternoon. A most enjoyable and successful meeting was held.

THE GAMBLER'S FATE.

"Another glass of Curacoa—and then for St. James," said Russell to his friend.

"Has your lengthened residence on the continent imbued you with much taste for ecarte or roulette?"

"No," replied Melvil, "ever opposed both by inclination and education to the vice of gambling, I have studiously avoided the magic circle in which the fickle goddess enthrals her votaries. Surely you do not play?"

"Very little," responded Russell, carelessly, "and merely for amusement. To-night, however, I have, as I told you before, an appointment which must be kept. You will accompany me, I hope! You need not play."

"To part from each other so soon, and after so long a separation, with so much to talk about, and so many friends to inquire after, requires more philosophy than I can boast of possessing; so, as your appointment must be kept, and I have no fear of my resolution failing one night, I will accompany you. Were I superstitious, though I should not do so; for a Scotch professor of second sight once told me, that I should bitterly rue the action, did I ever cross the threshold of a gambling house."

Russell smiled sarcastically. "Possibly your Scotch seer spoke from experience. Who knows but what some cunning chief had won a groat from him at a fair, and he thought the like might hap to you? Nevertheless, I should like to understand this second sight, as you phrase it, very well, seeing that it would prove an able auxiliary at hazard."

The Curacoa was drunk, the cab was ordered and the scene changed. One hour afterwards he was deeply engaged in the mysteries of play.

"What, losing again to-night, Hawkes?" said one of the bystanders, addressing him we have described—"this is [illegible] have last night's losses to repair already."

"True," replied the person addressed; and Melvil, well versed in human nature, perceived a peculiar intonation in the speaker, which displayed fierce internal agitation of mind, although, to a common observer, it might have been imperceptible. "True, I must; and you will see I shall win presently."

"Indeed!" exclaimed the other—"well, well, we shall see that."

In effect, the prophecy of the player, appeared magical, for anon the luck changed—Russell's high pile of gold dwindled rapidly away; each successive throw of the dice contributed materially to decrease it, while that of Hawkes speedily became the largest on the board.

"Russell," whispered Melvil, "leave this dangerous pasttime—the luck, you see, has changed."

"And will change again," replied Russell; "I know my adversary well—good fortune rarely abides with him."

"I am glad to hear that you know him," replied Melvil, "for really I had suspected some foul play. Pray, who is he?"

"He is a man of good family, and one of large property, all of which he has dissipated at play. He married Blanch Vane—she with whom it was said by village gossips, you had an 'affaire de cœur,' in early life."

Melvil turned away from the table.

Half an hour elapsed ere Melvil again approached. The gambler's face was flushed with success; that of Russell was pale and disturbed. He had lost very considerably.

"One more throw for double stakes," cried he, "and I have done."

"Agreed," cried Hawkes.

Melvil with some difficulty made his way to the opposite end of the table, and watched with eager eye his every motion. They threw, and Russell lost. The scarlet blood mounted to Melvil's brow—he suddenly bent forward, and violently grasped the wrist of Hawkes.

"Contemptible scoundrel! you have dice in your sleeve."

"Prove your charge, sir."

This was impossible; and, though perfectly satisfied himself as to the truth of his allegation, Melvil was obliged to acknowledge he had no means of sustaining it. Hawkes demanded his card—it was given.

"You are wrong," whispered Russell; "you had better apologize; he is a capital shot."

"I was not wrong, and I will not apologize," answered Melvil, quietly.

Ere the latter left the room, a meeting had been arranged for the following morning, by Russell and some friends of Hawkes.

Five persons met early on a damp, misty, gloomy looking morning in Battersea fields—they were the duellists, their seconds, and their surgeon. Melvil was cool and collected.

"Russell, if I fall, promise me to give up forever your fearful pursuit."

"May heaven avert such a calamity as your being wounded even."

"Will you promise me what I have asked?"

"I will do more—I will swear!" answered Russell.

The ground was soon measured—the combatants took their places—the signal having been previously arranged, both fired together. Melvil remained unhurt—the gambler fell.

"Heavens!" ejaculated Melvil, "I have destroyed him."

They rushed to the fallen man, and while his second raised and supported his head upon his knee, the surgeon examined the wound. It was in the left side.

"Speak—speak!" exclaimed Melvil, "am I a murderer!"

"Fly, fly with your best speed, gentlemen," said the surgeon: "the wound is mortal—he cannot live many minutes."

As the poisoned arrow of the Indian warrior festers in the wound of his enemy, so did this sentence enter in the very heart of Melvil, and there fester and canker his hopes of future happiness. The dying man heard the reply with assumed fortitude.

"It is well," he said, faintly, "nay, it is just. You," addressing Melvil, "you were right, but have my justification, such as it is. I have a wife—children—I shall never see them more. I love them better than myself. A run of ill luck had left me penniless, and them starving. Desperation filled my bosom, and I determined, should fortune desert me, that I would ensure her favors by employing means which I had not so much as dreamed of." His voice failed.

"He is dying," said the surgeon—"fly for your lives, gentlemen."

He who supported the head of Hawkes lowered it gently to the grass, and disappeared; neither of the others moved. The motion of his head appeared to rouse the [illegible] recollections of the unfortunate duellist, but his mind wandered—"Blanche, my wife—my sweetheart—another change for thy sake! Throw—throw—now give me the box. Down go the dice—the deuce—ace—the game is up!" A convulsive contraction of the limbs followed—then a slight shudder—and then the gambler "slept the sleep which knows no waking."

Russel and Melvil made the tour of Switzerland together. Both were melancholy—the former for a season, the latter forever.

The Pathway Home.

At dusky eve an old man stood
  Hard by a grave-yard wall—
And thought of youth, midlife, and age
  And death, and strife through all.

A little maiden, flushed with health,
  And decked with flowers gay,
Under the high-arched gateway passed
  And tripped along her way.

"Art not afraid," the old man said,
  "Among these graves to roam?"
"Why no," the little maid replied,
  "For this way lies my home."

The old man smiled, then softly said,
  While tears bedimmed his eye,
"My way, like hers, to home and friends,
  Doth through the graveyard lie."

A Flea That Pulled a Silver Cannon—A Flying Plant.

According to an author there is a very astonishing curiosity in Thibet in the shape of a plant that flies. It resembles a dog in shape, is the color of a tortoise-shell and is very tame. If lions or elephants see it they are frightened, "hence it is the king of beasts." There is also a kind of black donkey which can cope in fight with the tiger.

DICKSON'S,

SUN LIFE
ASSURANCE COMPANY OF CANADA.

The attention of our Policy-Holders is directed to the following summary of the leading items of the present report, which speaks for itself as to the progress and prosperity of the Company :—

Life Assurances in force, 1st January, 1891	$16,759,355 92
Increase over previous year	3,421,372 84
New Applications received in 1890	6,371,599 15
Increase over 1889	2,268,888.60
Cash income for year ending 31st December, 1890	889,078 87
Increase over 1889	325,938 35
Assets at 31st December, 1890	2,473,514 19
Increase over 1889	687,691 47
Reserve for Security for Policy Holders	2,109,222 68
Increase over 1889	567,732 71
Surplus over all Liabilities and Capital Stock	232,175.69
Increase over 1889	75,649.05
Death claims fallen in during 1890	143,961.63

The progress made by the SUN LIFE during 1890 was remarkable. The new business was the largest in the Company's history, and was equalled by but one other Canadian Life Company. The income for the year exceeds $2,000 for each day in the year, Sundays included. The Assets are large and rapidly increasing. They are, moreover, of the highest character, yielding an average interest of 6.04 per cent. The overdue interest is small, and the Real Estate owned under foreclosure is only four per cent. of the amount of mortgages. This is a remarkable showing. The SURPLUS accumulated during the FOUR years of the current quinquennium is nearly THREE TIMES as much as the amount earned during any previous FIVE years, and the profits to Policy-holders cannot fail thus to be highly satisfactory. The following are the figures :—

Net Surplus, 31st Dec., 1881, (five years)	$64 824 07
" " " " 1886,	89,452 97
" " " " 1890, (four years)	232,175 69

"German Syrup"

A Throat and Lung Specialty. Those who have not used Boschee's German Syrup for some severe and chronic trouble of the Throat and Lungs can hardly appreciate what a truly wonderful medicine it is. The delicious sensations of healing, easing, clearing, strength-gathering and recovering are unknown joys. For German Syrup we do not ask easy cases. Sugar and water may smooth a throat or stop a tickling—for a while. This is as far as the ordinary cough medicine goes. Boschee's German Syrup is a discovery, a great Throat and Lung Specialty. Where for years there have been sensitiveness, pain, coughing, spitting, hemorrhage, voice failure, weakness, slipping down hill, where doctors and medicine and advice have been swallowed and followed to the gulf of despair, where there is the sickening conviction that all is over and the end is inevitable, there we place German Syrup. It cures. You are a live man yet if you take it. ●

POST-NUPTIAL REGRETS OF A GIRL WHEN SHE MARRIES.

Confessions of a Wife Whose Husband Had to Cry a Parley Through the Keyhole—Fashions in Gems—Family Life in Paris—The Latest Glove Lore.

"It's an old trick of the trade with novelists to tell how young women, when in love, never fail at a certain juncture to double-lock their room doors, and with many flushes and heart-beatings write down their Christian name, coupled with the surname of the man whom they have promised or hope to marry," commented a young married woman lately wedded to a fine man of her choice. "I suppose it is the way with many sentimental girls, though I never did it myself; instead, I underwent a very different emotion of which I don't think men have any comprehension, but which I find is not peculiar in my case.

"I mean grief at having to give up one's maiden name. All the time I was engaged I never took any thought for the day on which I was to drop my own nice surname and title, for which I had such a deep affection, and be addressed by my family, my friends and people to whom I was introduced by an entirely different one.

"For the first week after my marriage, even, I scarcely noticed the change, but one day there suddenly came over me a curious little lonesome feeling. It seemed so chilly and formal, so unlike myself to be addressed as 'Mrs.' at every hand, and never to hear my own dear, original name. The more I thought over the matter the more despairing I became. Never, never could I hear the old familiar 'Miss' when anyone spoke to me.

"Thereupon I actually locked myself in my room and wept so long and bitterly from pure namesickness that my husband besought me tearfully, through the keyhole, to tell him what was wrong. He was very much hurt when I first explained the cause of my grief, but when I brought him to a realization of my loss, he grew sympathetic, and, do you know, for a long time he called me by my maiden name. That wore off with the honeymoon, however, but even to this day I think sadly of my lost name."—Illustrated American.

Family Life in Paris.

Whole families in Paris pack into flats of two and three rooms, out of which they always reserve a salon, which once a week is set out to receive visitors, but invariably closed to visitors on any other day, says "Murray's Magazine." "Madame est sortie," says the concierge, and no one is allowed to go up to the fourth, fifth or even sixth floor, were they nestle. They work incessantly, the mother sewing and mending, the daughters, perhaps, doing embroidery for the shops. At night they sleep anywhere; perhaps, in a corner of a dark passage, screened off; the father or brother on a "shake down" in the salon; the mother and another daughter crammed into a tiny cell, too small for one sleeper and intolerable for two. It is all dreadfully unwholesome, no doubt, especially as the whole is warmed by a pestilential "Choubersky" stove, poisonous, but cheap, and consequently adopted in such homes, notwithstanding its dangerous effects. "We must manage to live somehow and rents are so dear that we cannot stop to think of such things." All are very shabbily dressed, usually the mother is even frightfully untidy, but, they argue, no one can get into their den, "so what does it matter?"

If their means allow such a luxury, a femme de menage comes for a few hours a day and cooks their dinner, which is always very frugal and limited in quantity. If the "help" cannot be afforded the mother does the cooking herself, turning everything to account, such as bits of dry bread soaked in the water which has boiled vegetables, and thus made into soup, with pea pods, etc. If they live near the Halles Centrales, or principal markets, the mother goes there late in the afternoon and looks out for articles of food which could not bear a day's delay, and pounces upon these, because they are sold at any price.

FASHIONS IN GEMS.

A Lady's Rambles Among the Jewelers.

A rare jewel on a slender chain pleases fastidious tastes.

Ornate vases in Berlin ware are among the new importations.

Safety matches lie concealed in a miniature little wood basket of silver.

Holders for Worcestershire sauce bottles are like extra high coasters with perforated bands.

A glass dish for flowers has as outer covering of real lace, which has been overlaid with gold.

Silver-gilt spoons with enamel bowls, and silver gilt bowls with enamel handles, come in the same sets.

Little racks are sumptuous in brass, Dresden china, Berlin faience and silver. They are large, useful and ornamental.

Silver cornucopias with perforated borders hold silken bags that close with cords and tassels. They are intended for bonbons.

Little glass cabinets with ormolu mounts are intended to hold the little pieces of faience bric-a-brac to which allusion has been made.

Trays for sealing letters have an edge like a crimpled ruffle. These hold a cradle for the seal, a receptacle for the stick of wax, a tiny lamp and a mucilage pot.—Elsie Bee, in the Jeweler's Circular.

Notes About Gloves.

Mode shades may be worn with any costume.

Pale tan yellow shades stitched with black are considered very chic.

Slate shades are fancied by economical shoppers, as they do not soil easily.

Gloves should not be fitted to cramp the hand, neither should they wrinkle.

A heavy stitching in the center with lighter lines on the sides has been introduced.

The "mahogany" color covers about a dozen shades, almost rivaling tan in this respect.

Men's evening gloves in suede will hardly become the standard favorites that glace kid are.

New gloves should be kept wrapped in soft paper by the lucky owner of many unworn pairs.

Odds and Ends of Dress.

Jetted net for plastrons appears with jet gimps.

Jet buttons should accompany the narrow jet gimps new worn.

Thick rolls like [illegible] are placed on the bottom of skirts and basques.

Tabliers of jets are shown in many designs, but the girdles take better.

Shaded pearl buttons may be found to agree with any of the fashionable mixed suitings.

Frizzed coque's plumes are made into edgings, likewise the ostrich feathers and peacock's eyes.

All those heating and itching humors of the scalp, so troublesome to many persons, are effectually cured by the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. If not attended to in time, these diseases are very liable to result in the loss of the hair.

Victoria Carbolic Salve is a great aid to internal medicine in the treatment of scrofulous sores, ulcers and abscesses of all kinds.

The Best Yet.

DEAR SIRS,—My mother was attacked with inflammation of the lungs which left her very weak and never free from cold, till at last she got a very severe cold and cough. She resolved to try Hagyards Pectoral Balsam, and, on so doing, found it did her more good than any other medicine she ever tried.

NORTH PERTH [illegible]H ONTARIO

Judgment in Both Trials Adjourned -The Report on the Alleged Quebec Boodling to be Presented December 10 -Another Editor Arrested by Mr. Mercier.

TORONTO, Dec. 1.—In the North Perth election petition case at Osgoode Hall yesterday, Justices Rose and MacMahon were to have given judgment. But they told Mr. W. M. Douglas, counsel for the plaintiffs, who was the only person in the court room at the time besides themselves and the registrar, that they had decided not to give judgment until they had an opportunity of conferring with their brother judges. They accordingly adjourned the case until Dec. 10, at 10 o'clock. The subject of the conference will be the charges with regard to furnishing voters with railway tickets.

In the trial of the South Ontario petition Justice Falconbridge and Street adjourned the court Jan. 4 at 11 o'clock. A letter from Mr. C. J. Holman, counsel for the respondent, admitting the form of order issued by Mr. W. T. R. Preston for G.T.R. tickets, was put in by consent and made part of the record. Mr. Dalton McCarthy, Q.C., counsel for the petitioner, and Mr. Holman were present, and Hon. John Dryden and Mr. John Davidson, son of the member of South Ontario, had gone up to the hall to hear the judgment. In this case too the judges said they were not prepared to give their judgment, and as they would be busy until the end of the year adjourned to the 4th day of the new year.

The Boodle Trials.

OTTAWA, Dec. 1.—Judge Ross resumed the preliminary examination into the charges of conspiracy against Hon. Thomas McGreevy, Michael Connolly and N. K. Connolly, at the Police Court this morning. All the accused and their counsel were early on the scene.

Mr. Osler said he proposed to call the stenographers before the Parliamentary Committee, and if they were allowed to testify the case for the crown would quickly be closed.

Mr. Fitzpatrick protested emphatically against the admission of this evidence. He had a list of cases to which he would ask his honor's consideration to show that the evidence should not be admitted.

Charles McGreevy, son of Robert McGreevy, testified that he was present in his father's office when three tenders, those of Larkin, Connolly & Co., John Gallagher and George Beaucage, were compared. He took out the prices from each and put them on one sheet. When the comparison took place there were present his father, O. E Murphy, Nicholas Connolly, and he believed P. Larkin. He left them lying on the table in the office and did not see them subsequently.

J. E. Liverronis, photographer of Quebec, testified that he had photographed 153 letters and papers handed to him or his assistant by J. Israel Tarte, O. E. Murphy and R. H. McGreevy. He produced the negatives of the photographs, but could not distinguish which were handed to him respectively by the three gentlemen named.

Judge Ross decided he would not admit the evidence taken before the Parliamentary Committee.

Fred Cook gave formal evidence as to the report in the blue book, which was ruled out by the judge.

Mr. Osler then gave notice for a formal application in term at Toronto on Saturday, to decide the question, and the court adjourned till Dec. 22.

BUFFALO, Dec. 1.—Thomas Burch, formerly a lake captain and at one time part owner and commander of the steamer Donaldson, committed suicide by taking rough on rats. He was tolerably well to do and no reason for his act is known.

Yellow Jack on Board.

LONDON, Dec. 1.— The British steamer Petrarch, which sailed from the fever-stricken port of Santos in Brazil, on Oct. 23, has arrived at Plymouth, bringing a terrible tale of suffering from yellow fever. The fever made its appearance on board soon after the steamer sailed from Santos and spread rapidly among the crew till all except one seaman were prostrate. The authorities at St. Vincent, Cape Verd Islands, and Las Palmas, Canary Islands, where the steamer stopped, declined to grant any assistance whatever to the stricken crew. The steamer was compelled to sail away and made for Gibraltar where on her arrival good treatment was secured. The chief mate, the chief and second engineers and three members of the crew died between Oct. 25 and Nov. 15.

"Ben Hur" Denounced.

HAMILTON, Dec. 1.—At the Ministerial Association meeting yesterday this resolution was passed with reference to the approaching Ben Hur appearance:

Moved by Rev. James Murray, seconded by Rev. Dr. Laidlaw, "That this association deprecates the evil influences that have generally tainted the history of the stage in general, but especially would we express our unqualified disapproval of the introduction of Biblical characters on the stage for any purpose whatever."

Thought His Neighbor Was a Moose.

FIELD'S BIG FAILURE.

Said to Have Misappropriated $1,710,000 —Startling Statement.

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—A sensation in financial circles was caused when, in reference to the failure of Field, Lindley, Weichers & Co., bankers and brokers, No. 1 Broadway, the Stock Exchange officially announced that the Union Pacific Railroad had notified it that securities to the amount of $1,710,000 had been misappropriated. These securities were accordingly declared to be not a good delivery on account of sales made on the Exchange.

The securities include $679,000 Union Pacific, Denver and consolidated 5s and $8000 first mortgage bonds; $516,000 Oregon Short Line and Utah Northern consolidated 5s and $218,000 collateral trust 5s of the same company; $39,000 Oregon Navigation collateral trust 5s, 1000 shares Texas Pacific, and 500 shares Oregon Short Line and Utah Northern stock.

Immediately after the Stock Exchange had fired this great shot the Union Pacific, through its officers, made the following statement:

"The company has repeatedly offered to pay off these loans since the funding scheme was consummated and has stood ready to do so, but prepayment was refused. Since the three loans matured the company has made every effort to take up the loans, but the lenders delayed, making various excuses for not being ready to deliver the collateral on receipt of payment. The company stands ready at any time to pay the loans on delivery of collateral or to meet any of its obligations provided collaterals are returned."

"Of the securities of its system which were held by Field, Lindley, Weichers & Co., in relation to which the Stock Exchange has made a ruling that they are not a good delivery, a large part were delivered to that firm as collateral security for three loans which matured on Nov. 13, 24 and 25 and the balance of the securities for a loan which matures on Jan. 1 next.

Several of the brokers of the suspended firm have sold the bonds and must make delivery on Monday to the buyers. As they are not a good delivery the sellers are endeavoring to have the buyers cancel the transactions.

Sidney Dillon, President of the Union Pacific, spoke very emphatically to-day about the matter. He said:

"Their rehypothecation of these securities is what I term criminal borrowing. I don't think there can be any milder view of their action taken."

Assignee Charles W. Gould was as much in the dark as anybody concerning the suspended firm's affairs. He issued this statement:

"There is no man on earth who could tell anything about how this business stands until the balances are made out, and I cannot be expected to make a definite statement until I know what I'm talking about.

"I called at Mr. Edward Field's house this morning, but did not see him. I saw his physician, and learned from him that Mr. Field's condition is very serious. Arrangements are being made to send him to a private insane asylum. Mr. Cyrus W. Field is also very ill of nervous prostration. I tried yesterday to talk with Mr. Field, but found his mind wandering, and he was totally incapable of talking intelligently. His symptoms are not those of an acute maniac, but he cannot keep his mind on anything."

Edward Field, it was said at his home, had not returned since yesterday. The hall of the house was filled with trunks bearing his initials, but no one seemed to know whether he expected to leave town or not.

A grandson of Cyrus W. Field said that the distinguished invalid was not so ill as at first reported, but withal is in a critical condition.

All the morning tenders were made to Assignee Gould by creditors or their representatives for stocks which the firm was supposed to be carrying for them. Mr. Gould could only tell them that they would have to wait for the examination of the firm's books and effects. He also said that he had discovered nothing to substantiate the rumor that a son of Jay Gould had been interested with Field, Lindley, Weichers & Co. in operations on the market.

It is reported that the affairs of a prominent industrial concern are involved in the Field failure and the reports have caused free offerings of its stock. One of the most marked effects of the failure is in the business of the Stock Exchange. The firm gave out many large orders daily and it is estimated contributed during many days 20 per cent. of the total business.

The net loss from the failure of Field, Lindlay & Co. of New York is $800,000, half of which will fall on the Union Pacific Railway.

"Holy Mark" Acquitted.

SIMCOE, Dec. 1.—Mark Killoran ("Holy Mark"), who was arrested at Stratford on a warrant from Simcoe, charging him with forging the signature to a will—although he could neither read nor write—was brought up before Squire Brown here. He was said to have forged a will made by Valentine Dertinger, a wealthy farmer who died at Windham township. The other witness swore positively that he had never seen Killoran before, and he was discharged.

British Workmen's Pension Bill.

LONDON, Dec. 1.— Joseph Chamberlain has forwarded a draft of a workmen's pension bill, prepared by himself and Hunter, to Mr. Morley, for submission to Mr. Gladstone. The Government, after consulting with landlords, has decided to introduce a bill at the coming session of Parliament recasting the whole law of evidence, mainly with the object of allowing criminals to give evidence in their own behalf.

Hockey Association.

TORONTO, Dec. 1.—The annual meeting of the Ontario Hockey Association was held at the Queen's Hotel yesterday.

The reports of the secretary and treasurer were read in the afternoon and acknowledged satisfactory. The St. George's Club was formally expelled for improper conduct in failing to keep faith financially with Osgoode Hall and Ottawa. Hamilton was a member last year, defaulted in its scheduled match and has not been heard from since. So the Ambitious City is counted out.

Applications had been sent to the secretary asking admission to membership. 'Varsity, 'Varsity Juniors and Wanderers' Bicycle Club sent delegates to make application, but were several hours late. These new clubs were admitted to membership: Galt, Stratford, Granite Colts, Insurance & Loan, Bankers, Queen's Own.

The election of officers took place in the afternoon and resulted as follows:

President, A. M. Cosby; vice-president, J. A. Barron; Lindsay, H. D. Warren, Granites; Sec., Capt. Laurie; treasurer, C. Hamilton; committee; Smellie, Osgoode Hall; Sweney, R.M.C., Kingston; Garvin, Granites; P. D. Ross, Ottawa; Kerr, Osgoode Hall.

This committee was appointed to remodel the constitution: Messrs. Garvin, Smellie, Armstrong, Hamilton, Laurie. They will report to the executive before Christmas, after which a special meeting will be called an the schedule made out.

Hanlan and McLean, the British Columbian, were expected to have rowed their race over the Alameda course last Saturday. Hanlan was giving McLean 100 yards and boats were to have been exchanged. Up to last night no report had been received from 'Frisco. So the local sculling enthusiasts are of the opinion that the event must have been declared off.

There is now no doubt but that the Canadian-American footballists will complete their English tour.

—THE—

GOLDEN LION.

You will find this a great store. The more you get acquainted with its ways, the more you will like it. You will always find great bargains here that will please you, as it does our regular customers. There are always bargains in every department.

Take for instance Jackets in their season. In a lot of 50 Cloaks of one kind, probably one or two will hang fire. Variety gone, price was, say $20 but the two go for $8 or $10 each. That's done every week. Last week we sold a Beautiful Embroidered imported Dolman that sold at $22 for $10.

For another example take Dress Goods. Some lines of our 50c. goods go for 35c. and 25c. and so on.

People that understand shopping ask for these goods and get them.

Did you know that shopping requires experience. We always keep a fresh stock by selling out the tail end clean, even if at a sacrifice. Nothing is carried over.

This week and for the coming month you will find exceptional bargains in Mantle Cloths.

Exceptionally large bargains in Men's and Boys' Overcoats.

If one price or style fails to suit, you ask for another. Don't be afraid of asking for what you want. Keep on until you get it. It's here. There are few stocks that excel ours outside of the large cities.

RUSSEL DIVORCE SUIT.

ONE OF THE MOST SENSATIONAL CASES ON RECORD.

Russia's Deep Distress—Frightful Extent of the Ravages of Famine—Balfour Makes Another Speech at Huddersfield—General Foreign News of All Kinds.

LONDON, Dec. 2.—In the divorce division of the High Court of Justice yesterday suit for divorce was brought by Countess Russell, a beautiful woman, against her husband, Earl Russell, a grandson of the celebrated English statesman Lord John Russell.

The Earl is only 23 years of age, and while at Oxford attracted considerable attention by his eccentric theological and political views. Countess Russell claims release from her husband on the ground of cruelty of an extremely extraordinary nature.

Sir Edward Clarke, Solicitor-General, appeared as leading counsel for the Countess and Mr. Lockwood defended the young Earl. Sir Edward Clarke, in his opening address, said that he would have to call attention to some of the most distressing and heartrending episodes which in his opinion had ever marred the lives of two young people of such high rank. The Earl, he said, had compelled his wife to undergo indignities of the most humiliating nature. In fact, he intimated that if the jury found for the Countess, his client, as they undoubtedly in his opinion would find, the Earl, such was the serious nature of the testimony which could be furnished, might be called upon to face a criminal prosecution for which, if guilty, the punishment would be imprisonment for a term of years. The Solicitor-General also remarked that the Earl had upon a number of occasions used personal violence towards his wife.

The Countess Testifies.

Sir Edward then called the Countess to the stand. The Countess confirmed the statement made by her leading counsel. She said in addition that the Earl had compelled her to sit up until 3 o'clock in the morning, he insisting that she should keep a number of books which contained the household accounts. When she complained against the needless severity, and said that she was not strong enough to endure such a strain, the Earl angrily told her that she was "a useless fool." Continuing, the Countess said that her husband had upon more than one occasion threatened to shoot her and that he had ordered her to leave her bed while she was naked. Later the Countess explained that shortly after being thus compelled to leave her bed she fainted, and that her nurse came into the room alarmed by the noise caused by the fall, and she carried her, the Countess, into another room. While the nurse was attending her the Earl came into the room into which she had been removed, and so exasperated her by his taunting and insulting remarks that she threatened to throw herself out of the window if he came nearer to her.

In another portion of her testimony the Countess said that she intended to impute some portion of her husband's cruel conduct to the influence Professor Roberts had over the Earl. In July, after having returned to her mother for some time, she announced her willingness to return to the Earl, provided the professor was dismissed.

Told Her to Go to the Devil.

Sir. Edward Clarke stated that Roberts was the mathematical master of a school at Bath. A serious suggestion against Earl Russell was involved in his alleged relations with Roberts. His wife could not feel otherwise than outraged and distressed by those relations.

When the Countess objected to Roberts' presence in the house the Earl told her to go to the devil.

Sir Edward said the Earl was much upset by the prospect of the Countess not having a child. He abused her for this and called her a beastly barren woman. Early in May the Earl and Countess proposed to attend a levee. The Countess came to London and stayed at the Albemarle Hotel. She laid out the clothes which the Earl was to wear. When the Earl arrived he refused to allow a servant to dress him, and insisted that the Countess should leave the dinner table and come to their room to act as his valet. When they returned from the levee he also compelled the Countess to attend to him. The Countess was annoyed that her husband should force her to perform such services, and told him she was sorry she had ever married him. The Earl at once rang the bell, and told the servant to summon Lady Scott, the Countess' mother. When Lady Scott entered the room the Earl said: "Here is your sacred daughter, take her away as soon as you like, and you can go to the devil."

In reply to a question by Sir Edward the Countess said that when she left the Earl she asked him to kiss her. He refused with an oath.

The Villain Still Pursued Him.

During the recital of the incidents of her married life, Earl Russell, who was sitting in court, frequently buried his face in his hands to hide his laughter. His actions showed that he felt no compunction for his treatment of his wife, in fact he seemed to think the whole affair was a fine subject for mirth. Many of the spectators looked upon the Earl with disgust.

Continuing her evidence against her husband the Countess testified that when she was unwell the Earl summoned her to his study and called her "a barren brute," and threw her to the floor.

There was a general tittering in the court room when the Countess, in describing a quarrel that had occurred between herself and the Earl, stated that the latter had rushed about the room yelling and striking the walls with his fists.

The witness was cross-examined by Sir Charles Russell. He opened by asking the Countess if she meant to make any imputation against her husband or Roberts. The witness replied with decision: "Yes." This answer created a sensation.

The witness then added that she had never made a direct charge against either the Earl or Roberts. The Countess admitted that she had written a letter to Harry Marrieller, who was the best man at her wedding, assuring him that he brought no charge against Roberts, adding that she was in the hands of clever men and would bring no charges against the Earl unless she was fully able to prove them.

Sir Charles asked the Countess if the state of her health had not been given as the reason for breaking off an engagement to marry she had entered into before her betrothal to Earl Russell.

Witness admitted that she had had a former engagement, that it was broken off owing to the condition of her health.

Sir Charles asked witness whether she was not attended by two doctors in 1888 for a certain complaint. The Countess replied that the doctors mentioned had given her medicine from time to time.

The court adjourned before the cross-examination was finished.

Court Sketches.

The Countess was attired in an elegant blue velvet dress. She wore an expensive boa about her neck and a large hat, which set off her beauty to great advantage. She displayed much modesty and was greatly embarrassed by some of the questions put to her. To most of the enquiries she responded in a meek and almost inaudible voice.

Lady Scott, the petitioner's mother, who sought by her presence to add to her daughter's courage in the trying position in which she was placed, was also elegantly dressed, and over all she wore a magnificent fur cloak. She occupied the time while her daughter was giving her testimony by continual sniffing at a vinaigrette.

The Countess' sister was also present. She sat beside her mother and was wrapped from head to foot in furs, which even the warmth of the court room could not compel her to remove.

In appearance Earl Russell is a great contrast to his handsome and stylish young wife. He is a weak-eyed, youngish-looking man. He has hair of a red tinge and is what is known in slang parlance as a "washed out." He wears spectacles.

A SUBSIDY OF £50,000.

The Subsidy the British Government Should Give the New Atlantic Mail

LONDON, Dec. 2.—Tenders for the new Atlantic mail service are being issued today from the office of the High Commissioner of Canada. Sir Charles Tupper, on being interviewed on the subject, says that the use of the new steamers as armed cruisers by the Imperial authorities will entitle the new Atlantic and Australian services to receive about £33,000 a year from the home government. It is hoped, however, that seeing the Imperial importance of the highway to the east, the British Government will see its way clear to make the subsidy £50,000.

Overwhelmed by a Tidal Wave.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—The National Line steamship France, which sailed from this port Saturday for London, put back again this morning and anchored off Liberty Island. Captain Foote reported that his vessel had been struck by a tidal wave which nearly overwhelmed her. When off Fire Island Sunday night a terrible snowstorm with hail came on, which lasted all night. At 3.40 a.m. a high tidal wave swept the vessel, breaking everything on the port side, and causing her to list to starboard. Captain Foote decided it was necessary to return to port. The France has a cargo of cattle attended by 20 men. Her crew numbers 58.

Fiendish Malignity of a Discharged Engine Driver.

BERNE, Switzerland, Dec. 2.—An engineer employed on the railway line between Aargan and Walshut to-day was notified of his dismissal from the service for an infraction of the rules. Bent upon revenge the engineer entered the cab of a locomotive and opening the throttle of the engine as wide as possible he jumped from the cab and let the locomotive dash down the track at full speed into a train loaded with passengers coming in the opposite direction.

Both engines were wrecked. The engineer and fireman of the passenger train were instantly killed. The passengers on the train were flung in all directions. Three of them were fatally injured and nearly all the others suffered from wounds of a more or less serious nature.

Tamer Delmonico Barely Escaped from the Enraged Beast.

LIVERPOOL, Dec. 2.—A lion-tamer named Delmonico was going through a rehearsal at Liverpool yesterday of an intended performance.

He approached the animals and was about to handle them as he would kittens, when one of the lions sprang at him with a short, quick growl.

The lion fastened a claw in the man's shoulder and its teeth in his thigh, but the tamer, by a supreme effort, tore himself from the animal and escaped from the cage.

Delmonico was badly torn and bitten, although it is thought he will recover.

UNITED EVEN IN DEATH

ARCHDUKE HENRY LIVES ONLY ONE DAY LONGER THAN HIS WIFE.

He Will Share His Tomb With the Former Opera Singer—A Morganatic Marriage That Resulted Happily, Though the Emperor Francis Joseph Frowned Upon It For Over 20 Years.

VIENNA, Dec. 2.—The romance of the life of Archduke Henry of Austria ended with his death from inflammation of the lungs. His morganatic wife, Baroness Waldeck, died of the same disease yesterday. Their daughter, Baroness Marie, survives them. Archduke Henry was the youngest son of the late Archduke Renier, Viceroy of Lombardy, and Princess Marie Elizabeth of Savoy, Casignan. He was born in Milan on May 28, 1828. When 20 years old he wrote a letter to a friend in which he spoke disparagingly of the young Emperor Francis Joseph, who had just ascended the throne. The letter found its way into the columns of a Turkish newspaper and resulted in his disgrace.

Archduchess Sophia, the young Emperor's mother, was virtually the ruler of Austria at the time and she summoned Archduke Henry to Vienna, where he was sharply rebuked and punished. The young Archduke was deeply devoted to the military career, in which he was progressing rapidly, but this was cut short for a time by a decree that he must abandon it and enter holy orders.

Later he was restored to favor and returned to his regiment. His promotion was rapid and he was first Honorary Colonel of various regiments, and then a general in command of a division of infantry.

On Feb. 4, 1868, the Archduke contracted the alliance which estranged him from his family for 21 years and deprived him of rank and income. The rule that any proposed matrimonial alliance should receive the sanction of the head of the house was not only disregarded, but the ceremony took place in the face of an official edict issued by the head of the Hapsburg family prohibiting the nuptials, with the penalty of expatriation as the alternative.

The bride was Fraulein Leopoldine Hofman, the daughter of a very humble official employed in the Assessment Office at Krems, in Upper Austria. The acquaintance was formed while the Archduke was stationed as general, in command of the infantry at Gras. Fraulein Hofman was a singer at the theatre, with a monthly salary of 30 florins. She was handsome, entertaining and discreet, and was a favorite with everybody. The young singer was irreproachable in her conduct and her friendship with the Archduke was honorable in all respects during the long time the acquaintance continued. The fraulein's best role was that of a Pamela in "Fra Diavolo," and it was in that character that young soldier first saw her and was captivated. War broke out in the North as well as in the South and the Archduke had to take the field in Italy, but before doing so became engaged to marry the singer in case he escaped being killed.

News of the engagement reached the Emperor and he made every effort to prevent the match. The girl was offered large sums of money to break her troth, letters between the lovers were intercepted, stories derogatory to him were told to her and agreeable young men laid violent siege to her heart. Then threats were resorted to and an attempt was made to banish her and her family, but this was abandoned and the young singer went to live with her sister at Hutteldorf, near Vienna, where her betrothed found her when he returned from the war.

Imperial interference became more open and annoying, and the Archduke was warned of the consequences, but the young couple were wedded in the parish church of Bozen despite the seductive bribes and terrible threats. The Archduke was promptly stripped of all his honors for daring to defy the traditional power of the house and was exiled.

Years gradually lessened the Emperor's displeasure so that in 1882 the wife was raised to noble rank under the title of Baroness Waldeck, and permission was given the couple to make their home once more in their native country.

The Archduke and his consort, with their pretty daughter Marie, now 20 years old, lived contentedly in a Tyrolese town after the repatriation occurred. Their home in Bozen, became the centre of intellectual life for a large district in the Tyrol and was frequented by journalists, artists, musicians, actors and former military comrades of the civilian Archduke. Henry seldom went to Vienna, and when he visited the capital he did so privately, keeping away from his family except to join them in the mortuary chapel of the Capuchines on the occasion of the funeral of the Crown Prince Rudolph.

In 1889 the Emperor Francis Joseph surprised the Archduke by visiting him at Bozen, and then the Baroness and her daughter were first presented to the Emperor. The incident was of some importance, for it meant the reconciliation of the family after over 20 years of estrangement. The Archduke and his wife were lovers throughout their wedded life, and their home is described as having been a haven of happiness. They were inseparable, and there is little doubt that the death of his wife hastened his own, for his condition was less serious than hers, according to report.

Travelers in Persia Shocked by Groans from Brick Pillars.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 2.—Advices from Teheran state that the captured rebels in the recent insurrection are being treated with great severity.

In a number of instances they have been subjected to the barbarous Persian punishment of burial alive in brick pillars on the roadside, and European travelers are shocked by hearing the groans of the wretched victims issuing from these living tombs.

Balfour Makes Another Speech.

LONDON, Dec. 2.—Hon. Arthur J. Balfour again addressed a Conservative meeting at Huddersfield to-day. He said he was still clear in his own mind that the Irish local Government bill ought to be passed, but it should not be introduced in Parliament unless the rights of the minority were safeguarded. At the same time he said the measure ought to be based on a broad franchise. Mr. Balfour declared that he believed it possible to produce a measure fulfilling both these conditions. Doubtless any bill would transfer the administrative power of the landowners to other hands, but that would not be a reason for rejecting the measure unless it could be proved that it would be a new weapon in the hands of the disloyal to injure the loyal.

DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS FOR PALE PEOPLE

ARE NOT a Purgative Medicine. They are BLOOD BUILDER, TONIC and RECONSTRUCTOR, as they supply in a condensed form the substances actually needed to enrich the Blood, curing all diseases coming from POOR and WATERY BLOOD, or from VITIATED HUMORS in the BLOOD, and also invigorate and BUILD UP the BLOOD and SYSTEM, when broken down by overwork, mental worry, disease, excesses and indiscretions. They have a SPECIFIC ACTION on the SEXUAL SYSTEM of both men and women, restoring LOST VIGOR and correcting all IRREGULARITIES and SUPPRESSIONS.

EVERY MAN who finds his mental faculties dull or failing, or his physical powers flagging, should take these PILLS. They will restore his lost energies, both physical and mental.

EVERY WOMAN should take them. They cure all suppressions and irregularities, which inevitably entail sickness when neglected.

YOUNG MEN should take these PILLS. They will cure the results of youthful bad habits, and strengthen the system.

YOUNG WOMEN should take them. These PILLS will make them regular.

THE SCHOOL BOARD MEET.

A Short but Interesting Session.

The Utility of Music Teaching Discussed, and Increases of Salary Asked for—The Mayor and Economy—Free Education or Diplomas.

A meeting of the Board of Education was held last evening, Mr. W. H. Wrighton in the chair, the following members being present: Dr. Burnham, Dr. Boucher, Messrs. Hill, Denne, Ferguson, McKee, Hamilton, Bradburn, McBain, Dumble, Kendry and Stevenson. Minutes of the previous meeting read and confirmed, after which the following communications were read.

From J. D. McKay, principal of the South Ward School, notifying the Board that he had suspended one of the scholars for one day, the cause being inattention and refusal to answer a question.

From the Deputy Minister of Education, in reference to grant of $125 towards salary of school inspector.

From Miss M. Kelly, informing the Board that she had taught in Miss Broad's department five days.

From Miss M. McDonald and Miss B. Might, applying for situations as teachers under the Board.

From Mr. John S Boswell, submitting an estimate for the extra fire insurance required on the school buildings.

From Mr. Jas. A Fife, science master of the Collegiate Institute, and Mr. John Jeffries, alsoof the Institute, asking for increases of salaries.

These communications were referred to appropriate committees.

GEORGE BURNHAM,
Chairman.

The rep[illegible] on motion of Dr. Burnham, [illegible] McKee.

Mr. BRA[illegible] special meeting of the B[illegible] formally receive poss[illegible] councils, and was answered [illegible]

FREE EDUCATION.

Dr. B[illegible] seconded by Mr. McKee, th[illegible] resolution: That the boy and g[illegible] the best examination at the entr[illegible] from the public schools [illegible] county, get a year's instruction f[illegible] Collegiate Institute.

Mr. DUMBLE argued in opposition to this saying th[illegible] would cause difficulty and jealousy [illegible] a system of diplomas to children [illegible] a certain percentage of marks. T[illegible] quite a discussion, Mr. Hill ar[illegible] that all scholars taking a certain percentage in their examinations should be granted a diploma. Attention was then drawn to the difference in rates paid by the parents of country scholars and town scholars, after which, Dr. Boucher said he thought country pupils coming to town and paying their fees should be entitled to compete.

Mr. HILL though that to allow country and town pupils to compete on the same terms would not be fair as the former would have an advantage, and could possibly come town a short time before the examination and obtain the prize. After more discussion the resolution was amended by adding the words "children of ratepayers." The motion as amended was then carried.

HONOUR DIPLOMAS.

Mr. DUMBLE moved, Dr. Boucher seconded, "that all pupils of the public schools who obtain a percentage of 65 per cent. or over in their final examination shall be entitled to an honour diploma."—Carried.

Mr. DUMBLE again drew attention to the request of the music teacher for charts, etc., and spoke of the disadvantages Mr. Ketchem was under in having to carry one chart about from school to school, and mentioned that he would be able to get them at a reduced rate, when Mr. Stevenson interrupted with, "If you want to go to more expense I'll move to do away with the music teacher, and accused Mr. Dumble of trying to "run" the school board himself, and propose all the motions.

Mr. HAMILTON asked how the Board could tell what benefit was derived from having a music teacher, and was answered by Mr. Dumble, who invited the members of the Board to visit the schools on any afternoon when music was being taught, and they would be able to see what was done and judge for themselves.

After a short war of words between Mr. Stevenson and Mr. Dumble, order was called and the latter resumed his argument in favor of purchasing the charts. No action taken.

NEED FOR ECONOMY.

Mr. STEVENSON then referred to the large expenses already incurred and the heavy taxes the ratepayers were at present laboring under, and thought it was a useless expense to proceed with the music lessons. He was going to put his foot down in future on any expense that was not absolutely necessary, and music lessons, in his opinion, were a needless luxury.

Mr. FERGUSON thought that the money would be better spent, if they were going to spend money, in employing a master to teach the pupils to write. (Cries of "to read," "to read") A writing master was what was needed.

After more discussion, during which Mr. Smith produced the writing books of some of the scholars for the inspection of the Board, the matter was dropped.

It was then moved by Dr. Burnham, and seconded by Dr. Boucher,—That the elections for school trustees take place at the same time and places as required by statute, and that the secretary be instructed to publish the necessary notice.

This was carried.

Dr. Burnham moved, after which Mr. Hill seconded,—That the Town Council be advised that the School Board will require $2 000 in addition to the $6 000 asked for in the former resolution, for the addition to the smaller Central School building.

The motion was agreed to, after which the Board adjourned.

Butternut was well known and appreciated by our grand parents for its medicinal qualities. In fact the nuts in an unripe condition were largely used for habitual constipation, liver troubles and foul stomach. The great difficulty was the necessity of preparing from the fresh green nuts which could only be in small quantities, as the medicinal strength weakened from keeping. McGale's Butternut Pills are prepared with a concentrated extract made from the Butternut held in combination with other valuable and purely vegetable ingredients, as the uniform strength is retained for any time in any climate. They are the best liver and stomach pills in the world. dw

DR. JAMES' NERVE BEANS.

NERVE BEANS are a new discovery that relieve and cure the worst cases of Nervous Debility, Lost Vigor and Failing Manhood; restore the weakness of body or mind caused by over-work, or the errors and excesses of youth. This remedy absolutely cures the most obstinate cases when all other TREATMENTS have failed even to relieve. They do not, like other preparations advertised for Lost Manhood, etc., interfere with digestion; but impart new life, strength and energy in a quick and harmless manner, peculiar to themselves.

A GREAT BOON

To the citizens of Peterborough. Having seen the necessity of an office in Peterborough where parties having accounts to collect would have some reliable place to go to, I have availed myself of the opportunity and have established such an office where I make account collecting a specialty. Parties having accounts to collect will do well to place them in my hands where they will be promptly attended to. As a rule all business men are poor collectors, therefore, they let their accounts run on from year to year when they should have the cash. Now all the Dry Goods, Grocers, Druggists Doctors, Furniture Dealers, Harness Makers, Barbers, Real Estate Brokers, Bakers, Bankers, Ministers and any other business men not mentioned here and having accounts to collect, will do well to call on me. Now the reason I can collect better than other men, is, I go and take the account personally to the parties therefore, I must get some answer. I also do a Real Estate business, buying, selling and renting town and country property; money lending, discounting notes, also insurance, fire, life and accident.

The Japanese Earthquake.

Miss Munro's Graphic Description of Its Effect.

Miss Munro, daughter of Mr. Robert Munro, town, who went to Japan as a missionary, was in the midst of the great earthquake, and from a private letter is taken the following graphic account of her share in the great seismic catastrophe :—

The night had been remarkably hot and close for the time of year. There was a heavy feeling in the air as though it were devoid of oxygen. The morning was bright and clear, with little mist, while the sky was studded with a few light fleecy clouds. It was 6 45 a.m. when the first shock was experienced, it being from the west. Most people were in their houses at the time, and many had not yet arisen. Suddenly a low rumbling was heard, which gradually increased until it became a roar ; bells began to ring, the floors of the rooms seemed to rise and fall, and every window shook as if not a pane of glass would be left intact. The walls of the stoutest built houses quivered as if battering-rams had been brought to bear against them, while ominious cracks opened, through which it was possible to see the light. No wonder that everyone seemed seized with panic. From the jangling of bells and the breaking of crockery, the dowafall of lamps and the cracking of walls, the rumbling increased to a roar, and the houses shook as if the dread moment would see them collapse. There was an exodus everywhere into the street, of terror-stricken people, many in their night dresses. Then the roar gradually died away, the worst was over, and it was possible to count the cost.

A lake 600 yards long and 60 yards wide has been formed at the foot of the mountain called Hakusan. The embankments of four rivers have all been burst.

Aichi Province : Killed, 2,428 ; wounded, 3,110 ; houses totally destroyed, 42,345; houses partially destroyed, 18,106.

Gifu Province : Killed, 5,173 ; wounded, 6,528 ; houses totally destroyed, 40,474 ; houses burned, 4,963.

The number of persons receiving out-door relief in Gifu Province is 157,815. The famine relief fund is being freely used for the purpose, 75,970 yen, equal to about $63,776, having been already used for the purpose of provisions alone. In addition to this, a sum of 85,000 yen ($68,000) has been devoted to the erection of temporary hospitals and shelters. Grants are made at the rate of 1 4/5 cents per day for men, and 1 1/5 cents for women and children during the space of ten days from the time of the calamity. From the commencement of the disturbance up to the time of despatching the latest telegrams (4th, p.m.) there had been no less than 6,610 shocks, which mean 38 per hour or more than one every two minutes. Considering that the intervals between the shocks has been increasing during the past few days it is evident that the average at first must have been about one per minute.

The most terrible incident in Ggaki is said to have been the collapse of a temple. More than 150 persons were in the building, and the priest had just commenced when the temple fell with a crash, its heavy roof crushing the assembled people. Two men only escaped. Before any effective steps could be taken to discover whether the unfortunate people survived, the fire came and settled the question. A great many people entombed amid the ruinsof houses were roasted to death. Out of 700 temples in Gifu province more than one third have been totally destroyed, and that of 25 temples in the town of Oagaki, only three escaped uninjured. About 12½ miles from the city of Nagoya, one third of which was destroyed, it is said that the ground has sunk several hundred feet, conveying temples and houses with it. Some say this is the source of the earthquakes.

Mental worry, overwork and excesses are the fruitful causes of insanity. Dr. William's Pink Pills are an unfailing remedy, building anew the blood and restoring wasted energies. Good for men and women.

Increase Your Weight.

If you are losing flesh and blood, commence at once taking Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, which is far ahead of all other preparations of the kind in existence. By taking Miller's Emulsion people gain from 5 to 10 lbs. by the time the first bottle is consumed. It is the greatest blessing of the century to all in delicate health, or who suffer with coughs, colds and ailment that tend to consumption. Remember, Miller's Emulsion contains all the constituents found in wheat. It is used in the hospitals and asylums of the country. In big bottles, 50c. and $1. at Peterborough Drug Store's. dw

The Reason Why.

The reason why Burdock Blood Bitters leads all other medicines in the race for popularity is because it is absolutely pure, cannot harm the delicate invalid, and never fails to cure biliousness, dyspepsia, bad blood, constipation, etc. dw

Electric Race-Track.

At the Frankfort Electrical Exhibition one of the most novel attractions is an electric race-track for the amusement of visitors. Eight parallel tracks are laid in the form of an ellipse, the length of the outer track being 350 yards and the inner one about 200 yards. The wooden horses are mounted on trucks placed under the flooring, the steel rods supporting the horses appearing through a continuous slot. Electric motors of two horse-power each are attached to each car. The potential required is 150 volts, and a speed of about eight miles an hour is maintained. Switches, however, control the speed of each horse, so that timid riders can go as slowly as they please, while the more daring ones can be fully satisfied by a flying gait.

This merry-go-yound is called the "Electrische Rennbahn," and is coining money for its projectors.

Jumping a Boom.

Experiments were made a few weeks ago in Portsmouth harbor, England, to ascertain if a torpedo boat could jump a boom, securely fastened and covered with spikes and further guarded by a wire hawser stretched above it.

A torpedo boat, manned by four men, whose lives had been specially insured by the naval authorities, made straight for the boom at full speed. The boat mounted the boom, but was impaled and held by the spikes for some time. When at last she was cleared, the boat filled and sank, the men being picked up by boats in waiting.

Got the Mitten Every Time.

"I can marry any girl I please," was his exclamation, but unfortunately then he did not please any; and there was a plain reason for it. He had contracted catarrh of the worst form, and, although a wealthy, educated, attractive person every other way, he was positively repulsive to his lady friends, a number of whom rejected his offers of marriage. A friend advised him to use Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. He took his advice, and now is the most popular beau in the town, and he really can "marry any girl he pleases" to ask. It made his breath pure and sweet, he has no headache, no offensive discharges from the nose, in short is in perfect health, and all from using a few bottles of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. o

For several years I was persistently annoyed with an excessive accumulation of Dandruff and although using various preparations recommended and champooing regularly once a week, no material relief was realized until my attention was called to Anti-Dandruff, which has produced unlooked for results in my case, four applications removing every particle of Dandruff and as a specific for this trouble it certainly has no equal.

Yours truly, W. T. ROBINSON.

Sufferers

FROM Stomach and Liver derangements—Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Sick-Headache, and Constipation—find a safe and certain relief in Ayer's Pills. In all cases where a cathartic is needed, these Pills are recommended by leading physicians.

Dr. T. E. Hastings, of Baltimore, says: "Ayer's Pills are the best cathartic and aperient within the reach of my profession."

Dr. John W. Brown, of Oceana, W. Va., writes : "I have prescribed Ayer's Pills in my practice, and find them excellent. I urge their general use in families."

"For a number of years I was afflicted with biliousness which almost destroyed my health. I tried various remedies, but nothing afforded me any relief until I began to take Ayer's Pills."—G. S. Wanderlich, Scranton, Pa.

"I have used Ayer's Pills for the past thirty years, and am satisfied I should not be alive to-day if it had not been for them. They cured me of dyspepsia when all other remedies failed, and their occasional use has kept me in a healthy condition ever since."—T. P. Brown, Chester, Pa.

"Having been subject, for years, to constipation, without being able to find much relief, I at last tried Ayer's Pills, and deem it both a duty and a pleasure to testify that I have derived great benefit from their use. For over two years past I have taken one of these Pills every night before retiring. I would not willingly be without them."—G. W. Bowman, 26 East Main st., Carlisle, Pa.

"Ayer's Pills have been used in my family upwards of twenty years, and have completely verified all that is claimed for them. In attacks of piles, from which I suffered many years, they afforded me greater relief than any medicine I ever tried."—Thomas F. Adams, Holly Springs, Texas.

Self Application of Electricity

FOR MEDICAL PURPOSES

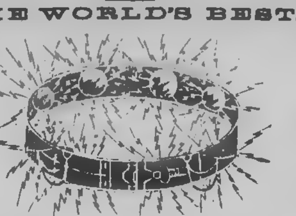
BY THE

DORENWEND ELECTRIC BELT

And Attachments.

HEAD OFFICE—103 Yonge St., Toronto

THE WORLD'S BEST.



ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete BODY BATTERY. It has an independent Battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT of QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASE, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCE, SEXUAL DECLINE and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.

Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world ; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.

Do not class this Belt with the humbug combinations of leather and metal with which the country is being flooded. If you wish to experiment with cheap articles, buy THEM but, if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.

Send name and address for Illustrated Book on Home Electro-medical treatment and mention this paper. J. D. TULLY, Agent, Peterborough. eod-w

TRADE EUREKA A SPECIAL TONIC AND TREATMENT FOR WOMEN MARK

None Genuine without this Trade Mark.

The above offers relief and cure to thousands who are hopeless as regards help. Interested, ask your own druggist for circulars of explanation which are free. If he cannot supply you, I shall be only too glad to do so either personally or by mail.

H. S. MACDONALD, Druggist

A WEEK AGO

"THE STAR" made the largest purchase of Overcoats ever made at one time in the history of the Clothing Trade—Over TWENTY THOUSAND DOLLARS' WORTH---the entire magnificent stock of one of the largest manufacturers of Fine Clothing in Canada. The owners of the goods were in Desperate Need of Ready Cash. We had it, and we got the stock AT OUR OWN PRICE. We placed about half our purchase on sale Monday morning, and to-day we place the balance of the stock on our tables. The last shipment included the Finest Goods. The first lots are all sold, and such scenes of excitement as have transpired during this sale never before occurred in a clothing store.

Customers stood in open-mouthed wonder at the wonderful values given. Many persons bought two and three Coats on account of their wonderful cheapness. Small Merchants have eagerly bought all we would sell them, our prices are so much lower than they could buy the same goods at wholesale.

The Overcoats are Simply Elegant, made of the Richest and Finest Fabrics and in the most "Correct" Style. "Schnabel's" Chinchillas and Beavers; "Carr's" Meltons, Eredon Kerseys, Fine Fancy Overcoatings and Shetlands, intended for Merchant Tailor's use. Many were intended to Wholesale at $15, $18 and $20. We bought them for less than the Raw Material Cost, and are selling for $8 and $10, garments worth two and three times the money.

Tobogganing.

We are glad to announce to the young people of Peterborough, particularly the Public School pupils, that a toboggan slide is to be erected in a central locality, which will give all the sport and healthful recreation they will need during the coming winter. The slide, which will be under the management of D. O. Frye and Geo. W. Wyatt, will be the largest in Canada, with one exception, and will be illuminated by electric light. The school children will have the use of the slide free every Saturday during the season. This purely Canadian sport is not only enjoyable, but healthful, and is endorsed by all physicians. In a few days full particulars will appear in the advertising columns of the daily press.

Camille Townsend.

The management of the opera house has secured the talented and handsome young actress, Camille Townsend, with her English Company, to give three performances in the Opera House on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, December 7th, 8th and 9th, when she will produce "Queen of Hearts," "East Lynne," and "David Garrick." Apart from Miss Townsend being one of the most beautiful women on the stage to-day, she is an actress of exceptionally strong dramatic powers. The costumes worn by Miss Townsend are marvels of the dressmaker's art, having been made by Worth, of Paris, especially for her starring tour. Prices have been placed within the reach of all, viz., 25c., 35c. and 50c.

Comic Vocalist

"Eily."

This Irish drama was presented here last night in the new opera house by Miss Scanlan and her company, says the Belleville Intelligencer. The attendance was small. In face, figure and melodious brogue Miss Scanlan is the typical heroine she essays to represent, while her singing of favorite Irish ballads is smooth and sympathetic. The support which she is given in the performance is good. The play was, taken altogether, full of fresh, wholesome merriment, and was appreciated by those present.

Personal.

Dr. Wilkinson, whose card appears in another part of this issue, has opened up an office for the practice of his profession in Peterborough Dr. Wilkinson will occupy as office and residence those formerly occupied on George street, 543, by Dr. Carmichael. He has been engaged in the practice of medicine for over twenty years, the last several years of which have been passed in Oshawa. Dr. Wilkinson stands high in his profession, and will be a worthy addition to the ranks of the profession in town, as well as (including his family, which has come to town with him), to the citizenship of Peterborough.

Charlotte Street Epworth League.

A large gathering of young people assembled in the Charlotte street Methodist church school room last Monday evening the occasion being a fraternal visit of representatives from the other Leagues and Christian Endeavour Societies of the town. The topic of the evening was: "Are we as Christian Endeavourers doing the best that we can?" Earnest, practical and suggestive addresses were delivered by Mr. Lawrence Cluxton, Mr. R. J. Colville, Rev. Jas. Thom, B. A., Mr. Albert Hamilton and Mr. McCallum. All who attended the meeting went away realizing that a very profitable evening had been spent, and it is anticipated that good results will follow.

All who take an interest in the work of the Association, should not fail to be present.

Flourishing Forestry.

Court Langton Joins the Roll.

Last night the court room of Court Peterborough Canadian Order of Foresters was the scene of a ceremony which emphasizes the position Peterborough occupies as the leading town for Forestry in the Dominion. Yesterday the number of Foresters in town, comprised in the two courts, was nearly three hundred members. The results of last night's function was the addition of a hundred men to the roll. As was noted in yesterday's issue, the membership of the new court is composed principally of employees of the Edison General Electric Company, out of compliment to whose genial general manager, Mr. John Langton, the new court is named, Court Langton, No. 344. The new court was instituted last night by Bro. H. Nesbitt, D.D.H.C.R., assisted by members of courts Little John, Peterborough and Zion, and by whom also the following officers were duly installed:—

C. R.	J. Fuller
V. C. R	R. E. Layfield
Chaplain	R. Hunter
Sec.	A. H. Stratton
Fin. Sec.	W. Morris
Treas.	R. R. Hall
P. C. R.	A. Clegg
S. W.	B. Yelland
J. W.	D. Ryan
S.B.	J. Mackie
J. B.	G. Parks
Court Physician.	Dr. Yelland

The new court starts into existence under the most promising auspices. The charter membership is 100—larger than the membership of the average court throughout the country after years of existence The membership comprises a good intelligent steady class of citizens and the lodge has every element of a very successful future.

Personal.

Mrs. R. S. Davidson and Mrs. McKibbin returned last evening after a months' visit in New York.

Mr. Jas. Geens, of the Royal Electric Co. of Montreal leaves for home to-night. He has been for some days in town superintending the erection of an electric light plant in the extensive mills of Mr. George Hilliard, and has installed 120 lights, which appear to give every satisfaction.

The Lakes.

The report sent by the secretary of the Board of Trade to the Department of Railways and Canals seems to have already done good service. In accordance with the request, the government engineer here, Mr. R. B. Rogers, has been instructed to make a detailed report at once upon the very large number of lakes which lie just outside of his jurisdiction, yet are part of our Trent system. If the government proceed to put under superintendence the whole system which feeds our river, it will be a great and long neglected service to our vessel owners and our manufacturers. Few people realise how important this is to the town.

Police Court Paragraphs.

WEDNESDAY, Dec. 2nd, 1891.

At the police court this morning John Dugan was called upon to answer a charge of being drunk and disorderly. As he did not appear a warrant was issued for his apprehension.

The boys who were tried last week in connection with the larceny of deerskins, particulars of which were given in the EXAMINER at the time, were brought up this morning. The court on giving judgment spoke of the serious nature of the charge and urged the boys, to let this be the turning point in their lives, and in future to be studious, keep clear of bad company, and above all to render implicit obedience to their parents and teachers. Geo. Curtis who had been remanded for sentence, was sentenced to sixteen months confinement in the reformatory for boys at Mimico, the other lads being discharged on suspended sentence.

Perished in a Prairie Blizzard.

Details of the Death of Harold, the Ten-Year-Old Son of Egerton Walton.

A letter received this morning by Mr. W. J. Green, from his brother-in-law, Mr. J. H. Cavanah, of Lethbridge, N.W.T., gives the particulars so far as known of the death of Harold Walton, Medicine Hat, N.W.T., reference to which has been made in the EXAMINER. On Friday afternoon, Nov. 20th, Harold Walton and a neighbor's son, Moren Cochrane, took advantage of the fine weather and started on horseback to look after some cattle. The weather being so mild, neither of the boys took an overcoat. Suddenly the storm came, it turned bitterly cold, and the blizzard was so bad that it is conjectured—for there is no one to tell the tale—that the lads could not face it, and had to go with it blindly in the direction away from home. They were thus driven by it some sixteen or eighteen miles, when evidently they stopped, alighted, removed the saddles and placed them together on the ground in the snow, making as good a shelter as possible. It appears that young Cochrane, with a self-denying heroism, hardly to be expected in a lad of 16, took his saddle blanket and wrapped it around Harold Walton. Subsequently, it seems, he became alarmed at the fact of his little comrade having perished with the cold, and evidently started, under some undefined impulse of procuring help in some direction, for his dead body was found a few hundred yards away under the lee of a haystack. Both lads were doubtless frozen to death. The mother of Harold Walton, who was on the farm, the father being at his drug store in town, did not become alarmed at the first night's absence, thinking that the boys had found shelter in some of the ranches of the vicinity, as they were well acquainted with the country. It was not till late on Saturday night that fears for their safety became sufficiently pronounced to warrant the giving of a general alarm and instituting a search. A large party was got together, and after a diligent search on Sunday till late in the afternoon the body of young Cochrane was found as mentioned, the horse standing beside the body, which was lying on the tether rope. The search for the other missing lad was resumed on Monday. Harold Walton's body was found covered with snow not far from where his fellow-sufferer's body was discovered. The shock to the parents can only be imagined. The poor lads' bodies were placed in their coffins side by side, and the funeral of both at the same time proceeded to the church. Here the caskets were opened and the spectacle of the two fathers standing, convulsed with grief, over the bodies of their sons, who had met death together in such a terrible form, was a scene which the spectators will not soon forget. The caskets were placed in one outside box, and buried in one grave in the churchyard.

A postscript to the same letter states that Eva Walton and Bessie Cochrane, sisters of the two lads, had a narrow escape from being lost in the same storm. They were out skating. Seeing the storm coming, they started for home, but it overtook them before they reached there. They both "got turned 'round," and in their wanderings crossed the creek on which they had been skating, three times, before they were successful in finding the way home. Their escape was exceedingly fortunate, as old settlers state that the storm was one of unprecedented severity.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—In your issue of the 26th of Nov. I observe an article written over the signature of Richard Crowe, anent the McWilliams, Blizard, Crowe & Co. case, viz A. R. Kidd, giving reasons to your numerous readers why he applied to have said case re-opened? Who is this Crowe? Is he the same identical Crowe who gave the county council $200 for a shot at A. R. Kidd, Reeve of Dummer? If he is, he has evidently missed the "bullseye" and is trying to let himself down as easily as possible. His owners should "scour him up, oil, and keep him clean, he has sent his ball to fiddler's green."

Yours truly,

TALKS FOR THE FARMER.

WINTER DIARYING AS ELUCIDATED BY PROF. ROBERTSON.

By Turning Cheese Factories into Creameries in Winter the Dairying Season May be Greatly Prolonged and a Great Market Built Up for Our Butter.

If we are to prolong the productive season of our cows, provision will have to be made for maintaining and increasing the number of animals on our farms. A great many dairymen of this district have been in the habit of going north to buy their cows. That practice will not be continued very long, because they are beginning to use their own cows. The farmers here, he thought, should grow as many calves as will fill their own stalls. Every calf should be saved, bull calves and heifer calves. To do that we will have to raise calves that can have skim milk at home, for the general farmer has no profitable way of raising calves except on skim milk. He should try and get the skim milk when the butter is at the highest price. The practice has been to get it in March and April, when butter brings a very low price and the amount realized did not pay for the feed of the cow. He thought if this change could be effected and all the calves raised it would enlarge our trade in live stock. Every man who keeps cows should nowadays feed at least half as many steers as he keeps cows. He referred, of course, to the men who make dairying a specialty. We send to England now only 20 per cent. of the beef cattle she buys abroad, so that there is still a large market there for fat cattle. After an animal is two years old it can be fattened very economically on little less than Indian corn, which is kept in the best way in a silo. You cannot feed animals very well on corn alone, but after the animal has its frame grown the mere addition of fat to its body can be best affected by the feeding of corn.

In answer to the objection that it does not pay to grow steers, the speaker said that he had three lots of steers in the stable to fatten. One lot he fed on a ration composed of hay, roots and meal; the second lot were fed on corn ensilage and meal; and the third were fed on half hay and roots and half corn ensilage. The steers that got hay, roots and meal cost about 19 cents a head per day; and the steers that were fed on corn, ensilage and meal cost 11 cents per day, and the ones that got the cheaper feed gained the most weight.

To prolong this dairying season with our cows to the most advantage, we must make butter of the finest quality. About ten years ago people were thought to be cranks and lacking in good breeding if they found fault with the food they got. But nowadays everybody wants the best and must get it. It is so with everything. Over in England and Scotland they will not buy butter unless it is mild. So we must make butter of the finest quality if we want to capture the English market. We can do that if we make it as we make our cheese. If you send butter of uniform quality right along they will get to like it. We should make it of a medium quality. If you get one real fancy tub and two or three just fair ones, that will spoil the effect. We should make our butter of uniform quality, and this is only possible by having it made in factories. Then we will have to make it as economically as to labor. If you increase the number of cows on the farm you will have to lessen the amount of home labor. If you are going to have about 25 cows milking, you cannot expect the women folks to undertake to make all the butter. And you will have to make the butter season of the year the time when high prices prevail. The prices in England are higher from October to March than from April to September. We should send the butter to England at a time when the market is highest. And we cannot afford to store butter during the summer and send it to England in the winter. This great change of which I have been speaking, said he, is gradually coming over the whole country. I can name at least five hundred farmers who have made their cows calve in the fall instead of in the spring, and I think I am safe in saying that in Ontario there are on the average of about 74 silos in every county. I don't know that Oxford has any more than her share. I may say that in the province of Quebec there are just as many silos as in the province of Ontario. When I go down in Quebec I get my eyes opened, I see so much of their progress. In one parish, two miles by three miles, the butter output three years ago was just $2,000 for the season and last year it was $16,000. In another instance, a man kept a full record of his cows. Three years ago his cows averaged him 78½ lbs. of butter in the season. He began to raise more cows and the next year from the same number of cows, or with an additional one, he made 131½ lbs.; and last year 203 lbs. of butter each; and this year I believe he will have 240 lbs. of butter. And this is not an isolated case."—Prof. Robertson, reported by Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

The Blue Jay.

The blue jay is anything but a musical bird. His voice is harsh and rasping, and Minot, in his "Land and Game Birds of New England," says "He is a murderer, a thief, a rioter and disturber of the general peace. In the slaughter of babies (if I may extend the use of this word), he out-herods Herod. He sneaks into the nests of smaller birds, sucking their eggs or killing their young, of which he often eats the brains, but leaves the rest, spreading sorrow wherever he goes."

The Philosophy of Eggs.

No hen can be forced to lay eggs. Nature gives her a certain period of time during which the eggs are to be developed. It is not difficult to supply her with the needed elements for this purpose, and any surplus bestowed will only be waste, for if she cannot divert the materials to production of eggs, she will either void them or lay them up in the storehouse of her body as fat, and will then become utterly unfitted to perform her functions as a producer of eggs.

Lawn Treatment.

If you would like to have the grass on your lawn start out more vigorously than usual next season, and be heavy, rich and green, give it a good top-dressing of manure this fall just before freezing weather. Close about the house, where manure would be objectionable, wood ashes may be used instead. If you are a farmer and try this the improved appearance of the lawn next spring may give you a hint of how you may profitably treat your meadows.

Fall Plowing.

When land is plowed in the fall, in order to allow the frost to pulverize it, the furrows should be left in the rough condition, unharrowed, as it presents greater surface to the air. In the spring such land should be cross-plowed and well harrowed.

The Outward Signs.

It is generally conceded that an ox or cow with soft, pliable skin, and with fine, silky hair, will feed much better than one having a harsh skin and coarse, stiff hair. Many place a good deal of stress on these points.

Siftings.

A shoemaker's "size" is just one-third of an inch in length.

The song "Nelly Gray" was written in 1855 by Benjamin Hanby, who was at that time a student in a university at Westerville, O.

A fine weeping willow tree in the Hollywood Cemetery at Richmond, Va., has grown from a twig that was cut from a willow at Napoleon's grave and brought to Virginia by a Frenchman.

Jennie June's daughter, Mrs. Vida Croly Sidney, has talent as an actress that will some day, it is predicted, make her famous. She is a pretty and very vivacious woman with notably charming manners.

An underground town, built probably before the Christian era, has been discovered in Turkestan, within the borders of Bokhara. The houses in this unidentified city are commodious, and the relics found show that the people who occupied it had reached an advanced stage of civilization.

Testing a Boy's Bent.

A man wanted to find out what calling his little son was most suited for, and locked him up in a room with a Bible, an apple and a dollar note. If he came back and found him reading the Bible he would make a parson of him; if the lad was eating the apple he should be a farmer, and if he were playing with the note he would train him for a banker. On entering the room he found the boy sitting on the Bible, eating the apple and with the dollar note in his pocket. He then and there decided that his son should be a lawyer.—Arbeiterfreund.

One Woman's Failure.

Dr. Helen Druskovitch, the first woman in Austria to follow a course of philosophical study at the University, has fallen a victim to insanity from overwork, and has been removed to an asylum. She is a woman but 34 now, but she has taken her degree at Zurich and written many books of note. What a delicious tidbit for the opposers of woman's higher education! How they will smack their lips over it and forget how large a proportion of insane patients are farmers' wives who never have time to open a book, except perhaps the Bible on Sunday.

He Knows It All.

Just venture to hint at a new idea—
He knows it all.
There is nothing new for him to hear—
He knows it all.
Philosophy, ethics, religious truth,
Theosophy, nationalism—forsooth,
He's forgotten more than these since youth—
He knows it all.

In business circles his wisdom shines—
He knows it all.
At home he draws the equation lines—
He knows it all.
The daily wisdom that Hannah lacks,
The penny measure of household tacks,
The why and wherefore of jumping-jacks—
He knows it all.

The comfort that afternoon tea insures—
He knows it all.
The ache and ill that his wife endures—
He knows it all.
"I've felt just so," he says with a grin,
"Take equal parts of quinine and gin."
No need of a doctor when he is in—
He knows it all.

The whole round world is his proper sphere—
He knows it all.
From railway systems to woman's gear—
He knows it all.
And none of his household members can
Sit down on this tedious, tiresome man,
From Maine to Georgia, Sheba to Dan—
He knows it all.

—Mrs. M. L. Rayne in Detroit Free Press.

A Big Magnifier.

There is being constructed by the Optical Institute of Munich, Germany, a microscope that will have a maximum of 16,000 diameters, with an illumination secured by an electric lamp of 12,000-candle power. The concentrating of this light will cause so much heat that it will seriously cloud the image obtained. To obviate this defect the apparatus will be cooled by a current of carbonic acid gas from a cylinder containing it in a liquid state, the expansion and contraction of the metal of the microscope automatically opening and shutting the valve from the cylinder.

Vegetable Flannel.

Germany contains a number of establishments engaged in the manufacture of flannel and similar textiles from pine leaves, the articles made being used in hospitals, barracks, etc., owing to the fact that no vermin can lodge in them. When spun and woven this material resembles hemp, and it may be employed in making many articles of wearing apparel, as the goods are comfortably warm and solid.

SUN LIFE

ASSURANCE COMPANY OF CANADA.

The attention of our Policy-Holders is directed to the following summary of the leading items of the present report, which speaks for itself as to the progress and prosperity of the Company:—

Life Assurances in force, 1st January, 1891	$16.759.355.92
Increase over previous year	3 421,372.84
New Applications received in 1890	6.371 599 15

Surplus over all Liabilities and Capital Stock	232.175.69
Increase over 1889	75,649.05
Death claims fallen in during 1890	143,961.63

The progress made by the SUN LIFE during 1890 was remarkable. The new business was the largest in the Company's history, and was equalled by but one other Canadian Life Company. The income for the year exceeds $2,000 for each day in the year, Sundays included. The Assets are large and rapidly increasing. They are, moreover, of the highest character, yielding an average interest of 6.04 per cent. The overdue interest is small, and the Real Estate owned under foreclosure is only four per cent. of the amount of mortgages. This is a remarkable showing. The SURPLUS accumulated during the FOUR years of the current quinquennium is nearly THREE TIMES as much as the amount earned during any previous FIVE years, and the profits to Policy-holders cannot fail thus to be highly satisfactory. The following are the figures:—

Net Surplus, 31st Dec., 1881, (five years)	$64 824 07

"August Flower"

Biliousness, Constipation, Stomach Pains.

"I have been afflicted with biliousness "and constipation "for fifteen years; "first one and then "another preparation was suggested "to me and tried but "to no purpose. At last a friend "recommended August Flower. I "took it according to directions and "its effects were wonderful, relieving me of those disagreeable "stomach pains which I had been "troubled with so long. Words "cannot describe the admiration "in which I hold your August "Flower—it has given me a new "lease of life, which before was a "burden. Such a medicine is a benefaction to humanity, and its good "qualities and "wonderful merits should be "made known to "everyone suffering with dyspepsia or biliousness

A BOXFUL OF BOOKS.

It is surprising to see what a boxful of books fifty dollars will buy. My Cousin Luke and I have just finished making a bookcase of redwood to hold our order. It is four feet wide, and there are five shelves—all full. The books look rich and beautiful in it; we could not have spent the fifty dollars for anything which would have made so fine an appearance. What is more, they will give us interesting and instructive reading for our leisure time during two or three years to come.

Would you like to know how we came by the fifty dollars? It is quite a story. We are a family of lumbermen. We live in the redwood country, in Northwestern California, two or three hundred miles up the coast from San Francisco, from which vast quantities of redwood lumber are shipped to all parts of the world. Many lumbermen from the East and from Michigan and Wisconsin have come here during the last ten or fifteen years, and several of them do a large business, manufacturing and shipping the redwood, a timber not unlike pine, growing very large and clear in these coast countries.

My father, my older brothers and I came here from Wisconsin seven years ago. The men of our family had been lumbermen in the Badger State, and my grandfather before them was a lumberman in Maine, sixty years ago. Lumbering is, so to speak, our hereditary occupation. We have a steam-mill on Modoc Creek, and a shipping-stage near where this small stream empties into the Pacific.

Many of the redwoods are very large trees larger than any timber which is handled in Wisconsin or the east. A redwood less than four feet thick at the stump is called a small tree on our land. We get out trees every week which are six, eight and sometimes ten feet in diameter. Some of them are nearly two hundred feet in height, with a hundred feet of clear stuff. Our largest circular saws are seventy-two inches across, consequently the large redwood logs have to be halved and sometimes quartered before we take them upon the saw-carriages. The riving is commonly done with wedges, although explosives are now and then used.

A day's tiresome labor of an experienced chopper is required to fell the redwood eight feet in diameter at the stump. A green hand would be unable to get one down in a day, and would be likely to make a balk of it. Great care must be used in felling the trees, because the enormous weight of the trees break the trunks to pieces if they strike across logs, stones or inequalities of the ground.

After they are down, the trunks are sawn up into logs twelve, sixteen and twenty-four feet long, and then, if large, rived for milling. Afterward the logs are either rolled into the creek and floated down to the mill, or drawn there by teams.

My older brother John, who is foreman of the choppers and sawyers, generally lays out the course for felling the trees, and marks it with stakes set in the ground after the underbrush has been cleared off. It is my business to keep the books of the firm at the shipping-stage, where the vessels load with lumber, and also to keep the time of the workmen and pay them off. We have now about forty workmen at the mill, at the stage and in the woods; and this year I have a cousin from Wisconsin, Luke Marston, about my own age, who is out here to learn the business.

One day last spring a chopper named Van Vranken made a balk with his "under cut" while felling, and lodged one redwood against another—hung it up hard and fast. It was hinted that "Van" had taken too much beer that day. He and two others, named Helling and Stosser, had secretly received what was said to be a keg of lager the night before, and it unquestionably was pretty strong lager. If the men get intoxicants, they are obliged to do so very quietly, for my brother John is a strong temperance man, and discharges every employee whom he finds intoxicated.

"Van" was not drunk, but a little exhilarated, we thought. At any rate, he was careless with his tree, and made an odd-looking scarf. Instead of "driving the stake" which John had set for him, his tree swung half around and hung up in the top of another redwood, standing fifty or sixty feet to the right.

The tree which Van Vranken had tried to fell was about seven feet in diameter, and perhaps a hundred and ninety feet tall, and the tree which it lodged on was almost as large.

[illegible] John had looked at the trees, he ordered the second redwood to be cut so that both might fall together. He marked the [illegible] so probably made a sl[illegible] distance, allowing quite enough for the great weight and pressure of the first [illegible] the other. That afternoon, when the second tree was cut, it fell off half across the under [illegible] and lodged in turn upon another large redwood.

The direction in which all three trees now headed would, when they fell, land their trunks across a gully and break them to pieces. To avoid this, three more trees, standing farther to the right, were chopped next day, and purposely lodged against the large tree on which the first two were hung up in such a way as to brace it toward the left, in order that, when cut, they might all fall on level ground, as was first intended. Seven men worked an entire day cutting the last three trees.

The plan might have succeeded, but when the last of the three trees fell against the jam, it caught insecurely, slid twenty or thirty feet, broke several limbs, and finally hung by a single limb. It seemed certain that the least jar would cause it to drop.

There were now six trees in the jam. Five had been cut off at the ground and had fallen against the sixth, their shaggy tops crowded densely together. Not one of the six was less than six feet in diameter, and the great one, on which they all hung, was almost ten feet thick.

But, large as this last was, the great weight of the others sprung it fifteen or twenty feet out of perpendicular. If it were cut enough to break, it would be sure to fall suddenly and with a tremendous crash, and all the others would drop with it helter-skelter.

Still, there would have been no very great or unusual danger, for, as the trees were all to fall in one direction, the choppers would have a chance to run back—had it not been for the tree which hung by one limb. At the first crack or start, or even jar, perhaps, it would be certain to break loose and slide down, crosswise, on the trunks of the first two trees right over the line of retreat.

The entire gang of choppers viewed it, and declared that it was too dangerous to meddle with. Indeed, it was an uncomfortable situation, and had about it a certain aspect of imminent danger which I cannot make very plain in words. The great size, height and ponderous weight of the trees gave to the jam a terrific appearance. The men named it "the lager glut."

John was angry and displeased. Twelve day's work had already been done on it, and now, to crown all, it was in the way of further operations. He did not like to order men to go in and cut the big tree. It would have looked like sending them to their death. But that evening he made an offer of fifty dollars to any one who would break the glut without accident to life.

PEKIN THREATENED BY THE HORDES OF THE NORTH.

Missionaries Flee for Their Lives—The Minister of War Likely to Lose His Head—The Emperor Knows of No Rebels Except His Wives.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 2.—Further advices regarding the defeat of the Imperial troops by the Mongolian rebels state that many of the former deserted to the rebels and the force, composed of the flower of the Chinese Army, showed no spirit whatever in the fight. It is said that the young Emperor has been kept ignorant of the dangerous condition of affairs and is entirely taken up with his recent marital arrangements. The War Minister, Olc-hopu, is threatened with disgrace for not having detected the disaffection among the troops and may lose his head.

In Sympathy With Crime.

PEKIN, Dec. 2.—The Government is fully aware of the serious condition which confronts it, and every possible step is being taken to break the strength of the rebels before they get within striking distance of the capital. Should the rebel forces continue to advance toward the capital in spite of the efforts of the Imperial troops it is feared by the foreigners that the whole country will rise and aid the invaders.

The most serious condition of affairs exists at Takou. This is the place where the most brutal outrages were committed upon the Christian priests, nuns and native converts. It is now said that the local mandarins agreed to allow the rebels free license for the outrage of Christians provided they did no harm to the other inhabitants. These terms were accepted by the rebels, and they pursued their work without let or hindrance Three hundred Europeans and native Christians were massacred. It is believed that not a single Christian in the district escaped.

The Great Wall of China.

The revolutionary movement in the north originated in Manchuria, on the northeast of China proper, and in Mongolia, which lies to the east of Manchuria. These countries are separated from the empire by the Great Wall. This gigantic work was built to prevent just such invasions from the north, and the imperial authorities have taken measures to bring the rebels to a halt there. Several thousand troops have been sent to the chief points of the Great Wall where it is probable the insurgents will attempt to force a passage. A desperate resistance, will be made at these places.

Consternation prevails among the Protestant missionaries in the districts through which is is expected the rebels will pass. The local officials at Tsunha have declared that they are powerless to protect the missionaries, and that is they desired to save their lives they had better seek safety in flight. The missionaries have taken this advice.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—Advices from Hong Kong, China, state that General Lew Yee, the famous Black Flag general of Tonquin-France celebrity, and who was some time ago promoted to be generalissimo of the great armies of the north by the Pekin Government, is at the head of the revolution. The revolutionists number 4,000,000 able-bodied men. It is said that no part of the Imperial army at present upon the field is capable of meeting this emergency.

France in view of the situation in China has, it is said, urged the powers to take immediate united action.

A MAD EMPEROR.

William of Germany Believed to Be Insane.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—A Paris correspondent sends a startling article to The Herald, in which he says that it is suspected that Emperor William of Germany is insane. This opinion is gaining strength among the diplomats of Europe, and is caused by the many eccentricities of the Kaiser. His mind seems unbalanced in regard to theatricals just now. He raves over the simplest and most worthless plays. His peculiar manner of dressing is another indication of his madness. Sometimes he wears a dozen different costumes in a day. His intelligent subjects are becoming alarmed at his condition.

FAMINE IN RUSSIA.

Fearful Extent of the Ravages--The Czar Worried About the Situation

PARIS, Dec. 2.—A diplomatic communication from Russia brings terrible news.

Over thirty millions of human beings are literally dying of hunger. In some of the Russian provinces bordering on the Volga the people are keeping themselves alive by eating the bark of trees.

This awful state of things is aggravated by the blundering methods or the want of method of the Russian administration.

In the province of Jaroslaw money was given to the peasants for drink. Next morning 15,000 men and women were found dead on the highways!

In certain cases when people have refused alms to beggars they have been massacred in the streets.

As the winter wears on the situation will grow more and more appalling. Insurrections are dreaded in March and April, by which time the sufferings of the peasants will have reached a climax.

The Czar is much concerned by the state of affairs which he saw during his journey to Livadia and greatly incensed with his ministers, whom he accuses of having concealed the truth from him.

A TRAIN HELD UP.

$15,000 Stolen From An Express Train Near St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 2.—As train No. 3 on the St. Louis and San Francisco Railroad was passing Old Orchard last night three men climbed over the water tank and coal and covered the fireman and engineer with revolvers. When the train had been brought to a standstill near Glendale the engineer and fireman were ordered down from the cab, and after two of the band had been selected to keep guard over them other four started back for the express car, in which was the safe of the Adams Express Company, containing $15,000. Messenger Mulleron, who was in charge of the car, suspecting something was wrong, hurriedly closed and secured the door just as the men reached it. The men placed a charge of dynamite under the door and blew it open. As soon as the door was blown open two men leaped into the opening. The messenger was beaten into a condition of unconsciousness with the butts of their revolvers. The safe was then opened and rifled and the desperadoes took to the woods. The men were all masked.

THE EAGLE BETRAYED HIM.

A Farm Hand Confesses Knowledge of the Murder of Mrs. Gregory

MIDDLETOWN, N.Y., Dec. 2.—The mystery of the murder of Mrs. Amelia G. Gregory, which had baffled the detectives, is clearing up. She was killed in the afternoon of Oct. 14 at her home near here, and her house was plundered.

Warren Brazington had a $20 gold piece changed a few days ago at a hotel bar. This aroused suspicion. Brazington had worked for the Gregorys as a farm hand, was not likely to come honestly by such a coin and there was a piece like it in the stolen money.

Officers followed Brazington to Wolf Pond, accused him of passing counterfeit money and brought him here. When Brazington was confronted by Assistant District Attorney Powelson and questioned he eventually confessed that he knew who committed the murder and robbery and that he had shared in the plunder.

He said he and Fred McGuire had talked over robbing the Gregory House, and knowing that money was kept there he had gone one night for that purpose, but on seeing Mr. and Mrs. Gregory through a window reading his courage failed him.

He was working in a field with Mr. Gregory on the day of the murder, and when word of the tragedy came from the house he suspected McGuire.

He visited McGuire's house that night. McGuire said he had committed the crime and gave him $26 to keep his mouth shut.

The police are looking for McGuire in Pennsylvania.

GEN. BUTLER SERIOUSLY ILL.

Close Friends Doubt If He Will Ever His House Again.

BOSTON, Dec. 2.—Gen. Butler is seriously ill at his home in Lowell. Every effort has been made by his family and his physician to keep the knowledge of his condition from the newspapers, and, indeed so far as possible, from the General himself. But it can safely be said that the gravest doubts of his recovery are entertained by those who are in a position to know most about his condition, and some of them assert that he will never again be able to leave his home.

Gen. Butler was seventy-three years old the 5th of this month. He has aged rapidly of late, and those who have seen him in court during the last few months could hardly fail to remark the change. There was the same witty remark and sarcastic rejoinder which every one had come to expect from Gen. Butler, but there was more feebleness of step and a greater trembling of hand and voice than formerly. Little by little he has been withdrawing from practice. He was "setting his house in order," he said.

When the case against Mrs. Johnson, who was convicted of perjury in a pension case, had been fought through and the woman finally discharged, Gen. Butler declared that he would never take another criminal case. He was to have appeared in the Sawyer will case to-day, but was unable to be present and the case again went over.

The General took a severe cold a few weeks ago. He has been under the constant care of his physician ever since and is unable to leave his room. He sits in his dressing-gown and slippers before an open grate and listens to the reading of the newspapers for a little while and then lies down and tries to sleep. But he gets no better from day to day.

Fire at Mount Elgin.

MOUNT ELGIN, Ont., Dec. 2.—Fire broke out here at midnight in the store owned by G. M. Harris, occupied by J. P. Graves, and from this building it spread to the hotel owned by J. F. Wood, Hamilton, and occupied by Augustus Cornfoot as a dwelling-house; thence to the public hall and stable attached and to a stable owned by E. C. Corbitt.

Caron's Denial.

OTTAWA, Dec. 2.—Sir Adolphe Caron denies the report published in Quebec on Saturday that he had been appointed Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec. He states that he is not going to be lieutenant-governor at any rate.

TORONTO TOPICS.

TORONTO, Dec. 2.—The Common Pleas Divisional Court will on Saturday listen to a motion made by Mr. B. B. Osler Q.C., for an order that Judge Rose, now trying the conspiracy case, admit the evidence taken before the Tarte Committee in the McGreevy-Connolly case. His Honor Judge Rose refused to admit the evidence as privileged, and counsel for the prosecution wants the point decided by the court.

Mr. Justice Street yesterday made an order appointing Judge McDonald of Brockville as third arbitrator to value certain lands expropriated by the Central Counties Railway Company in Leeds County.

Dr. Grasett was seen last evening and said that the Lieutenant-Governor had passed a quiet day. He also stated that there was little change in the condition of the patient. Mr. Mowat called on Sir Alexander yesterday afternoon and spent some 15 minutes with him.

Mr. John T. Stokes, the engineer of the County of York, who was at his post a week ago, died on Monday night from heart failure. He was 67 years of age, and had been county engineer since 1874. He was a native of Portsmouth, Eng., and had been in Canada 42 years. He leaves a widow and seven married daughters. Until four years ago he resided at Sharon, near Newmarket, but removed to the city, and since has lived at 13 Moss Park place. Around the county buildings the deceased was universally liked and his death is sincerely mourned. Mr. Stokes' last act in his official capacity was to take the Commissioners of County Property out to the Lake Shore-road on Wednesday afternoon, and also to inspect a county road which the Belt Line has built its line across.

Mr. John Mitchell died Monday night at his residence at the corner of George and Duke-streets. The deceased was widely known in the city. He was a native of Ireland and started the Duke-street business in 1865. Previous to that he was in the same occupation in King-street west, and at one time kept a hotel at Scott and Front-streets. He was 68 years of age and leaves two sons and three daughters.

Mrs. T. A. Lister died Monday afternoon at her residence, 247 George-street, after a long illness. She was a daughter of Mrs. Bradley, the well-known soprano and leader of the choir of Berkeley-street Methodist church. Mrs. Lister inherited the musical characteristics of her mother, and was also a singer of some note.

Last night the police had in charge a very Samson in the person of William Hillock of Linton P.O. He is a former, 23 years of age and was arrested by the county constables at the court house yesterday afternoon for being disorderly. He went peacefully to the station, peacefully let the handcuffs be placed on his writs and quietly consented to be chained to a bar in the cell. He didn't like his position very long, however. He grew tired of being kept in one position and soon proceeded to ease himself of his shackles. First he snapped the chain of the handcuffs as if it were twine. Then he wrenched a bar about three-quarters of an inch in diameter from its socket, pressed the other bars apart and came upstairs into the office of headquarters to have a chat with the officers in charge. To further exhibit his strength he broke another bar of iron an inch wide and over one-eighth of an inch in thickness. Hillard was taken downstairs again and locked in the large cell. When taken there he informed his watchers that he was quite comfortable in his quarters, but if he were so inclined during the night he would be up to see them.

The creditors of S. Wigle & Son, the insolvent general storekeepers of Leamington met in the office of Henry Barber & Co yesterday afternoon. Statement presented showed direct liabilities of $106,000 and preferred of $15,000. Assets $47,000.

The insolvents offered 20c. on the dollar, payable in 3, 6, 9 and 12 months, secured, with interest. This was refused, but a resolution was adopted agreeing to sell such of the assets as would net 20c on the dollar.

Messrs. W. R. Brock of Toronto, McNabb of Lamion and Fuller of Leamington were appointed inspectors.

HAD HE A PRESENTIMENT?

One of the Toledo Victims Had Insured His Life for the First Time.

AUBURN, N.Y., Dec. 2.—Supt. Wells of the Auburn Electric Railway announced at his boarding-house yesterday that his cousin, Hallowell Vaughan, a wealthy ranch-owner of San Fernando, Cal., would arrive during the day for his first visit in six years.

Before starting on his long journey the cousin, for the first time in his life, took out a life insurance and accident policy for $3000 and mailed it to his Auburn relative for safe-keeping.

This arrived safely, but the expected visitor only reached Toledo, where he was killed in the railway accident of Saturday night.

His father had come on here to meet him, but left for Toledo to-day, and will take the body to Cambrdige.

Eczema on a Lady.

Stubborn Case of Skin Disease Covered Her Face and Body—Many Doctors Baffled.

Marvellous and Complete Cure by Cuticura—Six Years have Elapsed and No Return.

A lady customer of ours (Miss Fanny Atwood of Caroline Depot, N. Y.) has been cured of a stubborn case of skin disease by the use of CUTICURA REMEDIES. She remarked that her case had baffled the skill of many well-known physicians. They unanimously pronounced it Eczema, with Rheumatism lurking in the blood. Some predicted that any treatment strong enough to cure the Eczema would surely increase the Rheumatism. She used two sets of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. The effect was marvellous. Her case of Eczema was not only completely cured, but her Rheumatism was greatly relieved during the treatment. Six years have elapsed since the cure was performed, her Rheumatism has since never increased by the treatment, but rather diminished, and she sees no symptoms of the return of the Eczema which once so completely took possession of her face and body. Miss Atwood delights in telling of the good effect that the CUTICURA treatment had upon her, and recommends unsolicited the CUTICURA REMEDIES for Eczema and all kindred ailments. Your preparations find ready sale; indeed, CUTICURA SOAP is on the list to buy almost continuously.

—THE—

GOLDEN LION.

You will find this a great store. The more you get acquainted with its ways, the more you will like it. You will always find great bargains here that will please you, as it does our regular customers. There are always bargains in every department.

Take for instance Jackets in their season. In a lot of 50 Cloaks of one kind, probably one or two will hang fire. Variety gone, price was, say $20 but the two go for $8 or $10 each. That's done every week. Last week we sold a Beautiful Embroidered imported Dolman that sold at $22 for $10.

For another example take Dress Goods. Some lines of our 50c. goods go for 35c. and 25c. and so on.

People that understand shopping ask for these goods and get them.

Did you know that shopping requires experience. We always keep a fresh stock by selling out the tail end clean, even if at a sacrifice. Nothing is carried over.

This week and for the coming month you will find exceptional bargains in Mantle Cloths.

Exceptionally large bargains in Men's and Boys' Overcoats.

If one price or style fails to suit, you ask for another. Don't be afraid of asking for what you want. Keep on until you get it. It's here. There are few stocks that excel ours outside of the large cities.

FATALITIES OF A DAY.

FIRE PLAYS HAVOC IN MANY UNITED STATES CITIES.

Accident [on] the New York & Harlem Railway—Terrible Results of a Dynamite Explosion—Five Members of a Family Cremated At Detroit.

NYACK, N.Y, Dec. 3—A dynamite factory at Haverstraw was blown up yesterday. The shock was felt for many miles. Four men employed in the building were blown to pieces and another man who was some distance from the wrecked buildings was also killed.

The Dead.

M. WADSWORTH engineer of the works.
PETER CARTOSSA, an Italian.
JOSEPH WILLIAMS, workman.
JOSEPH E. ADDIM, workman.
PERRY LOUNSBERRY of Sing Sing.

Lounsberry was in a boat near the shore when the explosion occurred and he was instantly killed. A man who was in the boat with him escaped injury.

The explosion was terrific and the shock was felt 20 miles away. The glass was broken in buildings in Congers City, Rockland Lake and other near-by places.

At Coroner MacGowan's barn in Haverstraw to-night lay the body of the dead fisherman and a horse blanket full of parts of human bodies, including the one arm of Wadsworth, two legs, parts of a back and a lot of entrails and numerous bones with burnt flesh. The remains presented a terrible sight, all being black with powder marks and the flesh burned off. Parts of the bodies are supposed to have belonged to Wadsworth and the two Italians. Portions of the bodies were recovered from a cluster of trees on the beach.

The explosion sent parts of the buildings in the air to a height of 300 feet.

THEY CAME TOGETHER.

Disastrous Collision in the Streets of New York City.

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—At 6.25 o'clock yesterday while a Harlem railroad train was going north and when at 149th-street it jumped the switch. The rear car turned over on the track of the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad.

The Killed.

WILLIAM FLEMING, 21 years old, a car cleaner.

UNKNOWN MAN, 26 years old.

The men were employes of the road and were walking on the track. Twenty-two passengers were on the derailed car at the time of the accident, but all escaped injury, notwithstanding that the car toppled over and threw the occupants in all directions.

A DETROIT HOLOCAUST.

Father, Mother and Three Sons Perish in a Detroit Fire.

DETROIT, Dec. 3.—The brick store and residence of George J. Reis, Orleans-Catharine-street, was destroyed by fire yesterday and five members of the family perished: George J. Reis, aged 50; Mrs. Reis, his wife, aged 45; Charles Reis, son, aged 20; Josie Reis, son, aged 12; Eddie Reis, son, aged 8. Eight persons occupied the apartments above the store, but three of them, the servant girl and two sons, Moxie and Tony, escaped. The bodies of Reis and his wife were found by the firemen lying in a heap at the foot of the stairway, burned to a crisp. On the upper floor were found the body of Charles Reis, aged 20, stretched on the floor near a side window, and in one of the front rooms bodies of the two boys, recognized as Eddie Reis, aged 8, and Josie, aged 12. All three had been suffocated by the smoke.

FATAL TURPENTINE.

Death Followed the Injudicious Use of a Household Remedy.

HAMILTON, Dec. 3.—Lizzie Hastie, aged 23, employed in Pratt & Watkins' drygoods store, had been troubled with an intestinal difficulty, which she thought was produced by a tapeworm. On Friday she decided to take a dose of turpentine and took about two drams, a very large dose. She became worse rapidly and on Sunday she died. Doctors performed a post mortem and discovered that the girl's death resulted from an overdose of turpentine. They also found that the stomach trouble had been occasioned by an ovarian tumor on the left side, but this had not caused death.

West Indies and the U.S.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Sir Julian Pauncefote and the representatives of the British West Indian Colonies had a conference yesterday with Mr. Foster relative to the negotiation of a reciprocity agreement under the terms of the Tariff Act.

As the colonists appear to be willing to make such reductions in duties paid by the United States products as will not discriminate against the Mother Country, there is reason to believe that success will crown their efforts to secure a reciprocity agreement with the United States.

LORD RUSSELL MOBBED

THE DEFENDANT IN THE DIVORCE CASE HOOTED.

Police Protect Him From Personal Violence—The Pekin Version of the Chinese Rising—Parnellites and McCarthyites Indulge in Another Disgraceful Scrimmage.

LONDON, Dec. 2.—The suit of Countess Russell against her husband, Earl Russell, for a judicial separation was enhanced by the publication of the proceedings of yesterday.

Upon the opening of the court the Countess resumed her place in the witness box and Sir Charles Russell took up his cross-examination. Sir Charles put many questions to the witness regarding the relations between the Earl and Roberts and tried in every way to lead her to contradict herself. The witness, however, persisted in her statements made yesterday regarding Roberts. She also repeated the statement made yesterday concerning the information furnished by the Dowager Countess Russell, Lady Agatha Russell and Rollo E. Russell. The Countess to-day testified that these persons did not say anything about Roberts, but they told her things about the Earl's past life that made her think him capable of the offence suggested.

Dear Frank and Dear Mabel.

The Countess admitted she had received a letter from the Earl's solicitor advising her to borrow £1500 from an insurance company for the purpose of settling her debts

When asked whether the state of her health had anything to do with her separation from her husband the Countess replied that her doctor told her she was suffering much from worry, and she would be better if separated from the Earl for some little time. It was then agreed that she and the Earl should part for at least three months, and then she would see how her husband would treat her. During this period she went to stay with relatives of the Earl at Pembroke Lodge.

Sir Charles Russell here read letters exchanged by the Earl and Countess during the time the latter was at Pembroke Lodge. A number of letters of the Countess to the Earl commenced "Dear Frank," and those of the Earl to the Countess began "Dear Mabel." Countess Russell testified that her husband had been repaid all the money he had advanced to pay her debts. During her married life she had been constantly reminded of her debts by the Earl.

Weak and Nervous.

The next witness called on behalf of the petitioner was Dr. Goodson, the family physician of Lady Scott. Dr. Goodson testified he attended the Scott family. The Countess before her marriage periodically suffered severe pains. She was very weak, and her nervous system was completely upset.

Sir Charles Russell then took Dr. Goodson in hand and opened his cross-examination. In reply to a question concerning the nature of the Countess' illness, Dr. Goodson said she suffered from spasmodic demoreina, often accompanied by hysteria. The Countess was, however, a strong-minded woman and the trouble was not likely to cause hysteria in her case.

Eliza Vale, the maid who found the Countess in a faint on the floor in her room, was then called, she testified that on this occasion she heard the Countess pleading with the Earl. Afterwards witness found her mistress lying naked on the floor.

The evidence for the Countess here closed.

The Earl's Defence.

Sir Charles Russell presented the case for Earl Russell. He said he would limit himself to the broad issue of the case. So far as the separation of the Countess and Earl Russell was concerned all he would say was that a lady was at liberty to leave her husband when she liked.

The sole object of the present suit was to force the payment of alimony by the Earl.

Sir Charles, in referring to the Roberts incident, declared the Countess, through veiled and obscure inuendo simply desired to wound her husband. She was afraid to strike openly. Why had the other side not made that serious allegation honestly, straightforward and directly, unless the suggestion in connection with Roberts was meant to be treated as a grave charge to be gravely considered and dealt with? A greater act of cruelty could not have been performed than in bringing it forward.

Sir Charles then rebutted the charges of cruelty. He asked the jury not to be carried away by a clever and engaging woman telling them a story that was untrue in all its essential details, a woman so perverted as to put forward the Roberts incident in order to support a hopeless case by odious imputations. These imputations were made not only against the Earl but against another man, whose name and reputation might have been blasted by them if he had not stood high in the opinion of his colleagues.

The court adjourned.

A mob surrounded the law courts at the close of the day's proceedings, and as the Earl left he was hooted at and attempts were made to strike him. The police endeavored to protect him, but the crowd overpowered them and the Earl was obliged to seek refuge in the temple. Being still followed, however, he jumped into a cab and succeeded in getting away amid the jeers and hisses of the mob.

EAST ELGIN.

Commencement of the Trial of the Petition Against A. Ingram, M P.

ST THOMAS, Dec. 3. The East Elgin Dominion election trial commenced at the court house yesterday before Justices Burton and McLennan. W. Cassels, Q.C., of Toronto, and J. F. Lister, M.P., Q.C., of Sarnia, appeared for the petitioner, G. T. Blackstock, Q.C., of Toronto, for the respondent, Mr. A. B. Ingram, M P.

Mr. Blackstock stated that Mr. Ingram was confined to his house by peritontis, but his physicians thought he would be able to attend in case any particular questions were to be asked of him.

Formal notice of the withdrawal of the cross-petition by W. E. Nicols against Dr. Wilson, the defeated candidate, was given.

The most of the day was taken up with the examination of Mr. J. P. Finlay, the financial agent for Mr. Ingram. His statement showed the expenses to have been $392.45.

Cross-examined by Mr. Blackstock witness said: I understand Mr. Ingram is a workingman, a baggageman on the railway, so that it was necessary for him to have some assistance.

W. J. Shaw was also examined but nothing important elicited

MR. GOSCHEN EXPLAINS.

HIS PLAN TO AVERT FUTURE FINANCIAL PANICS.

The Complications Arising From the Failure to Be Known No More Forever—Many Millions of £1 Bank Notes to be Issued.

LONDON, Dec. 3.—Right Hon. George J. Goschen, Chancellor of the Exchequer, to-day addressed a meeting of the leading bankers and merchants on the financial question. He entered into a detailed statement of his proposed scheme for increasing the stock of gold in the Bank of England by the issue of £1 notes to the amount of £38,000,000 on the same conditions as notes are now issued. After that point they will be issued at the rate of four-fifth against gold and one-fifth against securities.

If by these means the stock of gold is largely increased Mr. Goschen said he would relax the Bank Charter Act so as to allow the bank in times of internal crises to issue notes against securities, on condition of its payment of a high rate of interest to the Government on such issues. The scheme would be an enabling and not a compulsory one. It would depend for its success upon the popularity of the £1 notes with bankers and the public.

The scheme for issuing 10 shilling silver notes had been dropped, but on the condition that if foreign governments opened their mints to the free coinage of silver the Bank of England would be invited to act upon provisions of the Bank Charter Act allowing it to hold one-fifth of its bullion in silver.

The Pekin Version.

PEKIN, Dec. 3.—The advices received by the Government as to the strength of the insurgents in the field place the total number of men at only 1500. There are now 6000 Imperial troops guarding the places along The Great Wall where it is expected the rebels will attempt to force a passage.

The advices received by the Government further state that the movement instead of being a concerted rising to depose the Emperor is nothing more than an attempt to wreak private vengeance. According to these advices the wife of the leader of an armed band of marauders was seized and forcibly abducted from her husband. The latter swore vengeance against those who had taken his wife, and calling his followers together started in pursuit of her. The leader determined to make the innocent suffer with the guilty, and so as he swept through the country he instructed the men who followed his banner to make reprisals for the loss of his wife upon the inhabitants.

Confirmatory Telegrams.

LONDON, Dec. 3.—The Chronicle's correspondent at Tien Tsin telegraphs: Li Hung has informed me through the British consul that he has no doubt that the rising in Mongolia is a marauding expedition prompted only by greed of plunder and that there is no reason to regard it as a revolution

All is quiet here and in Pekin.

The American gun boat Palos arrived here to-day. The port is about to close for the winter.

Another Irish Row.

DUBLIN, Dec. 3.—A disgraceful scene occurred yesterday at the railway station in Limerick, growing out of the antipathy entertained by the two factions of the Irish party for each other. The McCarthyites had been holding a convention at Limerick, and among the prominent speakers present were William O'Brien and John Dillon. After the business had been concluded a large number of those present escorted Dillon and O'Brien to the station. A large crowd of Parnellites had gathered at the station with the evident intention of insulting the two McCarthyite leaders. When Dillon and O'Brien arrived at the station they were greeted with hoots and yells, and many approbrious epithets were hurled at them.

The McCarthyites who had accompanied Dillon and O'Brien carried heavy walking sticks, and before the Parnellites realized their intentions they swooped down in a body upon the insulters of their leaders.

For a time the scrimmage was a mighty lively one. Many of the Parnellites were hurt and had to be removed to the hospital.

Lord Hartington's Plans for the Winter.

LONDON, Dec. 3.—Lord Hartington proposes to go to Egypt for a couple of months as soon as he has entertained his annual shooting parties in Derbyshire.

Lord Rosebery, who has been residing in Mentmore for several months, will probably go to Egypt shortly after Christmas to join his mother, the Duchess of Cleveland, who is now staying in Cairo with her eldest daughter, Lady Mary Hope, and her son-in-law, Mr. Hope of Laffness.

Can Draw a Train 100 Miles an Hour.

LONDON, Dec. 3.—A locomotive has just been built at the Crewe works of the London and Northwestern Railway which is capable of drawing a train at the rate of 100 miles an hour. The speed attained by this engine in trial runs between Crewe and Chester was ninety miles an hour; but this was shown to be considerably below its full powers.

Gold For Life.

LONDON, Dec. 3.—The admiralty officials investigating the recent fatal gun practice of the warship Plucky, whereby two fishing boats were sunk and one fisherman killed, have awarded owners of the two boats £400, besides granting compensation to the widow of the fisherman killed.

A Blow at the Vatican.

PARIS, Dec. 3.—In the Chamber of Deputies yesterday M. Hubbard gave notice of his intention to question Minister Fallieres in regard to the attitude of the Catholic bishops and to demand that the Government notify the Vatican of the termination of the concordat at the end of the year.

Escaped One Death to Meet Another.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 3.—The steam barge James S. Pease, which came into port from Lake Superior Tuesday, caught fire yesterday and was nearly destroyed. The first engineer, Philip Stedman, whose home is in Delaware-place, Buffalo, was seen to emerge from the burning cabin, his clothing on fire, and jumped into the river. He sank before aid could reach him. A member of the crew also perished.

The Pease, valued at $20,000, is owned by Capt. C. E. Benham of this city.

At a late hour yesterday the body of the captain was recovered. The fireman was found under the floor of the engine room dead. His name is George Wilson. He shipped at Buffalo.

Lines for the St. Andrew's Society

Or as Some Scots Designate it, the Sinking Ship.

Some small souled Scots if Scots they be, raise a derisive head,
Saying your Society's doomed to death, if not already dead.
They urged on Scots to slack the cords their banner half mast dip,
Just say good bye to all thing Scotch and leave the sinking ship.
That ship was built by sterling Scots five and thirty years ago?
Now ask them to desert its deck, they tell you sternly no!
The trusty band that manned that ship when first it kissed the waves,
But three remain, the others sleep unconscious in their graves.
The keel was formed from Scottish oak the bows Scotch saplings too,
The bulworks joined close and strong, the planks Scotch hearts so true.
Upon its prow St Andrew's name in colours clear and fast,
With love and help to brither Scots conspicious on the mast.
When I embarked it stood full-rigged with true Scotch coulers bright,
I placed my foot first on that deck thirty-two years to-night;
I stood back in the stern that I might an observer be,
How officers and crew behaved in a calm or boisterious sea.
We officers elect each year their worth to ascertain,
If their acts prove them cautious Scots they take command again;
Their ship displays no cannons grim, no deadly port hole glares,
Assistance to a needy Scot its wide-spread banner bears.
The captain's duty is to sail close to the dangerous coast,
Near rock-dashed waves and breakers wild that Scots may not be lost;
If he espies a sinking Scot, caught in misfortune's wave,
Launch out the life-boat with the cash, relieve his wants—him save.
On officers, and captain too, a binding duty lies,
Needless expenditure curtail, think, watch, economize;
Unpaying amusements should not find a place on your ship's chart,
The sailing profits ought to cheer the downcast Scotchman's heart.
The ship was steered from her old coufse by a vain, new-fangled pride,
And for a time on pleasures' waves majestically did ride;
Extravagance soon crashed the masts, bright sails in the billows dip,
The ports was reached with exhausted funds—not a wreck, but a crippled ship.
Repairs are made, the good ship manned, and with cautious Scots, I hope,
That know the proper course to steer, just when and were to stop,
Embark in nothing that don't pay, and in solvent breezes float,
If funds there be their proper use is to help a brither Scot.
Our captain hails from good old stock, if memory serves me right,
His father and grandfather held the helm he holds to-night.
Their love for Scots and Scotia dear I hope he still retains,
With a strong a flow of the old Scotch blood still rushing through his veins.
The winds were fair, with a clear sky, when his sires at the helm did stand,
There is adverse winds and a gloomy sky to-night as he takes command.
It depends upon his steady hand, head, heart and force of will,
To raise it from the sands, although no cash weighs down the till.
Though young, and a Canadian born, to Scots his heart is true;
While he loves Canada, his home, he loves auld Scotia, too.
His feet have trod her heathery hills—sailed on her lochs so grand—
Behold this heather upon my heart, he pulled with his own hand.
He starts upon his trial trip—Scots put your trust in him—
He will stand steadfast at his post, though it should sink or swim;
If he can save our foundered ship with the colours of bye-gone days,
The clans will gather, the air will ring with our brave captain's praise.
Rally around your captain, Scots, although you number few—
Safer to sail with ten staunch Scots than fifty cold-souled crew;
Stand at your post, though breakers will lash o'er your bulwarks clear;
When tempest rage throw out your rope if shipwrecked Scots are near.
Surely we must have Scots enough still faithful, leal and brave,
With Scottish hearts and Scottish grit, St. Andrew's ship to save;
Though lips are closed, I know your thoughts, I see your bosoms swell—
Scotch love still lives, your hearts replie, "Yes, brither Scots, we shall."
As I around this festive board your smiling faces view,
So full of mirth and social glee, though part of a shipwrecked crew—
If but with water, fill your glass and raise it to your lips
And give three rousing Scottish cheers for a sinking (now rescued) ship.

WILLIAM TELFORD, Smith.

A Temperance Council.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—The municipal elections are now not far in the distance, and we women of the W.C.T.U., who are interested in the morals of the town and the safety of our boys, are wondering whether our temperance men are going to allow matters to run on as they have been doing, or whether they will make an effort to get Christian, temperance men of backbone into the council and mayor's chair—men who will make an effort to suppress the billiard tables, shooting galleries, saloons and liquor stores, with which our town is too well supplied; men who will not use their influence to secure a renewal of license for the worst saloon in town, after that same renewal had been refused by the Board of Commissioners; men who will do their duty in suppressing evil regardless of the politics of the evil doers. This is the kind of men we want in our council. It is well to guard our manufacturing interests, but our moral interests are of far greater value. Regarding it from a financial standpoint, we must admit that morality pays. The removal of temptation from the paths of the young will make them better workmen and better citizens.

Mr. Editor, we appeal to our Christian brothers to take a forward step in this matter. Among all who call themselves temperance men, can there not be found, at least, one for each ward who will accept nomination?

Who are to be our prohibition candidates for mayoralty and council?

MRS. GEORGE PATO, President. E. M. PRICE, Rec.-Sec.

DEAR SIRS,—My mother was attacked with inflammation of the lungs which left her very weak and never free from cold, till at last she got a very severe cold and cough. She resolved to try Hagyards Pectoral Balsam, and, on so doing, found it did her more good than any other medicine she ever tried.

Butternut was well known and appreciated by our grand parents for its medicinal qualities. In fact the nuts in an unripe condition were largely used for habitual constipation, liver troubles and foul stomach. The great difficulty was the necessity of preparing from the fresh green nuts which could only be in small quantities, as the medicinal strength weakened from keeping. McGale's Butternut Pills are prepared with a concentrated extract made from the Butternut held in combination with other valuable and purely vegetable ingredients, as the uniform strength is retained for any time in any climate. They are the best liver and stomach pills in the world. dw

A GREAT BOON

To the citizens of Peterborough. Having seen the necessity of an office in Peterborough where parties having accounts to collect would have some reliable place to go to, I have availed myself of the opportunity and have established such an office where I make account collecting a specialty. Parties having accounts to collect will do well to place them in my hands where they will be promptly attended to. As a rule all business men are poor collectors, therefore, they let their accounts run on from year to year when they should have the cash. Now all the Dry Goods, Grocers, Druggists, Doctors, Furniture Dealers, Harness Makers, Barbers, Real Estate Brokers, Bakers, Bankers, Ministers and any other business men not mentioned here and having accounts to collect, will do well to call on me. Now the reason I can collect better than other men, is, I go and take the account personally to the parties, therefore, I must get some answer. I also do a Real Estate business, buying, selling and renting town and country property; money lending, discounting notes, also insurance, fire, life and accident.

A Five-Day Passenger "Whaleback"—Proposed Swift and Powerful Ocean Steamer—Items Showing Man's Forward March—An Electric Race Track—A Torpedo Experiment.

Since the Charles W. Wetmore crossed the Atlantic to Liverpool and back again there has been considerable talk about the construction of a passenger steamer on the same model. An illustration of a steamer of this type, which is presented as an ideal of a safe, speedy and commodious carrier is shown in the Scientific American.

DIMENSIONS AND CAPACITY.

The hull is of the steel barge pattern, almost submerged, and supporting strongly built pier. Two longitudinal bulkheads divide the craft into three main compartments which are subdivided into twenty-one separate water-tight sections, without doors below the water line. The vessel is 528 feet long, 72 feet wide, and 38 feet depth of hold, drawing 28 feet of water. The displacement is reckoned at 14,000 tons and the capacity of the hull is figured at 20,000 tons.

ENGINES AND PROPELLERS.

The engines designed to drive this craft at a speed of 24 knots per hour are three in number, of 19,500 horse-power, running at 120 revolutions per minute, with propellers of 11.8 feet diameter and 24.2 feet pitch.

It is estimated that a vessel built on this plan would give accommodation for 720 first-class passengers.

"Like Magic,"
THE effect produced by Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Colds, Coughs, Croup, and Sore Throat are, in most cases, immediately relieved by the use of this wonderful remedy. It strengthens the vocal organs, allays irritation, and prevents the inroads of Consumption; in every stage of that dread disease, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral relieves coughing and induces refreshing rest.

"I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in my family for thirty years and have always found it the best remedy for croup, to which complaint my children have been subject."—Capt. U. Carley, Brooklyn, N. Y.
"From an experience of over thirty years in the sale of proprietary medicines, I feel justified in recommending Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. One of the best recommendations of the Pectoral is the enduring quality of its popularity, it being more salable now than it was twenty-five years ago, when its great success was considered marvelous."—R. S. Drake, M. D., Beliot, Kans.
"My little sister, four years of age, was so ill from bronchitis that we had almost given up hope of her recovery. Our family physician, a skilful man and of large experience, pronounced it useless to give her any more medicine; saying that he had done all it was possible to do, and we must prepare for the worst. As a last resort, we determined to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and I can truly say, with the most happy results. After taking a few doses she seemed to breathe easier, and, within a week, was out of danger. We continued giving the Pectoral until satisfied she was entirely well. This has given me unbounded faith in the preparation, and I recommend it confidently to my customers."—C. O. Lepper, Druggist, Fort Wayne, Ind.

Robbers Visit Superintendent Riddell.

This morning about three o'clock burglars forced an entrance through a window into the residence of Mr. J. M. Riddell, Assistant Superintendent of the Grand Trunk, corner of Hotel and Charles streets, Belleville. Mr. Riddell was not at home, and Mrs. Riddell was awakened by the presence of some one in her room. Thinking it was a servant, she addressed her, and the burglar or burglars, seeing that they were in danger of being discovered, beat a hasty retreat. They did not secure any booty. The doors were found open, in provision for an easy exit, and a raised window showed the way of entrance.

Persons wishing to send copies of illustrated Peterborough abroad to friends, should get their supply of copies of the Saturday EXAMINER Dec. 5th. Orders taken at the Peterborough Bookstore.

Friday Night

Women's Auxiliary Meeting.

The Women's Auxiliary of the George street Methodist church held their monthly meeting yesterday. The chair was taken by Mrs. James Kendry the president, and the usual devotional exercises were led by Mrs. H. P. Meharry and Mrs. Hawkins. Mrs. Wm. Fitzgerald presented the report of the branch meeting held in Brampton, which was followed by a solo "What a wonderful Saviour," by Mr. Briscoe, a recitation by Miss May Fife, and a duet by Mrs. and Miss Thom of Ashburnham, which were well rendered. Mrs. Rev. Locke presented a statement of the progress of the society during the past ten years and Miss May Richardson sang "Throw out your life line," after which came a reading by Mrs. Hawkins and a trio by Misses Glass, and Cochrane and Mr. Briscoe. A most successful meeting being then closed by the doxology and benediction.

Campbellford Curling Club.

The curling club, at its annual meeting, received a report indicating prosperity. Dinwoodie's rink is to be leased for the coming season. The election of skips for the ensuing season resulted in the appointment of the following:—C. L. Owen, J. W. Dinwoodie, R. Cumming, W. W. Cumming, R. Dinwoodie, Dr. Macoun, E. W. Gaudrie, D. Kerr, C. Smith.

Brought Home for Burial.

The Hastings Star of December 2nd says: "Mr. James Maher, a former resident of the neighborhood of Keene, died at Banff on Friday of last week, a telegram to that effect having reached the relatives of deceased. The remains were shipped to Peterborough, where the body is expected to arrive to-morrow, Thursday. No particulars had been received. The deceased was in comfortable circumstances, unmarried, and about fifty years of age." The body arrived at the Peterborough station by C.P.R., night before last.

Acknowledgment.

The committee of the Peterborough Protestant Home acknowledge with thanks the following donations for November:—A friend, bag of potatoes, cabbage, etc.; Mrs. Tucker, beets; Mrs. W. Walsh, Mrs. Vernon and Mrs. Hazlitt, a goose each for Thanksgiving dinner; Mrs. Halliday, plum pudding; Miss Roger, cabbage; a friend, bag of turnips, bag potatoes, cabbage; Miss Emma Ostrom, pick of apples; a friend, dozen bread tickets; Mrs. Dawson, cabbage; anonymous, bag of flour; Mrs. W. Paterson, parcel of clothing; Mrs. Manning, same; also the collection taken up at the union service on Thanksgiving day amounting to $60 45. Some cast-off under flannels for men would be most acceptable at this season.

Society Notes.

Otonabee Lodge I.O.O.F. held their team practice last night, which was well attended.

Peterborough Lodge I. O. O. F. hold their team practice on Friday. A good attendance is expected.

Ashburnia Lodge I.O.G.T. of Ashburnham, hold their usual weekly meeting on Friday evening. It is anticipated that a large number of members and visitors will be present.

Carswell Lodge, I.O.G.T., hold their first meeting in their new lodge room, in the R. T. of T. Hall, Hunter street, this evening. Members will please note that the night of meeting is changed from Friday to Thursday, which it is hoped will be a wise and profitable change and benefit to the lodge. There are several initiations to-night and other important business, after which at 9 o'clock the session will be an open one. A good programme has been provided, consisting of songs, recitations and a humorous sketch. All friends interested in the lodge and in the promotion of temperance are invited to be present.

The Carnival of Nations.

Preparations are being made on a large and artistic scale for the Carnival of Nations to be held in the new market building on Thursday and Friday, Dec. 10th and 11th. The idea of the "Carnival," as it will be carried out by the energetic ladies of the Charlotte street church, will be its great charm—not to mention the picturesque national booths, the delicate and substantial refreshments served by the picturesquely costumed ladies, the music and the general enjoyment. Each of the seven nationalities represented will be suggested by the costumes and the characteristic decorations of the several booth. In the United States booth there will be placed the splendid Edison phonograph, recently brought to town by Messrs. Crosby & Turner. The Fire Brigade Band will be present both days to furnish music. On Thursday evening the carnival will be opened at 5 o'clock, and refreshments will be served. The "Carnival" will be continued on Friday from 12 to 2 p.m. Excellent programme of vocal and instrumental music, readings, etc., will be served at suitable interval. Admission, including refreshments, 25 cents.

New Grand Trunk Time Table.

It is stated that a new time table over the whole Grand Trunk Railway system will come into effect on Sunday, December 6th. This is made necessary by the shortening of time which will be the result of the opening for traffic of the St. Clair tunnel on December 6th. The double tracking of the Grand Trunk main line is completed with the exception of some work on the bridges at Napanee, Gananoque and St. Annes, from Sidney, some six miles west of Belleville, to Montreal. Tracklaying is being pushed between Sidney and Port Hope.

"Elly" at the Opera House.

A very fair audience attended last night at the Opera House to witness the presentation of the Irish play "Elly." The title role was ably sustained by Miss Sadie Scanlan, sister of W. J. Scanlan, who is well-known in theatrical circles. Her singing of favorite Irish ballads was very good. She was heard to great advantage in "He Loves Me," and "The Low-backed Car," which were deservedly encored. Her impersonation of the jealous sweet heart was an exceedingly fine piece of acting. The support given by the company was fairly good, while the play itself was full of strong dramatic situations, particularly the scene of the murder near the hermit's hut.

Resolution of Condolence.

The Epworth League of Mark street Methodist church has addressed the following letter:

ASHBURNHAM, Nov. 23, 1891.

To Mrs. John Smith and Family:

At a recent meeting of the Mark street Epworth League the following resolution of sympathy was passed:

Whereas it has seemed good to the Almighty Disposer of events to remove from you, and from your midst, your beloved son and brother and our late worthy and esteemed fellow-member, William A. Smith, and,

Whereas the intimate relations held by deceased with the members of this Society rendered it proper that we should place upon record our high appreciation of his services and merits, therefore,

Resolved, that we deplore the loss of William A. Smith with deep feelings of regret, softened only by the confident hope that his spirit is with those who, having fought the good fight here, are enjoying perfect happiness in that better world, where, if we are faithful, we shall again meet him.

Resolved, that we tender to his afflicted mother and family our sincere and heartfelt sympathy in the severe trial through which they have been called to pass; and we pray that God may sustain, strengthen and comfort them in their bereavement. We feel very deeply the loss of our dear brother, whose gentle, loving manner, and whose words of counsel and sympathy endeared him to us so much. We cannot understand the depth of a mother's love nor the greatness of their loss, but we know that his place will be hard to fill, who, by his free and generous manner, has endeared himself so much to the members of this society.

Resolved, that a copy of the foregoing resolution, signed by the president and certified by the secretary, be transmitted to the relatives of the deceased.

H. ARMSTRONG, President.
H. FIFE, Secretary.

A Park for Cobourg.

Mr. D. F. Donegan, a wealthy resident of Los Angeles, Cal., has purchased eighteen acres of beautiful park land in the east end of the town, known as "Bolton's Woods." Mr. Donegan has given instructions to have the grounds nicely laid out next season as a public resort. Mr. Donegan's generous gift to his native town will be greatly appreciated,

The Y.M.C.A. Anniversary.

The Rev. J. E. Starr, one of Toronto's most eloquent and popular preachers, who is to give the annual address on the occasion of the Y.M.C.A. anniversary, will arrive in Peterborough by C.P.R. at noon to-morrow. The services are to be held in St. Andrew's Church. Special music will be rendered and anthems sung by the choir of the church. The necessity of a large attendance of members and of those who sympathize with the work of the Association is suggested by the importance of the interests represented.

Ogling the Nursemaid.

It does not show very much for the self-respect and good-breeding of some of our "gilded youth," that a young person in charge of a baby carriage cannot walk along our most prominent thorough ares without being molested by some of them. It is to be hoped that no more of this kind of thing, such as happened this morning on George street, will again occur. The police might have their attention drawn to it and feel called upon to vary the amusement somewhat.

Stealing Wheels.

The originality of thieves can be accounted for perhaps on the ground of their possessing a large stock of original sin—their ingenuity being stimulated by exercise. Jocular reference is often made to the theft of a red hot stove, but the first instance of a man stealing the wheels off a buggy arose last night. Some person or persons entered the stable yard of the Balmoral hotel and removed the hind wheels of the proprietor's new buggy and substituted a pair of old wheels, and it is supposed that if the dog had kept still the whole four wheels would have been taken.

To the Public.

To avoid the rush of customers, which the magnificent Christmas stock of goods is sure to bring with the next week or two, the public are reminded of the advisability of visiting the Peterborough Bookstore and selecting their purchases now, to be laid aside till Christmas is within a day or so. This has been largely done in past seasons, and is more than ever necessary now, for with the double shop and magnificent stock complete in every department and of endless variety and unexcelled beauty, will create a demand to fill which early purchases will be necessary.

Preparing for the Xmas Season.

Not content with a large store full of all kinds of drygoods, Mr. J. J. Sheehy has recently received from the best markets a beautiful selection of fancy goods suitable for the Xmas season. They consist of plush work, and are appropriate for the convenience of either ladies or gentlemen. Ladies' and gentlemen's gloves, the very finest of India silk handkerchiefs, in hem stick and coloured border; also an excellent selection of white brocaded silk neckwear. The goods will be placed on the counters on Saturday next, for the inspection of ladies and gentlemen who wish to see what is being shown this year in the way of holiday goods. No trouble to show them.

Cheese Stiffening.

The price of cheese is advancing rapidly in England. The latest cable quotes 55 shillings per cwt. The effects of the drought of last spring and autumn, causing diminished make, are now being felt. The shortage of Montreal exportations as compared with those of 1890, is about 40,000 lbs. In New York, due to the same cause, the proportionate shortage is even greater, and in the latter place figures have advanced from 9½ to 11½ within the past three or four weeks. There is every indication that towards the end of January or February next the price in England will touch 60 to 65 shillings per 112 lbs. This estimate of the situation is made by an extensive dealer in Peterboro' who has handled about $200,000 worth of cheese this season.

The Great Cheese Industry.

Reports of the Season's Operations of the Shearer and Lakefield Factories.

Shearer Factory.

The annual fall meeting of Shearer cheese factory was held at the factory on Thursday, 26th ult., when the business for the season of 1891 was closed. There was a good attendance of the patrons, and much satisfaction was expressed with regard to the result of the operations of the factory for the season. As will be seen by the following figures, the business done was very good, when we consider that a new factory was in operation in the same section during the season. Much credit for the success of the factory is due to the popular and efficient proprietors, *Messrs. Thompson & Ryan, and to Mr. Ren*wick the competent cheese maker, whom they had in their employ. The amount of milk delivered at the factory during the season was 1,397,061 lbs., or 465.6836 standards, from which were manufactured 130 084 lbs. of cheese, being an average of 10.74 lbs. of milk for a pound of cheese. The amount received from sales of cheese was $11,932 59, being an average of 9.17 cents per pound. The total value of the milk per standard was $26 19, and the value, after paying all expenses, $21.26. The greatest amount of milk sent from any one patron was 53,838 lbs., and the average sent by each of the 58 patrons was 24,087 lbs.

Lakefield Factory.

The patrons of the Lakefield cheese factory held their annual entertainment and meeting at the factory last Wednesday evening. There was a very large attendance and a very pleasant time was spent by all after the supper, as music, songs and readings had been provided. The following is the report presented by Mr. A. Fairbairn, which will be of interest to many of our Smith readers as well as to others interested in the cheese industry:—

In presenting the auditors report I wish to remind you that during the past six years, every year marked an increased in the volume of business done in this factory. I have to say that the amount of milk received at the factory and the cheese manufactured this year is somewhat less than last year, but when we take into consideration, the remarkably dry summer the shortage of pasture, thereby causing a decrease in the flow of milk we may well wonder how we have done so well. I have again to remind you that I have gone through each patron's account, as the pass-book is supposed to be a check on the manufacturer. The following are the monthly totals:—

	Lbs. milk	Lbs. cheese.	Average lbs milk to cheese.	Price.	per cwt. milk.	Total price.
May..	143,596	12,801	11.21	8.60	60c	$1,100.17
June..	267 293	23,866	11.20	8½	59	2,068.43
July..	257,864	23 309	11.06	8.81	61	2,053.46
Aug...	212 022	18,971	11.10	9.14	70	1,866 38
Sept...	184,785	17,586	10.53	9 51	70	1,668.01
Oct....	122,159	12,786	9.59	9.67	98	1,231.56
Total..	1,187,719	109,219	10.87	9.14	66⅓	$9,978.01

As compared with last year there is a decrease of milk by........................ 45,740 lbs.
of cheese by........................ 6 676 " of cash by........................ $618 45

I have to report I found the books in a very satisfactory condition. I think every year since I have been your auditor I have found some slight mistakes, until this year I have been unable to detect any.

It should be very satisfactory to the Patrons to have every cheese cleared out of the factory at the highest prices and have a settlement at so early a date as this; it also reflects very creditably on the manufacturer and salesman to give such a good showing under the circumstances.

REPRESENTATIVE MEMBERS—J. C. Grylls and R. J. Munro.

The club have secured the skating rink which with the curling rink will be under their own management this winter.

STONY LAKE AGAIN.

Consequent upon the manner in which the island holders of Stony Lake are being taxed and charged for road labour, the benefits of which they cannot share, various plans are being suggested as a remedy, the latest and most original one is that they make an effort to get incorporation as a separate municipality. The area of the islands will be equal to some of our townships, and as there is now over 100 cottages erected containing a summer population of from 800 to 1 000, post office, store, etc., a better showing could be made to start, than have many larger and older municipalities. With a reeve and council such bylaws could be passed and enforced as would free the campers and cottagers from many of the annoyances to which they are now subject, and better protection afforded to property during the time the owners are absent. The taxes and expenses would be very small, no school tax, no road labor, the county rate and a small rate to cover the expenses of management would include all. Then we should not only have the spending of our own money but we should receive all the benefits derived from it, in place of, as at present, having a heavy tax and no return to show for it, (in justice to Smith council I must say no fault can be found). With the taxes now paid or less, we could build a steamboat landing at some central point, erect a building that could be used by parties waiting for the steamers on wet and stormy days, for service on Sunday, or as a place of meeting for amusement or to discuss island matters. Twenty-nine mills and $200 road work was the last straw, so that if some change is not made before spring it will not be the fault of the island owners. What say the "Peterborough-Stony Lake Island Protection Club?"

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Mr. Jas. Baptie is rightly regarded as one of our most enterprising farmers, and the proprietor of some of the best horses in Midland Ontario. It must be gratifying to Mr. Baptie to have met with so much success in the importation of the noted trotting stallion Boxer, No. 10,481, who has such wide spread notoriety as the best roadster in Ontario. The stock of this horse is admired for their showy appearance and speed, as well as staying qualities by the best judges of this class of horses on every hand. This fact is borne out by their prize record at all the fairs, taking, when shown, prizes at Peterborough Central, Millbrook, Omemee, Lakefield, Centreville, Bethany and Port Hope. His carried off seventeen first prizes at these exhibitions, not taking into consideration the special prizes which were offered by several enterprising horsemen. This is a remarkably good record for a horse being in the locality such a short period of time. But these facts will create less surprise when the amazing fact is taken into consideration that Boxer unites in his long chain of ancestors the blood of some of the most noted trotting horses in the world in being related to Sunol, with a record of 2 08½, through his sire, Jefferson Prince, and to Allerton, 2 09½. through his dam, Lady Emmerson. Of late this class of horse is meeting with great favour among horsemen and enterprising farmers, who are giving their attention to raising first-class road horses. Mr. Baptie is to be congratulated on his importing such a fine specimen of road horse from across the border, and it is to be hoped that he will hold the much admired animal at such a high figure that no foreign purchaser will find that his purse contains enough of the temptation to induce Mr. Baptie to dispose of the fine animal for some time to come.

To the Editor of the Examiner :

DEAR SIR,—Will you be good enough to give me a few lines of space in your paper to call the attention of those interested to the following :—A reverend gentleman from Smith connected with the Methodist church has been up the Buckhorn Road holding special services for the past few weeks, and has opened a subscription list for the erection of a church at Taylor's School House. With this I have no objection to find, but when they refuse to allow the Presbyterians in the locality to join them in the erection of the building, as neither denomination is strong enough to build and maintain a church without the help of the other, I must regard this refusal as not at all edifying, nor does it seem to me, to show that broad Christian spirit which should mark Christians more anxious for the salvation of souls than the aggrandizement of one branch of the Christian church. It is said that the total membership of the Methodists is about fifty-two members—men, women and children, but the Presbyterians don't number so many. Two churches separate would be a burden under which either would collapse but by uniting in the erection of the building, regular services of both bodies might be maintained and Christian fellowship and unity for which the Great Head of the church prayed, would be promoted.

Yours truly

OPTICAL DEPARTMENT.

Our Latest Specialty, and one that is giving the Greatest Satisfaction.

THE value of Spectacles and Eye Glasses depends on the skill of the Optician. We are skilled. In addition to my long practical experience, I have taken a course of special instruction in optics at the Chicago Ophthalmic College and learned the latest and best methods of ascertaining the different defects of the eyes and their proper correction, so that I can fit you properly with glasses that will strengthen and improve your eyesight, instead of rapidly ruining it, as poorly fitted glasses always do. Bring your whole family and have their eyes examined No charge for examination.

We keep on hand a full and complete stock of the best Optical goods that are manufactured, including pure White Axis Cut Brazilian Pebbles, which we are prepared to furnish in the newest and best styles of Frames for Spectacles and Eye Glasses, in gold, silver, nickel, aluminum and steel. Telescopes, Opera and Field Glasses, Reading and Magnifying Glasses, Microscopes, Thermometers, Lorgnettes, &c. Spectacles and Eye Glass Cases of all kinds, including the latest styles of Chatelaine Cases, which are now the most fashionable. Gold, Gold Plated, Silver and Silk Eye Glass Guards.

As an acceptable present for grandfather, grandmother, or any aged friend, what can be more suitable than a pair of our reliable and guaranteed Spectacles or Eye Glasses, in gold or other styles of frames. Oculists' Prescriptions carefully filled. Repairing of Spectacles and Eye Glasses promptly attended to.

A Special Department is the Repairing of Watches, Clocks and Jewellery.

"German Syrup"

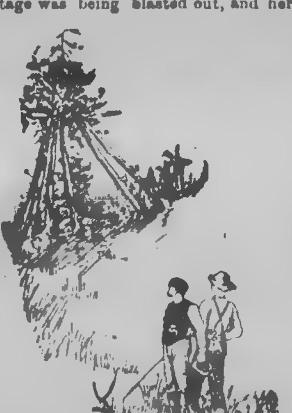
For Throat and Lungs

Hemorrhage Five Years. "I have been ill for "about five years, "have had the best "medical advice, "and I took the first "dose in some doubt. This result- "ed in a few hours easy sleep. There "was no further hemorrhage till next "day, when I had a slight attack "which stopped almost immediate- "ly. By the third day all trace of "blood had disappeared and I had "recovered much strength. The "fourth day I sat up in bed and ate "my dinner, the first solid food for "two months. Since that time I "have gradually gotten better and "am now able to move about the "house. My death was daily ex- "pected and my recovery has been "a great surprise to my friends and "the doctor. There can be no doubt "about the effect of German Syrup, "as I had an attack just previous to "its use. The only relief was after "the first dose." J. R. LOUGHEAD, Adelaide, Australia.

A BOXFUL OF BOOKS.

The glut was the topic for discussion for the next two days, though no one saw a way to break it. The next day, as work had been running light at the mill, my brother gave me a holiday, and Luke and I walked to French's steam-mill, the next below ours, and distant about six miles.

At French's a ledge in front of their landing-stage was being blasted out, and here, for the first time, I saw dynamite cartridges. Those in use were cylindrical in shape, two inches in diameter and eight inches long, and were put up in thick, blue paste-board cases, with a detonating charge of powder inside each, and a fuse, two feet long, connecting with it through one end of the case.



TOO DANGEROUS TO MEDDLE WITH.

It seemed to me that we might use one of these cartridges to bring down the big redwood in our "glut," and so applied to the foreman to let us have two of the cartridges He acceded to my request when he found out what we wanted to do with them.

But to carry out our scheme, we needed a large auger. The augers used at French's were the common, short-handled, two-inch implements, such as we had at our own mill. We were told, however, that a settler who lived two miles further down the coast was laying a log aqueduct, and had such an auger as we needed.

We went to his place, and there found two men hard at work boring out logs with what is known as a pump auger. Luke and I drew near and sat down on a log. Both the men were what they call "Pikes" out here in California—old-timer pioneers from Missouri and the Southwest—queer people, not much noted for thrift, and, as a rule, violently prejudiced against New Englanders and Northeners generally.

By and by Luke looked up and said, "Good-day, gentlemen."

They both stopped boring and looked hard at us for some moments.

"Younker," observed the older of the two men, a tall, lean, smoke-dried man about fifty years old, "I reckon you're a tender-foot, and most likely a Yank, by the way ye chaw out yer words."

"Yes," said Luke, "and now can you do us the favor to lend us that augur to-morrow?"

"Lend it to yer!" exclaimed the Pike. "I shud laugh to see myself lend anything to a Yank! When sh'd I see it agin, I'd like ter know?"

"Well, then, will you sell it?" said Luke.

The man paid no attention to the question. The two went on boring for five or ten minutes. We sat by and watched them. The auger was an old tool, rusty and dull. At length the Pike turned round and said, "Wal, you hang round yer's if you's bound to git this yer auger."

"We want it very much," said Luke.

"Humph! yer do, do yer?"

"Yes, we do," replied Luke. "And we've got to have it."

"Anyhow?"

"Anyhow."

"Look yer, younkers, you'd better cl'ar out from yer!"

We sat down on another log and fell to whittling redwood. The men went on boring for ten or fifteen minutes longer, the old man casting now and then a questioning look toward us. "You aint gone yit?" he exclaimed after a while.

"No, we want you to lend or sell us that auger," said Luke, whittling away doggedly.

"You do!"

"I 'low we've got to get it," replied Luke, in imitation of the Pike dialect.

Then they bored and we whittled in silence. At last the old Pike could stand it no longer.

"Wal, I'll be dog-gorned!" he burst out. "Ef yer aint two of the persissentist, orneriest younkers I ever hed come round me! I 'low I dunno whether ter git my shot-gun or let yer hev the auger. Dog-gorned ef I do, now. Ef I don't let yer hev it, I 'spicion yer'll hang round and lift it arter dark, 'less'n I kerry it ter bed with me."

We did not reply to this tirade, but went on whittling with immovable faces.

"I don't b'leeve ye're no Yanks, nohow," he burst out again after a while, staring hard at us.

"Look yer," the old man exclaimed at last. "Tell yer wot I'll do. Lend a hand yer and halp bore out them six more logs, and yer may tuk the auger. Not that I ever 'xpect to set eyes on't agin. No, yer naver'll fetch it back. Catch a Yank ter do thet!"

We pulled off our jackets and fell to work boring. The old Pike sat and held the logs on the "horse" for us. We bored out the six in the course of an hour, dull as the auger was. Nothing was said, but we saw that the man liked our style of work. When we drew the auger out of the last log, he felt it to see how hot it was.

"Now, we can take it, can we?" said Luke.

"Of course, didn't I tell yer yer could!" exclaimed the Pike.

"All right," I said; "we will bring it back to-morrow evening."

"Don't think I'm green enough to look for yer," growled the old man.

We shouldered the auger and walked away, much amused at the success of our method of dealing with our neighbor.

Preferring to work without the suggestions of the workmen at our mill, we left our auger and the two cartridges on the other side of the creek from the mill, in a pile of edgings, as we came home.

At supper the talk of the men indicated quite plainly that Van Vranken, Helling and Stosser intended to make an attempt the next forenoon to break the glut by cutting down the big tree, taking the risk that such an attempt would involve.

"It never will do to allow those men to get that fifty dollars," said Luke, after we had gone to our room.

"Then we must get up before light to-morrow-morning," said I, "for they commence work first thing after the six o'clock whistle blows."

We went to bed. But I waked at one o'clock, and had but barely fallen asleep again, when I heard Luke striking a match to look at the clock. I waked again at three, and then, although it was not yet light, we started out.

We took an axe, and crossed over to the dam and got our auger and cartridges. Day had scarcely begun to dawn when we reached the glut. There it stood, looming gigantically in the starlight. A herd of deer, lying near it, bounded away through the brush.

We set our augur into the trunk of the big redwood upon which the other five trees hung, and bored a hole straight into its heart. Then we thrust in one of our cartridges. It fitted loosely, and I pushed it in with a stick to the end of the hole. That left the outer end of the fuse nearly a foot inside of the trunk, but by thrusting in a match in the split end of a sliver, Luke was able to reach it.

It was about half-past five o'clock when we lighted the match and then ran back. The fuse burned slowly. We ran about a hundred and fifty yards, and then turned and waited.

A moment after there came a hollow, dull explosion, and with it a loud, sharp, splitting noise. Fully half the redwood trunk was blown off at the butt, and flew thirty or forty feet. The great tree shook, then it gave a loud crack and broke off at the shattered place, and a second later the whole jam of huge trees came down with a frightful crash.

I do not much exaggerate when I say it shook the whole county! Limbs flew and three of the great trees broke across each other with terrific crashes. The great logs bounded about. One butt flew around sidewise, plowing up the ground for many feet.

We looked on with great satisfaction. The noise was heard at camp. Twelve or fifteen of the men soon came running out to see what had caused it, Van Vranken, Helling and Stosser with the others. We were standing on the trunk of the big redwood.

"How are you, fifty dollars!" Luke shouted.

They stopped and stared at the wreck. "Donner and blazes!" cried Stosser. "Dem two young spiel hoppers has been out and blow down der gloot mit goon-powder, or some such ting like dat—so early! Only shmell!"

It did smell pretty strongly around there of powder and dynamite.

We took the auger back to our neighbor, the Pike, that evening. He was sitting in his shanty with his back to the door, and his helpmeet, within, was giving him a piece of her mind as we came up. She was apparently very angry and very bitter, but the man was bearing it well.

"Good evening!" Luke called out, "We've brought back your auger."

The old man faced about and looked first at us, then at the auger. "Wal, ef yer haint!" said he.

"And we are much obliged to you," I added.

"Wal, but I 'lowed yer was no Yanks," he remarked, as if in apology. "Jest yer hold on a minute."

He rummaged around inside the shanty. "Shet up!" we heard him growl to his wife, and in a few minutes out he came, with a two-gallon stone jug, stopped with a corn-cob and a tin pint dipper.

"Tuk a nip 'o whiskey!" said he, swinging the jug under his arm, as if to pour out some of its contents.

"Thank you," cried Luke, "but the doctor's forbidden our taking any this year; afraid of dipsomania."

"Sho! dipsomany? What mout thet be?"

"A sort of dizziness and all-goneness in the head. It runs in some families, you know."

"And whiskey aggervates it?"

"Aggravates it very much. Brings it right on."

"Thet's bad."

"Bad indeed! Good night. Much obliged."

John paid the fifty dollars to us, and we bought these books with it.

MARRIED SEEVN TIMES.

An Indianian Imitates Bluff King Hal of Old England.

GOSCHEN, Ind., Dec. 3.—Daniel Heaton, a wealthy and much-respected resident of Bristol, Ind., has seen his late Britannic Majesty Henry VIII. and gone him one better in the matter of wives. He was married to his seventh on Sunday. The lady was Miss Nancy Stamp, a blushing damsel of 64.

Mr. Heaton resembles bluff King Hal in one other respect, namely, in the rapidity with which he gets rid of one wife and takes another to himself. He is content to seek relief from his present partner by the soothing agency of the divorce court, rather than by the use of the more radical and speedy ax.

It is only two weeks ago that he was divorced from his former wife, a young lady of 22 whom he had married that spring, and thus at one bound he leaps from ardent summer into the lap of winter.

It was thought that the young lady married Mr. Heaton for his money, and in time she confessed this was the case. Determined that his present wife should not expect to inherit his property, he made her enter into an agreement before the wedding by which Miss Stamp renounced all rights to share in his estate. On the other hand, the old man presented her with $10,000 before the ceremony. Of Mr. Heaton's other wives four of them have died and the other two have been divorced.

An Oyster Dealer Whose Lip was Punctured by Pussy.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—Dr. Paul Gibier, of the Pasteur Institute, is making some experiments with a family of white rats that possess a great interest for Henry B. Sancraft, of Sancraft Brothers, oyster shippers, New Haven, Conn. The rats were inoculated six days ago with matter from the brain of a pet cat of the name of Dolly.

On Nov. 17 the cat bit Mr. Sancraft in the lip, and her subsequent behaviour was such as to lead him to believe that she had hydrophobia. The animal died two days afterwards, and on the following Saturday Mr. Sancraft, fearing that he had been inoculated with the dread poison, came to Dr. Gibier for treatment. The cat was also brought and dissected, and bits of hay, straw and wood were found in the stomach. This tends to show that the animal had hydrophobia, as animals thus afflicted swallow everything they happen upon.

As yet the rats have shown no symptoms of madness, but the trial must last for three weeks. Mr. Sancraft says he feels very well and spends a good deal of his time watching the rats.

To Evict the Farmers.

EMBINA, N. D., Dec. 3.—There is most intense excitement throughout the Red river valley over the order just issued by the Great Northern Railway Company, warning farmers to vacate land belonging to the company by December 15th. The holders of the property, many of whom have been in possession for years, declare they will not leave it alive. Under a resolution of the Senate passed at the last session, the Secretary of the Interior has been corresponding with the railroad company with a view to having the lands relinquished to the settlers, and authorized the railroad company to select in lieu thereof other public lands.

Field Attempts Suicide.

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—Edward M. Field, who wrecked the firm of Field, Lindley, Wiecher & Co.; who has stripped his father, Cyrus W. Field, of all possessions, house, land and securities, and upon whose life there is an insurance of $600,000, has attempted suicide. In what manner he sought to kill himself is not recited in the papers on which he was committed yesterday to Vernon House at Mount Vernon, as a dangerous madman. It was learned authoritatively that this commitment is but a temporary one, pending public proceedings to determine whether Field is a lunatic or not.

A Reminder of Good Old Times.

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—Advices from Ecuador say it is reported on good authority that in Quito, at Latintingua, more than 200 persons were either killed or wounded in the election fights.

Express Companies and the Grand Trunk.

OTTAWA, Dec. 3.—The case of the Ontario Express and Transport Co. v the G. T. R. was heard in the Railway Committee of the Privy Council yesterday. The counsel addressed the committee, who reserved judgment.

John L. Drinking Again.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Dec. 3.—After nearly a total abstinence of 20 weeks John L. Sullivan has commenced drinking again. Much disappointment is felt by sporting men here at this relapse, as it was hoped he would keep himself in good condition until next fall, when as he has announced he will again enter the ring for the last time.

VOTED TWO MILLION.

The Recent Great Convulsion of Nature in Japan.

VANCOUVER, Dec. 3.—Advices via steamship China state that 8000 persons were killed and 9000 injured by the recent earth quake in Japan. Foreigners have subscribed $100,000 for relief. The Government of Japan has appropriated $200,000,000 to the restoration of water courses and other public works rendered necessary by the great convulsion of nature and imperial aid is also liberally bestowed upon suffering victims of the disaster. The appearance of Sacred Mountain, as seen from Yokohama, is quite altered since the earthquake, an immense depression being observed near the cone. Of course no one has yet been able to ascend the mountain since the shock to discover and report upon the great changes that have occurred.

TRIALS OF MISSIONARIES.

Priests and Nuns Horribly Treated By the Chinese.

BRUSSELS, Dec. 3.—Telegrams from Belgian missionaries in Bengolia give further particulars of the recent troubles in the north of China. They state that the missionaries at Taku have escaped to the mountains, and the Chinese priests and nuns were horribly ill-treated. It is feared some Belgian missionaries were killed at Chaoyung. The rebels are not Mongolians but Chinese colonists, who are very numerous in that region. They belong to a secret society that has been conspiring for four years and has imported many foreign rifles. The custom house officers are winking at the illegal practice or conniving with the importers by seizing the rifles and reselling them at auction. The severe measure which the Chinese Government ordered when inflammation placards were posted, provoked the revolt. Central and Western Mongolia are tranquil. Rumors that Russia would intervene have spurred the Chinese Government to active measures to suppress the revolt.

CUT HER THROAT.

A Stratford Woman Cuts Her Throat from Ear to Ear.

STRATFORD, Dec. 3.—Mrs. Martin, aged 60, wife of James Martin, Ontario-street north, had been ailing for some time. Yesterday she visited her son-in-law, John Hillman, and secured possession of a razor which she took home with her. Later she went to the closet, where subsequently the dead body of the old lady was found in a sitting posture with her head reclining forward. Her throat was cut from ear to ear.

DIED AT SEA.

Sad Death of a Traveler on the Empress of China.

VANCOUVER, Dec. 3.—Captain Good of Cleveland, O., one of the passengers on the Empress of China, which arrived yesterday, died in mid-ocean during the passage over. He was en route home. The body was committed to the deep Sunday, the captain of the ship conducting the usual services.

A BURSTING FLY WHEEL.

One Man Killed and Another Injured at Merritton.

MERRITTON, Ont., Dec. 3.—While workmen were operating a circular saw in Leeson's woodyard yesterday a cordwood stick rolled between the arms of the fly wheel. The wheel was smashed and Edward Bradley, a young workman, was struck by pieces of the wheel. His right arm was badly shattered and the calf of his left leg torn away with a portion of the bone. His injuries will prove fatal. Another workman received a slight cut in the foot.

Latest from Ottawa.

OTTAWA, Dec. 3.—The Speaker of the House of Commons, Peter White, has appointed James Deacon of Pembroke as caretaker of the reading-room of the House of Commons at a salary of $600, to raise to $1000.

Dr. Bourinot has accepted an invitation from the American Historical Association, which meets in Washington about the end of December. He will deliver two lectures, one on "Parliamentary Government in Canada" and the other on the "Island of Cape Breton."

Mr. Belcourt in the Supreme Court made a motion to dismiss the appeal in the Portneuf election case on preliminary objections and confirm the sitting member in his seat, on the ground that the party asking for the appeal was no party to the case. The motion will be argued next Monday. Dr. Lisle, Liberal, is sitting member.

Ate a Cat's Heart Raw.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Dec. 3.—The members of the Suey Au Tong are thirsting for the blood of a highbinder, because of the murder in the Chinese theatre on Friday night of one of their number. Last night a feast of cat was served, and the heart was eaten raw by one of the Chinamen, who will avenge the death of his friend. It was a horrible sight. They believe a raw cat's heart makes them more devilish.

A Splendid Mantle for the Czarina.

LONDON, Dec. 3.—One of the silver wedding presents received by the Empress of Russia is an ermine mantle which cost £10,000. This is a gift of the nobility of the Province of Khersan.

PARIS, Dec. 3.—The newspaper Figaro has been fined 500 francs for opening a subscription for the benefit of the condemned Archbishop of Aix.

PICKED OUT BY BABY.

A Two-Year-Old Who Pointed Out a Thief.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—Patrick Bennett, an ex-convict and a man with a police record, was a prisoner in the Tombs Police Court, charged with stealing a pair of earrings from 2-year-old Bertha Jackson. George Jackson, the father of the little 2-year-old Bertha, keeps a cigar store. Saturday afternoon, while the child was playing in the hallway, Bennett came out of a saloon next door, placed one hand over the child's mouth, snatched the earrings from her ears and ran away. Later in the night, after the saloon had closed, Bennett broke into the place and stole $22. He was arrested. Yesterday morning, when Bennett was standing before Justice Divver in the Tombs Police Court, among a lot of other prisoners, little Bertha pointed him out as the man who stole her earrings.

Arnoldi Committed for Neglect of Duty

OTTAWA, Dec. 3.—In the Police Court yesterday John R. Arnoldi, late chief engineer of the Department of Public Works, was again brought up.

The charges in connection with the steamer Joe were dismissed. The magistrate held that the Civil Service Act has no reference to Arnoldi's case. The charge of fraud fails and so does that of conspiracy to obtain money by false pretences. As to the charge of misconduct as a public officer Arnoldi is found guilty of wilful neglect of duty. On this ground he is committed for trial and his own recognizance in $500 was taken for his appearance. The case will be heard at the January Assizes.

The charge is a misdemeanor under a very old statute and is punishable by either fine or imprisonment or both.

Mr. White Committed.

QUEBEC, Dec. 3.—At the police court the case of Mercier v. White was heard. The judge announced that sufficient evidence had been submitted to send the case to the Queen's Bench.

Mr. White filed a protest against the malicious course pursued of taking the case out of the Montreal district where he resides and The Gazette is published and bringing it to Quebec.

Mr. Austin Mosher was then sworn as a witness. He refused to say where he had seen Whelan previous to the publishing of the article in The Gazette.

The case was adjourned until to-morrow.

INTERESTING ITEMS BY WIRE.

Samuel Pollak, aged 51, a Philadelphia saloonkeeper crazed with jealousy, shot and fatally wounded his wife and then shot himself dead yesterday.

Two boys, August Swanson and Armour Cloven, yesterday dug a cave in a frozen saw dust pile at West Superior, Wis. While inside the crust gave away, crushing them to death.

The Earl of Bantry is dead, aged 37 years. He leaves no children or brothers and the title dies with him. The deceased, William Henry Hare White, was born in 1854 and succeeded to the title in 1884. The peerage was an Irish one, and the deceased's country seats were four, all in the County of Cork. The successor to the title, his uncle, died this year, aged 81.

—THE—

GOLDEN LION.

You will find this a great store. The more you get acquainted with its ways, the more you will like it. You will always find great bargains here that will please you, as it does our regular customers. There are always bargains in every department.

Take for instance Jackets in their season. In a lot of 50 Cloaks of one kind, probably one or two will hang fire. Variety gone, price was, say $20 but the two go for $8 or $10 each. That's done every week. Last week we sold a Beautiful Embroidered imported Dolman that sold at $22 for $10.

For another example take Dress Goods. Some lines of our 50c. goods go for 35c. and 25c. and so on.

People that understand shopping ask for these goods and get them.

Did you know that shopping requires experience. We always keep a fresh stock by selling out the tail end clean, even if at a sacrifice. Nothing is carried over.

This week and for the coming month you will find exceptional bargains in Mantle Cloths.

Exceptionally large bargains in Men's and Boys' Overcoats.

If one price or style fails to suit, you ask for another. Don't be afraid of asking for what you want. Keep on until you get it. It's here. There are few stocks that excel ours outside of the large cities.

THE ELECTION TRIALS.

THE MEMBER FOR NORTH VICTORIA UNSEATED.

The East Elgin Case Still in Progress—Commencement of the Trial in Peel—The Government Dismisses Many Employes—General Political News.

ST. THOMAS, Dec. .—At the opening of court at 9.30 yesterday the court room was crowded, many of those present having come from the remotest parts of the county, such is the interest taken in this trial.

The first charge taken up was No. 24, that Joseph Yearsley paid Garrett Moore, shoemaker, money or other consideration for his vote. Yearsley's agency was admitted. Garrett Moore's evidence showed that a few days before the election he borrowed $3 from Yearsley to redeem goods of his daughter-in-law which were seized.

J. W. Yearsley, on being sworn, related how he got the money: $1 from George Munn, $1 from James McLean and the balance in small sums, making $3 in all, which he gave Moore, telling him it was a subscription to help in his distress and that it had nothing to do with election matters. The money was paid him publicly.

Suspicion Not Proof.

Justice Burton said this was a case of very grave suspicion and it was evident a good deal had been concealed, but they would not be justified in voiding an election on suspicion.

Justice MacLennan concurred.

Charge 52, that Alonzo Caughell gave George White of Leamington meat and drink with corrupt intent, was then taken up.

Alonzo Caughell, proprietor of the International Hotel, testified that George White came up election day, voted and had dinner, tea and breakfast at his hotel. He did not pay for it and witness never expected payment, as White frequently stopped without charge.

Charge 6, that Caughell had paid White's traveling expenses, was proceeded with.

Caughell, continuing, said: Paid White $5 to pay his traveling expenses, which he said were $4.90. He said he was paid up and asked if he was not going to get his expenses. Went to Billy Ingram at the committee rooms and asked him if he could not pay White's expenses. He said he could not but to pay it myself and he would see about it after the election. I did not get the $5 back since, nor have I asked for it. Paid White because I knew he was in poor circumstances and ought to have his expenses.

T. W. Crothers was called and swore that Caughell told him that he had gone to the Conservative Association rooms and asked for money for White's expenses and was told there was no money for that purpose; that he then went back and paid it himself, but Caughell said nothing about asking Ingram, while he distinctly told witness no one had instructed him to pay the $5.

W. H. Ingram and George White were also examined on this charge, after which Messrs. Cassels and Blackstock addressed the court. An adjournment was then made until 2.20 p.m. for dinner.

The Charge that Failed.

When court resumed Justice Burton said they had not had much time to consider charges 6 and 52, but they had decided that charge 52 as originally framed (that Alonzo Caughell bribed George White by giving him meat and drink) had wholly failed. It was utterly impossible to conceive that a man who had always voted Conservative could have been influenced by such a consideration as receiving two or three meals. With regard to charge 6, that Caughell paid White $5, they would have to take further time to consider it. He could not consider Caughell as having told other than the truth, and although his evidence is contradicted by Mr. W. Ingram as to Ingram's authorizing him to pay the $5 it was possible that Ingram in the hurry of the day had forgotten the circumstance.

Justice MacLennan said he concurred in all that his learned brother had said. Caughell's story was an extremely probable one and there was every reason to believe he was a credible witness, while Mr. Ingram was an equally credible witness, and it was a difficult matter to decide. They would have to consult the shorthand evidence before giving decision.

Mr. A. B. Ingram M.P., came into court, but Mr. Cassels stated that he did not wish to examine him as to L. Jones' agency. He was, however, sworn and examined by Mr. Blackstock as to the memorandum submitted on Wednesday, written by Mr. Crothers, giving amounts expended by certain persons in bribery and stated by Mr. Crothers to have been written by him as a joke.

Mr. Crothers' Joke.

This memorandum was a dilapidated paper pasted together, reading: "Memo. for A.B.," and contained several names with sums opposite. This paper, Crothers testified, was put out under an apple tree in his grounds for two weeks, and then sent with an anonymous letter to Hathaway's solicitors as a joke to fool them, the A.B. being meant for Ingram.

This is the letter accompanying the memo:

> St. Thomas, Nov. 8.—Lawyer McDonald—Sir,—I notis that Ingram, when he was examined, said he had no papers or any election account of any money paid to anyone for votes. Here are some scraps pict up by me at the Tory clubrooms some time ago. I intended to send them some time ago. Now as Ingram lide, you show him up at the trial. Yours resp.,
> REFORMER.
> P.S.—I would give name but don't want to be mixt up in it.

Mr. Ingram stated that he had never seen this memorandum and knew nothing of it previously. There was no fund raised for corrupt practices. All the money expended was raised by the party in St. Thomas. He also denied the story that he had been supplied with money by Sir Charles Tupper, and said he had never spoken to Sir Charles Tupper in his life.

Charge 2, that W. H. Ingram and George Ingram paid John Stutt, harness maker, Alvinston, his traveling expenses election day, was investigated and dismissed.

Charge 89, that the traveling expenses of John Clario of Sarnia were paid, was dismissed.

THE PEEL ELECTION.

Papers Necessary in the Trial Become Mislaid Through Some Means.

BRAMPTON, Dec. 4.—The court opened at 10.20 yesterday to investigate the several charges of bribery, etc., preferred against Mr. Featherston, the Liberal member-elect for Peel, and his agents.

When the judges were ready to proceed, a little confusion was occasioned by Mr. Pepler, counsel for the petitioner, informing their Lordships that some of the papers required in the trial had gone astray or had become mixed with the Northumberland papers.

His Lordship ascertaining particulars telegraphed the register of Northumberland, also to Ottawa, to trace up the lost papers and forward at once.

J. B. Dixon, secretary of the Reform Association, was examined in respect to persons connected with the various county and central organisations of the association.

LINDSAY, Ont., Dec. 4.—The North Victoria contested election case opened yesterday a little after 11 in the court house, before Mr. Justices Falconbridge and Street. There was a strong array of counsel; Mr S. H. Blake, Q.C., Mr. H. O'Leary, Q.C., and Mr. D. R. Anderson appearing for Mr. Barron and Mr. B. B. Osler, Q.C., for the petitioner.

W. E. Ellis of Fenelon Falls was secretary of the Reform Association. He produced the minute book, in which Dr. A. Wilson was entered as having moved a resolution at the meeting for the nomination of Barron.

Charge 25, that Dr. A. Wilson had paid $5 to George Getchell to induce him to vote for the respondent, was then taken up.

George Getchell said he had been at work in the Slaters' bush along with Richard Colman, about 4 miles from Fenelon Falls, and that Dr. Wilson had driven up and commenced to talk about voting and wanted him to go and vote. He said he could not lose the time but after almost half-an-hour he got in the rig and went away with the doctor. While on the way to the polls, he (witness) had told the doctor he would like to borrow some money to pay the taxes. The doctor said he had'nt it on him, but witness could get $5 by calling at his office. Witness came to town, got his dinner, voted and called and received the $5. Witness was pretty hard up and said that he did not think anybody could get anything from him even in the Division Court.

Richard Colmer corroborated Getchell as to the events in the bush.

Dr. Archibald Wilson a life-long Reformer, remembered going to the bush and trying to persuade the voter. After about half-an-hour's talking Getchell got up in his rig and drove with him to town. He had been asked to look after Getchell. The Doctor on the way to town talked about the misfortunes of the laboring man under the N.P., and to such an extent that Getchell who was suffering from lack of the needful was constrained to ask for some money to pay his taxes. Getchell went into town, voted and got his loan, but had not paid it back. Witness sent him an account for it. [Ledger produced, showing an entry in it.]

Witness was a member of the Reform Association and was president of local committee.

Mr. Blake argued that no corrupt practice had been made out and there was no agency proved.

The judges thought the charge had been made out, however, and gave judgment voiding the election.

OTTAWA GOSSIP.

Formal Announcement of the Decapitation of Civil Service Employes.

OTTAWA, Dec. 4.—An order-in-council has been passed formally dismissing from the civil service of Canada John R. Arnoldi, A. P. Bradley, Horace Talbot, Ernest Dionne, Andre Senecal and H. J. Bronskill. None of the above have received pay from the Government since their suspension, but the order-in-council completely severs the last link connecting them with the public service of the Dominion. Mr. Bradley was seen before the order of dismissal reached him. He confidently expected to return to the Railways and Canals Department after a further short term of suspension. Mr. Bradley was within a year of superannuation, when he would have retired from the service.

WILL TRY AGAIN.

Mr. Gunn Will Contest Kingston and Mr. Gibson Lincoln.

KINGSTON, Dec. 4. A delegation from the Reform Association waited on Mr. Alexander Gunn, the unsuccessful Liberal candidate here at the late elections, and obtained from him a promise to contest this constituency in the Liberal interest in the forthcoming election. The Reformers are counting on the work done by them at the revision of the voters' lists for a closer contest than last March.

Mr. Gibson Will Again Contest Lincoln.

ST. CATHARINES, Dec. 4.—At a meeting of Liberal representatives it was resolved that Mr. Gibson, the lately unseated member for Lincoln, should again be the party candidate at the bye-election. Mr. Gibson, it is understood, has accepted the nomination.

Is Mackintosh on Strike?

OTTAWA, Dec. 4.—The Citizen yesterday has an article on Cabinet reconstruction. The Citizen says: "It would be idle to attempt to deny that the death of Sir John has greatly weakened the Government, and there is no one man in Canada whose admission to the Cabinet can fill the void caused by his absence. The addition of three or four young and vigorous men, strong in the sections they represent and fully in touch with popular sentiment, would undoubtedly do much to repair the great loss the party has sustained, but merely filling the two vacancies will not do. New blood, and a good deal of it, is needed."

Mr. C. H. Mackintosh, M.P., denies that he will resign his seat in Parliament or that he proposes residing in England.

Speaker White has decided that Hon. Thomas McGreevy is entitled to his indemnity for the session of 1890. At the end of the session, before McGreevy went home without drawing his indemnity or making a declaration as to his attendance, He made no claim for indemnity until his expulsion in September. The accountant of the Commons supposed that the vote for McGreevy's indemnity had lapsed, but the Speaker decides otherwise.

TUPPER AT CHATHAM.

The Minister of Marine on Trade Relations With the United States.

CHATHAM, Ont., Dec. 4.—Hon. C. H. Tupper, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, came to Chatham to-day on invitation of the Young Conservative Club, to formally inaugurate the opening of their new club rooms and gymnasium.

The Minister was the chief guest at a magnificent banquet at the Garner House.

In a speech of two hours during the proceedings preliminary to the banquet Hon. Mr. Tupper dealt chiefly with the agricultural aspect of the political situation, claiming that the Canadian farmer was in a better condition than the United States farmer.

Respecting trade relations, he said the negotiations had been deferred on a childish plea. Canada has made a proposition and now waits for its neighbors to say what their mind is, but the Government lays down as a guiding and governing proposition that in our condition and prospects to-day we, as a Conservative Government, stand independent of any action Congress may take on the question of reciprocal trade.

THE Republican National Convention to select a candidate for President of the United States, will be held in June 1892.

AT last Mr. Carling has succeeded in doing something for the farmers of Canada. He has started a tuberculosis farm.

SOME Lincoln Conservatives say they would like to see Mr. Rykert in Parliament again, "just to see him go for Thompson."

CONSERVATIVES who used to speak of Sir John Macdonald as their "Grand Old Man," now refer, says the Ottawa Free Press, to Mr. Abbott as their "Grand Old Woman."

MR. MEREDITH is now spoken of as a ministerial candidate for Lincoln against Mr. Wm. Gibson. And Hon. John Carling is mentioned as the Conservative candidate against Mr. James Trow in South Perth.

JOHN R. ARNOLDI, of bronze dogs notoriety was committed Wednesday morning for trial by the Ottawa Police Magistrate on the misconduct and wilful neglect of duty as an official in the public service, and his own bail was accepted. The other charges, of obtaining money by false pretenses and conspiracy, were dismissed.

THE Ottawa Free Press puts it thus:—Mr. Mowat, the Reform leader, is in favor of unrestricted reciprocity and opposed to annexation. Mr. Sol. White, the Tory leader in Ontario, is in favor of annexation and consequently opposed to unrestricted reciprocity. These facts serve to illustrate the positions of the respective parties upon the two issues mentioned.

THE wheat crop of all Canada last year was set down by one authority at 39,231,412 bushels, and by another at 40,527,562 bushels. This year the wheat crop of Manitoba and the Northwest is nearly 30,000,000 bushels, and of Ontario 32,534,426 bushels, so that, taking no account of Quebec and the Atlantic and Pacific Provinces, the wheat crop of 1891 is 23,000,000 bushels better than the wheat crop of 1890.

IN his address to the Scotchmen of Kingston on St. Andrew's Day, Rev. Principal Grant referring to the boodle disclosures, declared that the country was overgoverned, and urged that honest Canadians of all parties must unite to put down political corruption and immorality. It is a notable fact that since the learned Principal has become convinced of the necessity for honest and economical government he has ceased to advocate the elevation of Sir Charles Tupper to the premiership.

GOOD Conservatives will not take much pleasure in following the workings of the Dominion Franchise Act as revealed in the election courts, the litigation over the lists at London and elsewher, or in such disgraceful scenes as were enacted before the Revising Officer at Stratford, where a legal bully seemed to think that the official was there for the sole purpose of getting the lists stuffed by his party friends. We are glad says the Woodstock Sentinel Review, to see all these things; for they will lead to the repeal of an iniquitous law. After a while the man who will stand up to defend the the Dominion Franchise Act will be designated as connected with the criminal classes. The Act must go.

Weakness of sight is frequently the result of general debility. When the blood is impoverished every organ and sense suffers. As and effective, powerful, and economical tonic-alterative, Ayer's Sarsaparilla may be relied on every time.

The New Soulanges Canal.

Its Construction Will Cost About Five Millions of Dollars.

The Railways and Canals Department is about to call for tenders for the construction of the first three sections of the new Soulanges canal, intended to replace the present Beauharnois canal in the link of canals under the 14-foot navigation plan, it having been found that the Beauharnois canal will not bear deepening to that extent except at enormous cost. The estimated cost of the new canal is put by Mr. Trudeau and Mr. Monro, C.E., at about $4,750,000, but it is not intended to proceed with the work en bloc. Two or three sections of a mile or so apiece will be constructed yearly until the canal, the proposed length of which is 13¾ miles, is completed. Parliament last session voted a sum of $300 000 towards this work, and it is upon this appropriation that the construction will be commenced. The feasibility and desirability of constructing this canal upon the north shore of the St. Lawrence between Coteau and Cascade point, have been discussed for many years since 1834, and Mr. Baillairge, C. E., reported upon it as early as 1873, declaring in its favor. Since then it has been "hung up," but the necessity of improving the whole canal system has brought it to the front again, and the government has decided to go ahead with the work, even despite the vigorous protests of Deputy Speaker Bergeron, who doubtless fears that his hold upon Beauharnois county may be lessened if he is deprived of the opportunity of coercing canal employes to vote for him.

Conjugal Wisdom.

is a type of wife happily becoming common in these days when women may have good health, cheerful dispositions, strong nerves and clear minds, simply through the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Before the reputation and use of this remedy became world-wide, irritable, cross, nervous, debilitated women, suffering with displacements, hysteria, and every female disease, were the rule rather than the exception. The "Favorite Prescription" has proven to be the key to a long and happy life—the key which effectually locks out that old array of uterine disorders, periodical pains, weak back, prolapsus, inflammation, ulceration, nervous exhaustion and general debility. Butternut was well known and appreciated by our grand parents for its medicinal qualities. In fact the nuts in an unripe condition were largely used for habitual constipation, liver troubles and foul stomach. The great difficulty was the necessity of preparing from the fresh green nuts which could only be in small quantities, as the medicinal strength weakened from keeping. McGale's Butternut Pills are prepared with a concentrated extract made from the Butternut held in combination with other valuable and purely vegetable ingredients, as the uniform strength is retained for any time in any climate. They are the best liver and stomach pills in the world. dw

A GREAT BOON

To the citizens of Peterborough. Having seen the necessity of an office in Peterborough where parties having accounts to collect would have some reliable place to go to, I have availed myself of the opportunity and have established such an office where I make account collecting a specialty. Parties having accounts to collect will do well to place them in my hands where they will be promptly attended to. As a rule all business men are poor collectors, therefore, they let their accounts run on from year to year when they should have the cash. Now all the Dry Goods, Grocers, Druggists, Doctors, Furniture Dealers, Harness Makers, Barbers, Real Estate Brokers, Bakers, Bankers, Ministers and any other business men not mentioned here and having accounts to collect, will do well to call on me. Now the reason I can collect better than other men, is, I go and take the account personally to the parties, therefore, I must get some answer. I also do a Real Estate business, buying, selling and renting town and country property; money lending, discounting notes, also insurance, fire, life and accident.

Constant Advertising in the Examiner Pays

Manitoba's Great Crops.

The last bulletin issued by the Manitoba Department of Agriculture fully sustains the reports of the great crops in that Province and the Northwest. In Manitoba alone the yield of wheat has been about twenty five million bushels, and including the Northwest, this amount will rise to over thirty millions. The estimated yield of wheat for Manitoba is 23,191,599 bushels, being 62.23 p.c. over last year, and the estimated average per acre of 25 3 bushels, as compared with 21.1 bushels last year. The bulletin says the wheat crop has undoubtedly suffered from frost to a considerable extent, but just how much it is impossible at present to determine. Some correspondents estimate the damage in their localities as low as two per cent., but in the aggregate there will be, as near as can be determined from the reports, forty per cent. at least effected, and this will grade all the way from No. 1 regular to chicken feed. In other crops the yield will be about as great. Oats are placed at 14,792,605 bushels, an increase of 64 32 per cent. over last year, the average yield being 48.3 bushels per acre, as against 41.3 last year; barley is estimated at 3,197,875 bushels, an increase of 64.71 per cent., the average yield being 35.6 per acre, as against 32.1 last year. The bulletin speaks of the lack of labourers, in spite of the large numbers brought in by excursion trains; and mentions that comparatively little fall ploughing has been done, farmers having been too busy harvesting their immense crops to attend to it.

The Chinese Situation.

The insurrectionary movement appears to be making headway in China, and late advices indicate that the uprising is not one against foreign encroachments so much as a movement to overthrow the reigning Manchu dynasty, and to establish once more the native Chinese dynasty, which was overthrown about two hundred and fifty years ago. Time counts for little with the Chinese. They forget nothing and learn but slowly in their own country. In 1644 the Manchurians, who had invaded China from the interior of Asia, deposed the native sovereign and placed upon the throne the son of their leader. Since that time the Manchu dynasty has has ruled in China, and the Manchu language has become the court and official language. And since that time there has been a constant undercurrent of revolutionary feeling on the part of the natives. This has from time to time broken out into armed rebellion, but the Pekin authorities have been able heretofore to suppress the rebles. But the present insurrection has assumed formidable proportions. The rebels have captured some large interior towns. They are constantly gaining accessions to their ranks and at last accounts were marching upon Pekin, the capital of the empire.

Cause and Effect.

The lady teachers of Toronto are bringing strong pressure to bear upon the city authorities for an advance in the scale of salaries. They cannot understand why there should be so wide a discrepancy between the salaries of male and female teachers, when both are doing the same work and with equal efficiency. That is one of the things which no one can quite understand, save as the explanation is to be found in the fact which was stated by some one in connection with the discussion, viz.: that there are, even at the lowest rates, swarms of applicants for every vacancy. We wish the ladies, the Educational Journal says, every success, but we fear they will have to combine to keep down ruinous competition.

Enjoying a Blessing.

DEAR SIRS,—Last summer my younger sisters were taken very badly with croup, indeed we were almost in despair, having little hope of curing them. Finally we applied Hagyards Yellow Oil, and to our great joy it cured them perfectly, and they are now enjoying the blessing of perfect health.

dw ANNIE JOHNSTON, Dalhousie, N.B.

Dickens' Pet Daughter.

The Great Novelist's Favorite "Mamie" to Write of Her Father.

Pretty "Mamie" Dickens was already considered by those who knew Charles Dickens best to be the novelist's favorite daughter. To none of his children perhaps was Dickens more affectionately attached, and the "pet" daughter" saw much of her father under all circumstances. When even the dogs were chased out of the novelist's study, Mamie was allowed to stay. The daughter is now a full-grown woman, living quietly just outside of London. For the first time since her father's death, Miss Dickens has been persuaded to write of him whom she knew so well. During 1892 there will be published in the Ladies' Home Journal, of Philadelphia, a series of articles by Miss Dickens under the attractive title of "My Father as I Recall Him." Fortunately for the thousands who will read what she writes in this series, Miss Dickens has a retentive memory, and she made copious notes during her father's lifetime. She will tell in this series everything she remembers of her father; how he educated his children; his family life and his personal habits; how he wrote his famous books; his love of flowers and animals; how Christmas was spent in the Dickens household; how the novelist romped with his children; the famous people who came to the Dickens home, and his last years and closing days. No articles ever published have in them so much promise of telling the world things which it has never known of Dickens, and Miss Dickens' story of her father's life will be eagerly looked for in thousands of homes, where the name of Dickens is like a household word.

Mental worry, overwork and excesses are the fruitful causes of insanity. Dr. William's Pink Pills are an unfailing remedy, building anew the blood and restoring wasted energies. Good for men and women.

"Like Magic,"

THE effect produced by Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Colds, Coughs, Croup, and Sore Throat are, in most cases, immediately relieved by the use of this wonderful remedy. It strengthens the vocal organs, allays irritation, and prevents the inroads of Consumption; in every stage of that dread disease, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral relieves coughing and induces refreshing rest.

"I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in my family for thirty years and have always found it the best remedy for croup, to which complaint my children have been subject."—Capt. U. Carley, Brooklyn, N. Y.

"From an experience of over thirty years in the sale of proprietary medicines, I feel justified in recommending Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. One of the best recommendations of the Pectoral is the enduring quality of its popularity, it being more salable now than it was twenty-five years ago, when its great success was considered marvelous."—R. S. Drake, M. D., Beliot, Kans.

"My little sister, four years of age, was so ill from bronchitis that we had almost given up hope of her recovery. Our family physician, a skilful man and of large experience, pronounced it useless to give her any more medicine; saying that he had done all it was possible to do, and we must prepare for the worst. As a last resort, we determined to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and I can truly say, with the most happy results. After taking a few doses she seemed to breathe easier, and, within a week, was out of danger. We continued giving the Pectoral until satisfied she was entirely well. This has given me unbounded faith in the preparation, and I recommend it confidently to my customers."—C. O. Lepper, Druggist, Fort Wayne, Ind.

The Soul-Saving Troupe.

The concluding meeting conducted by the above troupe was held last night in the Salvation Army Barracks, a large number of people attending. Adjutant Michael, assisted by Ensign Steele, led the devotional exercises, after which came testimonies from various soldiers and earnest exhortations from the members of the troupe, the whole being interspersed with selections from the united bands of the visitors and the local corps. The meetings as a whole have been a great success, and remarkably well attended, and it is expected that much good will ensue, and a large addition made to the ranks of the "Army."

The Turkey Gobbler Industry.

The Lindsay Post says that Messrs. Dundas & Flavelle Bros. have shipped from Millbrook a carload of dressed turkeys and geese to the English Christmas market. The consignment numbered close upon 2,000 fowl, and if the venture proves profitable it will mean much to the farmers of the district. Some time ago we understand the G.T.R. proposed putting on a weekly refrigerator car from November to February, running direct to the ocean lines, for the encouragement of this trade, but so far have neglected to do so. If this were done no doubt Messrs. Dundass & Flavelle and Mr. C. H. Grantham would ship regularly, and thus thoroughly test the profitableness of English shipments.

Railway Employes' Ball.

According to the Lindsay Post the Grand Trunk "knights of the rail" are an enthusiastic lot of fellows when banded together for any object, hence it was to be expected that the annual ball of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Trainmen, held in Bradburn's Opera House Friday night last would be a success. That this was the case is the opinion of the 100 or more couples who thronged the well-worn floor during the evening. The hall was very tastefully decorated with colors, streamers and flags, and a huge crown suspended from the centre of the ceiling bore witness to the unquestionably loyal feeling of the gathering. The various committees, comprising Messrs. J. F. Jobbitt, R. Marshall, M. McCarty, G. W. Ryley, E. Clarke, W. J. Davis, John McGar, D. H. Gall, D. Thompson, Fred Russell, Jas. Alcott, R. H. Reddick, Geo. Jobbett and W. Abbott, looked well after the comfort of the dancers. The Stouffville orchestra was present, and the music was excellent. A sumptuous repast was served by "Mine Host" Handcock of the Mansion house, opposite the market.

"Faithful Workers" Meet.

The annual meeting of St. Paul's Mission Band was held in the school room last evening. The secretary, Miss Hall, read the annual report which was received. Miss Drummond, of Newcastle, afterwards gave a most interesting and thoughtful address, taking as her topic the name of the society: "Faithful Workers." She urged the members to study well the meaning of the words, and to make a faithful use of the talents God had entrusted to them, their time and their money, above all to do the work God had given them, earnestly and prayerfully. The address was given in an impressive style, and the members of the band were much impressed with it. An encouraging report was also given in by the secretary of the Children's Mission Band, which is known as the "Fraser." The election of officers then took place, as follows:—

PRESIDENT—Miss Annie Hall.
VICE-PRESIDENTS—Miss Sim and Miss Brown.
SECRETARY—Miss Stewart.
TREASURER—Miss Nettie Paterson.

The Edison Phonograph.

This morning the Edison Phonograph in Messrs. Crosby and Turner's, which is to perform musical selections and make speeches in the American booth at the "Carnival of Nations," in the new market building, on Dec. 10th and 11th, was connected with the Bell Telephone central and also with Cobourg and Warkworth, and several selections transmitted. Although, owing to the falling rain, the wires did not work as well as they should have done, the selections, instrumental and vocal, were distinctly heard. In this age when the development of electric science, and its multiplex applications to the needs and enjoyment of man, are so great, such an incident as that noticed above creates no surprise but when one reflects it is indeed wonderful. Say that the seraphic Patti sings into a phonograph at her castellated nest, Craig y Nos, Wales. The wax cylinder on which the marvellous melody of her voice has been impressed, is sent across the ocean, slipped on a phonograph in Crosby & Turner's music store, the phonograph connected with the telephone, and over scores of miles of bleak country, through pelting rain and roaring blizzard, the sweet notes speed their way and fall upon the listeners' ears as distinctly as though they sat in the luxurious seats in the divine diva's little gem of an opera house in Wales, with Patti standing warbling, like an Italian angel, a dozen yards in front of them.

The anniversary services in connection with this Association will take place tonight in St. Andrew's Presbyterian church. The board of directors have been fortunate in securing the talented services of Rev. J. E. Starr, who is a great favorite, especially with young men, and by his genial manner and eloquent addresses has attracted immense crowds everywhere he has gone. All our citizens are cordially invited to attend, and many will be pleased to have the opportunity of renewing their acquaintance with Mr. Starr. Special music by St. Andrew's church choir, under the leadership of Prof. Ketchum, also by the Y. M. C. A. band. Chair taken at 8 o'clock.

Police Court Paragraphs.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 4TH, 1891.

At the police court this morning Matthew Wynn was again arraigned on a charge of maliciously wounding Walter Kerr. Chief Roszel said the wounded man was progressing favorably, but was as yet unable to appear in court. Mr. Stone, for the defence, raised objection to the accused being kept in jail so long without trial, and thought he ought to be released until Kerr was able to appear. A writ of habeas corpus could not be applied for owing to Wynn's lack of funds. The objection was overruled, however, and Wynn again remanded for another week.

John Dougan, for whose apprehension a warrant was issued on Wednesday, was brought up for trial this morning on a charge of creating a disturbance in a public place. He pleaded not guilty, and created some amusement by the way he cross-examined the witnesses Mr. Wood and Mr. Dougan, jr, gave evidence corroborative of the charge, and John, notwithstanding his efforts to prove himself "not guilty," was fined $2.00 and costs, in all $7.85, or in default ten days imprisonment. The time of ten days was given in which to pay the fine.

"Carnival of Nations."

The Representatives of the Nations.

The unique entertainment to be given in the new market building under the auspices of the ladies of the Charlotte street Methodist church, promises to be one of the most notable events ever occuring in Peterboro'. Security for the fulfilment of the promise mentioned above is afforded by the preparations being made. The ladies representing the several nationalities will be appropriately costumed and surrounded by the emblems of their countries; the booths collectively will present a most charming spectacle. Add to this the dainty refreshments daintily served, the music, the singing, the recitations and the promenading of the the social element represented by the visitors, and we have something that cannot help proving attractive. The several nationalities will be represented by the following ladies:

CANADA—by Mrs. A. L. Davis, Miss Alice Davis, Mrs. Neill, Miss Maggie Neill, Miss Emma Morrow.

ENGLAND—Mrs. J. R. Stratton and Miss Fawcett.

IRELAND—Mrs. J. T. McBain, Mrs. W. J. Green, Mrs. Clyde Green, Miss Mary Daw and Miss Neill.

SCOTLAND—Mrs. Jas. McCreary, Mrs. Jory, Mrs. W. Morris.

UNITED STATES—Mrs. Thos. Brooks, Mrs. J. W. Taylor, Mrs. Aaron Cox and Miss Hamilton.

JAPAN.—Mrs. Dr. Stephenson, Miss Clarke, Miss Rose Clarke, Miss Mark and Miss Bella Morrow.

NORTH WEST INDIANS.—Miss Brundrette and Miss Barrie.

"Isaac and Rebecca at the Well" will be represented by Mr. Geo. Morrow and Miss Cook.

Remember the date, December 10th and 11th. Admission, including refreshments, twenty-five cents.

The 'Prentice Boys.

Annual Meeting of Jubilee Lodge No. 7.

The annual meeting of Jubilee Lodge No. Protestant Association of 'Prentice Boys was held at their hall, George street Thursday evening. There was a large attendance. After routine, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

SICK COMMITTEE.—E. Fredenburg, A. Armour, Jas. Fredenburg, S. Stinson, Jno. Meharry and A. Dugan.

The proceedings of the lodge having terminated, the members, to the number of about thirty, adjourned to the comfortable hostlery of Bro Wm. Cardwell, where a supper had been prepared in his well known style. Bro. W.M. Craig occupied the chair, supported by Bro. A. Armour. The bivalves and the many other dainties provided were greatly relished and rapidly disposed of. Then followed, for an hour or two, speeches, songs, recitations, etc., in rapid succession until Morpheus interfered, when the gathering broke up, all voting Mine Host Cardwell and his attentive staff, the entertainers, and all concerned in the matter, jolly good fellows. "God Save the Queen" by the company concluded a most enjoyable evening.

Dominion Building and Loan Association.

Complete Vindication of the Course of the Directors.

It will be remembered by many of our readers that proceedings were, about six weeks ago, taken against the directorate of this Association, involving charges of official malfeasance. The board of directors, in practical answer to these charges, called the shareholders together, and a concise and exhaustive statement of the affairs of the Association and of its managment was submitted. A full and free discussion of all the matters at issue resulted in the complete exoneration of the Directorate. The following from the Berlin News, whose editor is a shareholder and was present at the meeting, corresponds with the published opinions of the Toronto papers that the board of directors had, in their actions and attitude, the best interests of the company at heart, and that their course, by which these interests had been sought to be promoted, furnished a complete answer to the charges which dissatisfied persons had felt themselves capable of making. The News says:—"The special general meeting of the Dominion Building and Loan Association, of which a large amount of stock is held in Berlin, resulted in a full vindication of the board of directors, whose answer to the charges made against them were deemed entirely satisfactory. It was made clearly evident to those who were present—and there were about two hundred stockholders there from all parts of the Dominion—that the directors had acted in a manner that was strictly honest. They admitted that they had made some trifling mistakes, and just as soon as they were pointed out did the best they could to rectify them, but not a dollar had been used for which they did not satisfactorily account. We are glad, for the sake of the future prosperity of the institution, that, after the most careful scrutiny and investigation, those who came the most bitter opponents returned home feeling that the concern is in safe hands, and that it has a bright future.

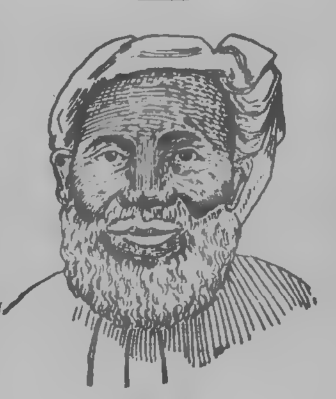
TIPPO TIB'S ROMANCE.



TIPPO TIB.

About sixty years ago, Tippo Tib, who has been brought into prominence in English-speaking countries through Gordon and Stanley, fell in love with a young girl who had been refused to him by the father on account of his poverty. The young people, however, were much attached to each other, and one fine evening the girl ran away with her lover.

The distance being considerable between the two douars, (villages), and the road extremely perilous, Tippo had armed himself from head to foot. Already the most dangerous part of the road had been cleared, and they were beginning to hear the dogs of the douar towards which they were rapidly advancing, when all at once a young lion, who till that moment had lain concealed behind the bushes, rose and walked straight towards them.

The young girl shrieked so fearfully that her cries were heard by the people in the tents, and several of the men immediately seized their arms and rushed out to the rescue. When they reached the spot to which they were directed by the screams of the young maiden, they saw the lion walking slowly a few paces in front of Tippo, with his eyes steadfastly fixed upon him, and leading him thus towards the forest. The young girl did all she could to prevent her lover following the lion, or induce him to let go herself, but in vain; he kept dragging her on in spite of all her efforts, saying:

"Come, my beloved, come; our master will I have it so; we must go!"

"But your weapons," she cried: "what are they good for if not to save me?"

"Weapons? I have none!" answered the fascinated wretch. Then addressing the lion, he said: "Great lord, believe her not; I am perfectly unarmed, and will follow you wherever you will."

At this moment the Arabs, eight or ten in number, who had come to the rescue of the unfortunate couple, perceiving that the lion would very soon have them in the forest, fired, every one of them, upon him; but on finding that he did not fall, they took to their heels. The lion sprang upon Tippo's love, and with one bound crushed her to the earth, smashing her head at a bite; after which he lay down by the side of the young man, placing his huge paws upon his knees.

The Arabs now finding that the lion did not condescend to pursue them, took courage and returned, and having reloaded their guns, prepared again to fire; but being afraid of killing the man, they told him to try to get a little way from the lion, which he allowed him to do, without ever losing sight of him. The moment the guns of the Arabs were levelled at him, the lion sprang into the midst of them, seized one with his teeth and two others with his claws dragging them together, so as to make, as it were, one bundle, then, placing under him that mass of palpitating flesh, he instantly smashed the three heads, as he had done that of the girl. Those who escaped ran to the douar and told the story, but no one was bold enough to return for another attack. The lion then carried the man into the forest. What occurred there the hero of the adventure has never revealed; but from that day to this a settled melancholy has found a resting place in Tippo's eyes.

It is true that the lion has the power of fascination over some organizations? All I can say is, that the Arabs answer in the affirmative, and give numerous examples.—H. M. S.

A CHAMBER OF HORRORS

WHAT OLD DUNGEONS WILL FURNISH FOR THE WORLD'S FAIR.

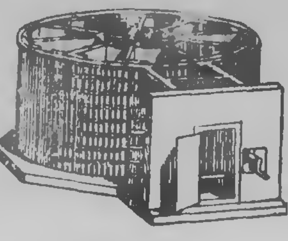
An Interesting Prison Exhibit Promised—Paul's Cell at the Mamertine—The Bastile—A Revolving Prison—Unique Modes of Torture to be Represented.

An element of the weird and terrible will not be wanting in the World's Fair. No great show could succeed without it, for there are many people who would rather be shocked and horrified than be entertained in any other manner.

Ex-President Hayes will officially open to the public this remarkable exhibit and by this act will at the same time inaugurate the first session of the International Prison Congress ever held in America. The most distinguished men in this field of endeavor throughout the world will be present and the facilities afforded them for observation and study will reflect credit upon the country which invites them.

The idea of adding this remarkable exhibit to the attractions of the fair was first suggested to the commissioners by the Rev. Francis Milligan, now secretary of the National Prison Association. Mr. Milligan was known during the late unpleasantness as the "fighting parson of Pennsylvania." Most of his energies since that time have been devoted to effecting improvement in the reformatory treatment of criminals. His idea was favorably received by the World's Fair commissioners.

The first step was to secure the cooperation of the National and State Prison associations and through them, of their correspondents in all parts of the world. The oldest of those organizations is the New York State Prison Association, of which the head is W. M. F. Round.



A REVOLVING PRISON.

I have had a long conversation with Mr. Round, in which he told me what was being done in the way of research and collection.

"Gentlemen representing the commissioners are now making arrangements to secure exhibits and models for every country on the face of the earth," said he. "The endeavor is to make the search absolutely exhaustive and there is no doubt that the result will be commensurate with the great diligence that is being employed. A building especially adapted to the needs of this display will be set apart by the World's Fair commissioners. Around its walls will stand rows of cells of every size and variety of arrangement. Many of them will be productions of those which have held prisoners whose names are known to every reader of history. The cells of the Mamertine prison where St. Paul was confined; the dismal dungeons of Inquisition; the living tombs of the Bastile; the strange torture chamber of Oriental barbarism all will be reproduced with the utmost fidelity possible.

"In each cell will be a life size wax figure showing the type of the man who once suffered therein. These figures will be clothed in perfect accord with the prison garb of the country and the time as the cap and the mask of the Belgians, or the stripes which are worn by prisoners in this country. The reproduction will be made exact even to the drinking cups and the plates in which food and water were offered to the prisoners.

There will be large models of all the famous prisons, showing the varying styles of architecture and the devices for defense against attack from without and security from insurrection within. Every variety of lock and bolt will be shown, from the massive bars and chains of old days, to the nice mechanical devices of the present time. The exact duplication of these places of detention will give the observer a chance to judge not only the degree of physical comfort possible under such conditions, but the effect likely to be produced upon the mind. The tortures of the Inquisition depended not only upon the persuasive power of physical suffering but upon the terrifying surroundings and the sense of helplessness.

"The milder punishment used in modern prisons will be shown with perfect fidelity to the facts. The appliance of capital punishment, the rope, the axe and the electric chair, will be there for the contemplation of the visitor."

"What will be done with these models after the fair?" I asked. "Will they go back to the senders?"

"Not all of them," he replied. "Of course many countries will contribute collections which they already have and these must be returned, but the others will form the nucleus of an American collection. Foreign nations will in most cases furnish their collections free of cost. For the rest the expense will be from $150,000 to $200,000. I feel certain that this display will be of great value. The subject of the treatment of the criminal classes is one of the most pressing that now engage the public attention. In this exhibit will be a vast store of information and food for reflection for any thoughtful person. I venture to say that it will be much visited and that it will do a vast deal of good."

Among the more modern devices is a plan for a revolving prison, where the unfortunate captives are somewhat like squirrels in cages. The intention is intended to be humane, however, and aims at nothing more disastrous to the prisoner than the certainty that he cannot escape. It also claims to absolutely protect prison officers from assaults of convicts. Ten cells are formed in a circular prison, somewhat as if they were slices cut symmetrically from a cheese. The dividing walls and the floors are of iron. The outside wall is built around the whole affair. Within it the circular, cellular contrivance revolves slowly, the idea being that no convict can work for any length of time on any one part of the wall which divides him from liberty. The revolution goes on only at night, and is so slow as to cause no discomfort, it is claimed. There is a mechanism by which the jailer can turn the cells round when he wishes to release or incarcerate a prisoner.

I saw a very interesting collection of pictures dealing with methods of punishment in Chinese prisons. Pleasant devices, they are, for securing human discomfort. I don't wonder that they are not furnished by anybody in China. They show some methods of tying up the offenders which are original and remarkable.

A fearful array of old time instruments of torture has been preserved for many years in Nuremburg, of which the original, or a faithful reproduction, will be on show at the fair.—New York World.

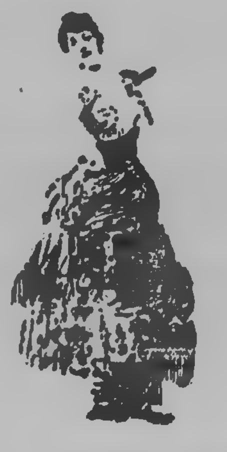
PHOTOS SENT BY WIRE.

A Girl May Now Telegraph Her Picture to Her Distant Lover.

The transmission of pictures by electricity is one of the latest applications of the subtle but extremely useful fluid, and the principle of this new discovery is somewhat similar to that on which the telephone is based, use being made of varying degrees of light, instead of sound, as in the telephone. In order to send a picture over a wire it is first photographed on what photographers call a stripping film, composed of gelatine and bichromate of potash. After the picture is transferred to this film the film is washed with lukewarm water, by which all but the lines of the picture are removed, leaving the photograph in relief.



A PICTURE AS RECEIVED BY TELEGRAPH.

The point of a tracing apparatus when drawn across this film from side to side rises and falls as it strikes each line of the picture. This wave-like motion of the tracer is made use of to produce similar motion in another tracing apparatus at the other end of the line by means of complicated electrical mechanism, and each depression and elevation in the picture is reproduced in a waxen cylinder on the receiving instrument. To accomplish this it is necessary to go entirely over the picture that is being transmitted, tracing lines across the surface. A single line conveys no idea of the picture, but as they follow each other they gradually outline the object. The sketch accompanying is from Electricity, and shows roughly what can be done by this process.

All those heating and itching humors of the scalp, so troublesome to many persons, are effectually cured by the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. If not attended to in time, these diseases are very liable to result in the loss of the hair.

It is the greatest blessing of the century to all in delicate health, or who suffer with coughs, colds and ailment that tend to consumption. Remember, Miller's Emulsion contains all the constituents found in wheat. It is used in the hospitals and asylums of the country. In big bottles, 50c. and $1. at Peterborough Drug Stores. dw

Death claims fallen in during 1890	143,961.65

The progress made by the SUN LIFE during 1890 was remarkable. The new business was the largest in the Company's history, and was equalled by but one other Canadian Life Company. The income for the year exceeds $2,000 for each day in the year, Sundays included. The Assets are large and rapidly increasing. They are, moreover, of the highest character, yielding an average interest of 6.04 per cent. The overdue interest is small, and the Real Estate owned under foreclosure is only four per cent. of the amount of mortgages. This is a remarkable showing. The SURPLUS accumulated during the FOUR years of the current quinquennium is nearly THREE TIMES as much as the amount earned during any previous FIVE years, and the profits to Policy-holders cannot fail thus to be highly satisfactory. The following are the figures:—

Net Surplus, 31st Dec., 1881, (five years)	$64 824 07
" " " " 1886,	80,452 97
" " " " 1890, (four years)	232,175 69

MY NECESSITY MAKES YOUR OPPORTUNITY.
This will be the Clearing Sale of the season, and takes place before stock-taking, at
THOMAS KELLY'S.
Th season is now far advanced and as there is only a short time to clear out the stock before stock-taking, I have decided to make this the Greatest Clearing Sale of the season by reducing the whole stock to such prices as will effect a speedy sale. We are determined not to carry any goods over another winter season. The goods are all new, of the finest quality and the prices that are asked, unprecedented.
The balance of our Colored Surah Silks will be sold at 20c. per yard. How is this for price?
The balance of our Black Satin Mervellieux at 50c., 60c., 75c. and $1 per yard, are Bargains.
Remnants of silk, Black and Colored, to be cleared out at half price. See them.
DRESS GOODS! DRESS GOODS!
The whole of our large stock of Dry Goods will be cleared out at a slight advance of cost. The array of bargains which we are offering in Dry Goods is simply amazing; everyone that requires Dry Goods, should call and inspect our stock and prices. Only one price to all.
NOW IS THE TIME TO GET WHITE AND GREY COTTONS AT MILL PRICES.
A Large Stock of Table Linens, Table Napkins, Sheetings, Tickings Quilts, Cretonnes, Grass Linens, Check Linens, Towels and Towellings Lace Curtains, Pillow Cottons, Toilet Covers, &c., very low in price.
5 Pieces Circular Pillow Cotton for 12½c per yard, and 46 in. wide.
The time is short to clear out the stock, so you can expect to get bargains. It is money we want, and we are determined to have it.

The Old Reliable Firm
IN THE FUR TRADE.
The only one manufacturing entirely their whole stock in town and having a record of over thirty years standing without shaking.
We never boast of selling goods at and below cost price, except when winter is drawing to a close; but we can assert that we are able to sell at and below prices offered by wholesale houses to the trade, and at the same time making up superior goods. Our stock this season is the largest we ever yet offered for inspection, and comprise all the latest styles, from the finest to the lowest grades of Ladies', Gentlemen's, and Children's Fur Goods.

"August Flower"

Dyspepsia. There is a gentleman at Malden-on-the-Hudson, N. Y., named Captain A. G. Pareis, who has written us a letter in which it is evident that he has made up his mind concerning some things, and this is what he says:

"I have used your preparation called August Flower in my family for seven or eight years. It is constantly in my house, and we consider it the best remedy for Indigestion, and Constipation we Indigestion. have ever used or known. My wife is troubled with Dyspepsia, and at times suffers very much after eating. The August Flower, however, relieves the difficulty. My wife frequently says to me when I am going to town, 'We are out Constipation of August Flower, and I think you had better get another bottle.' I am also troubled with Indigestion, and whenever I am, I take one or two teaspoonfuls before eating, for a day or two, and all trouble is removed." ●

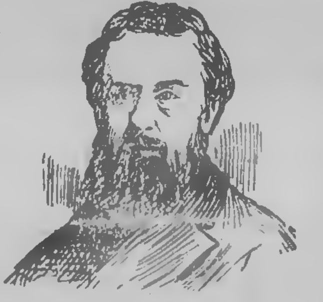
PASSING CELEBRITIES.

The Convicted Archbishop — Portrait of the Late Lord Lytton.

The Right Hon. Edward Robert Bulwer-Lytton, Earl of Lytton, the British Ambassador to France, died suddenly on the 24th Nov. about four o'clock in the afternoon.

Lord Lytton was alone in his room, being attended only by his valet, when he uttered a cry and fell dead.

His Lordship's death is deeply regretted in Paris. In the diplomatic world he had made many friends and especially among French politicians. He handled successfully the most difficult questions, and knew how to take care of the interests of his own country and be at the same time courteous and sympathetic in dealing with Frenchmen.



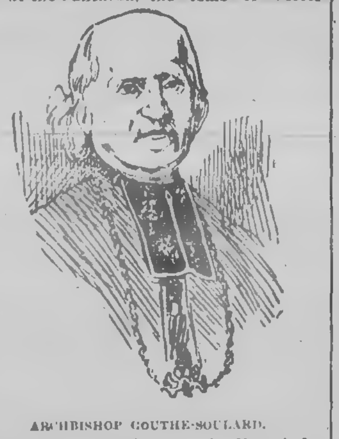
LORD LYTTON.

The ambassador was proud of having written poetry and romances. He was fond of receiving men of letters and artists. It is remembered that at the last garden party given at the grounds of the French Embassy last July, he was prouder of talking with a member of the French Academy than being joined by a princess in the Faubourg St. Germain. He was pre-eminently a man of letters, and they are becoming rarer in European cities. He was the son of the famous Sir Edward Bulwer-Lytton.

His death was due to heart disease.

A highly characteristic event took place in Paris on Tuesday, Nov. 24. Mgr. Gouthe-Soulard, Archbishop of Aix, came before the Court of Appeals in that city for having written an insulting letter to M. Fallieres, Minister of Justice and Public Worship.

The crime committed by the Archbishop was not a serious one. Last month some French pilgrims, who had gone to Rome, were accused of having written in the register at the Pantheon, the tomb of Victor Emanuel, "Vive le Pape-Roi!" [Hurrah for the Pope King.] This provoked a riot in Rome, and the French pilgrims were maltreated in the street.



ARCHBISHOP GOUTHE-SOULARD.

Archbishop Gouthe-Soulard protested against the action of the Italian government, and in a published letter accused Minister Fallieres of not having done his duty. M. Fallieres thereupon asked and obtained leave to prosecute the Archbishop for the insult.

The Archbishop is a little, energetic man. It is readily seen that he comes from the people.

He was formerly cure in the most populous quarter in Lyons, and was then appointed archbishop without having been bishop, which has never happened before since Fenelon and Cardinal Dubois.

After two and a half hours of deliberation the Court condemned the Archbishop for insult and outrage to a fine of 3,000f.

This is the first time that a French prelate has ever been condemned for an offence of this kind.

Panic at a Performance.

HAVANA, Dec. 3.—While the gymnasium and bath house belonging to Senor Romaguera was crowded with patrons yesterday a fire broke out in the building and the greatest excitement ensued. The flames spread so rapidly that many of the persons in the building were barely able to escape and 20 of them were seriously injured.

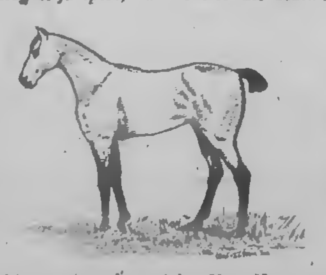
Tug Arbutus Burned.

WALLACEBURG, Ont., Dec. 3.—The tug Arbutus was burned at her dock here at an early hour yesterday. The fire broke out around the boiler and before assistance reached her she was nearly consumed. She is owned by William Patterson and valued at $6000; insured in some American company for $3500.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Roseberry, Late King of Jumpers.

Subjoined is a splendid representation of Mr. Pepper's 7-year-old dun gelding Roseberry, famous all the world over as the king of jumpers, who went to his death in Chicago Saturday night, 21st Nov., in a gallant attempt to clear an obstacle 7 feet 5½ inches in height with the sturdy Tim Blong, of Toronto, on his back.



Ephemeral Books.

Experts are predicting that the books of to-day will fall to pieces before the middle of the next century. The paper in the books that have survived two or three centuries was made by hand of honest rags and without the use of strong chemicals, while the ink was made of nut galls. To-day much of the paper for books is made, at least in part, of wood pulp treated with powerful acids, while the ink is a compound of various substances naturally at war with the flimsy paper upon which it is laid. The printing of two centuries ago has improved with age; that of to-day, it is feared, will within fifty years have eaten its way through the pages upon which it is impressed. A heartless publisher who threw out this hint added the sardonic comment that the question was highly unimportant to the great majority of authors.—New York Sun.

Electric Lights at Sea.

An extraordinary result has been obtained by some experiments made in England in signaling with electric lights turned vertically to the sky. The light of the Eddystone lighthouse can be seen only seventeen and a half miles, and then on a clear night; but a vertical beam of light of far less power is visible just twice as far, with a strong chance of its surmounting an ordinary fog.

ALL LONDON LISTENS TO THE RUSSEL DIVORCE SUIT.

The "Noble" Earl in His Defence—Supporting Another Woman Whom He Had Betrayed—He Denies the Many Stories of the Countess—Rich Costumes

LONDON, Dec. 4.—Sir Charles continuing his argument in the Russell divorce case ridiculed the idea that Earl Russell had kept a pistol for the purpose of shooting his wife. The quarrel between the Earl and Countess, which occurred at the Albemarle Hotel at the time they came to London to attend the levee, was not due to the Earl's compelling the Countess to act as valet to him, but to the fact that the Earl had refused to allow his wife to go to the Ascot races in the company of a man with whom he had every ground to forbid his wife associating.

The first witness for the defence was Prof. Roberts. The professor testified that he was friendly with the Earl at college. He had sung with the Countess and had thought her a charming hostess. The witness made a very emphatic denial of the actions imputed to him by the Countess in relation to Earl Russell.

The Earl Testifies.

Earl Russell now took the stand. He testified that he had never heard the slightest objection made to the presence of Prof. Roberts in the house. The witness had objected to his wife going to a certain lady's house, and based his objection on the fact that the lady was divorced. Countess Russell was very much put out by his objecting to her visiting the lady's house, and in the quarrel that followed with him he said to her: "If you say such things you will soon be sorry you married me."

The Countess replied: "So I am sorry."

The Earl declared he had never insisted that the Countess should dress him. If she had requested him to allow her to dress him he would not have let her do so. He was very much attached to her, and tried to make things pleasant for her. He objected to her going to Ascot for the reason that there were several persons there whom he did not wish her to meet. He positively denied that he had gone to the cabinet in search of a pistol. At the time alluded to his pistols were in the warehouse and there was not a single weapon of that description in the house. With reference to the charge that when the Countess on one occasion asked him after a row for £5 he threw her a half sovereign, the Earl said it was not true. He was about to give her the money she had asked for, when she said: "I don't want your dirty money." The Earl denied various other charges. He admitted that the Countess on one ocassion had boxed his ears.

The Bedroom Incident.

Sir Charles Russell then drew from the Earl his version of the bedroom incident when the Countess was found nude and in a faint on the floor. The Earl said that after he and his wife had retired he declared he would not go to Lord Salisbury owing to the refusal of the Countess to go to Amberley Cottage, the Earl's residence in Berkshire. The Countess got out of bed and fainted on the floor. When she came to he said: "How are you, darling?" She replied: "Don't you dare call me darling," and then threw a soap dish at him and made for him with a poker. She threatened to throw herself out of a window if he remained in the room with her.

The Earl declared that the statements made by the Countess that he left her and went to Roberts' bedroom were absolutely false. There was not the slightest reason to suggest any impropriety between himself and Roberts. Once when his wife was hysterical he had held her wrists to prevent her from tearing her dressing jacket to pieces. On returning to the Albemarle Hotel from the levee he had scolded the Countess because she had lunched with a divorcee who very well deserved to be divorced. The Earl admitted he had once used the word "barren" in conversation with his wife, but he had only used it in fun.

The evidence afforded a striking proof of the meanness and hardness of the Earl. Countess Russell was allowed by her husband only £2 a week for her personal expenses.

The respondent is the son of Viscount Amberley and the grandson of Lord John Russell. He was educated at Winchester and Balliol and is only 26 years of age. He was married 18 months ago to the daughter of Lady Scott, widow of Sir Claud Edward Scott, the banker.

Six Cigarets a Day.

The Earl stated he did not think his wife's health or nerves suffered during her married life. Her ailments were caused by unaccustomed restraints.

Sir Edward Clarke asked witness to give an instance of unaccustomed restraint.

The Earl replied that one instance was his limiting his wife to six cigarets a day. Witness declared he was not unduly anxious to have a son. He denied that he ever had sworn at his wife or called her a brute or a beast. He was much annoyed shortly after his marriage by learning that many of the Countess' debts were unpaid. Once a milliner came to the house and created a bother. The Countess came to witness and asked him to "get her out for God's sake," adding "she's screaming in the hall and I cannot get rid of her." The Earl stated he had never kept his wife up in the night to make up his accounts.

Sorry She Married Him.

Once the Countess told him she was "damned sorry" she had married him. When the Countess fainted in the bedroom he bathed her face with water and eau de cologne and tried every means to restore her to consciousness. She was perfectly rigid. He was frightened. When she recovered she went into a violent hysterical fit, and exclaimed, "Damn you."

Sir Edward Clarke cross-examined the Earl. He referred to the Earl's conduct before marriage, and the latter admitted that before he married her he seduced a servant, but he had told Lady Mabel Scott, his financee, all the circumstances, and she found that no reason to discard him.

Where £1 a Week Went.

The Earl admitted that he had been intimate with a girl named Williams. He had seduced her. This intimacy continued until within a short time of his engagement to Lady Mabel Scott. The girl brought an action against him for breach of promise of marriage. He paid £500 down and was to pay her £1 a week. He is still paying her this latter sum.

The Countess objected to his re-engaging a man-servant named Moyse, but he porsisted in his determination to take him back into his employ, saying that he was a good servant and was in no way connected with the Williams girl.

Sir Edward Clarke now went on a new tack. He started in by asking the Earl:

"When did you leave Oxford?

The Earl: In May, 1885.

Sir Edward: Had you been there a fall college course?

The Earl: No.

Sir Edward: Were you sent down?

The Earl: I was.

Sir Edward: What was the complaint against you?

The Earl: That I had written an improper letter.

Sir Edward: To a man or a woman?

The Earl: To a man, I suppose. I never saw the letter and never heard what it was or what was in it.

Sir Edward: Do you mean to say you were sent down on a complaint of which you had no details?

The Earl: I never knew any of the details. My college was Balliol. I left England for a time and went to America for seven months. I supposed the circumstances connected with my leaving college were known to my relations.

Sir Edward announced that he was through with the witness, and Sir Charles then proceeded to re-examine him. In reply to the questions put to him by his counsel, Earl Russell stated that Dr. Jowett was master of Balliol College while he was there. Having demanded but being refused an examination into the charge made against him in connection with the alleged improper letter, the witness had taken his name off the books of the college. Since leaving Balliol Dr. Jowett had invited him to visit him there and Dr. Jowett came to his wedding. Before his marriage he had told his fiancee's mother he had been "sent down" from Oxford and the nature of the charge againss him. He did not tell his future wife because her mother had requested him not to do so.

HER DIVORCE COURT DRESS.

Even in Her Deep Distress the Countess Wanted to Look Well.

LONDON, Dec. 4.—The plaintiff, the beautiful Mabel Edith, Countess of Russell, wore a stunning blue velvet dress, mind boa and chic hat. She is only 22 years of age, and has a reputation as a fine horsewoman who drives a tandem and is a good sculler. She is also known among her intimates as "the bad Countess."

Her pretty dress has a curious story behind it. A few days ago a visitor is said to have called and found her in an unusually bright and cheerful frame of mind. She wore the new frock, and she seemed particularly pleased with it.

"Do you like my new dress?" she asked.

The visitor very politely replied, "I think your Ladyship looks charming."

"Ah!" said the Countess with a little sigh of satisfaction, "I'm so glad you like it, because it's my divorce court dress. You know—the one I shall wear when my case comes off." Lady Scott, the mother of the Countess, is a beauty of a somewhat corpulent type, who wore a long fur coat which was thrown open and a tiny French bonnet on the back of her curly head.

The News Wins.

TORONTO, Dec. 4.—Ex-Ald. Macdonald's action for $12,000 against The Evening News for libel was tried at the assizes yesterday and dismissed.

The stock of hats and furs of Grant & Co., the insovent King-street furriers, is to be soid by auction at Suckling's, Tuesday, Dec. 15. This was decreed at a meeting of the creditors held yesterday morning in the office of Campbell & May. The stock is invoiced at $12,000 and will be sold in two lots. Liabilities are $12,859.65, of which $[illegible] is secured and $8688.10 unsecured. Mr. Grant made an offer of a lump sum for the assets, which was refused.

Adair Bros., dealers in pedlars' supplies, 55 and 59 York street, have struck a financial snag. The firm consists of James Adair and John Pearce, and the latter is interested in a store in Uxbridge. Liabilities are about $18,000 and assets consist of book debts $12,000 and stock $8000.

The firm was generally considered sound financially, being rated by the mercantile agencies at from $10,000 to $20,000. Campbell & May are taking stock, and a meeting of creditors will be held in the office of Haverson & St. John Saturday afternoon.

The principal creditors are cigar firms, among whom are J. M. Fortier, R. Harris & Co., L. O. Grothe of Montreal and Payne Bros. & McFarlane of Granby, Que.

THE REBELS ROUTED.

CHINESE TROOPS SLAY 600 OF THE INSURGENTS

Three Women Burned to Death in a Drink-Shop—They Went in to Secure a "Pint" and the Place Took Fire—Funeral of Lord Lytton.

LONDON, Dec. 4.—A despatch from Pekin says the Chinese Government has received an official report from Brigadier-General Nieh, commanding the troops in the Kinchow district, announcing that he engaged and defeated the rebels on Nov. 27 and 28, and killed their leader and 600 men. The general commanding Imperial forces at Jeho also announces a successful engagement with the rebels.

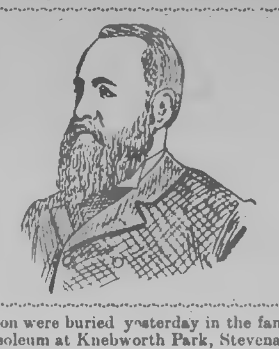
LONDON, Dec. 4.—The Chronicle's correspondent at Tien Tsin telegraphs: "It is reported that a band of rebels have murdered a Mongolian Prince, some villages have been sacked and looted and all native Christian residents have been found massacred. The mandarins are not attempting to stop butchery, which is being executed by an association called a temperance league, the object of which is the extermination of foreigners and Christians.

Sir John Walsham, British Minister to China, confirms the report of an outbreak of brigands west of Jebol and beyond the Great Wall, but says the 6000 picked troops which the Government has despatched to the scene ought to be able to quell the rising, and says no credence should be given to sensational reports.

LORD LYTTON'S FUNERAL.

Testimonials of Respect—Several Carriages Filled With Flowers.

LONDON, Dec. 4.—With a ceremony simple but impressive, the remains of Lord Lytton were buried yesterday in the family mausoleum at Knebworth Park, Stevenage, Hertfordshire.



The Marquis and Marchioness of Salisbury drove from Hatfield House to be present at the ceremony.

It took several carriages to convey the memorial flowers sent from all parts of the world from the railway station to the grave.

Among the wreaths sent was one of white and yellow immortelles from the Queen bearing the inscription: "A mark of sincere regard and friendship from Victoria, R.I."

The British Chamber of Commerce in Paris sent one of artificial flowers worked in beads. In fact, the mausoleum was literally filled with flowers.

Archdeacon Farrar officiated at the ceremonies. The Queen and the Prince of Wales sent representatives. The coffin was covered with the Union Jack, and upon the cover were wreaths that had been sent by the Queen and the Prince and Princess of Wales.

In London, St. Margaret's Church could not hold half the people who sought admission.

THEIR LIVES FOR THEIR "PINT."

Three Women Burned to Death in An English Drink Shop.

SUNDERLAND, Eng., Dec. 4.—A fire occurred in a drink shop yesterday which resulted in the death of three women who were taking a "pint." The flames, fed by the spirits in the place, spread with frightful rapidity. The women had no possible chance of escape. When found their bodies were burned out of all semblance of humanity. The landlord and his family escaped.

Killed by Whites.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—A telegram was received at the War Department yesterday from General Brock, saying that there had been no Indian disturbances in Arizona, so far as he is able to learn, and that the coroner's inquest in the case of McDaniel showed that he was killed by white men and not by Indians.

Drowned While Skating.

MONCTON, N.B., Dec. 4.—The 16-year-old son of James Welsh of Northwest Miramichi was drowned while skating. He stepped into the open water at the edge of the channel.

—THE—

GOLDEN LION.

You will find this a great store. The more you get acquainted with its ways, the more you will like it. You will always find great bargains here that will please you, as it does our regular customers. There are always bargains in every department.

Take for instance Jackets in their season. In a lot of 50 Cloaks of one kind, probably one or two will hang fire. Variety gone, price was, say $20 but the two go for $8 or $10 each. That's done every week. Last week we sold a Beautiful Embroidered imported Dolman that sold at $22 for $10.

For another example take Dress Goods. Some lines of our 50c. goods go for 35c. and 25c. and so on.

People that understand shopping ask for these goods and get them.

Did you know that shopping requires experience. We always keep a fresh stock by selling out the tail end clean, even if at a sacrifice. Nothing is carried over.

This week and for the coming month you will find exceptional bargains in Mantle Cloths.

Exceptionally large bargains in Men's and Boys' Overcoats.

If one price or style fails to suit, you ask for another. Don't be afraid of asking for what you want. Keep on until you get it. It's here. There are few stocks that excel ours outside of the large cities.

THE ELECTION TRIALS.

CONSERVATIVE MEMBER UNSEATED IN EAST ELGIN.

Bribery by Agents Proven to the Satisfaction of the Judges and Andrew Ingram, M.P., Unseated—The Peel Trial still in Progress at Brampton.

ST. THOMAS, Dec. 5.—On opening of court yesterday charge 61, that George Ponsford paid James Ponsford his traveling expenses from Denver, was dismissed.

Charges 65 to 75 and charge 78 were then taken up, all of which were that A. B. Ingram, George Ingram and George W. Davey had paid the traveling expenses of a number of voters from Detroit. Some hours were spent in taking evidence on these charges, resulting in their dismissal.

Mr. Cassels then said they proposed to withdraw the other charges. In regard to the charges with which Mr. Crothers' name is connected the petitioner had no desire to cast any imputation on those who were charged with bribery on account of that document. They had to blame the respondent's solicitor for it. This was one aspect of the case, and another was that the petitioner's solicitor was put to a good deal of trouble and expense summoning witnesses on charges based on this document, and it was not until the trial was commenced that Mr. Crothers made known that it was a joke. He regretted that the names of the persons mentioned in this document had any slur thrown upon them, as he understood they were respectable persons. If the question of costs on these charges should require to be considered he hoped that their lordships would bear the circumstances in mind.

Mr. Blackstock said he did not defend the action of Mr. Crothers, but Mr. Cassels was trifling with the court when he said that they abandoned the remainder of the charges because of this document. Of the 119 charges not more than one-sixth of them were based on this document. The fact was the court house was now crowded with the petitioner's witnesses on other charges, but counsel had not called them. It was to be regretted that Mr. Crothers had acted as he did, and probably no one regretted it now more than Mr. Crothers. Mr. Ingram knew nothing of this, and it would be a great hardship to him to have to pay costs for the acts of another.

Justice Burton then said when it was first mentioned that the document drawn up by Mr. Crothers was a joke he could hardly conceive of a solicitor of this court acting in such a way. Had Mr. Crothers been a younger man he would not have been so much surprised, but even then it might have been expected that when it was found that the joke was being taken seriously that the perpetrator of it would have apologized to the petitioner's solicitor.

His Lordship then proceeded to speak of the question of agency, and said that this election bore very close resemblance to the Haldimand election, in that effort was made to conceal agency and was conducted throughout in a very peculiar manner. He and his learned brothers each held that the delegates to the convention nominating a candidate and those taking an active part to promote his election with his knowledge were agents. Applying this doctrine to the particular cases under consideration it appeared that Lorenzo Jones was solicited by the candidate. He at first refused, but afterwards worked for him, and they must hold him as an agent. In regard to Caughell, unless the view were taken that Caughell perjured himself they must conclude that he understood William Ingram to authorize him to pay the money. Ingram says he gave no promise, and it is probable that he believed he was telling the truth when he said so, but it is possible in the hurry of the day he had forgotten it. In regard to the Ayres case they must hold that the money was paid for the intention of inducing him to vote.

There was then the question of agency to consider. Ponsford was taking an active part in the election, if not with the knowledge of the respondent with that of his brother, and had circulated the nomination papers. They must hold that Ponsford was an agent.

The election therefore was void. If the respondent desires to carry the question of agency further they would place their views in writing.

Justice MacLennan said he concurred with his learned brother as to the conduct of Mr. Crothers. It bore the evidence of being carried out with deliberation, being the work of some days. He also stated at some length his reasons for concurring in Justice Burton's decision on the question of agency. He also expressed the opinion that Mr. Ingram was telling the truth, but they had to consider the probability of Caughell's statement, which was in favor of its being true.

Costs of the charges proven are to be borne by the respondent. The respondent gets the costs of all charges withdrawn or abandoned, except the Crothers charges. In these appellants pay their own costs, and the respondent does not incur any costs by reason of these charges having been made. The trial was concluded at 1 o'clock p.m.

A BAG OF DYNAMITE

CAUSES A DREADFUL EXPLOSION IN RUSSELL SAGE'S OFFICE

A Crank Demands $2,000,000 and Then Blows Himself and the Office Into Fragments—Many People Wounded—Russell Sage Severely Burned.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—At 12.15 yesterday a small, shabbily-dressed man, apparently about 35 years old, carrying a brown leather handbag, called at Russell Sage's office in the floor of 71 Broadway and asked to see Mr. Sage. Mr. Sage, who was in an inner office, came out to see what was the matter. He asked the man what he wanted. The man said: "I demand a private interview with you." Sage replied that it would be impossible for him to see the man then, but he might possibly do so later in the day. The man continued to demand a private interview then and there, and said: "If you will not give me $1,200,000 I will blow you all to pieces." Sage ordered him to leave the office. On this the man dropped the leather bag and an explosion, which shook the entire block, instantly followed. Mr. Sage was thrown across the room and stunned. W. R. Laidlaw, Mr. Sage's chief clerk, who had turned away and was standing within a few feet of the two, was also thrown across the office and had one leg badly lacerated. The stranger, whose name was Lord, was killed.

There were in the offices when the explosion occurred six or eight men, clerks of Sage, and a young woman employed as a typewriter. The latter was killed instantly. Both legs were blown off and the lower part of her body was fearfully gashed and mutilated.

Upon the street the sound was like that of the discharge of a heavy cannon. The usual crowd was in Broadway and Wall and the adjacent streets were filled with bankers, brokers and business men. For an instant everyone held his breath and then looked for the cause of the shock. From the arcade heavy clouds of smoke poured out of the gaping spaces where the windows had been. The sidewalk in front of the building was strewn with broken glass and splintered fragments of wood.

The scene in the wrecked office of Russell Sage after the explosion was one of ruin and chaos, furniture being wrecked, ceilings demolished and part of the brickwork demolished.

In a hall way just outside the door leading to Mr. Sage's main office, was found the shockingly mangled body of a man. The trunk and legs were in a state that would have made recognition impossible, but the head, which the police report as having been severed from the body, showed few marks of the explosion. As the trunk and legs lay in a net of robe brought by the firemen, they looked like a bundle of ragged old clothes and were absolutely without human semblance. The man wore a pointed reddish beard. The face looked like that of a man of education.

The police from time to time, brought little clots of blood from the office and lay them carefully with the body. There was blood on the wall close to the door, through which the man had apparently struggled. These remains have since been recognized as those of the dynamiter

What was left by the explosion of the madman's body was laid out for burial. The head was there, blackened, but neither cut nor disfigured in any way. It was cut off at the top of the neck and looked for all the world like the mask of a man 35 or 40 years old, with a full beard that might have been long, but was now burned close to the chin and neck. Then there was a leg, the right; the left foot and hand—that was all. The body proper was gone; of neither chest nor abdomen was a trace found. The leg that was there was broken and twisted. Such shreds of clothing as were found showed that the man had worn trousers of a blue plaid, a black overcoat and long black stockings. He had been careful to divest himself of everything that might disclose his identity.

The list of the dead and injured, so far as now known, is as follows:

H. H. WILSON, alias Lord, the thrower of the bomb, frightfully mangled and torn.

B. F. NORTON of Far Rockaway, 30 years old, died in Chambers-street Hospital.

UNKNOWN MAN, head and fragments of body picked up on floor and walls of Russell Sage's office, supposed to be a clerk of Mr. Sage's.

UNKNOWN MAN, portions of whose mutilated remains were found in the hallway outside of Sage's office.

Missing: J. F. Menzie, 25 years old, typewriter and stenographer to Russell Sage, said to have been blown up by the explosion. May be one of the unknown dead.

Russell Sage, millionaire broker and investor, bleeding from many cuts in the head, partly unconscious.

J. J. Slocum, gashed and cut about the face, but not seriously, able to walk away.

C. W. Osborne, cashier of Russell Sage, cut, gashed and bruised from head to foot, and probably internally injured, will die.

William Lalor, Wall-street broker, cut about the face, and head and bruised. At hospital, suffering from shock.

W. R. Laidlaw at hospital, suffering from many injuries.

Samuel C. Calhoun, telegraph operator, badly bruised.

Frank Robertson, broker's clerk, badly lacerated and cut; may die.

Unconscious man, supposed to be Samuel Biern of Hiawatha, Ks., identification assumed from documents found in pocket. The fragments of bodies were taken to the Morgue.

Mr. Sage, in conversation after the explosion, was quite cool and collected, and said he considered it was a deliberate plot to kill himself and to destroy the building. The man with the hand-bag was a total stranger to him. He insisted upon presenting Mr. Sage with his card, but he declined to accept it. Mr. Sage was completely covered with dust and his clothing was blown into tatters.

It was said that thousands and possibly millions of dollars worth of bonds and stocks were in the office of Sage & Co. at the time the explosion occurred and that they were lost. It is a fact that the following notice was sent out: "Parties who have received stocks or have delivered stocks to Russell Sage & Co. will kindly notify Frederic Taylor & Co. of numbers of certificates and what stocks, also what checks and the amounts."

Mr. Sage made the following statement to Inspector Byrnes: "I came out of my office, having been sent for. I found there a man with a satchel. He handed me a card with the name H. D. Wilson on it. He said he came from John D. Rockefeller and at the same time handed me a type-written letter in a sealed envelope. It was addressed to me. I opened it and found it was a demand upon me for the immediate payment of a million and a quarter dollars. The letter stated that if the money was not given up at once to the presenter of the letter that he would blow me, himself and the entire place up with dynamite. I read the letter and, placing it in the envelope, handed it back to him and turned to go into my private office when the explosion occurred."

One of the chief reasons for the inspector's visit was for the purpose of determining the identity of the severed head which was taken to the house in a basket and shown to Mr. Sage, who immediately identified it as that of his murderous visitor, thus settling that point in the case. From the conformation of the features the head was evidently that of a man of Hebraic descent and Mr. Sage says that he never saw him before to-day.

At Mr. Sage's residence to-night it was stated that with the exception of a slight cut on the forehead, Mr. Sage is all right and had retired at 10.30 o'clock.

SET ON FIRE BY A GANG.

Incendiaries Operating At St. Paul To Secure the Insurance Money.

ST. PAUL, Dec. 5.—One of the most diabolical conspiracies ever concocted was made public here to-night in the arrest of two members of a gang of incendiaries, who for over a year have made a regular business of setting fire to houses and stores in various parts of the city for the purpose of securing a portion of the insurance money. The scheme was unearthed by the clever work of the Thiel detective service, which has men detailed on the case for two months. The detectives managed to gain the confidence of the gang and nabbed them in the very act of applying the lighted match which was intended to destroy property.

At 8.15 to-night Morris Michael, in company with detective Floyd, fired a building upon which a policy of insurance had been obtained by Floyd, the understanding being that Michael was to receive a part of the insurance.

Michael was arrested just as he had closed and locked the outside door and was leaving the house. Floyd had also trapped Michael into a confession that he had burnt the five houses in West St. Paul on the percentage of insurance plan.

EACH GAVE SOME SKIN.

Nine Grand Rapids (Mich.) Children Help to Heal a Little Girl's Wounds.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Dec. 5.—Nine of the young friends of Blanch Thompson came to her rescue to-day and by contributing pieces of their skin gave her a chance to regain the use of her right arm.

When two years old Blanch fell into a tub of hot water, and her right, shoulder, arm and side were severely scalded. Surgical science had not reached its present degree of perfection, and when the wound healed it left her a cripple.

To-day Lucy Jones, the two daughters of Benjamin Laubeck, the daughter of John Post, Frank Cameron, Guy Stanton and George Pitts bared their arms and allowed the surgeons to cut bits of their skin out to furnish grafts for their friend's wounds. The girls underwent the ordeal as heroically as the boys, and the surgeons entertain the brightest hopes that the operation will be a success. The unfortunate girl is 14 years old and the eldest of her friends is 16.

TEN WERE KILLED.

A Wall Falls At St. Paul With Terrible Results.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Dec. 5.—The central wall of the burned Sheppard building fell in yesterday, burying the workmen beneath the ruins. There were supposed to have been 15 men beneath the wall at the time it fell and the majority of them were killed or received injuries which will prove fatal. At least 10 men were killed. In less than half an hour there had been taken out ten men, five of whom were dead and five injured, one so seriously that the physicians at the ground stated that he could not live until he reached the hospital. Later the contractor, Wilcox, was taken out dead, his body being mangled beyond recognition.

ELOPED WHEN A SCHOOL GIRL.

First Wrong Step of a Woman Who Tried to Slay Her Husband.

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio, Dec. 5.—The mystery that has surrounded Mrs. Nannie Nichols since her incarceration a week ago for trying to murder her husband in a fit of jealousy has at last been cleared away. She is pretty, refined, and well educated. Her husband is the opposite. She refused to tell the residences of relatives, because, she said, "I must atone for my own sins."

The public authorities received a letter to-day from the woman's father who is R. Lunsford, a prominent resident of Cabell county, W. Va., which explains all. She came from a wealthy family, her father owning three big plantations and scores of slaves before the war. He was a Confederate officer. She eloped at the age of 17 with Nichols from a boarding school. Nichols, who is still in a dangerous condition, is only a poor rough quarryman.

Coal Train Wrecked.

SEATTLE, Wash., Dec. 5.—A train on the Columbia & Puget Sound Railroad was wrecked last evening near Black Diamond. It was a coal train with a passenger car on the end. Ten cars and the coach rolled down a high embankment and a dozen passengers were injured.

Stricken on the Sidewalk.

GALT, Dec. 5.—Andrew McIlwraith, cashier in the Gore District Mutual Fire Insurance Company's office here, fell in a faint on the sidewalk while going home from a school board meeting, accompanied by his son-in-law, about 10 o'clock to-night. He was picked up and carried into a doctor's office, but death ensued within half an hour. Heart failure was the cause of the sudden death. The deceased was about 58 years of age.

Possible Vacancy in Lanark.

OTTAWA, Dec. 5.—The Almonte Gazette (Liberal) affirms positively that Mr. Jamieson, the Conservative member for North Lanark, will be made a judge in a few days and that Mr. Bennett, Rosamond, will be the new Conservative candidate.

State of Trade.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—Reports to Bradstreet's say general trade in Canada is irregular and disappointing in some lines. Wheat exports from Montreal have declined and trade generally in the Province of Quebec has been duller owing to milder weather. The wheat crop of Ontario and Manitoba is reported to exceed that of 1890 by 23,000,000 bushels.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1891.

THE Toronto Telegram aptly remarks — Mick and Nick Connolly are getting all the fun, B. B. Osler, Q.C., is getting most of the money, and the country has yet to discover what it is getting out of the state trials at Ottawa.

ON Thursday afternoon a delegation from the Kingston Reform Association waited on Mr. Alexander Gunn, the unsuccessful Liberal candidate there at the late elections, and obtained from him a promise to contest that constituency in the Liberal interest in the forthcoming election. The Reformers are counting on the work done by them at the revision of the voters' lists to give them victory in the coming contest. Mr. Gunn is personally popular.

THE Tory party is not evidently a happy and harmonious family. The Tory newspapers are attacking the cabinet ministers in a manner that suggests something decidedly out of order in the internal economy of the cabinet and its supporters. Wednesday the Montreal Gazette called upon Premier Abbott to fulfil at once his pledge to reconstruct his cabinet, arguing that something must be done to inspire the public with confidence in the stability and capacity of the ministry before the coming bye-elections, and hinting at probable disaster to the Conservative party unless the cabinet can be strengthened. Thursday the Ottawa Citizen, which is run by Mr. C. H. Mackintosh, M. P. for Ottawa city, joins in the cry for the immediate decapitation of some of the present cabinet ministers and the infusion of "new blood" into the government. This looks like a concerted movement by some of the supporters of the government to force the premier's hand and cause the retirement of some of the present ministers. The Gazette contends, in effect, that the cabinet, as at present composed, is very weak and unpopular. The Citizen concurs. La Presse wants to know when the promises made to Mr. Chapleau are to be fulfilled.

The Dominion Franchise Act.

It Originates a Court "Scene" Paralleled in Disgraceful Character, Only by its Own.

Stratford has had the distinction of the most disgraceful scene that has so far been reported in connection with the revision of voters' lists. It came about in a surprising way. About five hundted names of Tories had been added to the lists on the declaration of certain persons who were alleged to know all about the voters, and at the final revision the Liberal counsel called several persons who admitted that they had signed these declarations without knowing any thing about them or their effects. As a result several names were dropped, and as the process of elimination promised to be indefinite, the counsel for the Conservatives Mr. Shaw, became quite angry. He disputed the right of the court to remove the names once they were put upon the lists, and the revising officer said they would have to go unless the defence assumed the onus of showing that they should remain. Then occurred this brilliant passage of arms:—

Mr. Shaw—I refuse to take the onus.

The revising officer—But I place the onus upon you. I placed these names on the list, relying upon the reliability of the declaration.

Mr. Shaw—Your business was to ascertain if they were proper declarations before the names were placed on the list. The names having been placed on the list I have a right to assume that they are properly there.

The returning officer—Now, Shaw, I have no fault to find with the declarations. Both parties in South Perth used these omnibus declarations, and wherever they were shown to be defective I insisted that the onus of proof rested with the parties who made the declaration.

Mr Shaw now became very much excited and undertook to bulldoze the judge.

The returning officer—Now that is quite sufficient, Mr. Shaw.

Mr. Shaw (waving his arms frantically)—Well, then all I have to say is that you told me in your office when the lists were being prepared that you did not care what names we put on or how many—the more the better—and winked at me at the same time (imitating the wink.)

The revising officer (smarting under a base accusation)—You are an infamous liar.

Mr. Shaw—Then you are a —— —— liar.

The revising officer was dumbfounded for a moment. When he regained his composure he said, "I distinctly told you that the declarations had to be regular."

"You told me no such thing," replied Shaw.

The revising officer—It is a disgrace to the Conservative party to have such a man as you represent them. I will give you one minute to retract the charge and apologise before I fine you for contempt.

"You fine me and when I get you outside I will give you such a threshing that you will never forget."

The revising officer requested Mr. Shaw to withdraw, and as he refused to do so a police officer was called in. Then the revising officer recalled any harsh language he had employed and demanded that Mr. Shaw should do the same. Mr Shaw consented to withdraw the profanity he had employed, but not the charge that he had acted in regard to his declaration upon the advice of the revising officer. This was not acceptable, and, after a fine of $5 had been imposed, the police removed Mr. Shaw from the room. The incident is one of the most exciting that has occurred in a court house for some time, and at the same time it is one of the most degrading. It is the legitimate outcome of the iniquity with which the franchise act was conceived and carried into execution. It has suggested a great deal of wickedness which even the hidebound Tory cannot stand, and against which all honest men must protest. Long since the Conservative party become wearied of it, and practically disowned it. The last revision of the lists under it has not been justified by past experience, and the inferences of the present, including that which forms the extract, cannot be palliated or defended.—Whig, Kingston.

Weakness of sight is frequently the result of general debility. When the blood is impoverished every organ and sense suffers. As and effective, powerful, and economical tonic-alterative, Ayer's Sarsaparilla may be relied on every time.

For several years I was presistently annoyed with an excessive accumulation of Dandruff and although using various preparations recommended and champooing regularly once a week, no material relief was realized until my attention was called to Anti-Dandruff, which has produced unlooked for results in my case, four applications removing every particle of Dandruff and as a specific for this trouble it certainly has no equal.

Yours truly, W. T. ROBINSON.

A GREAT BOON

To the citizens of Peterborough. Having seen the necessity of an office in Peterborough where parties having accounts to collect would have some reliable place to go to, I have availed myself of the opportunity and have established such an office where I make account collecting a specialty. Parties having accounts to collect will do well to place them in my hands where they will be promptly attended to. As a rule all business men are poor collectors, therefore, they let their accounts run on from year to year when they should have the cash. Now all the Dry Goods, Grocers, Druggists. Doctors, Furniture Dealers, Harness Makers, Barbers, Real Estate Brokers, Bakers, Bankers, Ministers and any other business men not mentioned here and having accounts to collect, will do well to call on me. Now the reason I can collect better than other men, is, I go and take the account personally to the parties, therefore, I must get some answer. I also do a Real Estate business, buying, selling and renting town and country property; money lending, discounting notes, also insurance, fire, life and accident.

St. Andrew's Church Well Filled to Hear the Rev. J. E. Starr—Good Work Done by the Association—The Bible Proved to be the Best Guide for Young Men in Life—Infidel Theories Demolished and Colonel Ingersoll Refuted.

It was a large and most appreciative congregation that greeted the Rev. J. E. Starr last evening in St. Andrew's church. Notwithstanding the fact that Jupiter Pluvius had made such a vigorous use of his watering can during the day as to make the streets in some places well nigh impassible, the knowledge that Toronto's popular and eloquent preacher would give the annual address to the Y M.C.A., brought together one of the largest congregations that St. Andrew's church has seen for some time, the fair sex showing their strong sympathy with the work of the Association by attending in even larger numbers than the sterner sex. This large body of people had gathered together with the expectation of seeing an old Peterborough favourite in the person of Mr. Starr and of hearing one of his characteristic and vivacious addresses. They were not disappointed. It is some time since the young men of this town had an opportunity of hearing such a sound and practical address as that given last night.

Mr. G. J. Early, president of the association occupied the chair and was supported on the platform by Mr. R. J. Colville, General Secretary, Rev. J. E Starr, Toronto, Rev. J. Thom, Ashburnham, and Rev. Messrs. Trotter and A. McWilliams of Peterborough.

THE SERVICE OPENED

by the singing of the hymn "The Church's one Foundation," followed by the reading of the second chapter of the Apostle Paul's second epistle to Timothy, by the Rev. Mr. Trotter, and the opening prayer led by Rev. Mr. Thom. The Y.M.C.A. orchestra then rendered the piece "Hark what mean those holy voices," in splendid style proving that they must have practiced diligently to attain their present state of efficiency. The chairman announced that the usual committee reports would not be received until the annual meeting in January, and called upon the secretary to give a brief resume of the past years work.

Mr. COLVILLE in his remarks spoke of the mighty influence for good the Association had been in the town during the past year, and showed that God's blessing had attended their efforts. While regretting that sufficient money had not been raised to meet the wishes of the late Mrs. Nicholls by erecting a new building of their own, yet the work had grown so largely and the importance of it had been recognized so great, they had been under the necessity of obtainining new and more convenient rooms. These it was hoped would be ready for opening next Friday, the 11th inst. Attention was next drawn to the various departments of the Association, what they had accomplished, and what was hoped would be done in the more convenient premises they were entering, not only in the physical and social department, but also in the spiritual. Reference was also made to the junior branch of the Association, what necessary and important work it was to catch the boys of the town, before reaching that age in which they thought no one was so wise as themselves, before they had grown to be so conceited as to think that whatever they did was right, whether contrary to the teaching of their parents and ministers or not. Mr. Colville concluded his earnest and thoughtful remarks by an appeal to the friends of the Association present to aid them in their work, and he gave a hearty invitation to all who wished to visit the rooms.

After singing the hymn "For Thy Mercy and Thy Grace," the Rev. J. E Starr was called upon to give the annual address.

THE YOUNG MAN'S GUIDE,

The reverend gentleman in introducing his subject spoke of the Bible having been mentioned as a book full of fables and fictions, and referred to the prophecy made by Voltaire of the time when men should have found out the folly of reading the Bible and would read his works. More than fifty years had elapsed and where was the prophecy? Voltaire's works were relegated to the top shelves of the libraries. Very few people cared to read them, but the Bible could be found in every home. It was the livest and most useful book of the day, and had been translated into more than two hundred and fifty different languages and dialects. It had such a large circulation that two copies were being printed every minute, night and day, and it had been sent throughout all the known world, carrying on its way blessings and benedictions.

The preacher then gave as his topic, "Spirit Illumined, the Bible the only Safe Guide for Young Men."

Reference was made to the way in which the Bible should be read, both with the spiritual faculty searching out the spiritual truth, and the imagination. In this way many beauties would be discovered in it that would be hidden to the cursory reader.

THE BIBLE IN BUSINESS.

"The Bible is the only safeguard to young men in business," was next touched upon, and incidents were related bearing upon this fact. Young men who take the Bible with them into their business will, all other things being equal, succeed better than those who do not. Business success and failure was one of the Bible's chief topics. Adam, the first gardener, was a failure owing to having too much Satan and too little Bible; the same with Lot, he invested in real estate in a bad part of the country, in wicked Sodom. He did not heed the Bible teachings and was punished. Jacob tried to get up a corner on pottage, and failed.

The business man's manual was shown to be in the heart of the Bible. The Book of Proverbs was the finest business guide ever published. Abraham, David and Daniel were cited as men who had acted according to the word of God and had met with great success in their lives. The Bible was shown also to be the only safe guide to morals. Even so-called infidels had to admit that the moral code of the Bible was perfect. An instance was given of one who had studied it and tried to find a flaw, but confessed that he could neither add to nor take away from it. There were six other Bibles in the world, but none of them contained moral teachings equal to the Bible of the Christian. There was no vice it did not condemn and no virtue that was not commended in it. John Stuart Mill astonished his friends by saying in one of his posthumous essays that the best way to live was to shape one's life after the manner of Jesus Christ. The Bible was shown to be closely allied to progress, and quite as necessary as both Reformers and Conservatives were to the progress of a country.

SCIENTISTS AND THE BIBLE.

The objections raised by scientists as to the truth of the Bible formed the next part of the discourse, the different branches of science being dealt with, and Col. Ingersoll's favorite theory, that there must have been light before the sun was made, as fossil remains of fishes had been found that contained eyes, was refuted by the speaker, who produced evidence from both geologist, botanist and astronomer, proving Ingersoll to be in the wrong. Proofs were also obtained from the excavations made in Egypt by antiquarians of the authenticity of the Old Testament narrative referring to the size of Nineveh and its destruction both by fire and water. The condition of England before receiving the Bible was vividly portrayed and contrasted with her present prosperous condition, and conclusive evidence was produced proving that it was owing to the Bible and its influence on the people of that country that she stood in the high position she now occupies. The reverend gentleman concluded his discourse by urging upon all young men and others present the great need there was for them to take God's Word as a guide through their life, and appealed to them to read it thoroughly and prayerfully, and to follow out its teaching in all their actions, and then when life's battle was over would come the time when we could

PILLOW OUR HEADS ON JESUS.

The address was followed by an anthem "Praise ye the Lord" which was excellently given by the choir, after which Mr. Roger moved and Mr. Turnbull seconded a vote of thanks to Mr. Starr for his address which was carried. In acknowledging the vote, the preacher drew attention to the cool treatment experienced by young men in a great many churches, and appealed to all Christians not to freeze them out of the prayer meeting and the church but give them a helping hand. More young men went to Satan through neglect and want of an outstretched hand to welcome them, than by any other course.

After the secretary of the Y.M.C.A. Mr. Colville had given his announcements, the hymn "Blest be the tie that binds" was sung and this most successful service was concluded with prayer and benediction pronounced by the Rev. A. McWilliams.

Enjoying a Blessing.

DEAR SIRS,—Last summer my younger sisters were taken very badly with croup, indeed we were almost in despair, having little hope of curing them. Finally we applied Hagyards Yellow Oil, and to our great joy it cured them perfectly, and they are now enjoying the blessing of perfect health.

dw ANNIE JOHNSTON, Dalhousie, N.B.

"Like Magic,"

THE effect produced by Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Colds, Coughs, Croup, and Sore Throat are, in most cases, immediately relieved by the use of this wonderful remedy. It strengthens the vocal organs, allays irritation, and prevents the inroads of Consumption; in every stage of that dread disease, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral relieves coughing and induces refreshing rest.

"I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in my family for thirty years and have always found it the best remedy for croup, to which complaint my children have been subject."—Capt. U. Carley, Brooklyn, N. Y.

"From an experience of over thirty years in the sale of proprietary medicines, I feel justified in recommending Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. One of the best recommendations of the Pectoral is the enduring quality of its popularity, it being more salable now than it was twenty-five years ago, when its great success was considered marvelous."—R. S. Drake, M. D., Beliot, Kans.

"My little sister, four years of age, was so ill from bronchitis that we had almost given up hope of her recovery. Our family physician, a skilful man and of large experience, pronounced it useless to give her any more medicine; saying that he had done all it was possible to do, and we must prepare for the worst. As a last resort, we determined to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and I can truly say, with the most happy results. After taking a few doses she seemed to breathe easier, and, within a week, was out of danger. We continued giving the Pectoral until satisfied she was entirely well. This has given me unbounded faith in the preparation, and I recommend it confidently to my customers."—C. O. Lepper, Druggist, Fort Wayne, Ind.

Birthday Presentation to Mrs. Seward.

A pleasant and social gathering was that which took place last evening in the school room of George street Methodist church to meet Mrs. Seward, wife of the talented organist of that church, and a highly respected member of the choir, and wish her many "happy returns of the day." After supper had been disposed of, Mr. W. H. Manning, on behalf of the choir, presented Mrs. Seward with a fur cape as a mark of their appreciation of her services. Mrs Seward was quite taken by surprise, but expressed her thanks to the members of the choir for their kind gift. The remainder of the evening was spent in social intercourse, and a happy and pleasant time was enjoyed by all.

Last Night's Concert.

A Successful Evening's Musical Enjoyment —A Good Programme Well Presented.

The disagreeable weather was doubtless largely responsible for the rather limited attendance at the concert given in Bradburn's Opera House under the auspices of St Luke's church, Ashburnham, on Friday evening, but those who were present spent an enjoyable and most hilarious evening.

The programme presented, opened with a capitally performed overture by the Peterborough Amateur Orchestra, which also opened the second part with another smoothly and splendidly performed selection. Jas. Fax, the comic vocalist, was the fun-maker of the evening. He was down on the programme for four songs, but so strongly did his excruciatingly funny and comically absurd productions appeal to the popular taste, that he was encored doubly and trebly, and he only got clear by singing about a dozen songs. Mr. Fax makes immense fun, and never fails to capture the boys. Any dyspeptic who may have been in the hall last night, must feel better this morning. Miss Fawcett appeared to excellent advantage in her song "Camelia and Rose," which she sang with much sweetness and taste, and fully earned the warm applause she received. Her second number, "The Willow Copse," was equally well sung, and received a hearty encore to which the fair singer responded with a bow. Mrs. J. E. McIntyre sang, with judiciously mingled strength and sweetness "Marguerite," and in response to her well-earned encore gave "Bonnie Sweet Bessie." She also sang with Mr. Thos. Dunn in a splendidly rendered duo, "Love and War." Their voices blended beautifully, and the shading was judicious and exceedingly effective. An encore was heartily demanded, and Mr. Dunn responded by singing in fine voice and style, "Close to my heart." Miss Lily Jackson deserves much praise for the fine manner in which she sang the gypsy ballad "Esmeralda." The appreciation of her good singing was shown by the encore call, which brought out the youthful prima donna in a semi-humourous selection "The Spider and the Fly." Some of this young lady's cadenzas, were worthy a singer of mature years and practice. In a strictly musical sense the gem of the evening was the harpsichord solo performed by Mr. L. Seward, on an instrument over 100 years old, the selection the andante cantabile movement of Mozart's 5th Sonata, composed about a hundred years ago —1791 or 1792. The timid, tinkling tones of this spenet, virginal, harpsichord, or whatever name it should have, were a great contrast to the tones of a modern pianoforte, with its loud and soft pedals. Mr. Seward showed the venerable tinkler to the best possible advantage. In response to a recall, Mr. Seward, out of deference to the venerable instrument, invited the audience to join, which they did, in singing "Auld Lang Syne," to which he played the accompaniment. The concert throughout was a pleasant musical success. Mr. Fred Clarke played the accompaniments in a very satisfactory manner.

Mechanics, Labourers and Investors.

If you will look up our list of Cheap Homes in the EXAMINER of the 2nd inst., you should be able to find something of interest to you. Comfortable homes at such low prices and in the centre of the town are very seldom offered, consequently many of you who walk miles to and from your work, should grasp this opportunity and not be regretting when they are gone to those who are more alive to their own interest. Investors compare notes. We offer to sell you a House and Lot for $550 00 now. $550 in bank at 4 per cent. will give you $22 per year, and the rent of this house will yield from $66 to $72 per year and it is never idle and is constantly growing in value. Act wisely and buy to-day.

CONDITIONS:

A Sealed Jar containing Peas, Beans and Hazel Nuts, will be placed in the show window of THE PETERBOROUGH BOOKSTORE, and for every Dollars worth of Goods bought between 6 o'clock p.m. to night (Dec. 5th), and 12 o'clock, midnight, on New Year's Eve, the purchasers will have a ticket containing a blank space for name and figures of the purchaser's guess at the number of articles contained in the sealed jar. The tickets will be deposited in a sealed ballot box in THE PETERBOROUGH BOOKSTORE. Immediately after the competition closes the sealed jar will be handed over to a competent and trustworthy committee, who will carefully and correctly count the articles in the sealed jar, compare them with the numbers guessed, and award the

First Prize GOLD WATCH To the Lady or Gentleman guessing the exact, or nearest the exact number of articles in the sealed jar, and

Second Prize SILVER WATCH To the Lady or Gentleman guessing the exact, or nearest the exact number of articles in the sealed jar, and Third Prize CARVING SET To the Lady or Gentleman guessing the exact, or nearest the exact number of articles in the sealed jar.

The above prizes are genuine goods of substantial value, and of the best manufacture. The first prize ladies' watch is a 14-carat, solid gold, hunting case, full-jewelled, stem-winding Waltham watch, worth $50 00, and the alternate prize; the gentleman's gold watch, is of equal quality and value; the winner of the first prize may make choice and take either watch. The second prize, the silver watch, is a three ounce hunting-case, full-jewelled, compensating Elgin Company watch, worth $20.00, The third prize, carving set, is buck-horn handle, silver steel, Sheffield make.

In case of two persons guessing the same number, the prize will be awarded to the guess contained on the ticket numbering lowest. The tickets are numbered consecutively.

Anybody purchasing a dollars worth of goods at any time will receive a guessing ticket with each distinct purchase amounting to $1 00 or over.

This Grand Guessing Competition begins at 6 o'clock to-night (Dec. 5th) and closes midnight on December 31st.

The gold watch and the silver watch and carving set are on view in the show window of the Peterborough Bookstore. Every purchaser has a chance of making a guess for every dollars worth of goods, and a chance of winning one of these splendid prizes, while at the same time he will receive the best value in his purchase of $1.00 worth of goods, selected from the most magnificent stock to be found in the district, at the

In the Matter of the Peterborough Bookstore Guessing Competition:

We, James W. Brisbin, of the Town of Peterborough, merchant, William Collins, of the Township of North Monaghan, farmer, and George E. Elliott, of the Township of Smith, farmer, do, severally, solemnly declare:

1. That we personally filled and sealed the jar to be used in this competition with the contents, which comprise a quantity of nuts, peas and beans.

2 That we do not know, nor does one or more of us know, nor does any other person know, either the aggregate number of nuts, peas and beans in such jar, or the number of nuts or peas or beans respectively, therein, nor do we know of any mode in which such number can be obtained except by guessing.

And make this solemn declaration conscientiously, believing the same to be true, and by virtue of the Act respecting extra judicial oaths.

To the Public.

To avoid the rush of customers, which the magnificent Christmas stock of goods is sure to bring with the next week or two, the public are reminded of the advisability of visiting the Peterborough Bookstore and selecting their purchases now, to be laid aside till Christmas is within a day or so. This has been largely done in past seasons, and is more than ever necessary now, for with the double shop and magnificent stock complete in every department and of endless variety and unexcelled beauty, will create a demand to fill which early purchases will be necessary.

Grip's Comic Almanac.

The thirteenth issue of Grip's Comic Almanac, that for 1892, is to hand. It contains twenty pages of sparkling reading, scintillating with fun of a wholesome kind fun that has not appeared in previous almanacs of any brand. When Grip cracks jokes he doesn't infringe on Noah's copyright or press inanities of the Bowser type into service. The double page picture—"The Dickens's Christmas Convention" is a masterpiece of caricature It contains seventy portraits of the leading public men of Canada, representing as many of the characters in Dickens' novels. These, together with the other illustrations and lively letter press, will furnish amusement for a year—and all for only ten cents. Call at the Peterborough Bookstore and buy a copy of Grip's Almanac for 1892.

A Port Hope Burglary.

About nine o'clock Wednesday night, says the Guide, Mrs. Wm. Simpson, King street, imagined she heard a noise up stairs in her bedroom, so she took a lamp and went up to investigate. She found several drawers open and that her gold watch had been disturbed and placed face side down in the stand she kept it in. She went back and asked her niece Bertha, who had been in her room? The reply was no one. So they returned and made more investigations without finding any one. Shortly afterwards they heard a creaking on the stairs, and on going to see what it was, a man rushed down the stairs and out of the front door, which had been left open, and out of the front gate. Bertha, the niece, a young girl sixteen or seventeen years of age, followed and caught the burglar by the coat collar, when she said he drew a revolver and then made his escape. It seems the thief had been concealed under the bed both times when the ladies visited the bedroom. Mrs Simpson's valuable gold watch was taken, but nothing else as yet has been missed. No trace of the burglar has been found.

Police Court Paragraphs.

Saturday, December 5th, 1891.

The case of Mrs. Allen, whose trial was reported in the Examiner a week ago, was again brought up in the police court this morning. It will be remembered that she was convicted of keeping a house of ill fame but for the sake of her two young children, sentence was suspended for a week in order to give her an opportunity of leaving the town, which she promised to do. It was reported, however, that she had not fulfilled her promise and was still in town. A warrant for her committal to jail was therefore made out, and she will have six months in which to think of the error of her ways, while the unfortunate children will be taken in charge by the St. Joseph's Hospital.

Got the Mitten Every Time.

"I can marry any girl I please," was his exclamation, but unfortunately then he did not please any; and there was a plain reason for it. He had contracted catarrh of the worst form, and, although a wealthy, educated, attractive person every other way, he was positively repulsive to his lady friends, a number of whom rejected his offers of marriage. A friend advised him to use Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. He took his advice, and now is the most popular beau in the town, and he really can "marry any girl he pleases" to ask. It made his breath pure and sweet, he has no headache, no offensive discharges from the nose, in short is in perfect health, and all from using a few bottles of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. c

The Great Guessing Competition.

Big Values in Christmas Goods—With a Chance for Magnificent Prizes Thrown in—$60 Gold Watch, $30 Silver Watch and $5 Carving Set.

Attention is directed to the announcement in another column of a grand guessing competition to be conducted in connection with the Peterborough Bookstore. This is a real competition. The prizes offered will be genuine, reliable, valuable gold and silver watches and the carving set is one of the best made. The goods will be sold at the regular rates, which are of the lowest, and every dollar's worth of goods bought entitles the purchaser to a guessing ticket and consequently gives him or her a chance of winning one of the elegant prizes offered. Full particulars of the conditions governing this competition may be found by consulting the advertisement in another column. This competition will be a genuine, fairly and squarely conducted contest with every precaution taken to insure the utmost fairness in every respect. The number of articles in the sealed jar whose contents are to be guessed upon, will be known to no living man.

The deciding committees will be composed of some of our most reliable citizens, The keys of the ballot boxes in which the guessing tickets will be deposited, will be in the hands of the committee and in every repect the contest will be fair, above board and bona-fide.

Self Application of Electricity

FOR MEDICAL PURPOSES

BY THE

DORENWEND
ELECTRIC BELT
And Attachments.

HEAD OFFICE—103 Yonge St., Toronto

THE WORLD'S BEST.

ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete Body Battery. It has an independent Battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a Current of Quantity, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for Indigestion, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica, Lumbago, Liver and Kidney Troubles, Weak Back, Spinal Disease, Heart Disease, Nervous Debility, Paralysis, Vertigo, Female Complaints, Impotence, Sexual Decline and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.

Remember that the Dorenwend Belt is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.

Do not class this Belt with the humbug combinations of leather and metal with which the country is being flooded. If you wish to experiment with cheap articles, buy them but, if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.

Send name and address for Illustrated Book on Home Electro-medical treatment and mention this paper. J. D. TULLY, Agent, Peterborough. eod-w

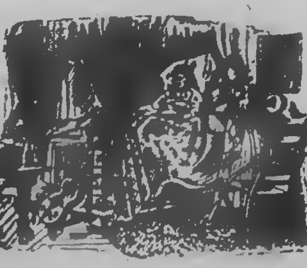
THE AMULET RING.



It was April 25th, St. Mark's mysterious eve, and not a score of years ago in Washington.

Old Madam Arsinoe, clairvoyant, second sight seer, fortune-teller; well-known, well advertised, and well-to-do, was dying.

And she knew that her hour had come. She needed no doctor to tell her what the heavy breathing meant, and that the labored heart-beats were numbered. She had deceived others too long, to let death entrap her unawares.

Was she repentant of all the evils of a lifetime of fraud?

Not at all! She was in a rage and defied the near doom that could not be averted.

A very interesting young girl of, perchance, seventeen summers, stood, with hands clasped and lips compressed, beside the bed.

The expression of her face was one of patient resignation, settled sadness and weariness, rather than of sorrow. She stood in attendance, as one accustomed to receive and obey orders, passive rather than pliant, subdued rather than emotionless.

"Alida," gasped the rasping voice, "bolster me up—higher yet, child. Where is Pythia?"

"Gone for the drug, mother."

"'Tis well," muttered she, "one more vision of Heaven, from out of which, let me drop into bottomless Hell."

Was it the old habit of the ventriloquist laughter, or did the dismal room re-echo the jibe?

Alida stirred not. She had been nourished amid the intoxicating fumes of wonders, and she marvelled not, for of such was the daily habit and complexion of her life.

Presently the woman bestirred herself out of a momentary doze, enforced by weakness.

"Alida, the planchette—here, under my chin—confound my weakness; now, the box and die—"

Alida placed the planchette, holding it high up, so that the dying woman could rattle the die on it. Her movements were too measured for the impatience of the sufferer, who cried out:

"Quicker child—hurry up with the die I say—not the loaded one, either; I'll have no foul throw this time."

Silently and quickly, without look, word, or gesture of surprise, at this request of the dying fortune-teller, Alida placed the die and box on the little triangular board of planchette.

And now the burning cheeks took on a deeper hue, and the restless eyes glowed with rekindled fires, as she clutched the box and rattled the die.

"My first five throws, and the forfeit—my amulet ring."

So saying, she pulled off of her forefinger a white, oval, moon-stone ring, in antique silver setting, with cabalistic characters engraved upon it, and placed it on the triangle.

Did planchette quiver?

Then, as with uplifted hand, she was about to throw the die, she, musing, paused:

"It's the child's anyway. He called it the good-luck ring, but it never brought her, the trusting little fool, aught but sorrow. When I lied about her, and he believed me, she returned it it to him, the dolt! Then the simpleton gave it to me. Here it goes, merry as a marriage bell, rattle the die!—ace—five—four—six—ahem!—I ought to have the loaded die. Here it is again—six! The fiends fly away with me—I'm burst—by the black cat's pinching—the ring's yours, child—take it, and a curse go with it. No—I call back the curse from you—here, take the ring;" and she threw it at the dazed girl, who had never, until now, seen it off her mother's finger.

"Now, child, for a new stake—something every woman likes to know, and man too—a secret. Throw, Alida; if you win; I'll tell a secret that concerns you."

The young girl's hand trembled, just a little, yet "secrets" were her mother's stock in trade. For years she had seen the rich and the poor, come and go. The rich rolled up in their carriages and threw down their bank notes, the poor servant girls paid in their half dollars, and all for "secrets;" and now, at last, it had come her turn.

Alida threw—six, four, ace, five—five again.

"Hold!" cried the soothsayer, as she rudely seized the girl's wrist, with momentary force. "A murrain blast you!—just twenty-one. Woe is—the forfeit's lost.

"Now, by the tingling of mine ear,
The snarling demon bids me fear.

"Alida, love me once, before you hate me forever," she cried, and with a sudden tenderness, terrible to behold, because so alien from her nature, the dying woman threw herself forward, twining her skinny arms round the fragile form of the fair girl, and her head fell upon her shoulder, as she sobbed bitterly,

Alida had had a life-long lesson in self-control, but this was a strange and startling thing.

She had never been treated cruelly, yet never before had she received a proof of affection from this hard cold, bad woman, whom she called "mother."

And so this stony heart was human after all, for it craved love in its death struggle, with a passionate yearning.

There was silence, only broken by the woman's choking sobs.

"At last," she groaned. "Oh, God, if God there be, the avenger is in this hour. I know, I must make haste to tell her;" and she sank back, pale and exhausted, on her pillow.

"Will Pythia never come with the opium?"

Alida raised her mother's head a little, and gave her a dark green cordial, the aroma of which filled the room.

Then the dying one took courage and whispered:

"Alida, do not hate me! I am not your mother."

With a sudden great outcry, as if in that moment the death cerements that had bound her down—a living corpse—had burst asunder, Alida sank upon her knees. Was it a cry of joy or of sorrow? Ask the resucitated one, who steps out of a yawning grave, into renewed light and joy of living.

The face of the moribund woman grew ashen gray, but with a firmer voice she went on, without heeding, or seeming to heed, Alida's cry.

"Your mother was fair to look upon, pure and good, and your foolish father loved her passing well; but he was jealous. I met him at a ball and fancied him. What was the brittle tie of marriage to me? Bah! I brushed it aside like a flimy cobweb—poisoned your father's mind against your mother—no matter, now, how it was done. But he believed me, sent her from him, took you, a prattling child, for himself, as he thought—got a divorce—and I became his legal wife—very legal wasn't it? Once your mother wore that ring, which your father gave her as an old heirloom in his family, said to bring 'good luck.' After a time, your mother sent it, with a broken-hearted note, begging that it might be yours. 'For her poor baby,' she said.

"There soon came a time when your father reproached me with his 'lost happiness,' he called it; and I—well, at first I thought he ought to die; and then I felt that a lasting revenge was sweetest, and I fled with you, leaving him a lonely man—fled first to one city, then to another, and still other new places, until we began to get poor.

"My mother had been a West India Obi women—she and her sister both. I sent for Pythia, she knew all the fetich charms, and more, too. Black arts, are family secrets. Mankind are mostly fools—sodden fools—and so we prospered."

Again the woman sank back upon her pillows, and the shadow of the death-hue fell upon her.

After that first outcry of joyful surprise, when Alida sank as in a swoon, overcome by the ecstasy of her new being, she swiftly regained her self-possession and arose, standing, as of old, beside the bed.

"If I do not conquer myself," she thought, "I shall never know the hideous mystery of my life. Now, while the thread spins out, I must cling to the clew, or be forever, in the future, an outcast, as I have been in the dark past."

Thus she said not a word till the fortune-teller stopped, then she very calmly asked:

"Where is my father? Who is he?"

How her heart throbbed, but her voice gave no sign of agitation.

"Pythia knows," gasped the woman, as if her tongue refused to give up all its secret. "Of late he lives here, in a certain official position."

The wrested thread of life was fast spinning out, and Alida felt it. Once more she asked, and this time with tremulous tones:

"And my mother—what of her?"

The response came with a more hurried breathing, a ghastly, glazed look, and a thrilling cry rang forth of:

"Died broken-hearted!"

"And you her foul murderer!" shrieked Alida, no longer able to restrain herself.

At this fearful accusation, hurled against her by the only being for whose love she had ever cared, a vertigo of insanity seemed to seize upon the wretched creature, and her disordered brain became a prey to images engendered by her manner of life.

OPTICAL DEPARTMENT.

Our Latest Specialty, and one that is giving the Greatest Satisfaction.

THE value of Spectacles and Eye Glasses depends on the skill of the Optician. We are skilled. In addition to my long practical experience, I have taken a course of special instruction in optics at the Chicago Ophthalmic College and learned the latest and best methods of ascertaining the different defects of the eyes and their proper correction, so that I can fit you properly with glasses that will strengthen and improve your eyesight, instead of rapidly ruining it, as poorly fitted glasses always do. Bring your whole family and have their eyes examined. No charge for examination.

We keep on hand a full and complete stock of the best Optical goods that are manufactured, including pure White Axis Cut Brazilian Pebbles, which we are prepared to furnish in the newest and best styles of Frames for Spectacles and Eye Glasses, in gold, silver, nickel, aluminum and steel. Telescopes, Opera and Field Glasses, Reading and Magnifying Glasses, Microscopes, Thermometers, Lorgnettes, &c. Spectacles and Eye Glass Cases of all kinds, including the latest styles of Chatelaine Cases, which are now the most fashionable. Gold, Gold Plated, Silver and Silk Eye Glass Guards.

As an acceptable present for grandfather, grandmother, or any aged friend, what can be more suitable than a pair of our reliable and guaranteed Spectacles or Eye Glasses, in gold or other styles of frames. Oculists' Prescriptions carefully filled. Repairing of Spectacles and Eye Glasses promptly attended to.

A Special Department is the Repairing of Watches, Clocks and Jewellery.

"German Syrup"

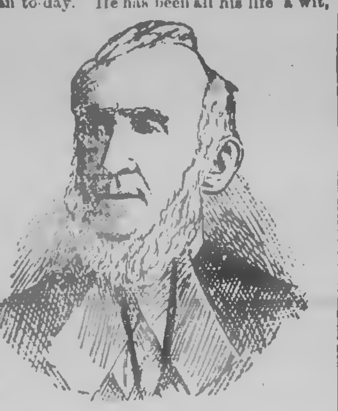
Here is an incident from the South—Mississippi, written in April, 1890, just after the Grippe had visited that country. "I am a farmer, one of those who have to rise early and work late. At the beginning of last Winter I was on a trip to the City of Vicksburg, Miss., where I got well drenched in a shower of rain. I went home and was soon after seized with a dry, hacking cough. This grew worse every day, until I had to seek relief. I consulted Dr. Dixon who has since died, and he told me to get a bottle of Boschee's German Syrup. Meantime my cough grew worse and worse and then the Grippe came along and I caught that also very severely. My condition then compelled me to do something. I got two bottles of German Syrup. I began using them, and before taking much of the second bottle, I was entirely clear of the Cough that had hung to me so long, the Grippe, and all its bad effects. I felt tip-top and have felt that way ever since." PETER J. BRIALS, Jr., Cayuga, Hines Co., Miss.

THE JUDGES IN APPEAL.

CHIEF JUSTICE HAGARTY AND HIS COLLEAGUES.

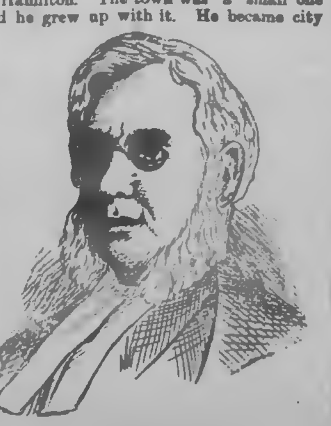
Four Able and Learned Men—Their Portraits and Their Lives—Able and Distinguished Lawyers they are Called from Successful Practice to the Honorable Office of Judge.

Osgoode Hall, Toronto, is the home of the Supreme Court of Judicature for Ontario. This institution is composed of two courts, the Court of Appeal and the High Court of Justice for Ontario, the latter being in turn composed of three divisions, Chancery, Common Pleas and Queen's Bench. It is with the Appeal court that this article has to do. As its name indicates this court hears cases which are brought up by litigants dissatisfied with the decisions of the other branches. The head of the Court of Appeal is the Chief Justice of Ontario and there are three other members who are always named officially in the order of their appointment. The members of the court are: Chief Justice John Hawkins Hagarty; Justices George William Burton, Featherstone Osler and James Maclennan. A story is going the rounds of the press about some good fellow who when asked his age promptly replied "Seventy-five years young." That is such an answer as the Chief Justice of Ontario might be expected to give. John Hawkins Hagarty was born on the 17th of September, 1816, and, though the years that have passed over his head is whitening his hair, and marking wrinkles in his face, he is a young man to-day. He has been all his life a wit, a sayer of brilliant and laughable things, and when it is explained that he is an Irishman, born in the city of Dublin itself, it will be seen that he comes by this characteristic honestly. He is a lawyer, as one may say, by birth. His father, Mathew Hagarty, was a lawyer before him, and a good one. It is almost a pity that it was born in the Chief Justice to follow the profession, for he should have been a literary man. Had he lived in a country where literary genius had greater scope than in Canada forty years ago he would probably have made a living and world-wide fame by his pen, in spite of the inherent tendency to the lawyer's occupation. But his literary gifts have served him well in his profession giving him eloquence as a pleader and the capacity to express himself tersely and well as well as a judge. And the curious thing about it is that in all the dry-as-dust drudgery of a judge's work he has never lost the inspiration of literature and, where other judges will give merely a judgment, the Chief Justice will give a judgment as able, as lucid as the best of them but with a certain finish to it which makes it bright and striking. As a lad he was carefully trained, having the advantage of the best education. He is a graduate of the great Trinity College. At eighteen years of age he came to Canada and commenced the study of law in the office of Mr. George Duggan. In 1840, when twenty-four, he was called to the bar and at once began to practice on his own account. He wrote essays and verses when he could get any time, which was not very often, for his practice grew quickly from the first. There is one poem by the Chief Justice which every school boy of a generation ago knows well—the funeral of Napoleon. Its resounding numbers and its brilliant imagery, make it one of the most remarkable poems of its time. After six years Mr. Hagarty entered into partnership with the late John Crawford, at one time Lieutenant Governor of Ontario, and he had been only ten years in practice when he was made Queen's Counsel, and in [illegible], sixteen years after he had been called to the bar, and when only [illegible] years of age, he was made a judge. When, in 1868, the Chief Justiceship of the Court of Common Pleas became vacant Judge Hagarty was appointed to the position.



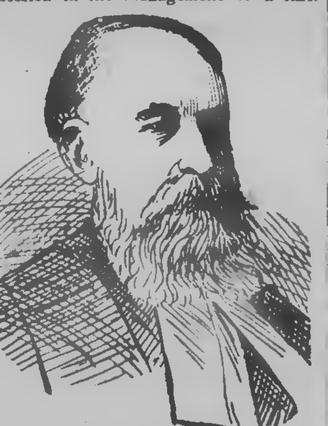
CHIEF JUSTICE HAGARTY.

The Honorable George William Burton, senior justice of the Court of Appeal, is an Englishman by birth and of good family, being the seventh son of Admiral George Guy Burton, and was born in Sandwich, in the garden County of Kent, on the 21st July, 1818, the subject of this sketch, was educated under the late Dr. Whiston, an able jurist. He came to Canada in 1837, during the troublous times of the rebellion, and [illegible] the study of the law in [illegible] his principal being Mr. Edmund Burton. Called to the bar in 1841, young Burton opened an office in Hamilton. The town was a small one and he grew up with it. He became city solicitor and held that position for many years besides enjoying a large and lucrative private practice. He was especially noted for his success in railway litigation and held a brief in many of the greatest cases of his time. He won the silk gown of Queen's Counsel in 1862, and was one of the benchers of the Law Society for a number of years. His career as judge dates from 1874, since which time he has resided in Toronto. Judge Burton was considered a radical in his younger days but the world has caught up with him to some extent. He is one of those true liberals who desire to see liberty and justice rule and to whose ideal standard the world cannot for many years attain.



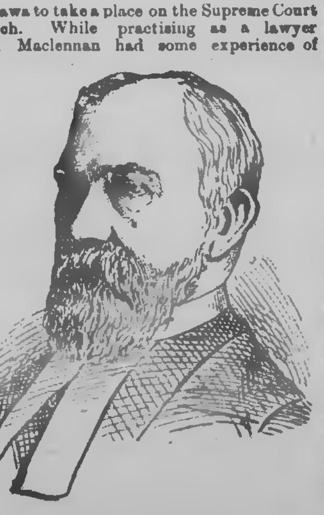
MR. JUSTICE BURTON.

Mr. Justice Featherstone Osler is a member of a remarkable brotherhood—the Oslers. B. B. Osler, Q.C., is the peer of the greatest lawyers in Canada, E. B. Osler is a financier of exceptional ability and success and Dr. William Osler, the youngest of the family, was a professor in McGill College at the age of twenty-five and is now professor of clinical medicine in the University of Pennsylvania and one of the highest authorities in his specialty in the United States. Featherstone Osler was born in Newmarket, Ont., in 1836. He studied law and was called to the bar in 1860. In practice he was noted for his grasp of facts and for his complete self-possession in the management of a case. He was a member of the firm of Bethune, Osler & Moss, two of whose members were among the most highly admired of Canada's legal men—the late James Bethune and the late Thomas Moss. Mr. Osler was made puisne judge of the Court of Common Pleas in 1879, and was promoted to the Court of Appeal in 1874.



MR. JUSTICE OSLER.

Mr. Justice Maclennan is a native of the township of Lancaster, Glengarry, where he was born on the 17th of March, 1833. His father, Roderick Maclennan, was a farmer, who came to Canada from Glenelg, Ross-shire, Scotland. James Maclennan received his collegiate training in Queen's, Kingston, graduating in 1849. The headmaster of the preparatory school, Kingston, was absent for a time, and Mr. Maclennan, though but sixteen years of age at the time, was called to fill the position. He afterwards studied law under Mr. (now Sir) Alexander Campbell, and was called to the bar in 1857. Beginning practice in Hamilton, he removed after two years to Toronto, to become a partner of Oliver Mowat now Premier of Ontario. This partnership continued (interrupted by Mr. Mowat's term on the bench as vice-chancellor) until Mr. Maclennan himself was raised to the bench in 1888 to succeed Mr. Justice Patterson who had removed to Ottawa to take a place on the Supreme Court bench. While practising as a lawyer Mr. Maclennan had some experience of politics, but his career as a legislator was short. He ran for the Legislature in Glengarry in 1871, in the Liberal interest, but was defeated. In 1874 he contested North Victoria for the House of Commons and was returned by a small majority. The election was invalidated by consent on a scrutiny of votes and a new election was held in which Mr. Maclennan was again successful, but on his return being protested he was unseated on a point of law after two years membership of the House. Mr. Maclennan was a member of the old Council of Public Instruction for a time, until the system of which that body was a part was superseded by the present system with the Department of Education. He was also a bencher of the law society from 1872 until his appointment as a judge.



MR. JUSTICE MACLENNAN.

A Cure for Constipation and Headache.

Dr. Silas Lane, while in the Rocky Mountains, discovered a root that when combined with other herbs, makes an easy and certain cure for constipation. It is in the form of dry roots and leaves, and is known as Lane's Family Medicine. It will cure sick headache in one night. For the blood, liver and kidney, and for the clearing up of the complexion it does wonders. Druggists sell it at 50 cents a package.

To Invigorate both the body and the brain, use the reliable tonic, Milburn's Aromatic Quinine Wine. dw

EARL RUSSELL WINS.

THE COUNTESS WILL NOT RECEIVE A DIVORCE FROM HIM.

The Deposed Emperor of Brazil Dom Pedro II. Died in Paris Yesterday—A Wicked Clergyman's Crimes—Preferred His Feet to $50—General Cable News.

LONDON, Dec. 4.—In the Russell divorce case to-day the Earl continued his testimony, flatly contradicting all of the allegations brought against him by his wife. The Earl gave his testimony in the same methodical manner as yesterday.

Dr. Russworth said that he had been in attendance professionally on the Countess. He considered her to be of an extremely hysterical nature and had consulted Sir James Paget, the eminent surgeon, who had agreed with him.

Annie Moore, a pretty housemaid in the employ of Earl Russell at his mansion at Teddington, said his Lordship was never harsh, cruel or insulting to his wife.

The jury returned a verdict in favor of Earl Russell.

DOM PEDRO DEAD.

The Deposed Emperor of Brazil Dies at Paris.

PARIS, Dec. 5.—Dom Pedro, the ex-Emperor of Brazil, is dead.

His complaint was diabetes, and for the past 48 hours his life had been despaired of. The Princess Isabella was at her father's bedside at the time of his demise, and was overwhelmed with grief to such an extent that it is feared she may be seriously ill. It is said that the last words of the ex-Emperor were an expression of his deep affection for Brazil and his regret that he could not go back there to die. Dom Pedro's 66th birthday was on Dec. 2, and expressions of hope for his recovery were received on the occasion from the King and Queen of Portugal and others.

Pedro II. [De Alcantara] was born in Rio de Janeiro, Dec. 2, 1825. In his 6th year his father abdicated the throne in his favor. During his minority the country was distracted by rival factions and at length when Pedro II was 14 years of age a bill was passed in the Chamber of Deputies declaring his majority. He was crowned July 18, 1841. On Sept. 4, 1843, he married the Princess Theresa Christina Maria, daughter of Francis I. King of the Two Sicilies. About a year ago Dom Pedro was deposed and has since been living an exile in Paris.

WANTED TO KEEP HIS FEET.

And as it Cost But $50 He Got Off With a Bargain.

MADRID, Dec. 4.—A frightful outrage is reported from Villagorda. Some bandits, who had heard that the priest of the parish was a well-to-do man, broke into his house in the night. They tied the only servant in the house securely on a bed and seizing the priest told him, with many threats, to point out where he kept his wealth. The father, a thrifty man, refused to tell and adjured the bandits not to incur the vengeance of heaven by interfering with a servant of the church.

The bandits were not moved by the appeal, but proceeded calmly to light a fire. Then they applied the priest's feet to the fire, bringing the feet nearer and nearer to the flames, until the victim shrieked with agony. They told him that they would roast his feet off if he did not tell where he had his money. The priest held out until the skin began to burst, and the odor of burning flesh was stifling. The priest, rather than lose his feet, which the bandits said they would consume, to be followed by the rest of his body, at length told them where all he had, amounting to about $50, was concealed. The bandits took the money and departed. The priest is in a precarious condition.

ALIVE WITH A BROKEN NECK.

Albert Fatterson Has a Fair Prospect of Complete Recovery.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 4.—Albert Fatterson, who fell downstairs in a Galveston restaurant about a year ago and broke his neck, was before a private clinic at Jefferson Hospital yesterday. His head is now rigged out with a "jury mast" to prevent the portions of the broken vertebræ from slipping. The "jury mast" consists of a waistband fastened around the man's body below the waist, with straps leading up to his chin, where boards, operated by screws and slides, are fastened in such a manner as to keep the broken portions in place.

Dr. Eads of the resident staff of the hospital said to-night that there was every reason to believe that the broken portions would unite and that the man would recover. Should this be true it will be the only case on record in which a person has recovered from a broken neck. The patient, aside from his broken neck, is in good health.

A similar case occurred at Atlantic City last summer. A man who fell and fractured the vertebræ of his neck lived for some hours afterwards, but, although the best medical skill was employed, he died.

A TERRIBLE AFFAIR.

John Hockridge, Formerly of Bowmanville, Killed in Iowa.

BOWMANVILLE, Dec. 5.—John Hockridge, formerly proprietor of the Eastern House of this town, was murdered by an insane man at Marshalltown, Iowa, on Saturday morning last. The particulars of the tragedy, which have just reached here, are briefly as follows: Mr. Hockridge was engaged by Brittain & Co., extensive pork packers, in some responsible position and his wife kept a few boarders. About 2 o'clock on Saturday morning, Thomas Thompson, who occupied a room upstairs near the one occupied by D. C. Thomas, another boarder, was awakened and heard Thomas talking, and heard him say, "God have mercy on me." Thompson called to Mr. Hockridge to come upstairs, as there was something wrong with Thomas. Mr. Hockridge went upstairs, clad only in his underclothes, and entered the room where Thomas was. No one knows exactly what occurred in there, but everything would indicate that Thomas shut the door and began firing. He shot five times. One shot struck Hockridge in the middle of the breast, making a flesh wound, coming out at the right nipple, going through the door and passing through an open door of the opposite room, embedding itself in the wall. The next and fatal shot struck Hockridge in the left arm, between the shoulder and elbow, passing through the flesh and into the heart. Hockridge was carried downstairs and a physician was at once sent for, but long before he arrived his services could avail nothing, as the wounded man died within 10 minutes after being shot. The murderer must have placed the muzzle of the revolver right against his victim, as a large hole was burned in his shirt sleeve about four inches in circumference.

Thomas Shoots Himself.

After shooting Hockridge Thomas took the empty shells from his revolver, placed a loaded one in it, set the lamp on the floor in front of the bed, placed the revolver to the middle of his forehead and pulled the trigger. The blood gushed from the bullet hole in torrents, spurting all over the room. He fell backward with the revolver clenched in his hand. The wall was covered with blood and his face presented a horrible sight. Hockridge was a man about 60 years of age, and is highly spoken of by all who knew him. He leaves a wife, two sons and daughter, and has several relatives in this town, where he spent the greater part of his life.

MANGAM-TALMAGE WEDDING.

Brilliant Nuptials in the Brooklyn Tabernacle—Thousands Attend Ceremony.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—In the presence of fully 7000 people, gathered in the great Tabernacle of the City of Churches, amid flowers, smiles and rejoicing, Miss May Mortimer Talmage, youngest daughter of Brooklyn's great preacher, was last night married to Mr. Daniel Delevan Mangam, jr.

As the inspiriting strains of the "Tannhauser Wedding March" pealed through the great edifice the bridal party entered, the bride leaning on the arm of her brother, Rev. Frank Talmage, and proceeded to the altar, where the groom, accompanied by his best man, Mr. William M. Mangam, stood ready to receive them. The ceremony was performed by Dr. Talmage, who made a few remarks appropriate to the occasion.

Miss Maud Talmage, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were the Misses Colquitt, daughter of Senator Colquitt of Georgia; Juliet Kemp of New York, Miss Mangam, sister of the groom, and Jennie Talmage, sister of the bride.

The ushers were Messrs. Eugene L. Richards, jr., Henry S. Brooks, Henry Mann of New York city, Mr. Wyllis Terry, Ira Barrows, Norman S. Dike, William A. Taylor and R. Burham Moffatt, classmates of the groom at Yale College.

Female Missionary Outraged

MAHONEY CITY, Pa., Dec. 5.—The finding of the body of Mrs. Agnes Lawrence, a missionary on the mountain side, near New Boston, and the mystery surrounding her death, are causing much excitement at this place. When the body was discovered there were marks of violence perceivable, while the ground in the locality showed evidence of a struggle. The woman's clothing was covered with blood. An examination showed that the woman had been outraged. Officers are working on the case.

A Scramble for Diamonds.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Dec. 5.—Last evening a burglar smashed the large plate glass window of J. E. Ingraham, the Jackson-street jeweler, seized a tray containing $5000 worth of diamonds and escaped. Just as he seized the tray he slipped and the sparklers flew in every direction in the mud. A great mob was soon on the ground fighting over the rings. Twenty-two were recovered and turned over to the owner. How many were pocketed by the crowd and how many were carried by the burglar is a matter of conjecture.

Seven Were Killed.

WOONSOCKET, R.I., Dec. 5.—On the New York & New England Railroad at East Thompson, Ct., this morning, the steamboat train bound east ran into a freight train at a cross-over and five persons were killed outright. Two of the injured passengers have died, making seven deaths so far. The fireman as well as the engineer of the steamboat train was killed. Both trains were running eastward on parallel tracks and came together at full speed at a cross-over, the switch being probably broken. The freight crashed into the side of the passenger train.

ACTOR DECKER'S EXIT.

An Unhappy Marriage Eventually Led Him to Take His Life.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 5.—Nason Decker, the well-known actor, who on Wednesday last at the Edwin Forrest Home made an attempt to take his life by cutting his throat, died at the home this morning. Decker was about 50 years of age. He was born in New York, and his dramatic career was begun there. In 1881 he married Miss Ward Almayne, a young Edglish actress, who came to New York and created a sensation on account of her beauty. The lady was 20 years his junior and their married life, which was an unhappy one, ended in their separation a few years later.

From that unhappy affair Decker never recovered. His downward course was rapid, professionally and socially. His health also began to fail, and in September last, through the instrumentality of Edwin Booth, he was admitted to the Forrest Home. His mind at that time showed signs of impairment and symptoms of insanity gradually developed. Just prior to the attempt on his life steps had been taken to remove him to an insane asylum, and the certificate of insanity had been signed.

Still Employed By the Government.

OTTAWA, Dec. 4.—It was reported this morning that Horace Talbot, who is awaiting trial in the county jail, had been given copying work by the Public Works Department. On inquiry it was ascertained that shortly after he was arrested his wife secured copying to do at home from Sir John Thompson. Owing to illness Mrs. Talbot was unable to attend to her work and she applied to Sheriff Sweetland for permission to allow her husband to do it in the jail. Under the circumstances the sheriff granted the request, and now Talbot, who is still unable to secure bail, is engaged in one of the long corridors over some special documents from the Department of Justice.

Abominable Anti-European Placards.

LONDON, Dec. 5.—A semi-official despatch says The Paris Figaro's story about an Anglo-Chinese alliance is without foundation.

The Standard's Rome correspondent says he has learned from good authority that the place in the province of Home, China, from which the abominable anti-European placards and pamphlets were issued had been discovered, and had been pointed out to the Chinese authorities.

Eczema on a Lady.

Stubborn Case of Skin Disease Covered Her Face and Body—Many Doctors Baffled.

Marvellous and Complete Cure by Cuticura—Six Years have Elapsed and No Return.

A lady customer of ours (Miss Fanny Atwood of Caroline Depot, N. Y.) has been cured of a stubborn case of skin disease by the use of CUTICURA REMEDIES. She remarked that her case had baffled the skill of many well-known physicians. They unanimously pronounced it Eczema, with Rheumatism lurking in the blood. Some predicted that any treatment strong enough to cure the Eczema would surely increase the Rheumatism. She used two sets of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. The effect was marvellous. Her case of Eczema was not only completely cured, but her Rheumatism was greatly relieved during the treatment. Six years have elapsed since the cure was performed, her Rheumatism has since never increased by the treatment, but rather diminished, and she sees no symptoms of the return of the Eczema which once so completely took possession of her face and body. Miss Atwood delights in telling of the good effects that the CUTICURA treatment had upon her, and recommends unsolicited the CUTICURA REMEDIES for Eczema and all kindred ailments. Your preparations find ready sale; indeed, CUTICURA SOAP is on the list to buy almost continuously.

—THE—

GOLDEN LION.

You will find this a great store. The more you get acquainted with its ways, the more you will like it. You will always find great bargains here that will please you, as it does our regular customers. There are always bargains in every department.

Take for instance Jackets in their season. In a lot of 50 Cloaks of one kind, probably one or two will hang fire. Variety gone, price was, say $20 but the two go for $8 or $10 each. That's done every week. Last week we sold a Beautiful Embroidered imported Dolman that sold at $22 for $10.

For another example take Dress Goods. Some lines of our 50c. goods go for 35c. and 25c. and so on.

People that understand shopping ask for these goods and get them.

Did you know that shopping requires experience. We always keep a fresh stock by selling out the tail end clean, even if at a sacrifice. Nothing is carried over.

This week and for the coming month you will find exceptional bargains in Mantle Cloths.

Exceptionally large bargains in Men's and Boys' Overcoats.

If one price or style fails to suit, you ask for another. Don't be afraid of asking for what you want. Keep on until you get it. It's here. There are few stocks that excel ours outside of the large cities.

EIGHTY MINERS KILLED.

FRIGHTFUL DISASTER IN A FRENCH COLLIERY.

Another Divorce Suit in England—The Costs Which the Countess of Russell Will Have to Pay—A Murder Like the Famous Eyraud Case.

PARIS, Dec. 7.—An explosion occurred at noon yesterday in the Puits de la Manufacture, belonging to the St. Etienne Colliery Company. Immediately after the explosion dense volumes of evil-smelling smoke issued from the mouths of this and a connecting pit, and in a short time crowds of relatives and friends of the imprisoned workingmen gathered about the entrance to the pit and prepared for the work of rescue.

Fortunately to-day was being observed as a fete day, and a comparatively small number of men was at work in the mine. If the accident had occurred on an ordinary working day the loss of life would have been appalling.

The Work of Rescue Impeded.

When the first attempt was made to rescue the imprisoned men the rescuers were driven back by the foul fumes that poured from the shaft, and for nearly an hour nothing could be done to aid the unfortunate miners in the pit.

At length, the shaft was sufficiently cleared to enable the rescuers to descend in the cage and begin the work of exploration, but at the very outset the rescuers encountered a serious obstacle, for the main gallery was found to have collapsed, thus preventing access to the imprisoned men. After working several hours in relays the party of rescuers had cleared away a portion of the debris, and a few minutes later they came across the bodies of four miners. The men, although unconscious, were still alive, and were quickly sent to the surface, where they soon revived.

While the rescuers were at work several doctors and a number of ambulances had been summoned from St. Etienne.

A short time afterwards another rescuing party which had entered the connecting pit sent to the surface four more of the victims all of whom were quickly restored to consciousness.

73 Lives Lost.

All the other imprisoned men perished, however, 73 in all. The wives, children and relatives of the entombed miners still surround the mouth of the pit. At midnight heart-rending scenes were witnessed as the bodies of the victims were brought to the surface.

A PARISIAN MYSTERY.

The Archibald McNeill Murder Mystery At Last Cleared Up.

LONDON, Dec. 7.—The body of Archibald McNeill, a well-known and popular journalist, was found on the sands at Boulogne in Jan., 1888. All the evidence pointed to foul play, but long and patient investigation led to nothing. The case caused a sensation, but the police were finally compelled to acknowledge themselves beaten.

To-day a tailor living in Boulogne went to the office of the Procureur and declared the crime was committed by his brother and his sister-in-law, who desired to obtain McNeill's valuables. The woman enticed him to the shore, where he was pounced upon by her husband, and together they murdered and robbed him. The accused are both of evil repute. The Procureur has caused their arrest.

McNeill went to France to report the Smith Kilrain prize fight in Jan., 1888. He was known to have had in his possession coin, Bank of England notes, and a watch, all of which were missing when his body was found. Several five-pound notes of his had subsequently been cashed at the Bank of England.

The nose was broken and there were several wounds on the head. In the pockets were found pencils, scissors and telegraph blanks, with an account of the fight.

THE DEAD EX-EMPEROR.

Dom Pedro's Dying Injunction to His Daughter and Heiress, Countess d'Eu.

PARIS, Dec. 7.—Dom Pedro was conscious to the end. At almost the last moment he exhorted the Duchess d'Eu and her husband to bear up against sorrow and to pray with him for the greatness and prosperity of Brazil. Immediately after the ex-Emperor had breathed his last, all the persons present in the room knelt and kissed the hand of the Countess d'Eu, who, upon her father's death, instantly became invested with all his rights to the throne of Brazil. The Countess has no present intention to protest to the Brazilian Government against her exile from the country, but she maintains all her rights in relation to the crown. She says she is ready to return to Brazil at the first summons sent her.

Cable despatches from Rio Janeiro say that the news of the death of Dom Pedro met with no official recognition in the Brazilian capital. A number of merchants and shopkeepers in Rio Janeiro closed their places of business for the day out of respect for the ex-Emperor, but otherwise the death of the former ruler of Brazil was marked by no demonstration of any kind.

Dom Pedro left no will. The little property he had will be divided between the Countes d'Eu and children of the deceased's daughter, Princess Leopoldine of Saxe-Coburg.

Old Enough to Know Better—A Scoundrel Brought to Book—Sylvester Neelon Nominated by Lincoln Conservatives—Stole the Bones—A Stranger's Death

MITCHELL, Ont., Dec. 7.—Henry Rits, a German shoemaker, was found dead in a lot about half a mile from the centre of the town yesterday. The deceased lived on the outskirts of the town and going home from his shop in an intoxicated condition last night, he left the road and attempted to cross a plowed field. He evidently got weighted down with mud and, falling into a furrow from which he was unable to rise, perished from cold and exposure. He leaves four orphan children, the eldest a girl of 16, the youngest a boy of 1 year.

GHOULS AT WORK.

The Bones of Colonel Butler Stolen from the Sepulchre.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Dec. 7.—The remains of the late Colonel Butler, found a little while ago at Niagara, and which were about to be re-interred in old St. Mark's burying ground with appropriate ceremonies by the Niagara Historical Society, have been stolen. The relatives of Colonel Butler had given permission to the society to take the bones from their primitive resting place and bury them in more appropriate grounds, but some days ago a visit was paid to the field where they had lain so long, and the spot was found to have been violated.

TO OPPOSE GIBSON.

Sylvester Neelon Receives the Conservative Nomination for Lincoln.

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., Dec. 7.—The Conservatives of Lincoln county assembled in convention in the opera house here Saturday to select a standard-bearer to oppose Mr. Gibson, the recently unseated member for the House of Commons. Mr. Sylvester Neelon, the defeated candidate at the general election, received the nomination. Mr. Neelon said he would make his decision known through the city papers one week from to-day.

Mr. J. C. Rykert's name was put forward, but he announced he was not a candidate.

HE GOT A BRIDE.

But It Was Not the Girl He Wished to Marry.

WALLACEBURG, Ont., Dec. 7.—Theodore Myers was arrested on the serious charge of seduction, preferred by a young girl, aged 18, named Helen Reaume. The prisoner was arraigned before the police magistrate and pleaded guilty to the charge, offering to marry the girl. He was informed that the offer must be carried out forthwith, as he could not otherwise be released from custody. The chief at once went for Mr. Forhan and a license was procured. The Rev. Mr. Millyard was sent for and the interesting ceremony gone through with, the chief acting as best man. After the ceremony the young man was allowed to depart in peace. He had completed arrangements to marry another girl about three weeks ago and was only prevented by her family leaving town.

SUFFOCATED BY THE FUMES.

Peculiar Fatality to An Employé of the Paper Mills.

NEWBORO, Ont., Dec 7.—Milton Jones of Elgin had been working in the paper mills for some time past, and while engaged at his dusters one of the pipes burst, throwing him about 15 feet away, and between breathing the fumes of sulphuric acid and the fall he was internally injured. He suffered intensely for ten days before his death.

Colonel Boyd Dead.

PORT ELGIN, Dec. 7.—Lieut.-Colonel B. B. Boyd, commanding officer of the 32nd Bruce Battalion, died at his residence here yesterday. He had been suffering for months with cancer in the stomach. Colonel Boyd was born in Markham in 1848 and was a son of the late Rev. James Boyd, Cross Hill. The deceased taught school at one time, subsequently being engaged in mercantile pursuits in Clifford, Walkerton and Port Elgin. Seven years ago he assumed the management of the Port Elgin Brush Factory.

Busy Burglars in the Rural Districts.

COURTRIGHT, Ont., Dec. 7.—W. A. Catcarth's store and postoffice in same building was burglarized Friday night. Two bills with change were carried off, also two registered letters and postage stamps. George Dale's drug store and John Hide's hotel were also entered and the tills with a small amount of change carried off.

Found Dead in a Calf Pen.

BOBCAYGEON, Ont., Dec. 7.—Mr. Warren Scheel of North Verulam told his man to do some chores and went out himself to the barnyard. He was seen getting over the fence into a calf pen. The family and household retired but he did not return during the night, and in the morning he was found lying dead in the calf pen.

A Lodger Cuts His Throat.

SHAKESPEARE, Ont., Dec. 7.—A stranger about 45 years of age, who gave his name as T. B. Wallace, stopped at a farm house Friday night a short distance from this place, and Saturday morning about 5 o'clock cut his throat with a pocket knife. It is as yet uncertain whether he can recover. No reason assigned.

Dropped Dead in His Lawyer's Office.

ST. HYACINTHE, Que., Dec. 7.—Mr. John German, while conversing with his friends at Messrs. Bernier & Morin's notaries, office yesterday morning, died suddenly of heart disease. He was conveyed to his private house, where an inquest will be held this afternoon. The gentleman was 69 years old and unmarried.

A Wicked Minister.

LONDON, Dec. 7.—Rev. John Bruce, a minister of the Free Kirk at Strichen, Scotland, has been adjudged the father of the child of Mrs. Arthur, after a trial which created intense interest. The evidence showed that the minister was in the habit of meeting Mrs. Arthur in the vestry, and that on more than one occasion the pulpit itself was the scene of their improprieties, the minister not long after preaching a sermon from the same pulpit in which he especially inveighed against immorality and the necessity of Christians wrestling with temptation.

MR. SAGE IS DOING WELL

HE EXPECTS TO BE ABLE TO RESUME BUSINESS ON MONDAY.

Efforts Still Being Made to Identify the Dead Bomb Thrower—Arrest of a San Francisco Man on Suspicion of Being Implicated in the Plot to Assassinate Sage.

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—An improvement in the condition of some of the victims; the gathering of a possible clue to the identity of the thrower of the destructive bomb; the arrest of W. D. Southworth of San Francisco, who came to New York a few days ago and who is said to know something of the plot to assassinate the broker, and the completion of preparations for the orderly resumption of Mr. Sage's business—these were the principal features yesterday of the attempt to assassinate Russell Sage by dynamite in his office on Friday.

Mr. Sage is recovering from the effect of the shock and injury to him; and the clerks, whose lives were despaired of, now promise to come safely out of danger.

The certificate of 100 shares of Chicago, Burlington & Quincy, which was missing Friday, was found in the ruins of Mr. Sage's office. It was spattered with blood and stained with dust. There are four certified checks missing in all, Col. Slocum says, amounting to about $170,000. Their loss will be no one's gain, as they were not endorsed and payment has been stopped by the owners. To-morrow the business of Mr. Sage's office will be regularly resumed.

So many people called at the Morgue yesterday to see the body of the murderer that the morguekeeper had the coffin containing the remains taken into the dissecting room and locked up, showing it only to those who had a permit from the warden.

One man who called was William Dowling Tyler of the First National Bank of Tacoma. He said that he thought that the man was one Wilson, who had once been business manager of The Tacoma Ledger. He afterwards drifted around in various places, and Mr. Tyler lost sight of him, but saw him once in Portland, Oregon, about eight months ago. He thought the man was always visionary, and he said that Wilson had spent some time in insane asylums.

In the afternoon two detectives came in with a man who said, "That's him," as soon as he saw the face. He said further, "The man was English, not a Jew. He wasn't crazy, either; he was a fine talker." The detectives took this man away and would not say who he was or what he had said.

To Kill Off Monopolists.

The developments in the terrible explosion, as brought about by Inspector Byrnes and his detectives yesterday, go to show beyond much doubt that there really exists an organized band of conspirators in the city who have sworn to kill the monopolists of the country.

The important link in the evidence thus far gathered by the inspector is the arrest of William D. Southworth, the man who it was supposed had [illegible] to South America to promulgate some [illegible] mining scheme. The last heard of him was about two weeks ago, when Southworth was putting up at the Morris Hotel. Then he said that he was going on his contemplated trip.

Southworth was taken to the morgue yesterday, but when shown the head of the bomb thrower said he had never seen the man in his life. There is evidence to show that Southworth told an untruth, for Capt. Horne, who is connected with a museum, and who was at police headquarters this evening, stoutly claimed that the bomb-thrower was the individual who made him acquainted with Southworth some two months ago and who has among others made the captain's life almost a terror to himself. That the bomb-thrower and Southworth have been known to each other is further evidenced by the fact that Capt. Horne affirms that he has seen the same brass badge worn by the members of the band on the breasts of both men who came a number of times to see him at Worth's Museum and other places.

The Chief of the Band.

One David B. Shaw identified Southworth as a man who had advertised for a lecturer last October. When Shaw called on Southworth the latter told him the object of the lectures was to organize in different cities a secret society or band he (Southwood) to be the chief officer. The nature he said of the organization could be political. Through this channel he expected that the votes of the people could be obtained eventually taking away by act of the legislature the control of railroads and alleged monopolies from individuals and corporations and place them in the power of the United States Government. In his conversation he referred to Jay Gould, Russell Sage and other business men in this city and the country particularly men in control of railroads. By his scheme he said that people would be able to travel to San Francisco for $100, and in a like proportion to other points in the country.

Booth Has a Scheme of His Own.

Southworth told Inspector Byrnes that he had just returned from a trip to Europe, where he had been making long speeches. He had tried to get General Booth of the Salvation Army interested in his schemes, but the great Salvationist had decided on making a trip to Africa and could not join him. Southworth said that he was a personal friend of Senator Stewart of Nevada and Senator Hurst of California.

The Man's History.

This despatch was received at police headquarters last evening:

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 6.—To Thomas Byrnes, Chief Inspector, New York: Will D. Southworth was a civil engineer and resided here from 1880 to 1889. He is 45 years old. Southworth was private secretary to Clarence Greathouse, the managing editor of The San Francisco Examiner. He was a crank on railroads and their management. He started a small newspaper and advocated "Government control and across the continent for $100. He was subject to crazy spells and would often apply at the city prison to be locked up during the temporary aberration of mind, saying that if he was not locked up he would kill somebody.

Annexation Not an Issue.

(The Week)

A few such meetings as that held at Woodstock last week should suffice to convince all who have any doubts on the subject that whatever questions touching the future of Canada may just now be awaiting settlement, political union with the United States is not one of the possible answers. It is well that such meetings should be freely held so long as there are any persons of respectability and influence who think that any good purpose is to be served by holding them. Such decisive expressions as that of the Woodstock meeting are scarcely needed to convince those who are thoroughly familiar with the sentiments of the great mass of people of the Dominion that annexation is not a living question, and that it is in the least degree likely to become such in the future. But these meetings may not be without good effect, not only in enlightening the minds of the few of our own people who have in some way received a different impression, but in conveying to our neighbors on the other side of the border a knowledge of the true state of the case. We have never seen any good reason to believe that either the politicians or the people of the United States are by any means looking for the annexation of Canada with the intensity of desire and expectation which a good many among us seem to suppose, but there are undoubtedly a good many of both classes among our neighbors who do fancy that the people of the Dominion are really longing in their hearts for such a consummation, and that nothing but the iron hand of British rule prevents them seeking to attain it. It might help not a little in smoothing the course of future negotiations were it once for all distinctly understood that the mind of Canada is fairly settled on this point, and that the question of a change of allegiance neither is or is likely to be open for discussion under any circumstances. A few such meetings as that at Woodstock, showing how fully we are at liberty to discuss the whole question of our future without reserve, should scarcely fail to make this important fact so clear as to eliminate it from the background of international conference and intercourse. From this point of view, as well as from that of our own freedom of speech and national dignity, it is matter for congratulation that the discussion was so free from bombast, or attempted intimidation, or excitement of any kind. Any such display of feeling would have weakened the effect. Mr. Sol. White, the leader of the few who favored political union, complained, it is true, that his arguments were met with sentiment, not with argument. But seeing that those arguments were based wholly and avowedly on commercial considerations, this fact is all the more significant. With those who replied to him the matter was, no doubt, one of sentiment. To have argued it on the ground of commercial expediency would have been a seeming admission that to prove that Canada would be better off commercially under the flag of the great republic would be tantamount to proving that she ought to seek a place beneath its ample folds. This the loyal Canadian is by no means prepared to do. He believes, with Rev. Mr. McMullen, that there are things of vastly greater importance than even increase of material prosperity, and that some of these things would be involved in and sacrificed by the proposed union.

Conscience, or What?

"Conscience doth make cowards of us all," says the poet. But it is just so with the nerves. When a man's nerves are unstrung, through indigestion and torpid liver and impure blood, what wonder that he feels depressed and nervous! He starts at every little unexpected sound; is afraid of his shadow and feels like a fool. Let such a man go to the drug store and get a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the great Blood Purifier and Liver Invigorator. This is the only blood purifier and liver invigorator guaranteed to benefit or cure, or money will be promptly refunded. It cures Indigestion or Dyspepsia, and from its wonderful blood-purifying properties, conquers all Skin and Scalp diseases, Salt-rheum, Tetter, Eczema and kindred ailments. All blood poisons, no matter of what name or nature, yield to its remedial influences. a

A GREAT BOON

To the citizens of Peterborough. Having seen the necessity of an office in Peterborough where parties having accounts to collect would have some reliable place to go to, I have availed myself of the opportunity and have established such an office where I make account collecting a specialty. Parties having accounts to collect will do well to place them in my hands where they will be promptly attended to. As a rule all business men are poor collectors, therefore, they let their accounts run on from year to year when they should have the cash. Now all the Dry Goods, Grocers, Druggists, Doctors, Furniture Dealers, Harness Makers, Barbers, Real Estate Brokers, Bakers, Bankers, Ministers and any other business men not mentioned here and having accounts to collect, will do well to call on me. Now the reason I can collect better than other men, is, I go and take the account personally to the parties, therefore, I must get some answer. I also do a Real Estate business, buying, selling and renting town and country property; money lending, discounting notes, also insurance, fire, life and accident.

SUNDAY CHURCH CHIMES.

Hope, the Soul's Anchor.

Its Nature, Foundation and Function Explained—The Doctrine of the Suffering Christ Vindicated by the Rev. Professor Trotter, of Toronto.

There were large congregations yesterday both morning and evening at the Baptist church. The Rev. Professor Trotter, of Toronto, brother of the popular pastor, having been announced to preach.

THE MORNING SERVICE

The usual devotional exercises were conducted by the pastor, after which the Professor, delivered a most eloquent sermon, choosing as his text the 10th, 17th and 18th verses of the Apostle Paul's epistle to the Hebrews. The subject was, "The vindication of the doctrine of a suffering Christ," and was dealt with under four heads as follows:—First, the great divine undertaking. This was shown in Christ bringing many sons from this world into glory. Second, this undertaking was extended through a mediator, which mediator is Christ, the only intercessor between God and man—in the text styled the captain of salvation, also the high priest of men. Third. "This mediator was equipped for His work through suffering." Here an account of Christ's sufferings, because of sinful humanity, was given. Fourth. "The suffering Saviour was of God," and the sufferings were shown to be a moral necessity on the part of Christ.

THE EVENING SERVICE

was well attended in spite of the inclemency of the weather, and after the usual opening exercises by the pastor, the professor gave out as his text the epistle to the Hebrews, vi, 17 to 19, and took as the subject of his discourse "The Surety of God's promises," having special reference to hope. The epistle was in the first place explained to be a comparison between Judaism and Christianity. The one was shown as a shadow and the other the substance. One a prophecy and the other the fulfilment. The beginning of the chapter was spoken of as revealing a bottomless abyss, into which if a Christian fell he would be unable of himself to get out, but it was supplemented by both warning and encouragement.

THE NATURE OF THE CHRISTIAN HOPE

was next elucidated. It was one of the graces. As John was called the apostle of "love," and Paul of "faith," so Peter was called the apostle of "hope." As a grace it was an expectation of future good, regarded as possible of attainment. The difference between faith and hope was also pointed out. One cannot hope for things that are past, but faith is needed to believe that they have been. Hope is always concerning the future.

The Christian's hope, as it helps him in times of sickness, trial, temptation, death and judgment formed the succeeding part of the discourse, and was admirably portrayed in contrast to the hope that may be possessed by a non-believer. The Christian in time of need always hopes for, and is sure to receive, Divine succour. When temptations and trials come so will Divine aid, and when death comes the dying bed is made a comfortable pillow by Jesus, who as the forerunner has gone to prepare a place for all.

The blessings attendant upon being a Christian were then described, also the assurance that a Christian has, that trial will not come without God's succour, after which was dealt with. There were three important grounds for the Christian's hope: first God's promise confirmed, by secondly God's oath, and, thirdly, the immutability of God's promises. Christ emphasized his sayings occasionally by using the oath even as men sometimes did, as in the phrase: "VERILY, VERILY, I say unto you." There was nothing under heaven so sure as the Christian's hope. Jesus was referred to as man's elder brother, who was no longer hoping but had realized, and entered heaven as our forerunner. He was bone of our bone and flesh of our flesh, and the pledge of his resurrection guarantees to Christians their hope. What further guarantee was necessary than the fact of one of the family having entered in, as the fore runner of the remainder?

THE GROUND OF CHRISTIAN HOPE

THE FUNCTION OF CHRISTIAN HOPE.

"Christian hope as an anchor for the soul" was then spoken, of and a vivid word picture was drawn by the preacher, beautifully showing the analogy between the anchor and cable of a ship, keeping it from drifting, even in heavy seas and storms, and as a safeguard, preventing it from being dashed on the rocks; and Hope as the anchor holding fast the soul to God by an invisible cable, reaching right from earth to heaven. Life was the sea and man was the vessel, the the winds and storms being the trials and temptations of the devil, but with the soul's anchor, Hope, the ship (man) was safe. A peculiarity of this analogy was the cable of one going down to the bottom of the sea, and the other going up to heaven. The difference between Christians and unbelievers with regard to this hope was also touched upon, after which the reverend gentleman concluded his eloquent and stirring discourse by entreating all who did not possess this anchor of the Christian's hope, to seek for it, and accept Christ as their Saviour. With those who had already obtained this hope, all was well.

"The Church and the Stranger."

The Rev. A. McWilliams in his sermon at St. Andrew's Church Sunday morning took as his text the words, "See that ye abound in this grace also." II Cor., viii, 7. The topic of the discourse was "giving," and he dealt with the motives people occasionally had for giving. Some gave from impure motives, and he said that Christ asked first of all not for money, but to give oneself wholly to Christ, which was the first step into the new life. In concluding the sermon the reverend gentleman spoke of the cool treatment usually received by strangers in the church, and urged upon all the attendants to speak a kind and welcome word to all whom they could, and not allow strangers to leave their pew without first speaking to them.

It would be well if not only the good people of St. Andrew's, but of all other churches in town took this advice. There are numbers of young men here who never enter church during the whole year, some of whom have never been invited personally to go. Others have gone occasionally but have been "frozen out" by the coolness of their reception and lack of welcome. This should not be. All strangers, particularly young men, who are so liable to be led astray or to form evil associations, should always receive a warm welcome and a hearty shake of the hand. If this were done in all the churches we should not hear so much of the scarcity of young men in the churches.

"Like Magic,"

THE effect produced by Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Colds, Coughs, Croup, and Sore Throat are, in most cases, immediately relieved by the use of this wonderful remedy. It strengthens the vocal organs, allays irritation, and prevents the inroads of Consumption; in every stage of that dread disease, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral relieves coughing and induces refreshing rest.

"I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in my family for thirty years and have always found it the best remedy for croup, to which complaint my children have been subject."—Capt. U. Carley, Brooklyn, N. Y.

"From an experience of over thirty years in the sale of proprietary medicines, I feel justified in recommending Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. One of the best recommendations of the Pectoral is the enduring quality of its popularity, it being more salable now than it was twenty-five years ago, when its great success was considered marvelous."—R. S. Drake, M. D., Beliot, Kans.

"My little sister, four years of age, was so ill from bronchitis that we had almost given up hope of her recovery. Our family physician, a skilful man and of large experience, pronounced it useless to give her any more medicine; saying that he had done all it was possible to do, and we must prepare for the worst. As a last resort, we determined to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and I can truly say, with the most happy results. After taking a few doses she seemed to breathe easier, and, within a week, was out of danger. We continued giving the Pectoral until satisfied she was entirely well. This has given me unbounded faith in the preparation, and I recommend it confidently to my customers."—C. O. Lepper, Druggist, Fort Wayne, Ind.

Peterborough Edition of the "Saturday Globe."

Peterborough awaited the arrival of the Globe on Saturday with high expectation and much interest, which was not disappointed. The illustrated edition of the Globe was the finest yet brought out. There were between fifty and sixty illustrations including portraits of many of our leading citizens, cuts of churches, public buildings, etc. Of course it was impracticable to include all the buildings worthy of such distinction, in four seven-column pages. As it was, the illustration of the Edison Company's buildings had to be held over till a future issue. The letter press description of the town's advantages and capabilities, was very fairly written up, and Mr. Anderson deserves much credit for the kindly spirit he showed towards the town, and the excellent use he made of the time at his disposal. Last Saturday's Globe, with its immense circulation, will give Peterborough a wide reaching advertisement. There was a very large sale, reaching into thousands, of the Saturday Globe.

PETERBOROUGH, Dec. 5—Yesterday morning the golden hue in the east about sunrise, followed by a rainbow, betokened a storm, fully verifying the Scotch proverb—"A rainbow at night is the shepherd's delight, but a rainbow in the morning, gives the shepherd warning," for about seven o'clock rain began to fall, continuing steadily throughout the day, ceasing at 6 p.m., having fallen to the extent of 1 inch and 5/100 of water, being one of the most copious rainstorms of the year. More open weather may yet be expected.

GRAND HOLIDAY
PRIZE COMPETITION
—AT THE—
PETERBOROUGH BOOKSTORE!

THE PRIZES

A GOLD WATCH,
A SILVER WATCH,

AND A CARVING SET.

The Peterborough Bookstore will this evening (Dec. 5th), at 6 o'clock, begin a Grand Guessing Competition for the prizes of

Lady's or Gentleman's Gold Watch. Worth $50,
Lady's or Gentleman's Silver Watch. Worth $20,
Silver Steel Carving Set. Worth $5.

No One Person will be Entitled to More than One Prize.

Our Xmas Stock of Fancy Goods has all been purchased in the Best Markets, and the Goods are Entirely New.

It would take a great amount of space to illustrate and describe the different articles in our handsome stores. All we can say is that we have cut the prices away down, and everything is marked in plain figures, so that a grander chance was never offered to purchase what you may require in the Book, Stationery and Fancy Goods Line for Xmas and New Year Presents. Remember, also, that we invite the public to call in and examine our beautiful stock, whether you purchase or not. We have numerous and very courteous clerks, who will enjoy showing you the finest display in Peterborough in our line. An inspection will prove to you that OUR GOODS ARE RIGHT IN PRICE AND IN QUALITY.

A SPECIAL POINTER.

Remember, also, that every person making a purchase in our establishment to the amount of ONE DOLLAR will be given an opportunity to guess the number of Peas, Beans and Hazel Nuts in the Glass Jar in one of our show windows, and the one making the nearest guess to the total number of Peas, Beans and Nuts in the Jar receives

A GENUINE GOLD WATCH of Substantial Value, and of the best manufacture. The Lady's Watch is a 14-Carat, Solid Gold Hunting Case, full-jewelled, stem-winding Waltham Watch, worth $50.00, and the alternate prize, a Gentleman's Gold Watch, is of equal quality and value; the winner may make choice and take either.

The Second nearest receives the SILVER WATCH, a Three-Ounce Hunting Case, full-jewelled, Compensating Elgin Watch,

The Third nearest receives A BUCKHORN HANDLE CARVING SET, Silver Steel, Sheffield make.

Should two or more guess the exact same number of the total of Peas, Beans and Nuts in our Glass Jar, the award will be made to the one making the first guess. Therefore guess early.

The number of Peas, Beans and Nuts in the Jar is unknown to any person, as the following certificate shows:—

In the Matter of the Peterborough Bookstore Competition:

We, James W. Brisbin, of the Town of Peterborough, merchant, William Collins, of the Township of North Monaghan, farmer, and George E. Elliott, of the Township of Smith, farmer, do hereby certify:

1. That we personally filled and sealed the jar to be used in this competition with the contents, which comprise a quantity of nuts, peas and beans.
2. That we do not know, nor does one or more of us know, nor does any other person know, either the aggregate number of nuts, peas and beans in such jar, or the number of nuts or peas or beans respectively, therein, and we believe that no person has had any means of obtaining this knowledge.

GEO. E. ELLIOTT.
WM. COLLINS,
J. W. BRISBIN,

Come early and make your purchases, and should you not require the goods delivered at present they will be laid aside until Xmas and New Year.

To the Public.

To avoid the rush of customers, which the magnificent Christmas stock of goods is sure to bring with the next week or two, the public are reminded of the advisability of visiting the Peterborough Bookstore and selecting their purchases now, to be laid aside till Christmas is within a day or so. This has been largely done in past seasons, and is more than ever necessary now, for with the double shop and magnificent stock complete in every department and of endless variety and unexcelled beauty, will create a demand to fill which early purchases will be necessary.

Personal.

Police Court Paragraphs.

W. H. Preston, a youth of about eighteen years, was arraigned on a charge of theft from his boarding house. After the evidence had been heard, the accused was discharged.

Some alarm was cause by a telephone message received at the police station to the effect that a man had threatened to cut his wife's throat. When the police arrived on the spot, however, the truculent husband had disappeared.

How our Town Affairs are Managed,

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—The last council meeting unrolls a picture well worthy the ratepayers' reflection as to how our town affairs are managed. Whatever the virtues of our councillors are, economy is no virtue of theirs. It is hardly credible that men should go it so blind as they have done and depend on what this or that engineer said about the siding without having anything in writing. But then there is a consolation for the ratepayers that, considering all in all, we have not paid too much for such a boon as Peterborough has received through the Edison Company. The ratepayers ought to rejoice it did not cost the town more. That the Edison Company received all they were entitled to according to agreement, no one has any fault to find with, but that the council, in acting wild-cat-like as they did, they have forfeited all confidence. Wild rumours, as Mr. Davidson expressed himself, were around town, but which, unfortunately for the council, were well founded and true. When Mr. Kendry sounded the key note, how quickly others prevented him from letting the cat out of the bag. Mr. Kendry would have earned the gratitude of the honest ratepayers, who are defrauded of their earnings by paying high taxes, by the exposure of all the crookedness in that transaction—how land was bought and sold by councillors—without profit, eh? How magnanimous an action! Has this councillor contemplated that such an action excludes him from sitting in the council? Mr. Langford said he took Mr. Kendry's insinuation to apply to him, "he had never bought a foot of land to make money out of the town." He had bought part of the Hilliard lot and sold a piece of it to the town at the same rate he bought it, and has saved the town $1,500 by having bought this land and selling it to the town at $1,500 lower cost than speculators, who were after it, would have sold it for. How could he know what speculators would have sold it for if he was not one of them?

We were always led to believe that Mr. Hilliard sold this right of way for $3,000, whereas from Mr. Langford's statement it would appear that the fact really is Mr. Hilliard sold the whole block, two acres, including a brick house valued at $1,500, to Mr. Langford for $6,000; that Mr. Langford sold to the town the two sidings, one-quarter acre at $3,000. The brick house, one-fifth acre sold before the two sidings, was sold through Mr. Vincent Eastwood for $1,500; one-third acre north of the Midland railway siding was also sold by this Mr. Eastwood at $810; making in all say, four-fifths of an acre sold for $5,310, leaving unsold one and one-fifth acres—over 400 feet good frontage costing Mr. Langford only $690. Or again if our council were asked $3,000 by Mr. Hillard for the Edison siding, why did they not purchase the whole block at $6,000 which he sold it for, including a 1 500 dollar house reducing the remaining to $4 500 with the part north of siding, sold for $800, reducing to $3,700? A registered plan of this property shows over 400 feet remaining of good lots netting sufficient so that the siding would have cost the Town very little and probably not a cent. And this is the way Mr. Langford, the magnanimous, sold land to the town without profit. Any of the ratepayers doubting the same, may make inquiry for themselves. No doubt it pays begging for votes to get in the council. And of all this the council is cognisant. The only excuse offered by Mr. Davidson, is that the council has done the best under the circumstances. Now the ratepayers are called on to vote on a by law of money expended, and for which the town is liable and which must be paid. This is a repetition of the vote on the market building by-law and an unlawful proceeding. Ratepayers are told by the council of the financial position of the town being good of which, no one has any doubt, and very little credit is due to the council for this, and their comparison of Lindsay, Port Hope and Cobourg goes for nothing, as these mentioned places have waterworks owned by them, and have spent large sums for railway bonuses, whereas we have nothing to show for the large amount of taxes—as if carried away by vermin. Another point illustrative of the good standing of our town is the offer to sell debentures at five per cent. interest—a good investment, whoever the lucky one is to get hold of them. Should the town ever intend to construct a sewer, which no doubt it will have to do soon, and such interest as 5 per cent. debentures is offered, I for one will dispose of my property and invest in view of such an offer. There should be no difficulty by private persons in raising money on unincumbered property at such a rate of interest. How much better is, then, the standing of the town? But, then, what is the use of the council being niggardly when spending other peoples' money, not their own? It is high time that Peterborough should have a council that would look more carefully after the town's interests, but, as it is a fact and has been, of which the writer has a thirty years' observation, that men have sat in council who could not make both ends meet in their own affairs, who tried and succeeded in trying to do it in the council, and there are always cliquers, who use all their interests and influence to retain such pliant tools of councillors to successfully engineer their schemes through, It is a pity ratepayers take so little interest in these matters; otherwise such a state of things could not exist. Beware of such men who go from house to house begging for votes. Honest men have no need of begging.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for the valuable space afforded,

Yours truly,
W. Lech.

The Great Guessing Competition.

Big Values in Christmas Goods—With a Chance for Magnificent Prizes Thrown in—$50 Gold Watch, $20 Silver Watch and $5 Carving Set.

Attention is directed to the announcement in another column of a grand guessing competition to be conducted in connection with the Peterborough Bookstore. This is a real competition. The prizes offered will be genuine, reliable, valuable gold and silver watches and the carving set is one of the best made. The goods will be sold at the regular rates, which are of the lowest, and every dollar's worth of goods bought entitles the purchaser to a guessing ticket and consequently gives him or her a chance of winning one of the elegant prizes offered. Full particulars of the conditions governing this competition may be found by consulting the advertisement in another column. This competition will be a genuine, fairly and squarely conducted contest with every precaution taken to insure the utmost fairness in every respect. The number of articles in the sealed jar whose contents are to be guessed upon, is known to no living man.

In the Matter of the Peterborough Bookstore Competition:

We, James W. Brisbin, of the town of Peterborough, merchant; William Collins, of the township of North Monaghan, farmer; and George E. Elliott, of the township of Smith, farmer. do hereby certify:

1. That we personally filled and sealed the jar to be used in this competition with the contents, which comprise a quantity of nuts, peas and beans.
2. That we do not know, nor does one or more of us know, nor does any other person know, either the aggregate number of nuts, peas and beans in such jar or the number of nuts or peas or beans respectively, therein, and we believe that no person has had any means of obtaining this knowledge.

Geo. E. Elliott,
Wm Collins,
J. W. Brisbin.

The deciding committees will be composed of some of our most reliable citizens, The keys of the ballot boxes in which the guessing tickets will be deposited, will be in the hands of the committee and in every respect the contest will be fair, above board and bona-fide.

THE AMULET RING.

"Hag of the mist, avaunt!" she screamed. "Squatting toad of the speckled throat, away! Goblins of the grinning skulls, swing open all the doors and windows—Hah! what now?

"Sibyl's soul, black as a coal,
Rides the moon's face!
Tell, spectre, tell,
Shall we meet in--"

And, with one long, shuddering aspiration, the guilty soul fled forth from out its mortal tenement.

At this supreme moment, Pythia entered, and a strange glance shot athwart her dark face, as she gave a momentary look at the bed."

"Go, Alida," she said, sedately. "This is my dead, and none of yours. Go rest."

Alida went to her room, but not to rest; poor, desolate child.

Scarcely had she gone, when Pythia locked the door, strode across the chamber to the dead, and burst forth into wild exclamations of mingled hate and exultation.

Presently she pulled the pillow from under the inanimate form, and hastily ripping open an end, plunged her hand into the mass of feathers, and brought forth a small feathery bundle of rags, after which she carefully reclosed the aperture.

Then she took from her pocket a little brazen image of a fiery serpent, placing it upon a small tripod in the centre of the room. After this she prostrated herself prone upon the floor, with arms extended in the form of a cross, three different times, each time saying:

"I give Thee thanks, mighty Oub, that Thou hast hearkened to my prayer, and destroyed the oppressor."

Upon which, she danced in a circle around the brazen image, with uncouth movements of symbolic meaning, all the while muttering fetich incantations.

At last, with lurid eyes aflame, a priestess of Python, she re-approached the dead.

The body was still warm, which seemed to displease her; for bending over it, and forcibly pressing down the chest, she cried out: "Body and soul, separate;" whereupon a thin, blue vapor curled upwards, seemingly from out the nostrils of the corpse, and filled the apartment, as if, perchance, the Obi woman had liberated some subtile essence.

After a time this fiendish malice apparently expended itself, amid mutterings like the roll of distant thunder, succeeding the lightning's flash.

Seating herself opposite the lifeless form she denounced it in her wrath:

"Child of the Egyptian slave and sorceress, I hate, hate, hate you, and you dared to make a servant of me, the child of a priestess of the mighty Oub, of me, a heirophant of the thirty-third degree! But my charms have vanquished, and you have wasted away, inwardly consumed by the fetich poison. Day by day, I made you drink powdered glass, and you knew it not—now, I am avenged, and I will take your ill-gotten gains, as wages of my long servitude, I will return to my people, from whence your lying promises ensnared me—and sacred honors in the name of Oub—of Python—of Hak—shall be henceforth mine, as their venerated priestess."

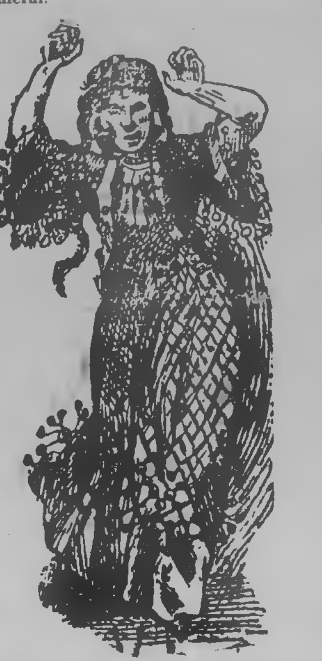
Then rising, she searched the dead, finding in her matted hair a tiny key, with which she quickly opened a carefully adjusted trap door in the floor, concealed under the bed. Here was amassed the treasure of sin.

As the morning dawned, Pythia went for a doctor, to whom she gave notice, that during the night Madame Arsinoe had died.

* * * * * * *

The fortune-teller was duly buried.

Alida was too ill to rise all that day, and so Pythia was sole mourner at the funeral.



Alida was seized with a fever, and Pythia patiently waited and watched with the girl, treating her fever skillfully with simple herbs, so that before many days she was convalescent.

Then she said to her:

"Alida, I must leave you, and go to my people, whence I came. May the sun ever shine for you, and no shadow cross your path to molest you. I bear you no ill-will, and if I can be of use to you, speak."

Now Alida remembered that the soothsayer had told her that Pythia knew who her father was; but she was afraid of the stern, dark-haired woman, and had dreaded to ask her. But now she felt encouraged. Pythia had been kind to her in her sickness, and had invited her confidence, so she said, timidly:

"Dear Pythia, when you go I shall be left poor and all alone. Can you tell me who is my father, that I may claim his protection?"

"I can," answered Pythia, with a grim smile.

"God in heaven have mercy!" cried Alida. "I can't bear it no longer! Speak!"

"Your father, child," said Pythia, quietly, "is General Cassilear. He is now in Washington. It is an easy matter for me to take you to him, but not so easy, poor thing! for you to prove to him that you are his child. Your name is not even Alida; it is Marion—Marion Cassilear!"

Then the girl exclaimed:

"Blessed be the Lord, I can prove to him who I am by my amulet ring."

"Write him what you will," said Pythia; "seal your note with your good-luck ring, and I will at once take it to him—myself."

That very evening, a handsome man, of military bearing, not so very old, but with snow-white hair, prematurely white, it was said came to the fortune teller's house.

He had hesitated. "Yes—it is the ring," he thought; "but the accursed adventuress who has wrecked my life and through whom my beloved wife sank into an early grave, she must have stolen this ring when she abducted my child. She may be now using it, to lure me to her den; yet—there. I can force from her the story of my child; I will—I must know, what has become of Marion."

At this moment the door opened, and all doubts were swept away!

"My Marion! image of your blessed mother! my long lost child!"

"My father!"

* * * * *

Pythia had taken the treasure, and left the country. No one would live in the house of the old fortune-teller, whose doors would never shut, and which was shunned as haunted.

* * * * *

General Cassilear was absorbed by his new-found happiness, and never wearied of the society of his gentle daughter.

But a shadow rested over the heart of Marion, and at last she found courage to make her trouble known to her father.

One day when he was tenderly caressing her, she confessed to him:

"My father, pardon me, but I cannot love you as I would, on account of one thing."

"Well, child!" said he, drawing himself up with a hurt, proud look.

"It is my mother," sobbed Marion, "Forgive me, father, but you did her an injustice. Do you love her memory? Will you restore the record of her fair fame before the world?"

"My good child," answered he, the big tears rolling down his furrowed cheeks, "I adore your mother's memory. I was deceived and betrayed, but my punishment has been exceeding great for that sin of jealousy that made the crime against her possible. Long ago, I applied to the courts to reverse their judgment—and death alone now divorces us. She is vindicated."

"My beloved father, my heart is now yours, without a shadow," said Marion, as she embraced him fondly.

In my endorsement of Anti-Dandruff I can say something that I never could before, which is that this preparation is a perfect remover of Dandruff, not only in the first stages, but even where the plague has become chronic and has merged itself into a disease. Years of experience as a hair dresser, during which time I have experimented with every recommended preparation, not one has (nor I might say, even all put together) given the satisfaction that Anti-Dandruff has.

It positively removes Dandruff. It stops falling of the hair. It cools the head. It makes an elegant hair dressing without leaving a trace of its use. I use it daily in my hair dressing place, at Balmoral Hotel, and have yet to find the first customer who was not pleased with it.

"August Flower"

Perhaps you do not believe these statements concerning Green's August Flower. Well, we can't make you. We can't force conviction into your head or medicine into your throat. We don't want to. The money is yours, and the misery is yours; and until you are willing to believe, and spend the one for the relief of the other, they will stay so. John H. Foster, 1122 Brown Street, Philadelphia, says: "My wife is a little Scotch woman, thirty years of age and of a naturally delicate disposition. For five or six years past she has been suffering from Dyspepsia. She became so bad at last that she could not sit down to a meal but she had to vomit it as soon as she had eaten it. Two bottles of your August Flower have cured her, after many doctors failed. She can now eat anything, and enjoy it; and as for Dyspepsia, she does not know that she ever had it."

County Court.

The Docket for Next Tuesday.

The following list of cases are set down for trial at the the county court, which is to be held in the court house on Tuesday next:—

HOWSON VS GLEASON.—Benjamin Howson, of Asphodel, sues William Gleason of the Township of Haldimand in replivin for goods and chattels, the property of the plaintiff, wrongfully detained by the defendant. E. B. Stone, for plaintiff; Wm. Kerr, Cobourg, for defendant.

ENGLISH VS. FORSYTH.—George S. English brings action against W. M. Forsyth for a balance for wages and commission as agent or salesman to the extent of $121 78. This case was transferred from sittings of last June. E. B. Edwards, for plaintiff; John Burnham, for defendant.

LANG VS. COCHRANE, et al.—John W. Lang, of the Township of Ops, sues George Cochrane, Elizabeth McIlmoyle and M. E. Sanderson, of Smith, for $200 damages for taking away plaintiff's goods and converting them to defendants' use. John Burnham, for plaintiff; Dumble & Leonard, for defendants.

Three of the above are non jury cases.

Successful remedies always find unscrupulous imitators. Ask your dealers for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and take no substitute. They are a never-failing blood builder and nerve tonic. dw

Lakefield.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Ross & Co. finished shipping the lumber on Tuesday.

Snow all gone and lakes open again. More rain.

A boy went through the ice while skating on the lake Wednesday and had a narrow escape from drowning.

The DAILY EXAMINERS took a trip up north on Wednesday and have not yet turned up in Lakefield.

Mr. W. Montgomery, who has been up at the Pharmaceutical College, Toronto, and took diphtheria, is home to recruit.

Now the season for deer has closed, our sportsmen are turning their attention to smaller game. Mr. J. Dinwoodie got a fine fox Tuesday, and Friday a small party secured thirteen "cotton tails" in a piece of woods near the village.

At the regular meeting of Clementi lodge, No. 313, A.F. & A.M., the following officers were elected for the ensuing year, and will be installed on the 28th inst.:—

Bro. T. J. Bird	W.M
W. Bro. F. Lillicrap	J.P.M
Bro. F. Barlee	S.W
Bro. G. B. Hilliard	J.W
W. Bro Robt. Graham	Chap
Bro. R. Q. Dench	Sec
W. Bro. W. H. Casement	Trea.
W. Bro. Dr. D. Fraser	Tyler

That our Lakefield boys manage to "keep to the fore" whenever their lot is cast is again proved by the following paragraph taken from the Toronto Telegram of Saturday:

At a meeting of the Forum Club held last evening the question as to whether women should have the franchise or not was discussed. Parliamentary form was assumed, Mr. Clarence Bell chosen leader of the Government, and Mr. Frank Ford, leader of the Opposition. The Opposition introduced the resolution but after a very spirited debate the Government succeeded in defeating the resolution.

W. Scollard, the popular captain of the steamer "Mary Ellen," was in the village on Thursday, on his way up to North Bay, where he has secured a position in the C. P. R. freight offices at that point. He expects, however to return in the spring and occupy his old position, where his kindness and courtesy are so much appreciated by our back lakes tourists.

As announced the formal opening of the Lakefield Mechanics Institute and reading room took place in the Temperance Hall on Thursday evening and attracted a large audience of both villagers and parties from the vicinity. Addresses were delivered by the resident clergy, and officers of the Institute, while singing and recitations by the Misses Nelson, Campbell and Buchanan helped to make up an evening's enjoyment appreciated by all. It now remains with the public as to whether it will be a success or not, and we trust everyone will enroll their names as members and do all in their power to aid the directors in giving our citizens a means of spending the long winter evenings with pleasure and profit.

What is more annoying than going about constantly hawking and spitting? This is the result of catarrh, and Nasal Balm will cure any case when faithfully used. dw

A Cure for Constipation and Headache

Dr. Silas Lane, while in the Rocky Mountains, discovered a root that when combined with other herbs, makes an easy and certain cure for constipation. It is in the form of dry roots and leaves, and is known as Lane's Family Medicine. It will cure sick headache in one night. For the blood, liver and kidney, and for the clearing up of the complexion it does wonders. Druggists sell it at 50 cents a package.

Tragic Death of Missionaries in the South Pacific

HALIFAX, N.S., Dec. 7.—A letter from Rev. Joseph Annand, missionary of the Presbyterian Church in the lower provinces to the New Hebrides Islands in South Pacific, brings sad news from mission fields. Mr. and Mrs. Laurie some time before lost a child by death and the affliction so wrought on Mrs. Laurie as to affect her mind and cause violent symptoms of insanity. About the same time the wife of another missionary, Mrs. Leggett, committed suicide by hanging herself while temporarily insane. The third event in the sorrowful series was the death of an English planter. He had been on the islands for some time, was doing well and sent to England for the young lady to whom he was engaged to come to the islands and marry him. She came and they were wedded. Two days later he, with his partner and some natives, went to an adjoining island. Bushmen from the interior assailed the party, sent a bullet through the planter's heart and also killed two natives. The bodies of the latter were carried off and eaten, the white man's remains being brought to the Christianized island by Missionary Annand. The bride of two days is a widow. A British man-of-war will be sent to the scene of the tragedy to punish the murderers if possible.

HANLAN DEFEATED.

McLean Wins the Boat Race at 'Frisco by 80 Yards.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 7.—The boat race between Hanlan and McLean for $500 a side took place on Oakland Creek yesterday. The boats were outrigged skiffs. Hanlan gave McLean 100 yards start. McLean won by 80 yards. Time 23.47. The crowd present hooted the rowers, claiming the race war a fake.

SHOT BY HER LOVER.

Herbert Ford, a Detroit Mulatto, Then Blew His Brains Out.

DETROIT, Dec. 7.—Herbert Ford, colored, aged 23, met his sweetheart, Clara Mills, 14 years of age, in Clinton-street last night and fired three shots at her, two of which took effect, one lodging under the left shoulder blade. Ford then killed himself. The act was premeditated. He charged the girl, whose reputation was good, with being unfaithful to him. There is a chance of her recovery.

OPPOSED TO ONION-EATING.

A Chicago School "Marm" Who Can't Stand the Odor.

CHICAGO, Dec 7.—Miss M. D. Merrill, a demure teacher in the Oakley School, has raised a storm by sending home pupils whose breaths are scented with the succulent onion. R. H. Grinnell, a taxpayer, takes issue with Miss Merrill. He has two boys, and after devouring several onions Thursday morning they appeared in school and were promptly sent home with a note, which read: "It is too cool in my room most of the time to have the windows open, and the breath of your children, after eating onions, makes the air very offensive."

Friday morning Papa Grinnell fed his youngsters several large juicy onions and sent them to school. As the children's onion-laden breaths began to float around and intermingle with other odorous breaths, Miss Merrill began to sniff about in a suspicious manner with her pretty nose tiptilted in the air at the proper angle to locate the offensive smell, with the aid of her able olfactories. She soon had the two culprits before her and sent them home. The matter has been taken to the Board of Education.

Both Died Suddenly Within a Day.

ALMONTE, Ont., Dec. 7.—An old couple named Mr. and Mrs. John Orr, residing in the township of Manotick, died within 24 hours of each other. Mr. Orr retired to bed on Wednesday night, apparently in good health, sleeping with a grandchild named Andrew Gleeson, who, on awaking in the morning, was surprised to find the old man dead by his side. Mrs. Orr was prostrated by grief and before midnight also breathed her last, succumbing to heart disease, with which she and her husband were both afflicted.

Into the Bayou.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 7.—The two baggage cars and coaches and a sleeper of the northbound passenger train on the Louisville, New Orleans & Texas Railroad jumped the track at Evansville, Miss., yesterday and ran into a trestle over a bayou. The trestle gave way and the whole train, except the engine, plunged into the water. A relief train with four surgeons aboard left here for the wreck. It is reported that 11 people were fatally injured.

Wrongs of the British Barmaid.

LONDON, Dec. 7. Revelations made before the Labor Commission anent barmaids' hours of work and the terms on which they are employed have obliged the commission to appoint two women sub-commissioners to take evidence privately. Specific cases were referred to where girls were obliged to choose between immediate loss of place and submission to improper overtures from their employers. In a host of instances the working hours amounted to over 100 weekly. The whole tendency of the evidence is against the employment of barmaids except under strict legislative control.

Fell Into a Well.

CLINTON, Dec. 7.—The 3-year-old grandson of John Govier, a farmer near here, fell into a well and was drowned yesterday.

A ROYAL BETROTHAL.

"Collars and Cuffs" Pops and is Accepted by the Duke of Teck's Daughter

LONDON, Dec. 7.—Prince Albert Victor, Duke of Clarence, the eldest son of the Prince of Wales, on Friday proposed to and was accepted by Princess Victoria Mary, aged 25, the only daughter of the Duke of Teck at Luton Hall, where both have been staying lately with a large party. The young Prince came to London yesterday to inform his parents, who thence proceeded to Windsor in order to gain the approval of Her Majesty Queen Victoria. All were greatly pleased, Queen Victoria having specially desired the union, which is said to be quite a love match.

The news of the engagement spread like wildfire through fashionable circles to-day. The greatest pleasure is manifested. Princess Mary is a general favorite. Queen Victoria has placed the former residence of the Duchess of Cambridge, St. James Palace, at the disposal of the couple, pending a more suitable residence.

It is probable that the marriage will be celebrated at an early date.

LONDON, Dec. 6.—G. W. Smalley cables: The general interest in the Russell case is due solely to the rank and social position of the parties to it and to the fact that the respondent is a grandson of a considerable statesman. The result proves that Lady Russell's petition for a judicial separation ought never to have been filed or never to have been allowed to come to a public hearing. The details are paltry, sordid and often contemptible. Money was at the bottom of the squabble.

The serious charge, which was rather suggested than made, was abandoned in court by Sir Edward Clarke. Hardly anything of the petitioner's case was left after Lady Russell's cross-examination and after Lord Russell had told his own story on the stand. He was clearly the witness of the truth, and faced damaging questions with courage and composure, even when they compelled more damaging confessions. Public opinion is an odd thing. Lord Russell was mobbed in the streets after his wife's evidence had been given, and cheered when the verdict in his favor was known. So ends one more scandal of the many which of late years have brought, sometimes discredit, sometimes disgrace on the peerage and what is called society.

The costs of the trial, £5000 or £6000, fall upon poor Countess Russell. Whatever they may think of the justice of the verdict, many feel great pity for the little woman in her crushing defeat.

LONDON, Dec. 7.—The suit of Miss Florence St. John, the actress, against her husband, Duplany Marius, for an absolute divorce came up Saturday before Mr. Justice Jeune and a jury in the Divorce Division of Her Majesty's High Court of Justice. Sir Charles Russell appeared for the petitioner and C. F. Gill for the respondent. Miss St. John's suit is a counter-action brought to offset a similar suit instituted against her by Marius. He alleges that his wife has had improper relations with Arthur Cohen, sub-editor of The Financial News. Marius seeks no money damages against Cohen, but only asks the court to release him from his marriage ties.

Miss St. John was the only witness Saturday. She testified to a number of acts of alleged crulty on the part of her husband. She married Marius after he had been divorced from his wife and after she herself had obtained a divorce from her former husband.

Financial Strength of England.

LONDON, Dec. 7.—G. W. Smalley cables: If, when you have read four columns of Mr. Gladstone, seven of Mr. Balfour, and five of Sir William Harcourt, you wish to read five of Mr. Goschen on the metallic reserve, you can do so. He spoke to the London Chamber of Commerce on this question. He has now dropped his much-criticized proposal for compelling the joint stocks to do their part in keeping a gold reserve. That duty is to be left as now with the Bank of England, or under its control; but the reserve is to be increased from 22,000,000 to 40,000,000. He proposes a more elastic system of note issue, and abandoning also his scheme for 10 shilling notes, would now legalize an issue of £1 notes, the lowest now printed by the Bank of England being £5. All these suggestions are worked up together into a financial whole, and their author hopes that they may contribute to the financial strength of England and perpetuate the power of London as the centre of the exchange system of the financial world.

The £1 notes are the key to the whole, since it is mainly by their issue that he hopes to enlarge the gold reserve.

A Prince in Jail.

LONDON, Dec. 7.—The negro Prince Theodore, son of the late King John of Abyssinia, who was brought to England to be educated, has got a week's imprisonment in Brussels for being concerned in a street row.

Especially if It's a Son.

LONDON, Dec. 7.—It is announced that the Countess of Clancarty, formerly Belle Bilton, is enceinte. Friends of the Countess say that if the issue is a son it will lead to a reunion of the family and social recognition of the Countess.

A French Baroness Murdered.

PARIS, Dec. 7.—Baroness Dellard, the mother of a high official in the Ministry of War, was found yesterday with her throat cut in a room at her home. The official investigation has revealed the fact that the maid, whose throat was also cut, came upon the murderer while he was doing his bloody work. The man who committed the crime was evidently in search of plunder. Everything in the room was out of place. He has not yet been arrested.

THE REBELLION CRUSHED.

The Chinese Rebels Meet With a Crushing Defeat—Eleven Hundred Slain.

LONDON, Dec. 7.—The Chronicle's Shanghai correspondent telegraphs that the rebels have met a complete crushing defeat. He says 4500 Imperial troops met a force of 3000 rebels at a point 15 miles from Chaovang. The latter were very daring and had better cavalry than the Imperial forces, who were at first compelled to move back somewhat. The conflict which ensued was long and stubborn. Finally there was a spirited charge from the Imperial side. This threw the rebels into confusion and they began retreating, keeping up a running fight, however. No quarter was given. Eleven hundred rebels were slaughtered on the field and those who, on being overtaken, were captured, were immediately executed.

Moving Against the Chinese Rebels.

LONDON, Dec. 7.—A despatch from Pekin says the report that the missionaries in certain parts of the disturbed districts had abandoned their stations and sought safety in flight is not true. The despatch further says that the Viceroy, Li Hung Chang, who is moving with all possible promptness to put an end to the troubles, is massing his forces in the direction of Manchuria, and that his object is to make a forward movement against the enemy, and if possible to surround them.

There is a strong probability, too, that the rebels will find themselves in trouble growing out of the recent murder of the Mongolian Prince. The Mongolians are furious, not only against the actual murderers, but against the whole body of rebels, and threats of vengeance are freely made. It is thought here that if the Mongolians start in to avenge the murder of their Prince, the imperial troops will have little work to do in Manchuria.

191 MANAGER.

Mechanics, Labourers and Investors.

If you will look up our list of Cheap Home in the EXAMINER of the 2nd inst., you should be able to find something of interest to you. Comfortable homes at such low prices and in the centre of the town are very seldom offered, consequently many of you who walk miles to and from your work, should grasp this opportunity and not be regretting when they are gone to those who are more alive to their own interest. Investors compare notes. We offer to sell you a House and Lot for $550 00 now. $550 in bank at 4 per cent. will give you $22 per year, and the rent of this house will yield from $66 to $72 per year and it is never idle and is constantly growing in value. Act wisely and buy to-day.

—THE—

GOLDEN LION.

You will find this a great store. The more you get acquainted with its ways, the more you will like it. You will always find great bargains here that will please you, as it does our regular customers. There are always bargains in every department.

Take for instance Jackets in their season. In a lot of 50 Cloaks of one kind, probably one or two will hang fire. Variety gone, price was, say $20 but the two go for $8 or $10 each. That's done every week. Last week we sold a Beautiful Embroidered imported Dolman that sold at $22 for $10.

For another example take Dress Goods. Some lines of our 50c. goods go for 35c. and 25c. and so on.

People that understand shopping ask for these goods and get them.

Did you know that shopping requires experience. We always keep a fresh stock by selling out the tail end clean, even if at a sacrifice. Nothing is carried over.

This week and for the coming month you will find exceptional bargains in Mantle Cloths.

Exceptionally large bargains in Men's and Boys' Overcoats.

If one price or style fails to suit, you ask for another. Don't be afraid of asking for what you want. Keep on until you get it. It's here. There are few stocks that excel ours ouside of the large cities.

"HOLY SMOKE'S" WILL.

ANOTHER NEW YORK DYNAMITE CRANK.

He Wanted to be Buried in Evening Dress—"You Will be the Next Russell Sage if You Refuse Me," he Wrote to a Former Benefactor.

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—"Holy Smoke!" is the nom de guerre of the latest dynamite crank. He claimed to be just ready to start out on a career similar to that of his fellow crank who attacked Russell Sage, but a couple of determined men armed with clubs, dragged him out of bed at 2 o'clock yesterday morning and brought him up with a sharp turn. Mr. Holy Smoke was haled before Justice Meade, in Harlem, yesterday and promptly committed to the crank pavilion of Bellevue Hospital, where his brain, if he has any, will be investigated. The men with the clubs were officers. The real name of the alleged crank is Oscar Weyrauch, and he was arrested at Henry Kreiter's saloon, No. 140 Worth-street, upon the complaint of Conrad Harris, a well to do retired wine merchant of No. 1570 Secon-avenue, who charged him with threatening Harris' life. Both the prisoner and Mr. Harris come from Hesse Cassel, Wiesbaden, Germany. They met 14 years ago. At that time Weyrauch had a good bookbing business. The latter sold out his business and began to keep a hotel, but his wife eloped with one of the waiters, and then in despair he took to drink and afterward, seeing himself ruined, crossed over to the New World to begin over again.

His Name Means Incense.

Two weeks ago Weyrauch, who often called himself "Holy Smoke," because his name in German means "incense," called on Mr. Harris. He looked very well-to-do then. On Sunday week he called again, and Mr. Harris saw before him an entirely different man. Wyrauch's clothes were in rags. He said he had pawned all his good clothes. He seemed to have been intoxicated recently, and eventually Mr. Harris had to eject him from the house.

Next day the wine merchant received a crazy document stating that unless $500 was sent to Weyrauch he would blow Harris' brains in the air as Russell Sage's had been blown.

On the Trail of the Smoke.

Mr. Harris went in great alarm to Captain Carpenter and the latter ran down Mr. Holy Smoke. When they searched him at the police station they found an envelope containing a photograph of himself, on which was written his name and this:

The greatest chess player in America.

On the outside of the package was the following, written in a big, scrawly hand:

My Last Will to the Grave Digger.

1st. Please do not handle me rough before you know sure that I am dead.

2nd. Putt my fancy dress clothes and my Dunlap Hat into my grave. I left a few cent that you can have a drink on my death.

OSCAR WEYRAUCH (Holy smoke).

My Last Will to the Reporters of Newspapers and Police Gazette.

Please publish my poem when possible, with my picture in regard to my friends.

OSCAR WEYRAUCH (Holy Smoke).

He told Captain Carpenter that he had written the threat in fun, but he couldn't explain his will, his directions to the grave digger, or the one in which he alluded so flippantly to sudden death.

PLOT AGAINST THE SULTAN.

His Son-in-Law and Aid-de-Camp Said to Be Involved in It.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 8.—A rumor is current here that a fresh plot has been discovered among the officers of the army to depose the Sultan. A number of arrests are said to have been made, among them being His Majesty's aide-de-camp, General Mohmed Danad Pacha, and the Sultan's son-in-law and first aid-de-camp, who will now be sent into exile.

Suddenly Called.

HAMILTON, Dec. 8.—Henry Cornell, aged 80, third concession of Beverley, was found dead on the floor by his daughter Monday.

The mangled remains of the unknown man who was killed on the G.T.R. track at Jarvis on Friday night were buried on Saturday afternoon in the Methodist cemetery. Who he was has not yet been ascertained. It is learned, however, that the name "John Squance," which was written on a piece of paper found on the body, is the name of a St. Thomas furniture manufacturer. Mr. Squance has been communicated with, and says that a man answering to the description of the deceased called upon him a day or two ago and asked for work, representing himself as a cabinetmaker.

Seeing the Tiger Came Expensive.

HAMILTON, Dec. 8.—A den kept by Madame Delia Guay, on 1st concession of Barton, was raided by the police last evening on a complaint made by Andrew Ferguson, a burly engineer from Tilsonburg, who claimed to have been robbed of $80 in cash and a gold watch while in the house on Saturday night. He was on his way home from Dakota and stayed over here for a few days before going to Tilsonburg. The inmates were bailed.

THREE MEMBERS SAFE.

A NUMBER OF ELECTION PETITIONS DISMISSED.

That Against Sir Richard Cartwright Among the Number—Dr. Roome Also Safe—A Vacancy in Lanark Owing to Mr. Jamieson Accepting a Judgeship.

LONDON, Dec. 8.—Two election trials began at the Court House here yesterday. One petition was against the return of Dr. Roome as M.P. for West Middlesex, and the case reached a sudden termination, Lawyer Alexander Stuart of Glencoe for the petitioner stating that he had not sufficient evidence to warrant him going on with the case.

The other case was that of North Middlesex, represented by W. H. Hutchins, M.P., of Parkhill. The defeated candidate was present in court, together with J. T. Owens of Ailsa Craig, who is an applicant for the county registrarship. Only some 30 people, all told, attended the court. Judges Rose and MacMahon presided.

Evidence for petitioner on charge 1 was finished, the principal witness being John MacDonell who testified to having received money for his vote from one Archibald Campbell, supposed to be an agent for Hutchins. Evidence was given by several witnesses to the effect that MacDonell's statements were not trustworthy charges 4 and 5 were dismissed, and court adjourned till 10 a.m. to-morrow.

SOUTH OXFORD.

No Evidence Offered Against Sir Richard Cartwright at Ingersoll.

INGERSOLL, Ont., Dec. 8.—There was an unexpected termination of the election petition proceedings against Sir Richard Cartwright yesterday. It was in this petition that the treason charges were made against Sir Richard Cartwright, Mr. Laurier and Mr. Erastus Wiman. Justices Falconbridge and Street took their seats on the bench at 11 o'clock, when Mr. Walsh, for the petitioner, said that he was instructed to offer no evidence in support of the petition. Judgment was pronounced dismissing the petition with costs.

A New Judge.

OTTAWA, Dec. 8.—Mr. Jamieson, M.P. for South Lanark, announces that he intends resigning his seat in Parliament and accepting a judgeship. It is understood that Rosamond of Almonte will be the Conservative candidate in the constituency. Mr. Jamieson has held his seat for the past nine years.

The Trade Relations.

OTTAWA, Dec. 8.—The Privy Council had a very long sitting yesterday, from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Lord Stanley attended at the Governor-General's office from 2 to 3 p.m., and had a conference with the Premier. The Ministers decline to speak of the objects of the council's despatches from Washington in the conjectured cause.

Tarte Supports Mercier.

MONTREAL, Dec. 8.—Le Canadien, Mr. Tarte's newspaper, was issued for the first time in Montreal this morning. There are now two French morning dailies. Le Canadien supports Mr. Mercier.

The Case Against La Presse.

MONTREAL, Dec. 8.—The preliminary examination in the case of Mr. Barthiaume of La Presse, arrested for criminal libel of Premier Mercier, was opened yesterday before Judge Dugas in the Police Court. The session was occupied in hearing Mr. Mercier's evidence.

Peel Trial Postponed.

BRAMPTON, Dec. 8.—The Peel election trial has been enlarged until the 23rd.

Mr. Semple's Seat Secure.

The Schooner P. N. Young Runs Against a Bridge.

HAMILTON, Dec. 8.—The schooner P. N. Young, heavily laden with stone for Toronto at 2 o'clock Sunday morning, started from the wharf with all her fore-and-aft canvas set. On entering the canal the captain saw that the bridge was closed. She reached the bridge just as it began to move—the bridge people by this time having discovered that something was the matter. The forestays were snapped and the foremast crashed against the bridge and was carried away close to the deck. The mainmast came next and was leveled over the cabin. The sails were torn and, with the rigging, fell into the water. Singularly enough nobody was hurt. A tug was sent for and the Young was towed to Toronto, where she will be repaired at the expense of the G.T.R.

An Elgin Man Arrested for Betraying a 14-Year-Old Girl.

WINDSOR, Ont., Dec. 7.—Henry Gardener, station agent for the Canada Southern at West Lorne, is locked up at Sandwich on a charge of seduction, preferred by a 14-year-old girl named Annie Page. She says Gardener gave her a ticket to Detroit, where she found employment with a Mrs. Jamieson, to whom she finally told the story of her betrayal. Mrs. Jamieson insisted upon her crossing to Windsor and laying complaint against her betrayer, as the offence was committed in Elgin County. Gardener will have to be taken to St. Thomas for trial.

CHINESE REBEL ROUT.

A DESPERATE BATTLE SAID TO HAVE TAKEN PLACE AT CHOAYANG.

Indecisive Victory of Imperial Troops—No Quarter Given—Defeated Insurgents Ruthlessly Slaughtered After They Had Surrendered—General Nich Wounded.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 8.—Fuller particulars have been received of the recent battle between the Chinese troops and the rebels, partly Mongolian and partly Chinese, who have been advancing towards Pekin. There seems to be no doubt that the rebels have received a serious check, but even the imperial authorities do not claim that it is decisive and the rebels still remain in the field. The Chinese general, Nich, one of the bravest and best known of the imperial army, who distinguished himself in operations against the Taiping rebels, led the government forces, numbering 6000 picked men from the Ying Ping, or national army. These were armed with the Mauser rifle, and had several Krupp field cannon. They met the rebels at Choayang. The latter were 3000 in number, mostly well armed, and including a considerable number of deserters from the Chinese troops in Manchuria. Nearly one-half, if not more, of the rebels were mounted on hardy Mongolian horses.

General Nich first took the precaution of selecting 500 trusty men, with several of his best officers as a rear guard. These were stationed about 300 yards in the rear of the main body of Chinese troops and ordered to kill on the spot any soldiers retreating from the field, whether one or in numbers. These instructions were also made known to the rest of the army. General Nich then sent a body of troops through a ravine, to the left, with the view of outflanking the enemy. Then with the main force he charged the rebels, who awaited the onset without a tremor. Before charging he sent a volley into the rebel ranks, which decimated, but did not break them.

The rebels fought bravely. It was Tartar against Tartar, the Mongol half savage against the Mongol trained and disciplined. For a time the struggle was doubtful. The rebels at this moment saw the flanking party. With the courage of despair they threw themselves on the imperial troops and pressed them back. General Nich rallied his troops at their former line and, placing himself at the head, led the final charge, the force he had sent around at the same time attacking the rebels on the flank.

The charge was irresistible. Nich, still at the head of his men, dashed into the breaking ranks of the enemy, seeking out the rebel commander. A wound, whether serious or not is untold, stayed the ardor of General Nich, and while the rebel leader is said to have fallen it must have been by another hand. The mounted rebels turned their ponies to the north and fled in confusion. Those on post were shown no quarter. The imperial troops slaughtered them on every side, and wherever they found a wounded rebel they stabbed him to death. Those who surrendered as prisoners were immediately beheaded, except several officers, who were chopped to pieces.

General Nich at once reported his victory to Pekin, where the news was received with general rejoicing. As confirmation of the announcement, the couriers who brought the dispatch carried the head of the rebel leader in a bag. The pursuit of the mounted rebels was continued. The latter took revenge on the inhabitants for their defeat, pillaging, burning and slaughtering as they went back toward their desert fastnesses.

At latest advices the Chinese troops had not again come into collision with the insurgents. It is stated that the number of native Christians who perished in the massacres that followed the opening of the rebellion was about 500. The number of European victims is unknown. It is known that no British were among the victims.

GLADSTONE'S HEAD.

It Has Grown Since Middle Age, While His Stature Has Lessened.

LONDON, Dec. 8.—T. P. O'Connor says in The Sunday Sun that Mr. Gladstone's statement that he had lost two inches of the stature he once had must be surprising to those who observed his perfect erectness of figure, as in walking he still looks rather a tall man. It was one of Mr. Parnell's many strange notions that Mr. Gladstone used artificial means to add to his height, and whenever he saw Gladstone walking the floor of the House he always gazed intently at the statesman's boots with a view of discovering whether they had high heels or not.

While Mr. Gladstone's stature decreased it is a curious fact that his head grew larger, even after middle life. Mr Gladstone acknowledges himself that there has been a complete change in the appearance of his head since that period, and he had to change his hat on account of its increased size. This is strange, for in very few cases has the head been known to grow after middle age.

A Freak That Depresses a New Jersey Couple.

MT. HOLLY, N.J., Dec. 8.—The village of Marlton, near this place, possesses a freak. On Monday Mrs. Schaffner, the young and pretty wife of a well-to-do farmer of the village, gave birth to a healthy male infant without eyes, but with a pair of well-developed horns just above where the eyes ought to be. Otherwise the infant was perfect and bids fair to live. Mrs. Schaffner some time ago was chased by a vicious bull, and narrowly escaped being gored by the beast.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

On Saturday night last the young men's rally was well attended, and the address was given by Mr. Walter Anderson. A very enjoyable meeting was held, the bright and hearty singing being led by the orchestra.

The Sunday morning Bible study and consecration meeting were conducted by Mr. Herbert Fife. Much interest was manifested and great blessings received in the study of the Word.

The personal purity meeting, for men only, in the afternoon was led by the general secretary, Mr. R J. Colville. The singing was bright and cheerful, and the plain, practical words uttered by the leader cannot fail to have an important effect upon all who were present.

The Gospel song service held in the evening was the largest ever held in the rooms, the hall and parlour being filled to overflowing and many had to go away unable to get inside. A letter was read from Mr. Fred. Saunders, China, and short, earnest addresses were given by Messrs. Early, Roger and Johnston. Bright testimonies were also rendered by a number of both ladies and young men present.

Active preparations are being made for the opening of the new rooms on Friday evening next. A choice programme is being prepared, consisting of instrumental and vocal music, readings, &c., by some of the best local talent.

Explorations in High Latitudes

A Peterborough Boy With Mr. Ogilvie 'Way up North.

In July last Mr. Ogilvie, chief of the expedition, and Mr. Chas. Gladman, assistant, son of Mr. T. Gladman, town, and a servant, from the general utility he possesses, dubbed the "professor," started on an exploring expedition, the objective point being the head waters of the Peace River. The party left Ottawa on July 1st, and the fact that it has not been heard from since the 29th of last July, while it gives no ground for uneasiness as to the safety of the party, it gives rise to a natural anxiety for intelligence from them. The party started from Fort Edmison, and the last intelligence received by the Surveyor General at Ottawa, E. Deville, to whom Mr. Gladman wrote, was received from Athabaska Landing, 55° north latitude. Mr. Gladman, however, heard from his son subsequently on the 29th of July, when the party had reached Chippewyan, in latitude 59 degrees north. From that point it was expected that the party would proceed to and through Great Slave Lake westerly and north to Fort Simpson, latitude 62 degrees, about nine hundred miles north of the latitude of Peterborough. From Fort Simpson it was intended the party should proceed south up the Luard river to the

HEAD WATERS OF THE PEACE RIVER,

among which, it was expected, some time would be spent in explorations. From thence another south-eastward course would be taken to the Athabaska again, and thence to Fort Edmonton, the point of departure. The delay of the party is doubtless due to the anxiety of Mr. Ogilvee and Mr. Gladman to make the most of their opportunities. Once they have reached their exploring grounds after a long, devious and, doubtless, difficult journey, they would be naturally anxious to carry out as fully as possible the objects of their expedition before returning to civilization. Mr Ogilvie is an enthusiastic explorer, and Mr. Gladman is possessed of equal enthusiasm, and like eager hunters, they may be carried away by one attraction after another, hardly realising the distance they have covered. When the party does return, they will have something worth telling, both in the way of adventure and in the way of a description of the nature, conditions, resources and capabilities of the terra incognita in which they have spent the summer and autumn. There welcome home will be all the heartier, for their long absence.

A Good Verdict.

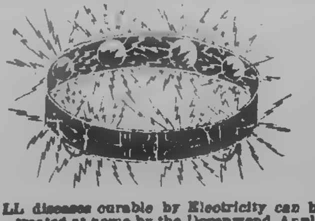
HEAD OFFICE—103 Yonge St., Toronto

THE WORLD'S BEST.



ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete BODY BATTERY. It has an independent Battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT OF QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASE, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCE, SEXUAL DECLINE and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.

Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.

Do not class this Belt with the humbug combinations of leather and metal with which the country is being flooded. If you wish to experiment with cheap articles, buy THEM but, if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.

Telfordian Temperature Topics

The Record of Eleven Novembers.

PETERBOROUGH, Dec. 2, 1891.—Being asked the other day, after our cold dip on Sunday morning the 29th, when, if ever, we had it colder in November, I give an answer in the following, where you will find a correct statement for the ten preceding years. In November 1881 our coldest was on the morning of the 28th, being 3° below zero, and warmest on the 3rd, being up to 58°; with rain falling on 11 days to the depth of 4 inches and snow on 8 days to the depth of 7 inches. No thunder.

November of 1882 was mild, the coldest being on the 16th and that 6° above zero, and the warmest on the 6th—52°. Rain fell on twelve days to the depth of 6½ inches and snow on eight days to the depth of 17 inches (and one thunder storm), 1½ inches of water falling.

But again in November 1883, exactly the same as in '82, our coldest day was on the 16th and that also 6° above zero, the warmest on the 9th being up to 46°, rain falling on thirteen days to the depth of 1½ inch, and snow on ten days to the depth of 12 inches. There was twice distant thunder but little rain.

Here is a fine November, that of 1884, the coldest being on the 18th, and that 16° above zero, and the mildest on the 12th, and that 42°. The difference is less between the two extremes, the month being uniform throughout. Rain fell on ten days to the depth of 1½ inches, and snow on twelve days to the depth of 10 inches. No thunder.

Here again in 1885 is another fine November, the coldest being 16° above on the 27th, and up to 55° twice—on the 12th and 13th. Rain fell on fourteen days to the depth of 2½ inches; snow on fourteen days to the depth of 4 inches, the two united making twenty eight days, only leaving two fine out of the thirty. No thunder storms.

Once more, in 1886, we find another fine November, although on the 30th we find it only 2° above zero; but on looking up to the 4th we find it 58°, and the month throughout of a high temperature, rain falling on eleven days to the depth of 1½ inches, and snow on nine days to the depth of 7 inches, but no thunder

The November of 1887 is yet the most uniform month, ranging only from 10° above on the 29th to 40° on the 27th, being a pleasant, even temperature. Rain fell on nine days to the depth of 3½ inches, and snow on eleven days to the depth of 9 inches. In this November we had no thunder, but one awful gale.

The November, 1888, goes a little more to extremes than its predecessor. On the 22nd at zero, at 30° on the 5th and 6th. Rain fell on eleven days to the depth of 4 2/20 inches, and snow on six days to the depth of 2 inches. We had two thunderstorms, the combined precipitation being 1½ inches of water, the heaviest downfall, without thunder, being on the 8th, falling 1½ inches.

Although November of 1889 did not go to extremes, this month records our lowest temperature, ranging from 6° on the 17th to 40° on the 20th and 21st. Rain fell on ten days to the depth of 3 1-6 inches; snow on six days to the depth of 16 inches. This with the November of 1882, is our heaviest snowfall. One thunderstorm on the 19th, rain falling 1½ inches.

Another very uniform month was the November of 1890, the coldest being 8° on the 28th, but never going higher than 36° on the 1st and 30th of the month. Rain fell on thirteen days to the depth of 3½ inches, and snow on twelve days to the depth of 3 inches. No thunderstorms this November.

Now for the just by-gone November. We all know that Sunday, the 29th, was the coldest, the thermometer falling to 7° below zero, and the warmest on the 8th, going up to 58°. Rain fell on 13 days to the depth of 3 9-10 inches, and snow fell on 8 days to the depth of 5½ inches. No thunder. The mean temperature of the month was 33°, with the wind as near as blowing from the west 6 days, north-west 6 days, south-west 11 days, north-east 1 day, south-east 3 days, north 1 day, and south 2 days.

The reader can see from the above that we only had it twice below zero in the Novembers of the ten previous years—in '81 at 3°, and '91 at 7°, and '88 at zero. During that time rain fell to the depth of 33 5 100 inches, which, being divided by 11, gives an average for each month of three inches and a fraction, and also during that time snow fell to the depth of 98 inches, being nearly an average of eight and a half inches for each November, and as ten inches of snow is equivalent to one inch of water, we consequently may add one inch to the three given of rain, which will make the water fall for each November average four inches. During that time rain fell on twenty-seven days and snow on one hundred and fourteen, making a total days of down-fall of two hundred and forty-one, out of a grand total of three hundred and thirty.

Trent Valley Canal.

An Ottawa despatch states that difficulty has arisen in navigating some of the main channels between Pigeon Lake and Young's Point, on the Trent Valley Canal, owing to the system heretofore in use for the moving of saw logs in large "drives," which block up the narrower waterways, and an Order-in-Council has been passed that "No saw logs or parcel of timber of any description shall be moved in booms or bags containing over 5,000 pieces in any of the main navigable channels between Pigeon Lake and Young's Point. The booms or bags shall not come nearer than one-quarter of a mile to each other when in motion." Failure to comply with this regulation involves a penalty of not less than $50 or more than $200.

"Like Magic,"

THE effect produced by Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Colds, Coughs, Croup, and Sore Throat are, in most cases, immediately relieved by the use of this wonderful remedy. It strengthens the vocal organs, allays irritation, and prevents the inroads of Consumption; in every stage of that dread disease, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral relieves coughing and induces refreshing rest.

"I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in my family for thirty years and have always found it the best remedy for croup, to which complaint my children have been subject."—Capt. U. Carley, Brooklyn, N. Y.

"From an experience of over thirty years in the sale of proprietary medicines, I feel justified in recommending Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. One of the best recommendations of the Pectoral is the enduring quality of its popularity, it being more salable now than it was twenty-five years ago, when its great success was considered marvelous."—R. S. Drake, M. D., Beliot, Kans.

"My little sister, four years of age, was so ill from bronchitis that we had almost given up hope of her recovery. Our family physician, a skilful man and of large experience, pronounced it useless to give her any more medicine; saying that he had done all it was possible to do, and we must prepare for the worst. As a last resort, we determined to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and I can truly say, with the most happy results. After taking a few doses she seemed to breathe easier, and, within a week, was out of danger. We continued giving the Pectoral until satisfied she was entirely well. This has given me unbounded faith in the preparation, and I recommend it confidently to my customers."—C. O. Lepper, Druggist, Fort Wayne, Ind.

A Winter in the West Indies.

To-day Dr. Bell starts for a three or four months sea voyage, which will include a considerable time on the waters of the southwestern part of the North Atlantic Ocean and Carribean Sea. Dr. Bell goes direct to St. John's, New Brunswick, from which he will proceed by steamer to Halifax, where he will spend three or four days. He will then sail on the "Duart Castle" of Messrs. Pickford & Black's line, and sail away directly south about 800 miles to the Bermudas in latitude about 32½° north. The steamer has a sort of roving commission, and will continue her voyage south, winding in and out among the West India Islands, calling at the principal islands under the British flag, Jamaica, the Windward Islands, Trinidad, etc, till the end of the voyage is reached at British Guiana, the capital of which Georgetown is, about 7° north of the equator, and in decided contrast to the temperature of this latitude. In fact the Doctor will have no use for furs after he reaches the Bermudas. Georgetown is about 2600 miles south as the crow flies, of Halifax, but the steamer in wandering in and out among the numerous islands and ports of call will add a third to that distance. The same general route will be followed on the return, so that Dr. Bell on his voyage will have altogether travelled between 5 000 and 6 000 miles of sea voyage. The trip is taken for the benefit of the sea air. Dr. Bell is troubled with insomnia, and has the hope, in which his numerous friends in town join, that the salt water voyage of three or four months will result in permanent benefit to his health. The EXAMINER hopes to see Dr. Bell return with the tan of the tropics on his hands one face and in robust health.

The Great Guessing Competition.

Big Values in Christmas Goods—With a Chance for Magnificent Prizes Thrown in—$50 Gold Watch, $20 Silver Watch and $5 Carving Set.

Attention is directed to the announcement in another column of a grand guessing competition to be conducted in connection with the Peterborough Bookstore. This is a real competition. The prizes offered will be genuine, reliable, valuable gold and silver watches and the carving set is one of the best made. The goods will be sold at the regular rates, which are of the lowest, and every dollar's worth of goods bought entitles the purchaser to a guessing ticket and consequently gives him or her a chance of winning one of the elegant prizes offered. Full particulars of the conditions governing this competition may be found by consulting the advertisement in another column. This competition will be a genuine, fairly and squarely conducted contest with every precaution taken to insure the utmost fairness in every respect. The number of articles in the sealed jar whose contents are to be guessed upon, is known to no living man.

In the Matter of the Peterborough Bookstore Competition :

We, James W. Brisbin, of the town of Peterborough, merchant; William Collins, of the township of North Monaghan, farmer; and George E. Elliott, of the township of Smith, farmer, do hereby certify:

1. That we personally filled and sealed the jar to be used in this competition with the contents, which comprise a quantity of nuts, peas and beans.

2 That we do not know, nor does one or more of us know, nor does any other person know, either the aggregate number of nuts, peas and beans in such jar or the number of nuts or peas or beans respectively, therein, and we believe that no person has had any means of obtaining this knowledge.

GEO. E. ELLIOTT,
WM COLLINS,
J. W. BRISBIN.

The deciding committees will be composed of some of our most reliable citizens. The keys of the ballot boxes in which the guessing tickets will be deposited, will be in the hands of the committee and in every respect the contest will be fair, above board and bona-fide.

The Town Debentures.

Mr. Davidson Explains the State of Affairs.

Mr. Lech's letter in yesterday EXAMINER created a little uneasiness in the minds of some persons in regard to the town debentures, and as several ratepayers had been questioning us in regard to the matter it was thought best to get official information in regard to the matter, and Mr. Davidson chairman of the Finance Committee, was seen in connection with it. Mr. Davidson said that "the letter of Mr. Lech in its reference to the town debentures was misleading," and that "from his statement the reader would be misled to infer that the town council were handing over five per cent. debentures at par. Such is not the case. The council have entered into an arrangement with the Nicholls Hospital Trust whereby the latter takes the full issue of debentures, $15,000 of which are issued at four per cent. and $14 000 at five per cent. This arrangement will net about 4 45 per cent. for these debentures. The town will thus save the cost of advertising for purchasers for debentures, and also saves the cost of brokerage and commission, which in the last sale amounted to over $300 on a $20 0000 issue. All parties interested think this is a fair and equitable arrangement, and the money is retained in the town and every dollar of it is spent within the town."

NERVE BEANS.

NERVE BEANS are a new discovery that relieve and cure the worst cases of Nervous Debility, Lost Vigor and Failing Manhood; restore the weakness of body or mind caused by over-work, or the errors and excesses of youth. This remedy absolutely cures the most obstinate cases, when all other TREATMENTS have failed even to relieve. They do not, like other preparations advertised for Lost Manhood, etc., interfere with digestion; but impart new life, strength and energy in a quick and harmless manner, peculiar to themselves.
